DRUGGIST SHOOTS TWO ROBBERS WHO HAD HELD HIM UP

PAIR HAD BEEN VISITING TAVERNS

Action Follows Expressed Dissatisfaction of One With His Wages—Customer Also Is Robbed.

Two WPA quarry workers who decided on a holdup after spending yesterday afternoon in taverns were shot and seriously wounded by Harold D. Davidson, druggist at 3359 Clara avenue, as they fled from his store after robbing him of about $100 at 6 p. m. yesterday.

Davidson fired four shots, three of them taking effect. The robbers staggered out the front door, one of them collapsing on the sidewalk a few feet away, the other in a yard on Hebert street, 100 feet west of the store.

Edelman was shot in the lower right side of the back, the bullet passing up and emerging from the right side of the abdomen. A blood transfusion was ordered for him. Johnson, his condition said to be less serious, was hit in the right groin and left hand, the latter a flesh wound.

Complained of Income.

Edelman told police that, while they were making a round of taverns in his truck, Johnson complained of his difficulty in supporting his wife and four children on WPA wages. They picked Davidson's store as a likely one to hold up and, parking the truck nearby, on Ashland avenue, walked into the store.

Johnson had a revolver which he said he found in a vacant lot two months ago. They sat at the soda fountain and ordered soft drinks from Vernon King, 16-year-old clerk, 2577 Burd avenue. King went off duty a few minutes later and departed, leaving only Davidson and the two men in the place.

Davidson, who is 42 and of slight build, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that as he walked behind the soda fountain the taller of the men, who proved to be Edelman, got up and walked behind a counter toward the rear.

"Just then the other man came around the counter with his right hand in his pocket, jabbed me in the ribs and said, 'This is a holdup'," Davidson related.

Forced to Lie on Floor.

"He ordered me to the back of the store and both of them went back with me. They made me lie down. About this time King came back to remind me of a delivery. The robbers made him lie on the floor by me.

"Then one of them said, 'All right, where's the money?' I told them it was in the cash register up by the drug counter, so they made me get up and open the register. They asked me where the rest of the money was, and I turned over some more cash from a box under the counter.

"Just then Bernard Neussli, who runs a bakery at 3353 Clara, came in with two $5 bills in his hand to pay his electric bill. One of the robbers told him it was a holdup and grabbed the money out of his hand. When Neussli remonstrated the robber knocked him down. Neussli is 76 years old.

Druggist Watches Chance.

"The holdup men forced us both to go back to the rear and lie down. All this time I had been watching for a chance to get my revolver, which was on the prescription counter in back, under a newspaper.

"As they started to walk out of the store, I jumped up, grabbed the gun, ran out and fired once at the small man, who had the gun. He sort of jerked. Then I fired two shots at the other fellow, who was nearer the door, and one more shot at the small man.

"They staggered out and I saw the taller one fall on the sidewalk 20 feet south of the store. The small man ran west on Hebert and fell in a yard. I followed him and a man passing by helped me carry him to where the other one was. The police came a little while later and the two were taken to the hospital."

PLUMBING AT NEW YORK FAIR MAY NOT BE DONE IN TIME

Contractor Makes Prediction When Conference With Strikers Is Called for Tomorrow.

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP).—A prediction that plumbing in about 150 buildings at the New York World's Fair might not be completed for the opening April 30 was made today when the State Mediation Board called a conference to settle a nine-day-old strike of plumbers at the fair.

Fred Brutschy, president of the Association of Contracting Plumbers, who made the prediction, said inside construction on the buildings would halt unless the 100 or more striking plumbers returned to work soon.

The Mediation Board invited representatives of Local 463 of the United Association of Plumbers and Gas Fitters, which is on strike, and their employers to the conference Monday.

SURVEY FINDS TOO MUCH POLITICS IN CRIMINAL COURTS

Report Issued by Attorney-General Murphy Also Complains of Decisions on Personal Bias.

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP).—Politics and personal bias, instead of scientific jurisprudence, the Justice Department said today, often dominate the decisions of many of the nation's Criminal Court judges, both Federal and State.

This conclusion was reached by the department in a survey of judicial practices made public by Attorney-General Murphy. It covered 270 Federal, state, municipal and County Court judges.

"The fact should be recognized by more judges as well as by the public at large," the report said, "that on the whole a very unscientific job of determining what treatment should be imposed upon those convicted of crime is being done by most judges.

"One of the most striking impressions gained from this study is that Criminal Court judges need much more specialized training in those sciences that are making significant contributions to the study of human behavior if they are to exercise a dominant power in determining what treatment shall be given to persons convicted of crime."

Many Former Prosecutors.

With regard to political influences bearing on the bench, the survey said that of the 270 judges 207 had held political office prior to their judgeships, most of them having been prosecutors.

Investigators, it was said, gained "the impression that many of the judges are very conscious of the political features of the tenure of their office."

"Some of them," the report continued, "related that a frequent use of probation by them, even though every case was a deserving one, would jeopardize their positions at the next election.

Theory and Practice.

"According to others, criminological theory and administrative practice very often do not mix well, because criminological theory ignores administrative expediency, and those charged with the administration of criminal justice simply cannot ignore the many problems of

GIRL, 12, KILLED ON BICYCLE, WHEN TRUCK HITS HER

Clara Jane Helle Fatally Hurt in 7200 Block of Lilian Avenue, West Walnut Manor.

He Says Child's Foot Apparently Slipped From Pedal, Causing Her to Lose Balance.

Clara Jane Helle, 12 years old, was killed yesterday afternoon riding a bicycle when she was struck by a truck in the 7200 block of Lillian avenue, West Walnut Manor. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Helle, 5011 Davison avenue, St. Louis.

The girl, one of eight children riding bicycles west in Lillian avenue had borrowed the bicycle she was using from a cousin. She had been visiting at the home of her uncle, Anthony Helle, 6165 Laura avenue, and two of her cousins were riding ahead of her.

The driver of the truck, Lee Stone, 7071 Lillian avenue, said to deputy sheriffs that he was going east at a moderate speed and that the girl's bicycle suddenly swerved away from the edge of the street and into the path of his truck. Stone, who is 71 years old, said the girl's foot appeared to slip from the peddle, causing her to lose balance.

Clara Jane Helle was last in the file of bicycle riders, and none of the other children saw the accident.

The girl suffered a compound fracture of the skull and crushed chest. She died half an hour later in Dr. Luke B. Tiernon's Hospital, Pine Lawn.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the Drehman-Harral undertaking establishment, 1905 Union boulevard. Besides her parents, four brothers and a sister survive.

ADMITS POISONING LIQUOR THAT KILLED WOMAN, MAN

Brattleboro (Vt.) Town Employe Jailed; Official Indicates Drink Was Meant for Someone Else.

KEENE, N. H., March 25 (AP).—County Solicitor John R. Goodnow said tonight Alfred Wojehick, 30 years old, Brattleboro (Vt.) town employe, had confessed poisoning the liquor which took the lives of Mrs. Julia Wheton(30, and Edgar Smart, 28, at Ashuelot last night.

Goodnow said Wojehick signed a four-page confession and that warrants charging him with the murder would be served tomorrow. Wojehick was confined in the jail here. The county solicitor declined to disclose the contents of the confession which he said he would make public tomorrow. He said he believed the liquor was intended for someone else.

Earlier, Sheriff Frank J. Bennett said he had been informed that "something" was thrown into a pond near Smart's home after the deaths. Officers said they were seeking the tumbler in which the drink was served.

The victims collapsed "within three minutes" after drinking from the same glass last night. Mrs. Wheaton died on her way to a hospital and Smart, a mill foreman, died shortly afterward.

EIGHT PERISH IN CANADA WHEN ICE JAM BREAKS

Fate of Others in Isolated Lowlands by River in British Columbia Is in Doubt.

DAWSON CREEK, B. C., March 25 (AP).—Eight known deaths followed a sudden ice break in the isolated East Pine district today, and failure of communications led to fears still others might be dead in the ensuing Murray River flood.

Mrs. Frank Madden of East Pine notified police of the disaster, but officers were balked by dead telephone lines when they tried to learn further details.

Constable Jack Watt of the Provincial Police, and a game warden started the 40-mile trip from here to East Pine tonight with instructions to report by short-wave radio. Officers said their report might not come through before Monday.

Mrs. Madden said five members of a family named Warren and the three children of A. L. Lamont had drowned.

Police said they believed the river came up so fast after the ice break that lowlanders had no chance to escape. Only one body had been recovered when communications failed.

BORAH CHARGES BRITAIN CONDONES NAZI AGGRESSION

Says London Has No Antipathy to Hitlerism, Fuehrer "No Better Friend" Than England.

SUSPECTS EFFORT TO GET U. S. IN WAR

No Aid to Democracies Bent on Imperialism Rather Than Suppression of Nazi-ism, He Declares.

WASHINGTON, March 25. (AP).—Charging Great Britain with encouraging Germany to swallow up Austria and condoning the dismemberment of Czecho-Solvakia, Senator Borah (Rep.), Idaho, asserted tonight that Chancellor Hitler has "no better friend" than England.

In an address over the radio, the dean of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee made clear that he thought there was no reason for this country to take any step to aid the European democracies.

"What they (the democracies) are contending for is the realization of their imperialistic scheme and not the destruction of Nazi-ism," he said.

Neutrality Controversy.

Borah made no direct reference to the impending controversy over neutrality legislation in the Senate, but his address was accepted as a prelude to the general debate which is expected to come next week when the Foreign Relations Committee considers changes in the law.

An administration-sponsored proposal—advanced by Chairman Pittman (Dem.), Nevada, of the Foreign Relations Committee — would permit the sale of munitions to belligerents on a "cash and carry" basis. Such sales now are barred when the act is invoked.

Admittedly, it is aimed at helping England and France, which presumably would control the sea if war should develop.

"For myself," Borah declared, "I would adhere closely to the advice of Washington—no entangling alliances, express or implied. I would regard the Monroe Doctrine as a part of our national defense and a cornerstone of our foreign policy. I would send no money to European war chests, no munitions to any nation engaged in war, and, above all, no American boy to be sacrificed to the machinations of European imperialism."

"Into Stronger Hands."

Arguing that England had condoned aggression by the dictatorships, Borah asserted that, when Hitler was preparing to take over Austria, "a representative of the British Government let Berlin know that it might be well for Europe if Austria passed into stronger hands."

He said Great Britain had "defended the lawless act" of Japan in seizing Manchuria, which, he said, laid the foundation for the present undeclared war in China.

"During the dismemberment of Czecho-Slovakia," he declared, "no mention was ever made of the teachings and practices of Nazi-ism or of the danger of enlarging its influence in Europe. Although they were turning over a vast number of people, some of whom, it was too well known, bore the mortal enmity of their new master, no suggestion was ever made in the settlement of territorial matters in behalf of or as to proper treatment and reasonable protection of these people.

"Can anyone find anything unfriendly in these proceedings, or any antipathy, to Nazi-ism, as such, during the period in which the only real republic in Europe was on the operating table?"

U. S. Domestic Affairs.

Declaring that "powerful influences at home and abroad are seeking by all kinds of methods" to lead the United States into war, Borah said it was apparent that this country was in no condition to enter any conflict.

In support of this, he cited "a tax burden that is breaking the spirit and paralyzing the energy of millions of our people" and the added fact that there still were about 11,000,000 unemployed in this country.

"It is urged," he said, "especially by our friends abroad, that we as a nation and as a people have a great responsibility. We certainly have. Our first and supreme responsibility is to put our own house in order."

Neutrality Act Attacked.

Meanwhile, Senator Thomas (Dem.), Utah, speaking at a meeting sponsored by the Washington Committee for the Aid of China, attacked the "cash and carry" provisions of the Neutrality Act as "unmoral." Thomas is the author of a

POLISH TROOPS MASSED ON DANZIG FRONTIER; ITALY GETS HITLER PLEDGE

'German People Stand Shoulder to Shoulder' With Axis Partner in Defending Countries' 'Will for Living.'

FASCISTS GATHER TO HEAR MUSSOLINI

Conciliatory Tone Rather Than Bombshells Expected in Address on 20th Anniversary of Rise to Power.

BERLIN, March 25 (AP).—Chancellor Adolf Hitler assured Premier Benito Mussolini, his axis partner, tonight that "the German people stand shoulder to shoulder" with Italy in defending the two peoples against "attempts to restrict" their "will for living."

Hitler sent this assurance to Mussolini on the eve of an address the Italian dictator is to make tomorrow to Italians celebrating the twentieth anniversary of the Fascist movement.

Thus, if Mussolini should decide to mention in his speech any demands on France, Hitler's pledge would add some strength to them. The world has wondered when Mussolini would try to profit from his axis partnership.

Message from Hitler.

The text of Hitler's message follows:

"On the twentieth anniversary of the foundation of the Fascist fighting units, I think of you in hearty and true friendship as the victorious creator of a proud new Italy.

"Filled with the same ideals, the German people stand shoulder to shoulder with the battle-proved Italian nation in defense against all hateful and incomprehensible attempts to restrict the justified will for living (lebenswillen) of our two peoples and to shake the peace of the world."

While Italy's demands on France have been hanging fire for months, the swift-moving Nazi machine in less than two weeks expanded German frontiers to include Bohemia and Moravia and Memel.

Waiting on Mussolini.

Meanwhile Mussolini sat back without uttering a word. The world wondered when the Italian end of the Rome-Berlin axis would seek to cash in on its membership in this important partnership. Italian aspirations in the Mediterranean at the expense of France have been followed closely and sympathetically here. But they have not kept the Berlin end of the axis from forging ahead in its campaign to "rectify the wrongs of Versailles."

There was some speculation here over Mussolini's attitude toward Hitler's most recent strokes. The press did not publish news of any congratulatory telegram from Mussolini.

Most Nazi doubts, however, were dispelled by the recent statement of the Fascist Grand Council reaffirming Italy's adherence to the axis and the speech Thursday by King Vittorio Emanuele in which he discussed the close co-operation of the two axis Powers.

ANTI-FRENCH CRY IN ROME QUIETED

ROME, March 26, Sunday (AP).—Fascists expected a conciliatory speech from Premier Mussolini at the celebration of their party's twentieth anniversary today despite a strongly-worded message of support sent to him by Adolf Hitler. The text of Hitler's message was known only to a few persons in Rome because, contrary to the usual practice, it was not made public.

Concern in Rome over the European situation has abated somewhat amid signs that Italy and France might come to terms on Fascists claims for colonial concessions.

Among Fascists familiar with the tenor of Hitler's communication — which expressed solidarity with Mussolini against attempts to restrict the "justified will for living" of their two nations — the fact that it was not published was considered a clear indication that

20,000 TAKE PART IN 'STOP HITLER' MARCH IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP).—New York held a "stop Hitler" demonstration today, at which Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, in a speech, denounced Germany's invasion of Czecho-Slovakia as the "latest international outrage."

"The world cannot be happy," the Mayor said to a crowd in Columbus Circle, "so long as other countries violate the sovereignty of independent nations and invade their boundaries and burglarize their cities. "We express—and I say the people of the city of New York say it—the heartfelt sympathy and understanding of our people for the people of Czecho-Slovakia."

The Mayor spoke at the conclusion of a parade in which police estimated 20,000 persons marched 36 blocks—unions of the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations, foreign nationality groups including Germans, Rumanians, Czechs and Slovaks, and peace organizations.

SALVATION ARMY MAN SHOT TO DEATH BY HITCH-HIKER

Youth Captured at Scene in Iowa Says He Meant to Take Auto for Trip to Missouri.

DES MOINES, Ia., March 25 (AP).—W. L. Lowe, Des Moines Salvation Army publicity man, was shot and fatally wounded this afternoon in his automobile a mile north of Ankeny, Ia.

A youthful hitch-hiker riding with him was arrested at the scene, and police said he admitted killing Lowe in an attempt to take his car. The car ran into a ditch beside the highway, with the dead man at the wheel. Police said the youth told them he was Glenn Kidwell, 17, of Kelley, Ia.

Kidwell said Lowe picked him up near Kelley in Southwestern Story County and was driving him to Des Moines, and that he intended to take Lowe's car to Missouri.

Ankeny is 10 miles north of Des Moines.

TWO DEAD, SIX ILL AFTER MEAL AT SEATTLE WELFARE AGENCY

Men Stricken With Respiratory Paralysis Are Put Under Oxygen Tents Or in Iron Lung.

SEATTLE, March 25 (AP).—Two men were dead tonight and six others were seriously ill from botulism after a dinner served Wednesday at a welfare agency. Seattle health agencies sent out calls for artificial respiration equipment.

John McKay, 34 years old, died in an iron lung early today, and Harold Etchoe, 25, died in the respirator tonight.

Dr. Walter E. Watson said immediate cause of death was respiration paralysis, aftermath of botulism.

Hospital attendants said the stricken men blamed home-preserved peas for the food poisoning. Although 40 men dined at the agency, only eight had been hospitalized late today.

Three others were in oxygen tents at a county hospital and attendants considered using iron lungs at hospitals in Yakima, Tacoma and Portland.

HITLER IS BURNED IN EFFIGY IN HALIFAX STUDENT PARADE

Placards in University Demonstration Urge Boycott on German Goods.

HALIFAX, N. S., March 25 (Canadian Press).—University students burned an effigy of Adolf Hitler today as they paraded through downtown streets in an anti-Nazi demonstration. More than 150 students of Dalhousie University and other colleges took part.

The students, about 50 of them girls, marched behind a goose-stepping, uniformed youth made up to represent the German Chancellor. Banners and placards urged "Hang the Paper Hanger" and "Boycott German Goods." Marchers chanted "Gnats to Nazis."

Although traffic was tied up, the parade was orderly.

CHERRY TREES IN BLOSSOM

Washington to Celebrate Flower Festival This Week.

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP).—The first blossoms appeared today on the cherry trees around Washington's Tidal Basin.

Park officials estimated that by the middle of next week the trees would be approaching full flower and said the blossoms should be at their best for the cherry blossom festival next week end.

GERMAN FORCES IN EAST PRUSSIA NEAR CORRIDOR

Concentration Reported and Citizens of Baltic Free City Begin Asking, 'When Does Our Time Come?'

NAZI MOVES CAUSE OF GROWING TENSION

Non-Aggression Treaty With Warsaw Runs Until 1944 but Recent Events Prepare People for Early Move.

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, March 25 (AP).—Polish troops estimated by Germans to number "more than 10,000" took positions today in the Polish harbor city of Gdynia on Danzig's western frontier.

Although Polish officials declined to comment, semi-official German sources said they had confirmed reports of Polish troop movements which also had been received by the United States consulate-general and other foreign consulates.

The troops were said to have been moving in small groups up through the Polish corridor, which gives Poland a Baltic outlet and separates East Prussia from the rest of Germany.

There also were unconfirmed reports of German troop concentrations in East Prussia and along the corridor's western frontier.

Rail Equipment Withdrawn.

Danzig citizens, asking "when does our turn come?" in Adolf Hitler's remaking of the map, showed little excitement over the military reports. They were more concerned with Poland's order withdrawing surplus railway equipment from Danzig and the corridor which they feared would hamper shipping activities.

A few weeks ago Danzig's Nazis were resigned to waiting a long time, but the events which drew Bohemia and Moravia and then Memel into Germany's realm and put Slovakia under Nazi protection have caused some to reconsider.

Almost every German expects confidently that Danzig and Pomorze (the Polish corridor) will become part of greater Germany some day. They say that separation of East Prussia from the rest of Germany by Danzig and the corridor is "unnatural."

Increasing Tension.

Authoritative sources, meanwhile, reported a growing tension between German and Polish official circles in the Free City, long a source of friction between Germans and Poles.

Before German absorption of Bohemia-Moravia and Memel, many Germans said annexation of Danzig would not occur during the life of the German-Polish non-aggression treaty, which runs until 1944.

A good many still cling to that view but more ardent Nazis look at Europe's newest map and wonder.

The belief that more time may elapse is based on a feeling that Hitler does not yet want to take any major step inimical to Poland. Although Danzig, taken from Germany after the World War to give Poland an outlet on the Baltic at the head of the corridor, is politically and spiritually allied with Germany, it is bound economically to Poland by treaty. It is within the Polish customs administration.

Student demonstrations in the Free City this month over a sign in a restaurant, "no admittance to dogs and Poles," caused demonstrations in several Polish cities and strained Polish-German relations but turned out only a tempest in a teapot.

Students Suspected.

The Polish and Danzig governments patched up the affair. In quarters close to both sides it was suspected that the offensive sign was "planted" by Polish students opposed to Polish Foreign Minister Col. Joseph Beck's policy of conciliation toward Germany and, therefore, as only an internal Polish political affair.

TALKS ON MADRID SURRENDER GOING INTO FINAL STAGE

Unconfirmed Reports That Loyalists Have Handed Over Air Force to Nationalist Army.

LEFTISTS RECEIVED COOLLY IN BURGOS

Gen. Franco's Men Profess Unconcern Over Parley, Saying They Can Prevail Easily by Force.

BURGOS, Spain, March 25 (AP).—Nationalists maintained silence tonight on developments at Madrid but there were reports that Republicans already had decided on unconditional surrender. The unconfirmed reports also said the Republicans had handed over their air force to the Nationalists. The newspaper Espana said 12 Republican planes had left Madrid for an undisclosed destination, and that one of the planes carried 17 Republican leaders.

Informed sources repeated that the occupation of Madrid was only a question of days but the Nationalist Government declined to confirm or deny reports that Franco had sent the Republican Government an ultimatum demanding surrender within 48 hours.

Loyalist Envoys Coolly Received at Burgos.

HENDAYE, France, March 25 (AP).—The siege of Madrid seemd to be nearing an end tonight. Advices from both sides in the Spanish civil war said peace negotiations were almost completed.

Dispatches from the Republican zone reported that railroad lines, idle since the Nationalist siege began in November, 1936, were being repaired and there were other indications that normal life might be resumed soon in the historic capital.

The city's capitulation and with it the crumbling of the last one-fourth of Spain still under Republican rule was believed by border observers to be a matter of days at most.

Information from the Spanish Nationalists was that envoys of Miaja, who flew to Burgos Thursday for peace negotiations, were received coolly in Generalissimo Francisco Franco's capital.

The major concern of Nationalist negotiators, these reports said, was whether Miaja himself had sufficient control in his territory to be able to turn it over to Franco.

The Nationalists even professed an attitude of unconcern over the deliberations, asserting that they quickly could reduce the Republican zone's last resistance by force if its surrender were not forthcoming soon.

Fresh Negotiations by Radio.

The Madrid Council, which met last night after the return of its emissaries, was reported to have sent a radio message to Franco's general staff today, carrying on the negotiations.

Observers said they thought that Madrid had given the Nationalists assurances that Miaja was firmly in command and the Republican populace was ready for peace after ousting the Government of former Premier Juan Negrin and crushing the insurrection of diehard Communists.

Surrender of the city of 1,000,000 population, however, presented several problems which it was expected might require further exchanges of messages. Among the difficulties, for instance, was the question of turning over arms to the victorious Nationalists and the points at which Franco's army would enter Madrid.

France Offers to Hand Over Spanish Republic's Fleet to Franco.

PARIS, March 25 (AP).—France made a new gesture of friendship to Nationalist Spain and Italy today by offering to hand over to the Nationalists the Spanish Republican fleet.

French authorities said the Nationalist Government at Burgos had been informed of the French decision, which was to transfer to the Nationalists the 11 warships which took refuge March 7 at the French North African naval base of Bizerte and were interned there.

The decision was termed a normal consequence of France's recognition of the Nationalists and the reception by Generalissimo Francisco Franco yesterday of Marshal Henri Petain as the first French Ambassador to Burgos.

Enables Motorists to See Over Hills

Device Designed to Enable Driver to See Side of Slope Beyond His Normal Vision.

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP).—Science has made an astronomical looking glass to prevent automobile collisions at the crests of hills. In the glass a motorist can see the other side of the hill. Going up, he has a visibility of 2000 feet down the opposite side.

The device was described today by the Greater New York Safety Council which begins a three-day meeting here tomorrow.

The glass, 13 feet wide and four high, big enough for a half life-size view of the other side of the hill, is set above the middle of the road at the hill top. It is on a bridge, like those used to carry railway signals. It is made of 17 triangular bars of glass, laid parallel across the face. Each bar is actually a prism, the device used by astronomers to bend light into the spectrum in studying stars.

The glass is under a canopy to protect it against obscuring rain and snow. It is said to be as effective at night as in the daytime.

The first test mirror was erected six years ago near Minneapolis, Minn.

NEW NAZI CONSUL-GENERAL TALKS TO MEN PICKETING HIM

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25 (AP).—Capt. Fritz Wiedemann, new German Consul-General here, broke precedent today by receiving personally four demonstrators from a crowd of 100 marching before his office in protest against German action in Czecho-Slovakia.

Twelve of the demonstrators were arrested on charges of carrying placards without permit. The placards demanded "Give Czecho-Slovakia back to the people" and "Boycott Nazis."

Wiedemann said he told the delegation that "you have come to the wrong address. The Consulate-General is not competent in political matters. Please direct your protest to the proper place in Washington."

After the 12 arrested demonstrators were taken to the police station, others continued picketing, carrying an American Flag.

proposed amendment which would in effect give the President power to name an aggressor and to embargo shipments to such a nation.

The present "cash and carry" section of the act, he asserted, "rewards the belligerent with the largest purse," which he added, was often the aggressor nation.

Some critics of the act have contended that it has not been invoked by the President in the undeclared war between Japan and China because the cash and carry provisions would favor Japan over China, which lacks facilities to transport goods from this country.

Thomas said that, in his opinion, the United States has "two straws to which to cling in the event of widespread international confusion, namely, a moral neutrality and a strong Pan-America, neither of which we are sure of today."

For Moral Neutrality Law.

He said that a moral neutrality law "must not be inspired by commercial opportunism and it must not be so chock-full of words and limitations that the executive is hamstrung in his every movement to meet new and disturbing situations."

He urged that this nation adopt the attitude of the law-abiding citizen who refuses to deal with a gangster, or, in the case of nations, an aggressor.

"We must deal only with the decent citizen among nations, that is the non-aggressor," Thomas said. "If we are to be commercial at all, let us have a code about it, and at least keep in good company."

POLISH SOLDIERS ARE MASSED ON DANZIG FRONTIER

Danzig as much as possible like any city in Germany.

No longer molested by the League of Nations, which now has only nominal control, they are introducing laws almost textually the same as those in existence in Germany. Only minor alterations are made to fit different conditions.

So, if and when the German army does come, it will find a territory of 754 square miles and 470,000 population already living under Nazi principles. The army will not have to bring truckloads of swastika flags and banners as it did to Austria and Sudetenland. There are plenty here now and the Hitler salute is as common as in any German city.

POLISH SYMPATHY VOTED LITHUANIA

WARSAW, March 25 (AP).—The Polish Parliament voted sympathy with neighboring Lithuania today and the Army and War Office expressed determination not to bow to any Power.

Parliament recessed for 30 days instead of adjourning, leading to a belief that President Moscicki wanted the members within easy reach in case a new session were necessary.

Polska Zbrojna, organ of the Army and the War Office, declared that "we are ready for any war, even against the strongest enemy."

HITLER IN THEATER APPLAUDS AMERICAN DANCE TEAM

Fuehrer and Goebbels, Unnoticed, Witness International Vaudeville Performance.

BERLIN, March 25 (AP). — Reichsfuehrer Hitler, seeking relaxation, is disclosed today to have applauded the American dance team of Eddie Lavalle and Mackay at the Intergarten when he slipped into the theater unnoticed last night to see an international vaudeville bill.

The Fuehrer was accompanied by Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, his Propaganda Minister, but their presence was not made known to the audience and the dancers did not meet them.

BRITISH AROUSED OVER NEW DELAYS BY CHAMBERLAIN

He Now Awaits Italian and Polish Stand — Critics Have Own Ideas Why Anti-Nazi Pact Is Held Up

LONDON, March 25 (AP).—Great Britain's attempt to build a ring of steel around expanding Germany waited today on Poland and Italy.

It waited on Poland to decide where to seek to bolster its threatened security and on Premier Mussolini to show how much he still counts on the Rome-Berlin axis to give him belated rewards.

Growing impatience meanwhile was manifest in political quarters at the Government's delay in bringing out a vigorous new collective security policy to replace Prime Minister Chamberlain's discarded appeasement program.

Critics of the Government blamed delay in constituting the proposed anti-aggression front on its apparent unwillingness to take these steps:

1. Give definite military commitments to Eastern European countries to gain adherents for a "stop Hitler" bloc.

2. Impose some form of conscription immediately to show Britain's intention to play a full part in resisting possible aggression.

3. Broaden the base on the National Government to bring in ministers with strong convictions about collective security, such as former Secretary Anthony Eden and Winston Churchill.

Poland Wants Proof.

While Soviet Russia, after the first hesitations, appeared ready to join Britain and France in an anti-aggression declaration, Poland held out for more concrete proof of mutual aid.

Now in the way of expanding Germany, Poland refused to invite Nazi hostility by signing an unfriendly declaration which was not backed by military support against a German attack.

The British Cabinet was believed divided on the issue whether to embark on a course involving a promise to launch hostilities against Germany on the west in event of an attack on Poland.

Many collective security advocates, both among conservatives and the opposition in Parliament, urged the Government to take such a risk as the only effective way to halt Hitler.

But others feared such commitments might embroil Britain in hostilities against its will in circumstances unforeseen.

Hopes and Apprehensions.

While discussions on this and other urgent questions continued both in and out of the Cabinet, Britain waited with mixed hopes and apprehension for Mussolini's speech tomorrow to indicate how events in Central Europe have affected his end of the Rome-Berlin axis.

Fears were based on the possibility that Mussolini might advance officially board territorial demands on France.

Hopes were founded on the view that he might instead indicate a willingness to accept moderate concessions from France and negotiate on a friendly basis to get them.

Some diplomatic observers believed Germany itself wanted Italy to take a less aggressive stand against France so as to avoid stirring up more British-French opposition to Germany.

Some statement from Chamberlain on the Government's plans was expected during the week to satisfy growing demands from all quarters for action.

Definite action, however, may be held in abeyance until the Polish Foreign Minister, Col. Joseph Beck, comes to London during the first week of April.

ITALY GETS HITLER MESSAGE ON EVE OF MUSSOLINI SPEECH

Mussolini's remarks would not be bellicose.

A brief communique said only that the Prince of Hesse, son-in-law of King Vittorio Emanuele, had brought to Mussolini an anniversary message from Hitler in which the Fuehrer joined in the ceremonies in the name of the German people.

Observers' Impression.

Observers believed that either Mussolini desired to announce the message personally in his speech or that he wished to avoid the impression that Hitler was sounding the keynote.

A year ago the Prince, Philip of Hesse, carried to Mussolini Hitler's explanation of the absorption of Austria. (Official reports in Berlin said Hitler telegraphed directly to Mussolini but the Italian communique mentioned only the message delivered by the Prince.)

One indication of mildness in Mussolini's expected address was seen in the fact that the entire diplomatic corps had been invited to attend the ceremonies. It was believed that the invitations would not have been issued if Mussolini had planned to make a statement embarrassing to any of his guests.

Blackshirts Assembled.

Blackshirt veterans assembled yesterday from all parts of Italy to celebrate Fascism's anniversary and to hear the Premier address a great mass meeting today.

Diplomats expressed confidence Mussolini would throw no verbal bombshells. They expected him to reaffirm his partnership with Chancellor Hitler in the Rome-Berlin axis, perhaps to denounce the hostility of the democracies to Fascist methods, and possibly to declare himself again for "peace with justice"—the axis formula for territorial expansion; but they looked for nothing that would further complicate the nervous situation in Europe as a whole and particularly for nothing that would complicate the prospects, however nebulous, of settlement of Italy's claims on France for colonial advantages.

British Calls on Ciano.

The British Charge d'Affaires, Sir Noel Charles, called on Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano yesterday for the second time in two days to discuss "current matters."

No announcement was made concerning the purpose of the visits, but in political circles it was believed they possibly were of unusual importance.

While nothing official has been disclosed concerning moves toward a diplomatic settlement of the French-Italian quarrel, many observers believed Mussolini would be willing to talk terms.

King Vittorio Emanuele's remark in his speech from the throne last week that France knew Italy's position was regarded as one sign that negotiations would be welcome.

The press has toned down its anti-French campaign.

Italians breathed easier because of what they considered to be the failure of an attempt in London and Paris to form a "stop Hitler" front, which Fascists said also would be aimed against them.

Flags and Banners Up.

Italy was decorated with flags and banners for Fascism's celebration, postponed from the real anniversary of last Thursday to avoid interruption of military preparations.

Everywhere people were called to gather in public squares this morning to hear Mussolini's words by radio. The celebration begins at 11 a. m. (4 a. m. St. Louis time), but it is not known how soon thereafter Mussolini will speak.

From Tunisia, which figures largely in the unofficial Italian claims against France, came 605 Italians, the first contingent of 1600 returning to the homeland from that French protectorate.

Fascists reported that almost all heads of families among the repatriates said they had been discharged from French enterprises in Tunisia. The Government intends to find jobs for them.

SLOVAKIA, HUNGARY AGREE TO NEGOTIATE ON BOUNDARY

Commission to Go to Budapest in Effort to Settle Dispute—Fighting Reported to Be Going On.

BUDAPEST, March 25 (AP).—The Hungarian and Slovak Governments agreed tonight to settle by negotiation their frontier dispute which brought land and air forces into conflict.

A Slovak commission is scheduled to come to Budapest Monday to fix the border between German-protected Slovakia and Carpatho-Ukraine, Czecho-Slovak province annexed by Hungary.

A dispatch from Iglo, Slovakia, said air and land fighting were reported continuing in the Ung River Valley, a key zone in dispute.

Slovak troops were moving eastward toward the valley and an air squadron based at Iglo (Spisska Nova Ves) left to bomb Kosice (Kassa) in retaliation for a Hungarian air attack Friday on Iglo in which authorities said 10 civilians were killed and 27 wounded. Anti-aircraft guns were mounted on Iglo roofs.

Armistice Is Reported.

Semi-official sources in Bratislava, Slovak capital, earlier had reported that an armistice was ordered Friday night and both sides were holding their positions pending diplomatic negotiations.

Hungarians asserted the airfield at Iglo had been bombed last night in reprisal for Slovak bombings of "open" Hungarian cities.

Except for damages by air bombs, the only losses admitted by the Hungarians were two men they said were captured when they drove by mistake across the line into Slovakia.

Anti-aircraft guns were mounted on railway stations and bridges over the Danube as a precaution against air raids and day and night air patrols over Budapest were ordered.

Hungarian Premier Count Paul Teleky, Interior Minister Franz Keresztes-Fischer and former Premier Andrew Brody of Carpatho-Ukraine visited the front lines today while the fighting was still going on.

They inspected buildings damaged in Friday's air raid at Ungvar and other Ung valley towns.

Drive Against Rumania.

Autonomy for Hungarian and Germanic minorities in Rumania was reported to be under discussion among the Berlin, Budapest and Bucharest Governments.

Hungarian hopes rose that, moving at Germany's side, Hungary would achieve a peaceful penetration of Rumania and Slovakia as well.

Looking eastward to Rumania, Hungarian revisionists hope 1,200,000 Hungarians and 250,000 Saxons, whose ancestors came from Germany centuries ago, will win rights from Rumania to govern themselves and practice the political doctrines of the Nazis.

May Be Entering Wedge.

Political implications of such a campaign would be far-reaching, since such large districts of Hungarians and Saxons looking from Rumania to Berlin and Budapest for leadership might be the entering wedge for political and economic domination of Rumania by Hitler and his Hungarian allies.

Hungarian officials and press made it clear that Hungary, in addition, hopes eventually to take Slovakia into its realm despite the Slovak-German treaty providing for German military protection for Slovakia.

Rumania Says Concessions to Reich Involve Disputed Lands.

BUCHAREST, March 25 (AP).—Rumanians, trying to put the best possible construction on the new trade agreement with Germany, insisted today that Rumania got an indirect guarantee of territorial integrity in return for sweeping economic concessions to the Reich. No such guarantee is expressed in the treaty, but it was pointed out that Rumania gave Germany extensive concessions in Transylvania and Dobrujda, which belonged to Hungary and Bulgaria, respectively, before the World War settlements.

Hungarian revisionists have clamored for part of Transylvania, and in Bulgaria there is increasing popular demand for return of the Black Sea province of Dobrujda. Within a short time German-Rumanian companies with German engineers and German machinery will be exploiting mines in both regions, and Rumanian officials say that with such large interests at stake Germany would not permit these regions to pass under different political control.

Rumania, however, is not depending entirely on the German interest in the matter. Troops still are moving toward the frontiers today. There is no thought of recalling the reservists concentrated at points within striking distance of the Hungarian border until there is substantial evidence that Hungary is demobilizing, a Press Department official says.

ICKES GIVES MRS. ROHDE JOB BUT NOT ONE SHE WANTED

Names Her to Travel Bureau at $1 a Year After Getting Request From Mrs. Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP).—Secretary of the Interior Ickes said today he had appointed Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen Rohde collaborator of the United States Travel Bureau at a salary of $1 a year.

Mrs. Rohde, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan and first woman Minister in the diplomatic service, will co-operate with the Departments of State, Interior and Commerce in promoting travel in the United States.

Informed sources said the appointment was not exactly what Mrs. Rohde had in mind. They said Mrs. Roosevelt, wife of the President, had asked Ickes to give Mrs. Rohde a job lecturing in South America on the scenic splendors of this country. The job, they said, was to carry a salary and traveling expenses.

Officials said one of Mrs. Rohde's tasks in her new post would be to help overcome the unfavorable balance in the travel account. Americans, officials said, annually spend millions more in travel abroad than foreigners spend traveling in this country.

JAPAN REPORTED COOL ON FASCIST WAR ALLIANCE

Said to Have Balked at Unconditional Military Line-up With Germany and Italy.

TOKYO, March 26 (Sunday) (AP.)—An authoritative source reported today that the Government had refused to join in unconditional military alliance with Germany and Italy, but might enter an agreement by which Japan would support the Nazis if Soviet Russia "attacks Germany without provocation."

His comment followed the closing business sessions yesterday of the Seventy-fourth Diet in which minority groups which have 106 out of 466 seats in the Parliament presented a resolution advocating conversion of the Anti-Comintern Pact into a military alliance.

The resolution, which was handed to the Premier, Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma, declared "a tri-partite military alliance between Japan, Germany and Italy should be concluded against Britain and France who are obstructing accomplishment of imperial aims in the present sacred war (in China)."

The Premier had an audience with Emperor Hirohito but was reported merely to have reviewed the situation of the Diet, the formal closing ceremony of which is being held today.

Circles close to the Government yesterday reported that Germany was exerting powerful pressure to bring Japan into a military alliance. In Berlin, however, informed sources asserted it was the Japanese, not the Germans, who were trying to make an outright alliance out of the Anti-Comintern Pact, whose signatories include Hungary and Manchoukuo as well as Germany, Italy and Japan. German experts on the Far East expressed doubt of the value to Germany of a military alliance with Japan.

In discussing the situation today, the Tokyo source said Japan was strongly opposed to becoming involved in a European conflict. Furthermore, he said, the Japanese Government believed an outright military pact with the totalitarian states would have a serious repercussion in the United States.

"We want to avoid this at all costs," he said.

INQUIRY DISCLOSES 'CAVALIER' ENGINE HAD ICED BEFORE

British Investigator Says Captain Had Reported Carbureters Seemed to Fail Inherently.

WROTE THIS PRIOR TO CRASH AT SEA

Official Recommends Heaters Be Installed in Flying Boats Before Being Put on Bermuda Run.

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP).—A tendency of the British flying boat Cavalier to develop the engine difficulty which caused the ship to plunge into the Atlantic with the loss of three lives had been noted prior to her last flight, the British Air Ministry disclosed today.

A report of Wing Commander Vernon Brown, chief inspector for the Ministry, blamed ice-clogged carbureter intakes for stopping two of the four motors of the plane and crippling the others.

Capt. M. R. Alderson of the Cavalier had experienced previous trouble with carbureter icing and only the day before the take-off from New York for Bermuda, Jan. 21, had forwarded a report on the trouble to London, the report said.

Crashes in Rough Sea.

The Cavalier, operated by Imperial Airways on the New York-Bermuda run, sank after crashing in a rough sea 285 miles southeast of Long Island. Two passengers and one crew member perished. Six passengers and four crew members were rescued by a tanker.

Brown, who came from London to investigate the disaster, said Alderson wrote London Jan. 20 that he had been "very concerned over the unsatisfactory functioning of Cavalier's engines under certain conditions," adding:

"It is not easy to believe that this (icing) can occur when hot air is being used for the intakes, with the chokes and induction elbows already heated, but I am certain that it does so.

"The carbureter heating systems on Cavalier have been checked repeatedly for correct functioning, but it seems that they fail inherently."

Recommends New Heaters.

The Air Ministry inspector recommended additional heating equipment for carbureters on flying boats of the Cavalier type and said "I strongly recommend that the replacement flying boat should not be sent to Bermuda until this has been reliably achieved."

Brown's report was made public through the British Embassy here, and the text cabled to London.

"The forced descent was due to fading of engines caused by complete loss of power in two inner engines and partial loss of power of two outer engines," the report said. "This was the result of carburetor trouble due to icing. The sea conditions were too severe to make a good landing possible. As a result of damage caused to the hull in alighting, the cabins were quickly flooded, and about 15 minutes later Cavalier broke in half, aft of rear spar, and sank."

Commends Two Officers.

Capt. Alderson and First Officer Neil Richardson "behaved with great coolness throughout," the report said.

Brown said Donald Miller, the first passenger to die, was holding his life belt, but not wearing it, when he entered the water, adding:

"It is thought he was stunned by part of the Cavalier's structure, but there is no definite proof of this.

"The other passenger who lost his life, Mr. John Noakes, was severely injured at landing, as, contrary to verbal instructions issued, he stood up to see what was happening. He died six hours later.

"Steward R. Spence, the member of the crew who died, wore himself out assisting the passengers until he lost his reason."

The 10 survivors were rescued by the Standard Oil Co. tanker Esso Baytown after being in the water nearly 10 hours.

Flying boats of the Cavalier class, the report said, should have equipment to enable the crew to raise temperature of the incoming air before it reaches the carburetor jets, with temperature indicator visible to pilots. It also urged that passengers be strapped in their seats at take-off and landing.

Clears Up Question of Radio.

The report cleared up confusion over a radio message from the plane saying, "running into bad weather, may have to earth." Brown said this was widely interpreted as "may have to land," and caused Alderson to be "unfairly criticised for complacency in continuing on his route, after knowledge that he was in trouble, for 49 minutes, before the accident occurred."

"May have to earth," it was explained, merely meant grounding of the radio aerial to cut out static.

The report said all British regulations, under which the Cavalier was operated, were complied with and that the plane was in good condition prior to its departure. Weather reports justified Alderson in making the flight, it added.

Kidnaped by Renegade Killer

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

HARRY M. MOORE,

ABDUCTED, then freed by Earl Durand, raw meat eater, shortly before the wild man was shot to death in a Powell (Wyo.) bank. "Come to my funeral," he shouted when he left Moore.

WILD MAN KILLER'S HIDEOUT DISCOVERED

Three Miles From Powell, Wyo.; Raw Beef and Venison Found There.

POWELL, Wyo., March 25. (AP).—Officers found today within three miles of Powell a hideout in which Earl Durand, raw meat-eating renegade killed by his own bullet, stayed five days while posse men hunted him.

While the 26-year-old Wyoming killer was dressed for his burial in a trimly fashioned brown suit, Sheriff Frank Blackburn reported discovery of the hideout in which Durand had left a quarter of raw beef and a leg of venison.

Killer of four men, the outlaw ended his life yesterday after after shooting up his home-town bank at the end of a nine-day flight from the law. The bank teller was killed in the holdup.

Coroner Ray Easton said no inquest was necessary in Durand's death.

The funeral will be held privately, probably Monday, at the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Durand, parents of the killer, five miles north of Powell. Friends of the family said, however, the burial might be made tomorrow to avoid curious sightseers.

Durand evidently lived in the willow-covered bottom of Bitter Creek from the night, March 16, when he shot two officers at his parents' ranch, until he kidnaped a ranch pair last Tuesday night. The hideout was three miles northeast of Powell and less than a mile from Durand's home.

Durand shot down two officers who pursued him to the ranch after he slugged a deputy sheriff to escape from the Cody jail. Officers found no trace of him until he forced Mr. and Mrs. Arch Thornburg Tuesday night to drive him to the Clarksford Canyon, in which he stood off 100 posse men, killing two more officers.

Durand saw his parents for the last time yesterday morning. He drove to the ranch home with Harry Moore, amateur radio operator he had abducted a mile from the base camp of a posse he eluded.

"Earl, I hardly know you," said his mother, weeping.

"I just came to say hello," replied the son, shaggy-bearded and unkempt after nine days of flight.

Durand's "hello" was his "good-by."

RADIO ENGINEER ENDS LIFE WITH PISTOL IN HIS HOME

Mother-in-Law Hears Shot and Finds H. C. Fischer Dying in Basement.

Harry C. Fischer, a radio engineer, ended his life yesterday by shooting himself in the head with a revolver in the basement of his home at 5803 Michigan avenue. He died at City Hospital at 4:30 p. m.

His mother-in-law, Mrs. Lena Watson, heard the shot and found him lying on the floor of a coal bin. Members of the family said he had been despondent and had threatened several times to end his life, police reported. He was employed by Station KMOX.

TESTIMONIALS BARRED AT GOAT GLAND TRIAL

Ex-Patients, Not Permitted to Tell of "Cures" Pending Search for Legal Precedent.

DEL RIO, Tex., March 25 (AP).—Dr. John R. Brinkley searched tonight for legal precedents that would permit his former patients to testify Monday that his surgery relieved their physical troubles.

The doctor, whose radio programs originate across the Mexican border and whose hospitals are in Little Rock, Ark., lost an attempt to put his patients on the witness stand today under a tentative ruling by United States District Judge R. J. McMillan.

The goat gland specialist's attorney said the patients could tell a jury of ranchmen of the cures and success of Dr. Brinkley's medicine and scalpel.

Previously, members of the American Medical Association testified Dr. Brinkley's surgery and medicine would be ineffective for the ailments he says he has cured. Dr. Brinkley charging Dr. Morris Fishbein of Chicago, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, damaged his reputation in an article calling him a quack and a charlatan, is sueing for $250,000 damages.

Judge McMillan said he would give Dr. Brinkley's attorneys an opportunity Monday to show him legal precedents that would permit the patients to testify before Dr. Brinkley is recalled for cross-examination.

PARALYZED MAN, BLIND WIFE DIE TOGETHER AS THEY WISHED

He "Saw" for Her and She Waited on Him; Deaths an Hour Apart.

NEW ORLEANS, March 25 (AP).—McCuin Carlisle, 73 years old, and his wife, Adelaide, would have been married 50 years this June. He interpreted the visible world for her, she took part in it for him. He was paralyzed, she was blind.

At the parties of their children and grandchildren, he sat and watched and told her what was happening. She played in the games for him.

They never worried over the chance death might separate them. They were sure they would die together, she first, he immediately afterward.

Yesterday doctors gave up all hope for him. He had been in a coma sevral days. She was ill, too, but doctors did not consider her case serious. In the afternoon she said she knew "he was going." She died at 5:10 p. m. He died an hour later.

GREVE DENOUNCES 'BARNEY AND OTTO' IN CAMPAIGN TALK

G. O. P. Nominee Notes That Brother and Sister of Mayor Are on City Payroll.

Clifford Greve, Republican nominee for president of the Board of Aldermen, speaking to an audience in Mayor Dickmann's Fourteenth Ward, at 3401 Halliday avenue last night, read a voter's letter complaining that St. Louis is governed "for the benefit of Barney and Otto (Dickmann), and then of the Democratic party."

"The record shows," Greve said, "that two members of the Mayor's family were on the public payroll." This referred to Charles Dickmann, the Mayor's brother, a supervisor in the Supply Commissioner's office, and to his sister, Miss Mayme Dickmann, who was appointed last year as a clerk for the State Board of Health.

"It shows also," the candidate continued, "that Otto Dickmann as an insurance broker—he's a many-sided fellow—received a commission by insuring all City Hall employes under a group life insurance policy with a local company." The fact that Otto Dickmann got one-third of the commission paid by the General American Life Insurance Co. for a group policy covering 4500 city employes, was told by the Post-Dispatch last September.

Greve proceeded to discuss the sale of real estate of closed banks by the Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co., through "straw" parties, which he has mentioned in previous speeches. As in the other speeches, he talked of the Mayor rather than of William L. Mason, president of the Board of Alderman, whom Greve is opposing for re-election. He treats Mason as a "rubber stamp" for the Mayor. The election will be held April 4.

To show that Democratic party interests were made secondary to the Dickmann personal and family interest, Greve told of the defeat of Circuit Judges Thomas L. Anderson and Frank B. Coleman for re-election, because "they would not accept Dickmann-Hannegan-Waechter dictation." He told how a similar attempt was made, but unsuccessfully, to defeat Circuit Clerk Sam Priest for a second term.

"The party retains the prestige of this fine officer," Greve said, "but Mayor Dickmann blamed Republicans for defeating his man and nominating Priest. Those Republicans were good citizens before they were partisan. The Mayor would not be satisfied with partisanship. He must have personal subservience."

Greve charged, as in a previous speech, that the Mayor went to Washington to ask Senator Bennett Clark's help in persuading Gov. Stark to appoint a man "acceptable to the organization" for the Circuit judgeship left vacant by Judge O'Neill Ryan's death.

He closed with a bid for non-partisan support, instancing the fact that Democrats had voted for Louis Nolte for Comptroller, and Republicans for Circuit Clerk Priest on the records made by those officials.

MALONE HOME FROM PRISON; DOCTOR BARS RECEPTION

Plan for Celebration at His Estate Near Chicago Given Up, Because of His Health.

CHICAGO, March 25 (AP).—William H. Malone, former chairman of the Illinois Tax Commission, who went to prison for evading almost $60,000 in Federal income taxes, returned quielty to his home today.

Preparations were made for a reception on his estate in suburban Park Ridge. The Malone residence was filled with flowers; sandwiches and coffee had been made for an expected 100 guests.

But when Malone arrived in Chicago with his wife and nephew, Norman Johnson, they stopped to consult Malone's doctor and were advised to avoid any demonstration which might excite him. The 61-year-old man was cheered as he entered his home.

Malone was sentenced to two years of imprisonment, but because of ill health was paroled after serving nine months.

DIVORCE OF MAN WHO KILLED SELF IS SET ASIDE BY COURT

St. Francois County Circuit Judge Acts on Plea of Second Wife of Ernest W. Aly.

A divorce obtained last November by Ernest W. Aly, former switchman for the Terminal Railroad Association, who killed himself last Jan. 13 after declaring a $47,282 personal injury judgment in his favor was based on a faked claim, was set aside last week in the Circuit Court of St. Francois County by Judge Taylor Smith on a motion by Mrs. Jesefin Josefina Amerigo Aly of Mexico City, Aly's second wife.

Mrs. Aly is endeavoring to obtain a share of the estate as Aly's widow. Last Feb. 1, she filed a petition in the Circuit Court at St. Louis to be named a co-defendant in a suit by the Terminal to set aside the award.

She declared in her petition that when Aly wrote notes, just before he killed himself, describing his claim to Terminal officials as "faked, fixed and framed," he was of unsound mind. Aly lost both legs in a switching accident in 1929. Charles P. Noell, Aly's attorney, replied in an answer to her petition that Aly's assertions of the claim being faked were made by Aly to prevent Mrs. Aly from sharing in the expected damage award.

HELENE FORTESCUE REYNOLDS GOING TO RENO FOR DIVORCE

Husband Says They're Getting Friendly Decree and Will Make Special Arrangement for Child.

RICHMOND, Va., March 25 (AP).—Helene Fortescue Reynolds and her husband, Julian Louis Reynolds, agreed here today to seek a friendly end to their three-year-old marriage.

Reynolds said all arrangements had been made for her to fly to Reno, Nev., tomorrow. She is the daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Granville R. Fortescue and a sister of Mrs. Thalia Massie, a central figure in the Massie murder trial in Hawaii several years ago.

Reynolds, a tobacco tinfoil manufacturer, said he had made a settlement but wouldn't tell the amount.

Reynolds won custody of their son, Richard Roland, last August under a court order that forbids removal of the child from Virginia. Reynolds said "special arrangements" would be worked out for custody of the child.

Reynolds said his wife had withdrawn her separation suit in New York. She had asked for $2000 a month and had charged that he had displayed "uncontrollable temper and insane jealousy."

In his petition for custody, Reynolds accused his 25-year-old wife of over-indulgence in intoxicants and said she once "borrowed" a butcher's truck to drive home at dawn from a tavern party.

The Reynolds were married July 15, 1936, in Washington and moved to New York. He changed his residence to Richmond in December, 1937, when he moved his business here.

DRUGGIST SHOOTS TWO ROBBERS WHO HAD HELD HIM UP

armed, told a Post-Dispatch reporter he "wouldn't think of killing anybody." He was facing the druggist when he was wounded, he said, and "could have shot him." "The robbery would never have happened if I hadn't been drunk," he added.

One Has No Police Record.

Both men declared last night's robbery was their first. Edelman has no police record. Johnson has been arrested three times, once as a robbery suspect in January, 1922, and again in December of that year when he was charged with embezzlement in connection with alleged failure to return a rented automobile to the owners. He was acquitted. In 1927 he was charged in a warrant with tampering with an automobile. No disposition of the charge is shown in police records.

Davidson, who resides at 3424 Clara avenue, said the robbery was the ninth in the 11 years he has had the store. The last was about three years ago.

ADMITS LOOTING HOMES OF MOVIE STARS FOR 5 YEARS

Burglar Accused of Stealing $1,000,000 in Jewelry, Clothing and Furnishings Confesses.

LOS ANGELES, March 25 (AP).—Ralph Graham, 40 years old, confessed today that for five years he had systematically looted the exclusive Bel-Air homes of movie stars and others, including that of George A. Hormel, millionaire meat packer, from which $1,800,000 in bonds were taken in September, 1935, police reported.

They quoted Graham as saying he stole the non-negotiable Hormel securities and returned them later on payment of $2500 through a lawyer intermediary.

C. H. Hartke, attorney for Hormel, confirmed that $2500 was paid for return of the bonds in January, 1936, through secret negotiations like those of a kidnaping case. He said he did not know whether the man he dealt with by telephone was Graham.

This was the first time police placed a $1,800,000 value on the bonds. All previous official figures were $500,000 to $700,000.

Advertised a Reward.

The securities were stolen two nights after Hormel and Mrs. Hormel left for Austin, Minn., where Hormel is board chairman of a packing company employing some 4000 persons. Hartke eventually advertised a reward for return of the securities after he and Hormel decided police efforts to recover them would fail.

He said parts of the bonds and parts of the recovery money were "traded" in four separate instances by leaving them in appointed places until the deal was completed.

Police said Graham confessed he had committed about 60 burglaries in the Bel-Air area.

Losses of jewelry, clothing and furnishings for a five-year period have been estimated at about $1,000,000 but Graham declared practically all his victims greatly exaggerated their losses.

Some of the Victims.

Victims of the Bel-Air burglaries include Barbara Stanwyck, Carole Lombard, Miriam Hopkins, Fred MacMurray, Alice Faye, Gary Cooper, Ann Dvorak, Ken Murray, Lili Damita, Lila Lee, and Fanny Brice.

Police said nothing definite had developed in a requested check to determine whether Graham might be Willard (Jersey Devil) Borton, wanted in connection with the murder of Ethel Allen, 19, near Eau Gallie, Fla., in 1934. Graham described this angle as "bunk" and said "I wasn't in Florida in 1934 and I don't know anything about Borton."

ORE LAND SALE HELPED BUILD PIM FORTUNES

Woman, in Whose Piano $40,000 Was Found, Sold St. Francois Tract in 1916.

At least part of the modest fortune of $40,000 which Miss Louise Pim had tucked away in old bills in an old square piano in her home at 2604 North Eleventh street came from the sale of land, rich with lead deposits, in St. Francois County, it was learned yesterday.

Miss Pim, who died Tuesday, lived in the county years ago and, in the boom days of lead mining in the first decade of the century, there was a town there called Pimville, named for the family. Now it contains only a few deserted houses.

In 1916 Miss Pim, with her sister, Fanny, and her brother, Frederick A. Pim, sold a 600-acre tract of land to the National Lead Co., for about $45,000. The tract was a wooded pine section in which panthers are said to roam still.

The mine established on the tract was closed by the National Lead Co. in 1933. It is now, however, operated by the St. Joseph Lead Co., which bought all the National company's property in the county in 1937.

Miss Pim, who was 89 years old, was the last surviving member of the family, which had rented the house on North Eleventh street for 70 or more years.

Workmen using pinchbars and hammers were tearing apart furniture in the house yesterday in an effort to discover any other money which Miss Pim might have hidden there.

Her safe deposit box in the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co., co-executor of her estate, will be opened some time this week. Most of her estate was left to Catholic charities. A 200-acre tract of land in St. Francois County, and $2000 each weer bequeathed to a nephew and a niece.

Landon Gives Blood for Son.

TOPEKA, Kan., March 25 (AP).—Alf M. Landon supplied the blood in a transfusion today for his 5-year-old son, John, who has suffered a recurring ear infection for several weeks. The 1936 Republican presidential nominee and former Kansas Governor said his son's condition was not serious, that the transfusion was decided on as a method of combatting a condition which has not responded entirely satisfactory to other treatment.

Hitler's Quick and Amazing Gains Have Been Made at a Heavy Price

Reich's Financial Difficulties Growing, People Being Called on to Make Bigger Sacrifices for War Machine.

BERLIN, March 25 (AP).—With the formal signature this week of treaties with Lithuania, Slovakia and Rumania, Chancellor Hitler crowned his quick-moving expansion of Germany. In his 10-day record of success he—

Brought 150,000 Memel Germans "home into the Reich."

Reduced Slovakia and Lithuania to the status of economic dependencies and gave Germany a strategic foothold in the Eastern Baltic.

Set Rumanians to work exploiting the agricultural, mineral, timber and oil wealth of their kingdom for the benefit of the Nazis.

Great Britain from the German point of view has become an object of derision, France a mere second fiddle, and even Italy is considered merely the junior partner of the Rome-Berlin axis. All of these things have raised German pride to the peak.

Nazi Gains in Rumania.

In the eyes of German economists, the peaceful penetration of Rumania stands forth as most important of all the accretions of power, influence, population and territory. Nazi authorities believe that by throwing itself so completely into the arms of Germany, Rumania among other things has—

Destroyed British hopes for gaining a decisive influence in the Balkans.

Rendered the efficacy of the Polish-Rumanian alliance doubtful and thereby weakened the Polish state in its effort to keep clear of German domination.

Became a source of raw materials for Germany than which an African colony could be no better.

Brought the Ukraine, long the object of German dreams of expansion, appreciably nearer to Berlin.

A careful reading of the published synopsis of the German-Rumanian trade treaty discloses that it is a masterpiece of German strategy. The idea of an economic blockade of Germany becomes illusory. Germany soon will have fingers so deep in Rumania's economic and industrial life that the influence of other foreign nations there will become negligible.

Only Question of Time.

German observers assert that it is only a question of time before Poland must yield the free city of Danzig, Pomorze (the Polish corridor), Pomerellen and the rich industrial areas of Polish Silesia — all of them parts of Germany or Austria before the World War — with the same "willingness" and "spontaneity" which impelled Lithuanian Foreign Minister Juoraz Urbsys to come hat in hand to Berlin and ask for an interview with German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

Poland, should it want to oppose German wishes and demands, likely will find itself as completely encircled as Germany was only a few years ago. Poland, as things look today, has no choice but to settle amicably with Germany.

Summing up, it may be said that Germany no longer fears a fight on two fronts as in the World War. On the east and the south it is surrounded by nations perforce friendly. It thus can turn completely to the west just as soon as differences with Poland — which continue to exist despite a 10-year pact which has five years more to run—are ironed out in Germany's favor.

Some More Nazi Gains.

In Western Europe, the Nazi state seems inclined to let France share power with Italy on the continent but to try to weaken Great Britain to the point of agreeing to return colonies taken from Germany after the World War. Germany fell heir to a splendid aggregation of Czecho-Slovak warplanes by which its lead as Europe's first air power was increased greatly. Moreover, it fell heir to the first-class Czech armaments industry. The famous Skoda Works of Pilsen are second on the continent only to those of Krupp.

A further factor in explaining German aggressiveness in the attitude toward Britain is the realization that Germany made good financial hauls when taking over the treasuries of Austria and the Czecho-Slovak republic.

While the exact magnitude of these acquisitions never has been disclosed completely, the gold and foreign exchange portfolios of Vienna and Prague apparently have apparently enabled Germany to continue to buy aboard those essential raw materials that it expects to obtain by barter and exchange in due course from the members of the new economic empire in the process of building.

Other Side of Picture.

Yet, with all the outward show of confidence, there are many thoughtful Germans who remind the foreign observer that Austria by no means has been as completely absorbed as one might think; the Sudetenlanders are not proving so tractable as expected; that there is a question of Czech subservience if there should be a war.

An adverse factor in Germany's situation is the enormous cost of the upkeep of its huge military establishment. German people are paying dearly in sacrifices of every sort for having probably the largest and best-equipped war engine in Europe.

Constantly rising taxes, the latest addition to which was made public yesterday, also are not conducive to making imperialism more popular.

The financial difficulties which Germany faces were disclosed glaringly on the very day on which Hitler returned from his triumphal voyage to Memel.

Mortgaging the Future.

A "new financial plan" was announced by the Finance Ministry which admittedly was necessary because Germany's internal borrowing capacity had reached its limit and because credit widening became peremptory. The new plan mortgages the future for a long period to come and introduces a system of certificates in addition to currency in the nation's monetary life.

Yet, when all is said and done, the German, trained through generations to obedience and imbued with an intense, unquestioning patriotism, may be relied on to give an excellent account of himself at the beginning of a war. The adverse factors would play a role later, however, after the first enthusiasm is over.

78-YEAR-OLD MAN HIT BY AUTO WHICH FAILS TO STOP

Frank Radosh Suffers Skull Injury When Struck by Car on South Seventh.

Frank Radosh, 78, of 705 Wyoming street, suffered a skull injury and fractures of several ribs last night when struck in front of 3120 South Seventh street by an automobile which did not stop.

Witnesses said the machine, a coupe, continued north in Seventh street at a high rate of speed. Police found an automobile door handle in the street at the scene of the accident. Radosh was taken to City Hospital.

Juanita Glore, 7-year-old crippled daughter of William Glore, 2207 South Third street, suffered a skull injury when knocked from her father's arms as he was struck by an automobile in front of 1501 Chouteau avenue.

Glore, who was carrying his daughter across the street, told police he became confused when he saw the automobile approaching and stepped into its path. The driver said he was Emal Blabock, 1210 Hickory street. Glore and his daughter were taken to City Hospital. He returned home after treatment for bruises.

LEGION POSTS URGED TO FIGHT CUT IN AID TO CHILDREN

State Commander Opposes Any Reduction Which Would Hamper Program for Dependents.

American Legion posts throughout the State were urged yesterday, in a message from State Commander Fred A. Bottger, to protest against any cut in the appropriation for social security purposes which would hamper the State's Aid to Dependent Children program.

"We Legionnaires must not allow the Aid to Dependent Children program to be reduced to the point where it has no value as a child welfare measure," the message said. "We must back the State Social Security Commission's full budget request in every category."

The House Appropriations Committee has recommended a cut of $4,000,000 in the commission's budget.

EAST ST. LOUIS AUTO CRASH

Machine Bumps Into Barber Shop After Collision.

The proprietor, Philip H. Cohn, estimated damage to the two-story brick building at $1000. No one was injured.

NEGRO BIRTH AND DEATH RATES HERE EXCEED WHITES'

Social Planning Council Presents Analysis of City Health Division Statistics.

Negro birth and death rates were higher than those of the white population of St. Lous in 1938, the Social Planning Council said yesterday in an analysis of statistics from the City Health Division.

The council commented specifically on the wide differences in the number of deaths resulting from pulmonary tuberculosis, pneumonia and syphilis. For tuberculosis, the Negro mortality was 210.3 a 100,000 population as compared to 46.9 white persons a 100,000. Pneumonia accounted for 219 Negro deaths in the 100,000 and 79 white persons, and on the same basis 63 Negroes died of syphilis and 12.2 whites.

The Negro birth rate was 1753 a 100,000, as compared to the white rate of 1658. The Negro death rate was 1684 and the white death rate 1167.

MARK A. RUDICH.

BROOKLYN MAGISTRATE OUSTED FOR BRIBERY

Inquiry Into Judiciary Will Continue, Attorney-General's Aid Says.

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP).—Magistrate Mark Rudich, accused by Special Assistant Attorney-General John Harlan Amen of having accepted bribes from Louis Kassman, a professional bail bondsman, was removed from office today by the Brooklyn Appellate Division.

The decision was unanimous. A spokesman for Amen said "our inquiry into the judiciary in Brooklyn will continue."

Rudich said the court had found him not "corrupt" but "delinquent," and remarked that "unfortunately the law provides for no appeal."

He asserted, too, that he had been assured there would be no criminal proceedings against him, but this was not corroborated by the prosecution.

SUNRISE SERVICE ON EASTER

Program to Be at School Stadium Instead of Municipal Theater.

An annual Easter sunrise service sponsored by the Metropolitan Church Federation will be held this year at the Public School Stadium, 3133 North Kingshighway boulevard, instead of at Municipal Theater in Forest Park, which is being remodeled.

The program, to begin at 6:15 a. m., April 9, will include songs by a male chorus of 60 voices, music by a Salvation Army band, and congregational singing. The Rev. B. F. Hall of Central Presbyterian Church will speak. Two national radio networks will broadcast the service.

50-YEAR-OLD HOUSE IN KIMMSWICK BURNS

Bucket Brigades Unable to Save Landmark—St. Louis Firemen Prevent Spread.

A spectacular fire yesterday afternoon destroyed the old Oheim Building, one of the landmarks of Kimmswick, Mo., on the Mississippi River 15 miles south of St. Louis in Jefferson County.

The two and one-half story brick structure was built more than 50 years ago. The families of Michael Zeigelmeyer and Arle Walters, who lived there, were unable to save any of their possessions.

Starting in a frame garage at about 1:30 o'clock, the fire spread quickly to frame chicken and rabbit sheds at the back, and then to the home. Volunteer bucket brigades were formed to fight the flames until firemen could be called from St. Louis.

When firemen arrived, the building was beyond saving, and they concentrated on preventing the flames from spreading to nearby stores and residences, pumping water on these structures from cisterns.

The smoke and flames were visible for several miles in some directions, and spectators were attracted from nearby towns. The town, which has a population of about 200, was crowded with several times that number of persons until the fire was put out.

Rescuer of Ship's Crew Dies.

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP).—Capt. Clifton Smith, of the freighter Schodack, who was praised for the rescue of the Norwegian steamer Smaragd's crew 550 miles from New York Dec. 23, died today at Dunkerque, France, where the Schodack was docked. Capt. Smith lived in Westfield, N. J.

ANNUAL CONFERENCES ON U. S. FARM LOANS

Federal Land Bank Officers and Representatives of Credit Groups Meet.

Officers of the Federal Land Bank of St. Louis, which holds about $200,000,000 in mortgages on farms in Missouri, Arkansas and Illinois, are holding an annual series of meetings at the Jefferson Hotel with farmers who make up the national farm loan associations, lending agencies for the bank.

About 130 Missouri farmers are expected to attend the meetings tomorrow and Tuesday, and about the same number of Illinoisans will be present Wednesday and Thursday. Meetings with Arkansas representatives were held Friday and yesterday, with 110 present.

J. M. Huston, vice-president of the bank, in a talk yesterday warned his audience, composed of presidents and secretaries of the loan agencies in Arkansas, that the need for caution in making loans is increasing, as the saturation point in suitable loans has almost been reached. In Arkansas, 16,500 loans are outstanding, and in the three states the bank, through foreclosure and voluntary deeds, has come into possession of real estate worth $4,210,000.

Money lent by the farm loan associations comes not directly from the Government, but from the sale of Federal Land Bank bonds. Through purchase of stock in the loan associations by borrowers, and equivalent purchase by the associations of Federal Land Bank stock, approximately 60 per cent of the $20,000,000 capital provided by the Government has been retired in the Missouri-Illinois-Arkansas district.

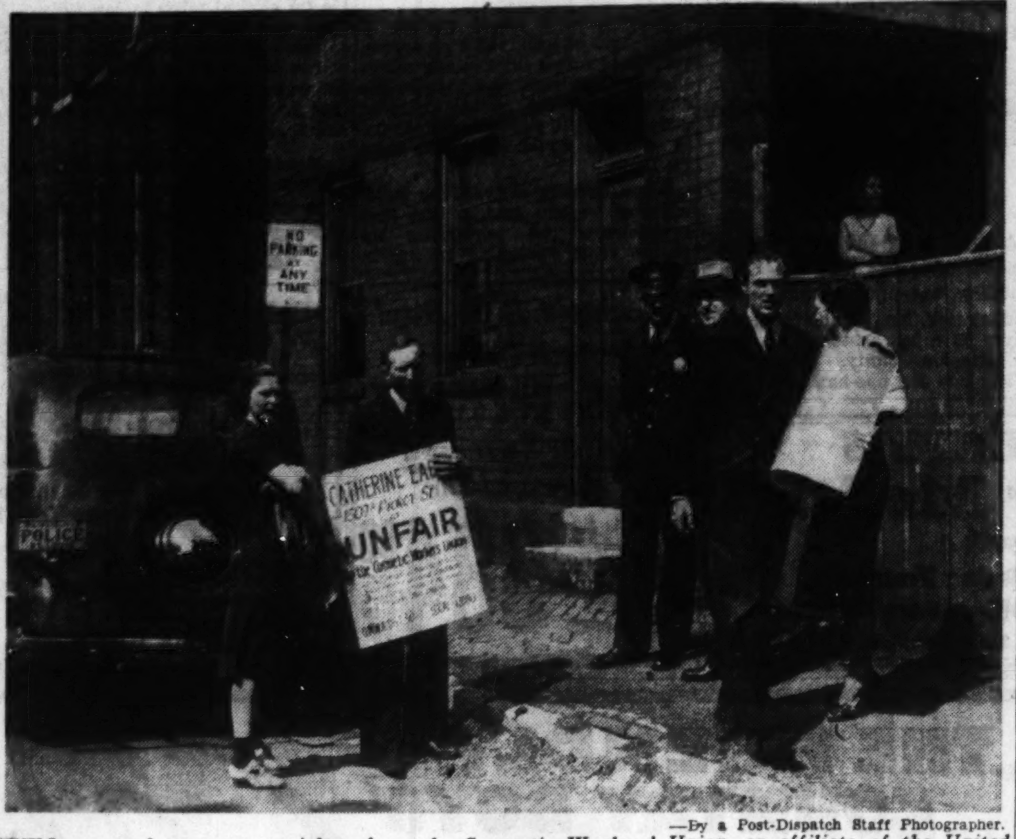
Stopped From Picketing Non-Unionist's Home



—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

TWO men and two woman pickets from the Cosmetic Workers' Union, an affiliate of the United Mine Workers, who were stopped by police from picketing the home of Miss Catherine Eads, 1507A Picker street. The sign held by the man in the foreground states that Miss Eads refused to join the union.

NON-UNION WORKERS' HOMES ARE PICKETED

Attempt Made to Force Four to Join—Police Disperse One Group.

The homes of four non-union workers were picketed yesterday by the Gas and By-products Coke and Chemical Workers' Union, affiliated with the United Mine Workers of America, in an effort to force them into the union.

At the home of Miss Agnes Eads, 1507A Picker street, an employe of a toilet preparations manufacturer, the pickets were dispersed by police, who told them they were disturbing the peace of a private home. Two men, who had taken the places of two woman pickets, departed with their placards, but returned when the police left.

EXPERTS WILL REVIEW SCHOOL SURVEY HERE

Report Covering 2000 Pages Probably Will Be Made Public April 24.

A reviewing committee composed of the five immediate past presidents of the American Association of School Administrators will be here this week to discuss in detail the survey of the St. Louis public schools made under the direction of Dr. George D. Strayer of Columbia University.

The report, under present arrangements, will be delivered to the Board of Education April 24 and made public at that time. It is expected to cover more than 2000 typed pages and to take up a wide variety of problems and educational conditions.

Criticism of the survey report is to be sought from the reviewing committee. After this week Dr. Strayer and his staff will revise and complete the report in New York. Members of the committee, retained for this purpose by the survey, are: C. B. Glenn, Birmingham, Ala.; E. E. Oberholtzer, Houston, Tex.; John A. Sexson, Pasadena, Cal.; A. J. Stoddard, Denver, and A. L. Threlkeld, Montclair, N. J. The same group was appointed by the Board of Education last autumn to recommend a surveyor or surveyors and unanimously urged the choice of Dr. Strayer, who is director of the division of field studies, Teachers' College, Columbia University.

Dividing into two groups, the reviewing committee will visit about 25 typical schools, both white and Negro, tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday. The object is to let them see a cross-section of the St. Louis educational system, including variations in curriculums and teaching methods. Each evening they will sit in conference with Dr. Strayer and Dr. John K. Norton, who has charge of the finance section of the survey, at dinner and for several hours thereafter, at Hotel Statler.

Thursday and Friday there will be all-day conferences and discussion of the findings. The members and executive officers of the board will be invited to a dinner Friday to talk over the report with the surveyors and the Reviewing Committee. The public will not be admitted to any of the meetings.

The bill recently introduced in the Legislature for a complete administrative reorganization of the school system, centering responsibility in the hands of a single officer, the Superintendent of Schools, is an outgrowth of the survey. Dr. Strayer recommended it and early action was taken by the board to approve this proposal in order to have it taken up at the current session of the Legislature.

A public hearing will be held on the bill by the Senate Education Committee at Jefferson City at 8 p. m. tomorrow. Dr. Strayer, Superintendent of Instruction Henry J. Gerling and Richard Murphy, chairman of the board's Legislative Committee, will be present, prepared to discuss the measure.

No details of the new agreement were given. It is effective April 1.

The official news agency said:

"In mutual confidence in the permanency of economic relations between Germany and The Netherlands, the agreement has been concluded for a long period for the first time. That is, until Dec. 31, 1940, in contrast to previous short-term agreements."

MISCHA ELMAN GIVES COLORFUL CONCERT

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN

Mischa Elman, the celebrated violinist, who has appeared many times in St. Louis both with orchestra and solo, gave a concert last night in the Municipal Auditorium before a receptive audiencce of about 1800. The concert was one of a series being given in a number of American cities for the benefit of refugees from Germany of all creeds and denominations. They are sponsored, both locally and nationally by a distinguished and thoroughly representative committee.

Mr. Elman has never been lacking in emotion but the extra-musical nature of the occasion evidently inspired a more than ordinary display of feeling. In such numbers as the "Symphonie Espagnole" by Lalo this could be condoned, even applauded. An extra splash of purple only made the color and melody of the music all the more arresting. But the Handel Sonata in D Major and Beethoven's "Kreutzer" sonata would have been better if he had submitted himself to a little more discipline, especially with regard to the rhythm.

The richness of tone quality and masterly command of his instrument were in evidence throughout the program. His control was that of the virtuoso. It was quite apparent that whatever he did was done because he wanted it that way.

In addition to the "Symphonie Espagnole" and the two sonatas Mr. Elman played Sarasate's arrangement of Chopin's Nocturne in E Flat, a Brahms Joachim Hungarian Dance and Vieuxtemps "Ballade and Polonaise," in addition to several encores.

He was accompanied by Vladimir Padwa.

Oberlin Choir to Sing.

The Oberlin College a cappella choir of Oberlin, O., will appear in a concert at Pilgrim Congregational Church, Union boulevard and Kensington avenue, Wednesday night, April 5. Choral music will be sung by the choir, under direction of Olaf C. Christiansen.

M'KITTRICK TO TESTIFY AT INSURANCE FUND INQUIRY

Attorney - General Who Ruled O'Malley Had Right to Compromise, Called by Grand Jury.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 25 (AP). — State's Attorney-General Roy McKittrick must appear Tuesday before the United States grand jury here when its members, returning from their spring plowing, will resume investigation of a $447,500 fund in the $9,000,000 fire insurance rate compromise of 1935. He was subpenaed yesterday for appearance at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday.

At the request of United States District Attorney Maurice Milligan, the jury is attempting to determine how the money was spent. Milligan contends it was paid by insurance companies to the late Charles R. Street of Chicago, a co-trustee in the compromise.

McKittrick, as Attorney-general, gave his official opinion in 1935 that State Superintendent of Insurance O'Malley had a legal right to settle the rate case by compromise.

ST. LOUIS FIRM'S TAX PLEA

American Auto Insurance Co. Appeals Income Assessment.

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP). —The American Automobile Insurance Co. of St. Louis appealed today from a $19,886 income tax deficiency assessment for 1935.

The company told the Tax Appeals Board its reported net income of $270,269, on which it paid $36,590 tax, was increased erroneously by the Internal Revenue Bureau to $414,900 because of disagreement over the amount of deductible losses.

TAX ON U. S. JUDGE PUT UP TO SUPREME COURT

Federal Government Appeals, Seeks Right to Collect Levy on Income.

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP). —The Government raised another question as to its right to tax income heretofore held exempt by asking the Supreme Court today to rule it may levy on the salary of a Federal Judge.

This question was placed before Justices who may announce on Monday whether a state can tax the income of employes of Federal agencies. The Government backed the states on this issue.

President Roosevelt has asked Congress for legislation permitting reciprocal taxation of employes of federal land state governments. The House has passed the measure and it has been approved by the Senate Finance Committee. At present, the Federal Government does not tax state salaries and the States do not tax Federal salaries.

The Government appeal today was from a decision by the United States District Court in Nebraska holding unconstitutional an attempt to tax the $12,500 salary received in 1936 by Joseph W. Woodrough of Omaha, a member of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for that area.

Legislation passed by Congress in 1936 authorized Federal taxation of salaries of Federal Judges who took office after June 6, 1932. The United States Constitution provides, however, that salaries of Judges shall "not be diminished during their continuance in office."

Litigation involving the right of a state to tax employes of Federal agencies was brought by New York and Utah.

Other important decisions possible Monday involve the right of the Federal Government to deport an alien Communist and the constitutionality of Mayor Frank Hague's attempt to bar the CIO from holding public meetings in Jersey City.

Accountants to Convene in City.

The National Association of Cost Accountants will hold their 1940 convention in St. Louis, it was announced yesterday. About 1200 are expected to attend.

COTTON BELT SEEKS AUTHORITY TO PAY $400,000 ON BONDS

Authorization to pay $400,000 interest due May 1 on first mortgage bond certificates of the Cotton Belt Railroad was sought in a petition filed with United States District Judge Charles B. Davis yesterday by Carleton S. Hadley, assistant general counsel to the railroad's trustee.

Similar applications last year for permission to make the semi-annual payments were granted by Judge Davis, but an appeal from his ruling has been taken to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals by the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York.

The trust company, trustee for the railroad's first terminal and unifying mortgage, contended that payment of the interest was improper because of a clause in the mortgage certificates purporting to secure guaranty of payment on bonds of a subsidiary. Under Missouri law there can be no lien of this type securing a guaranty, the trust company contended.

FATHER HERMAN NIETERS

FATHER NIETERS' BODY TO LIE IN STATE AT ST. BONIFACE'S

Parish Procession to Escort It to the Church at 1 O'clock This Afternoon.

The body of the Rev. Herman Nieters, pastor emeritus of St. Boniface's Catholic Church, will be taken to the church, Michigan avenue and Schirmer streets, at 1 o'clock this afternoon. A parish procession, from Minnesota and Nagel avenues, will act as escort for the body, which will lie in state at the church until the funeral tomorrow morning.

A school children's mass will be celebrated at 8 a. m. tomorrow. At 10 o'clock the solemn pontifical funeral mass will take place, with Auxiliary Bishop Christian H. Winkelmann as celebrant. Priests who were reared in St. Boniface's parish, and former assistants of Father Nieters, will assist in the mass. Archbishop John J. Glennon will preside, and the sermon will be preached by the Rev. William Huelsmann. Burial will be in the priests' lot of SS. Peter and Paul's Cemetery.

Father Nieters, a native of Germany, was pastor of the church from 1895 to 1936, besides previous service there as assistant. He died Thursday in Alexian Brothers' Hospital, at the age of 82 years.

CAPTOR OF CAPTAIN JACK IN MODOC WAR, DIES

Histo, Indian Scout, Succumbs on Warm Springs Reservation in Oregon.

PENDLETON, Ore., March 25 (AP).—Histo, a factor in the white man's winning of the West, through his leadership as an army scout in the capture of Captain Jack, renegade leader of the Modoc war, is dead.

Nearly 100 years old, the Indian died on the Warm Springs reservation and was buried there this week.

After Captain Jack led a peace party into ambush April 11, 1873, and had killed Brigadier-General E. R. Canby, soldiers, volunteers and their Indian scouts finally ran him into a corner.

Histo, with Ta-Loks and another Indian scout known as Albert, attempted to capture the Modoc. A shot from Captain Jack's rifle took off one of Histo's braids, but he and his companions went ahead, and when they leaped into the trench, the Modoc chief surrendered.

EX-MAYOR WALKER, NEW YORK, TURNS TREASURE HUNTER

He and Brother Hold One-fourth Interest in Search for Gold Lost in Shipwreck.

WILMINGTON, N. C., March 25 (AP).—Former Mayor James J. Walker of New York has turned treasure hunter, seeking gold and silver in a sunken ship 25 miles north of here at Topsail Reef.

The Carolina Exploration Co. is doing the actual work with the ex-Mayor and his brother, Dr. William H. Walker, physician of the New York State Boxing Commission, holding a 25 per cent interest but remaining in New York.

The Walkers have a part in the hunt because they own an instrument, invented by Americano Granazio, an Italian, whom the ex-Mayor befriended when he came to New York in 1915. It operates on a secret chemical formula and is based on radio-activity.

A steel caisson is being sunk at the site of the old wreck. This part of the job is expected to be completed in about two weeks. Then dredging will start.

Darst, first vice-president; Ralph Bugbee, second vice-president; Guy Faulkner, treasurer, and W. E. Nickey, secretary. Directors elected were George Logan, Albert Bond Lambert, W. Admits Beating Woman, 65.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 25 (AP).—Police announced the arrest today of a 16-year-old Negro who confessed that he choked and beat Mrs. Esther Grundman, 65 years old, because she had only 75 cents when he tried to rob her.

DIRECTOR RE-ENGAGED BY MUNICIPAL OPERA

Zeke Colvan to Have Charge of Stage and George Hirst of Music.

Zeke Colvan, stage director of Municipal Opera productions since 1934, and George Hirst, general music director for the last three seasons, have been re-engaged for the forthcoming season, the Municipal Theater Association announced last night.

Colvan, in the American theater for nearly 30 years, has staged many of the Broadway successes of the Schuberts and the late Florenz Ziegfeld. For the latter, he directed the staging of "Whoopee," "Bitter Sweet," "Rosalie," "The Three Musketeers," "Show Boat" and other hits.

Among the stars who have been under his direction are Eddie Cantor, Ed Wynn, Joan Crawford, Barbara Stanwyck, Jack Oakie, Irene Dunne, Helen Morgan and Allan Jones.

Hirst has long been a conductor in grand opera and in the lighter musical field. Before the World War, in which he served with the Canadian forces, he was associate conductor of the Montreal and Boston opera companies. On his return from the war he began his career in light opera by conducting Victor Herbert's "Angel Face."

The opera management announces that patrons who had season tickets last summer will have until Saturday to reserve the same seats for the 1939 productions. Assignment of seat locations for all other applicants will begin next week.

The twenty-first season will open June 2 with "Rose Marie," which will be presented for 10 nights. Productions scheduled to follow are "Queen High," "Lost Waltz," "Katinka," "Waltz Dream," "On Your Toes," "Firefly," "The Bartered Bride," "Mary," "Babette," "Song of the Flame" and "Victoria and Her Hussar."

Edgar F. Johnson Pleads Guilty and Is Sentenced to Jail.

Edgar F. Johnson, a landscape expert, who nine years ago won a prize for a riverfront improvement design, was sentenced yesterday to six months in jail by United States District Judge Charles B. Davis on his plea of guilty of diverting Government funds to his own advantage when he was a WPA supervisor.

The court was informed by Assistant United States Attorney David M. Robinson that Johnson, when supervisor of WPA work in Tilles Park, had a stone wall and walk constructed at his home, 5019 Raymond avenue, by five men, who received $219 from WPA funds.

Johnson, 53 years old, said he had intended to pay for the work, but ran into financial difficulties. He then put the five laborers on the WPA payroll for the time spent on his work, he admitted.

When Milton Weiffenbach, probation officer, presented a report of an investigation of the charge against Johnson, Judge Davis asked the defendant how the report had been prepared. Johnson replied that Weiffenbach had sent him a form, which he had filled out and delivered in person.

"The probation officer seems inclined toward leniency for you, but I am unable to convince myself that this should be the case," Judge Davis remarked in passing sentence.

Johnson, held temporarily in city jail, will be transferred to a county jail to be designated. The $1000 prize he won in 1930 was awarded by the City Improvement Association for the best idea for improving the riverfront.

DOG TRAVELS 150 MILES

Finds New Home of Master, 4, Who Prayed He'd Return.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 25 (AP).—Wiggles is a dog, left behind when the D. C. Riedel family moved 150 miles from Erie, Pa., to Pittsburgh on Oct. 1, 1938. Nightly 4-year-old Donald Riedel prayed for the return of his dog. Two days ago Mrs. Riedel found Wiggles sleeping on the back porch.

The animal had been given to an Erie resident who reported it disappeared two days later.

8 CHANGES PROPOSED IN WAGNER LABOR ACT

Manufacturers' Association Considers Its Present Operation One-Sided.

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP).—The National Association of Manufacturers today urged amendment of the Wagner Labor Relations Act on eight points.

At the same time, the association said the purpose of the act, to protect collective bargaining by voluntarily chosen representatives of workers, was "thoroughly justified."

In a statement, accompanied by quotations from various groups and individuals all critical of the act in its present form, the association said its position was that labor friction would continue "so long as the law places restraints upon one party . . . and leaves the other party free of all restraint . . . and until the right of free association on the part of employers and freedom of action on their part so long as they do not commit unfair practices is recognized . . . and unless all persons stand equally before the law and the administrative agencies."

Eight Points Listed.

The eight points, paraphrased, are:

1. Recognize "unfair practices" by others than employers as obstructions to interstate commerce.
2. The National Labor Relations Board should confine its unionization activities to protection of the right of employes to organize and bargain through representatives of their own choosing.
3. Prohibit "interference, restraint and coercion" against employes from any source.
4. Prohibit the closed shop and the check-off.
5. Protect employers by describing minimum standards of conduct for unions.
6. Repeat the right of free speech between employers and employes.
7. Restrict the power of the board to favor national or international unions as against local unions.
8. Assure fair trial and adequate court review to all accused of violating any provisions of the law.

Approves Purpose of Act.

Approving the general purpose of the act, to protect workers in the right to bargain collectively and to insure peace in industrial relations, the association said that since the act had gone into effect the country had witnesses "a wave of sit-down strikes and other strikes involving violence and intimidation, such as it has never before seen."

Pointing out that the board had ordered the re-instatement, sometimes with back pay, of sit-down strikers, the statement said that "this clearly wrong construction" of the act by the board "continued until the Supreme Court of the United States, in its decisions of Feb. 27, 1939, called a halt."

The statement concluded: "All those who have a stake in preserving the integrity of our judicial system should join in urging the Congress to clarify the National Labor Relations Act. . . . If the Congress will make its statute clear and definite, it will serve the public interest by defining and clarifying the area of Labor Board discretion and obviating the necessity of court interpretation of what should have been clear enough that it needed little interpretation."

Members of Congress quoted as favoring revision of the Wagner Act included: Senators Burke (Dem.), Nebraska; Vandenberg (Rep.), Michigan; Davis (Rep.), Pennsylvania; Logan (Dem.), Kentucky; and Representatives Cox (Dem.), Georgia; Rankin (Dem.), Mississippi; Gifford (Rep.), Massachusetts; Short (Rep.), Missouri; Hoffman (Rep.), Michigan.

Green Asks A. F. L. Membership to Support Law Changes.

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP).—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, appealed to the A. F. of L. membership today to disregard what he said was CIO propaganda and stand with the Federation officers in seeking amendment of the National Labor Relations Act.

In a letter to all national, international and central unions and state federations, Green wrote:

"Some local unions and individual members of the American Federation of Labor have become confused because of misrepresentation and false propaganda which has been circulated by representatives of the CIO. They have been told that the American Federation of Labor is trying to destroy the National Labor Relations Act. This is false and without any basis whatsoever."

Green asserted the A. F. of L. sponsored and contributed largely toward enactment of the labor law and that the Federation sought to amend enactment of the labor law and that the Federatoin sought to amend it only to "make it a better law." The change was sought, he said, "because the National Relations Board had shown itself to be pro-CIO and anti-American Federation of Labor in the administration of the law."

In public statements, the CIO has asserted that many A. F. of L. locals were joining with it in opposing any change in the Act.

A. W. THIMMIG CASE DROPPED

Embezzlement Indictment at Belleville Dismissed.

Two indictments, charging August W. Thimmig of St. Louis with embezzlement and operation of a confidence game, were dismissed yesterday by State's Attorney Louis P. Zerweck of Belleville, for want of prosecution.

The indictments charged Thimmig and an associate with selling a $136 stock certificate, belonging to Mrs. Kathryn Schroeder of East St. Louis and failing to give her the money. Zerweck said Mrs. Schroeder informed him relatives of Thimmig had made restitution.

WOMAN, 76, AMAZES COURT BY MEMORY

Claimant to Campbell Estate Gives Some Detail of 301 Members of Family.

When Mrs. Eliza McGhee, an elderly but alert farm woman from Lansing, Ia., had finished her testimony yesterday in the great Campbell estate hearing, she had given at least one detail about 301 members, both living and dead, of the prolific Campbell clan.

Mrs. McGhee, along with about 400 other persons, is claiming a share of the $1,800,000 fortune left by Hazlett Campbell, the elderly bachelor recluse who died in the family mansion at 1508 Locust street in March, 1938.

She had been on the witness stand about eight hours. When she stepped down, Special Master John J. Nangle, who has been appointed by Circuit Judge Eugene J. Sartorius to pick out the rightful heirs, asked her if she had studied a geneological chart. She pointed to her head and said: "My chart is here."

"A splendid witness," Nangle commented. "A remarkable memory. Her memory is better than that of a 30-year-old person." Mrs. McGhee is 76.

Her information was gleaned, she said, at family gatherings, at school, and at Presbyterian church suppers. She said she herself had never seen Robert Campbell, fur-trading father of Hazlett and founder of the fortune.

She recalled, however, that her aunt Sarah had told her, years ago, that back in the 1860s she had taken a river steamer from Iowa down the Mississippi to St. Louis and visited Robert Campbell. Aunt Sarah remembered, she said, that Robert had "an awful nice house and an awful nice wife."

Mrs. McGhee described herself as a "first cousin, once removed" of Hazlett Campbell.

Somewhat more distantly related was the only other witness of the day, Miss Isobel Edith MacCulloch, a governess living in Beverly Hills, Cal. She said she was a third cousin. She is a great-granddaughter of Andrew Campbell, who was a brother of Hazlett's grandfather Hugh Campbell. She, too, said she had never seen Robert Campbell but had heard of him and of his generosity toward his relatives.

OIL COMPANY EMPLOYES ORGANIZE BARGAINING UNION

48 Delegates Representing Standard of Indiana Units Plan National Federation.

The Central States Petroleum Union, designed to represent employes in collective bargaining, was formed at Alton yesterday afternoon by 48 delegates representing Standard Oil Co. of Indiana refineries and marketing units in six states. Officers of the organization declared that it would not be confined to the Standard Oil Co., and said they hoped it would become national in scope.

The union grew out of the employe representation plans in the various Standard Oil units after these had been converted into independent unions in conformity with the Wagner Act, J. G. Wilson of Peoria, who was appointed executive secretary explained. Each of the unions in the federation is the exclusive bargaining agent in its particular plant, he added.

Beside adopting a constitution, the delegates elected a four-man board of governors, Hugh Lowry of Alton, chairman; R. J. Hartman of Minneapolis, Minn., vice-chairman; R. S. Keeling of Indianapolis, Ind., secretary, and Arthur Henry of Sugar Creek, Mo.

BALTIMORE, March 25 (AP).—The trans-Atlantic survey flight of the 74-passenger Yankee Clipper will begin tomorrow at 3 p. m., Pan-American Airways announced tonight, if weather conditions are favorable and radio checks with five European bases are satisfactory.

The 42-ton plane will carry 21 men on the trip, the largest number ever to span the Atlantic in a heavier-than-air machine. Capt. Harold Gray, veteran of numerous trans-Pacific flights in smaller clippers, will be in command of the 11-man crew, observers for the army, navy, coast guard and others.

JAPANESE SAY ARMY IS AT NANCHANG WALL

Report Says Shock Troops Have Smashed Outer Defenses of Kiangsi Capital.

SHANGHAI, March 26 (Sunday) (AP).—Japanese dispatches from the Central China front reported today that Japanese shock troops had smashed the outer defenses of Nanchang, which long had been an important Chinese air base.

Japanese were said to have established a spearhead on the outskirts of the city and were trying to break through the walls.

Nanchang, 360 miles southeast of Shanghai, is south of the Yangtze River route Japanese followed last October to capture Hankow.

Earlier Japanese reported recent battles along the Han River's east shore in Hupeh Province had cost Chinese forces 4740 dead but Japanese admitted they had been unable to cross the river in their drive northwest of Hankow.

Chinese declared they had held Japanese to the north bank of the Siao and disputed Japanese claims to the capture of Wucheng on Poyang Lake north of Nanchang. Japanese said the roar of artillery, aerial bombs and machine guns echoed through the Siao valley.

CHARLES K. HUMFELD.

MUSICIAN'S SON GAINS BOYS' CONTEST FINALS

Charles K. Humfeld, 12, Is Among 30 "Typical American" Lad Candidates.

Charles K. Humfeld, 12-year-old son of Charles A. Humfeld, widely known St. Louis musician, has been selected as one of 30 finalists from 20,000 entrants in a national contest for "the typical American boy," sponsored by The Typical American Boy Association. The selections were based primarily on pictures submitted by parents of the boys.

Mrs. Humfeld and her son will leave for New York today as guests of the contest management. Six sectional winners from the 30 finalists will be picked during the week. The winner will be chosen Friday.

Mr. Humfeld is teacher of music at McKinley High School and director of the student band there which recently was barred from a parade marking the observance of "Americanism Week," sponsored by the Elks, because of a protest by the Musicians' Union. He also is bandmaster of the St. Louis Fire Department band. The Humfelds live at 5045 Westminster place.

SWISS RUSH RESERVE TROOPS TO NAZI BORDER; ROADS MINED

Tunnels, Bridges and Passes Charged With Explosives—Trucks Commandeered for Army.

BERNE, Switzerland, March 25 (AP).—Orders calling up reserves to guard Switzerland's German bordere were executed swiftly today after the Government announced all border posts were to be reinforced.

Mines at tunnels, bridges and passes were charged on all frontiers.

At Basel, trucks were requisitioned from private industries to move troops to garrisons along the Swiss-German boundary. The Cantonal Government of Basel met to discuss the situation.

EASTER SEALS TO BE MAILED IN CAMPAIGN FOR FUNDS

St. Louis and Missouri Societies for Crippled Children Make Annual Drive.

Nine million penny Easter seals will be sent by mail throughout the State, the greater portion in greater St. Louis, by the St. Louis and Missouri Societies for Crippled Children as part of an annual campaign for funds to last from April 2 to April 9.

A plea that support be given the campaign was made last night in a Community Forum speech on radio station KSD by Mrs. Frederick B. Hall, secretary of the St. Louis society. She said that the organization, the main support of many disabled children, received no State or Federal aid and was not a member of United Charities.

He divorced Jessie L. Manning in a five-minute hearing yesterday before District Judge Roger Foley. He charged extreme cruelty. They were married at Sawtelle, Cal., June 13, 1930.

KILLING WITH HAMMER ACTED BEFORE CAMERA

After Confessing, Man Shows How He Beat Woman to Death at Mineola, N. Y.

MINNEOLA, N. Y., March 25 (AP)—Vernon Elmer Oldaker, 43 years old, re-enacted before cameras today the murder of Miss Louise McKee, 57, Nassau County Republican committeewoman.

Arrested in Chicago, Oldaker confessed murdering Miss McKee March 6 with a hammer.

He went to Miss McKee's for money to feed his family whom Miss McKee had befriended several years before.

"I begged her for some money," his written confession to the police says, "and she said she didn't have it. As she turned around I hit her on the head.

"She screamed and started back toward the kitchen. I followed her and hit her a few more times. She fell and I dragged her into the front room where I hit her again several times.

"I went upstairs and washed my hands. I wrapped a rag around the hammer and stuck it in my pants. Then I went downstairs and got her pocketbook, put it in my pocket and left."

Oldaker gave his wife $5 for food and the next day got $129 through forged checks and fled to Cleveland, thence to Toledo, Detroit, Gary, Ind., and Chicago. He had $4 when police arrested him.

Dr. Richard Hoffman, a psychiatrist, tonight pronounced Oldaker sane.

TAKE A RIDE IN AMERICA'S NEWEST CAR
MERCURY 8

UP TO 20 MILES PER GALLON OF GASOLINE, MERCURY OWNERS REPORT

• We hesitate to accuse any one of falling behind the times. But . . .

Until you've driven the Mercury 8—America's newest car—you're missing a big event in your motoring life!

The Mercury has a 95-hp. V-type 8-cylinder engine. In roominess (as well as streamlined beauty) it compares with the finest cars on the road.

And it's a dream—a very pleasant dream—to drive! Deep-cushioned comfort and remarkable quiet characterize this car's "ride." The Mercury slips through traffic like a bunny through briers—and when your toe gives the signal on the open road, this car gets up and goes!

(You'd expect that V-8 engine to perform like a million dollars—and it does. But you'd hardly expect it to deliver up to 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline—and that's what many Mercury owners report!)

See the Mercury, newest member of the Ford-Lincoln family, at your nearest dealer's showroom. Drive it. Check Mercury features against your idea of modern motoring value. We think you'll agree with owners who say, "It's the car America wanted!"

HULL THE REAL AUTHOR OF BLAST AT GERMANY

Convalescing in Florida, He Dictated Most of Condemnation by Telephone.

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP).—Secretary of State Hull was the author of most of the statement condemning Germany's seizure of Czecho-Slovakia which was issued by Acting Secretary Welles, it was learned today.

Hull was in Florida, recovering from an attack of grip, when the statement was issued last week, but, a competent authority said, he dictated a large part of it by telephone.

The strong phrases, "wanton lawlessness" and "arbitrary force," used in the denunciation of Germany were Hull's.

It was learned Hull telephoned to Welles and asked whether any action had been taken. On being told no, he said he had thought the matter over and had come to the conclusion that something ought to be done—that Hitler's action should not be passed over in silence.

He dictated to a State Department officer a statement he had prepared as the basis for one to be issued here.

Welles and other department officials then amplified the statement and introduced the phrase "temporary extinguishment" to indicate this country's belief Germany would not be able to keep the Czechs down and at some future date they would regain their independence.

This was talked over with the President and the finished draft was telephoned back to Hull for his approval. Hull made several changes and the final draft was then issued by Welles as acting secretary.

Hull, it was learned, took an actice part in the other steps chosen by the administration to indicate its extreme displeasure of Hitler's actions.

An official said that while Hull was in Florida he was in telephonic communication with the department at least twice a day and was fully informed of all developments. His opinion was requested on all steps and none was taken without his advice and consent.

BLANTON TO SEE MURPHY ABOUT JEFFERSON MEMORIAL

Leaving for Washington to Confer With Attorney-General on Acquiring 40-Block Tract.

United States Attorney Harry C. Blanton will leave today for Washington to confer with Attorney-General Frank Murphy, and possibly with other officials, on the legal steps of acquiring the 40-block area of the riverfront memorial tract.

The work of fixing appraisal values on the property has been nearly completed by condemnation commissioners. Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, however, has objected to the prices fixed for some blocks, and has said that the levee elevated tracks should be removed as a condition of spending Federal money on the tract.

The presidential allotment of funds thus far for the memorial is $6,750,000, and the City of St. Louis has matched this with $2,250,000, making $9,000,000 available for acquiring and clearing the memorial tract. The total price of the land is expected to be about $6,800,000.

WEBSTER GROVES YOUTH HURT WHEN HE FALLS FROM WALL

Herbert Miles, 17, Suffers Fractured Skull, Leg When He Loses Balance, Tumbles 10 Feet.

Herbert Miles, 17 years old, of 520 North Mason avenue, Webster Groves, was seriously hurt last night in a 10-foot fall from a stone wall on the Kirkwood-Ferguson car line right-of-way, near Rock Hill road. His skull and right ankle were fractured when he fell to a dry creek bottom. He is in St. Louis County Hospital.

Herbert Miles, his younger brother, Robert Jr., and another youth, were returning from caddying at Algonquin Country Club. Walking along the right-of-way, they mounted the wall to get out of the way of a street car. Herbert lost his balance. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miles.

Confessed Killer of Wife

INSANITY PLEA LIKELY FOR WIFE-STRANGLER

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., March 25 (AP).—Attorneys for Roger Cunningham, 33 years old, whose crudely drawn map directed officers early this morning to the sewer ditch grave of his wife, Eudora, indicated today he would fight a murder charge with an insanity plea.

Herbert K. Hyde, prosecutor of the Charles Urschel kidnapers and now a private lawyer, was called into the case and said he felt sure Cunningham, a Federal Housing Authority inspector, was "mentally sick."

"He has a valid insanity defense," said K. D. Mitchell, attorney and fraternity brother of Cunningham. "I think he is in a confused state of mind right now."

County Attorney Lewis R. Morris, who obtained a confession from Cunningham just after midnight, filed a formal murder charge and Cunningham was taken before a Justice of the Peace for arraignment but refused to enter a plea before talking with his lawyers.

Recovery of Body.

The body of Mrs. Cunningham, 30, was dug up by the light of flares after her husband broke his 19-day silence with a confession that he strangled her in a fit of rage because he was tired from overwork and she nagged him.

Just a few hours before a scheduled habeas corpus hearing which officers said might have freed him, he admitted he killed his wife on the night of March 6.

With a firm hand, he sketched a map showing where the body was buried, then retired to his jail cell for the first sound sleep since his confinement last Monday.

Headed by Sheriff George Goff and Assistant County Attorney E. W. Brown, a searching party hurried to the spot and began to dig.

After an hour's work, Brown signalled to officers to keep back the crowd of 100 spectators and reported he had found the body of the missing woman.

The body, fully clothed even to a jaunty blue hat, trim brown sport shoes and tan swagger coat, was lifted into a hearse.

His Story of Killing.

Cunningham told a reporter how he strangled his wife after a year of domestic discord in which she criticised him for working too much and giving her little attention.

His temper, he said, rose to fever pitch as they sat in his automobile on the fatal night and argued.

"I lost all sense," he said. "I got out of the car and stood in the ditch and when she stepped out I lost all sense. I don't know what I did.

"It was not until I was in jail and the days wore on that I could believe what a horrible thing I had done.

"When I knew I was going to be freed Saturday, I realized I had nothing to do but go home—home to an empty house where nobody waited for me. There would be nothing but emptiness. I knew the awful thing would weigh on me and haunt me. I knew I must tell of the crime.

"Now that it's over and I have told all, I feel better, but I shall never have the mental peace I knew before."

Psychologist to Speak.

Dr. Mandel Sherman of the psychology department of the University of Chicago will talk before a joint meeting of Clayton Parent-Teacher associations at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening at the Clayton High School auditorium, 7500 Maryland avenue. His topic will be "Development of Personality."

HOUSE PUTS OVER FARM BILL DEBATE TILL TOMORROW

Dispute Over Quarter Billion Parity Payments Defers Action on $1,067,000,000 Appropriation.

REPUBLICANS TRY TO ELIMINATE THEM

Tarver (Dem.), Georgia, Warns Effort to Double Allowance May Result in Its Final Defeat.

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP).—Split into wrangling blocs over the $1,067,000,000 Department of Agriculture bill, the House engaged in tumultous debate for five hours today, then adjourned for the week-end without settling the major point of controversy—whether to vote $250,000,000 in parity payments for farmers.

Leaders sought to hold the members in session so as to pass the supply measure tonight, but finally capitulated to a rising sentiment for adjournment.

Represenative Anderson (Dem.), Missouri, who offered the motion to adjourn, said he did it to "save the bill for the farmers."

"The Republicans were in there butchering the bill," he said, "and there weren't enough Democrats on hand to stop it.

"Furthermore, Representative Marcantonio intended to ask for the reading of an engrossed copy of the bill which would have held us in session until midnight."

Further Delay Possible.

When the House quit, it was about to begin direct consideration of the parity payments section. There was a possibility that this would not be resumed until Tuesday because of the preferred status of legislation affecting the District of Columbia which comes up Monday.

Cannon, Missouri, Democrat, in charge of the bill on the floor, predicted it eventually would go through in much the same form as his subcommittee recommended, including the $250,000,000 for parity payments.

"We won't have any trouble," he said. "We've just been delayed a day or so, that's all."

Earlier Republican parliamentary strategy threatened to eliminate the parity payments entirely.

How Factions Line Up.

After long debate this was the situation:

Two groups of farm members were split over a proposal to increase the parity item to $500,000,000 because, in recommending even half that amount, the House Appropriations Committee ignored President Roosevelt's request for a 30 per cent reduction in benefit payments to farmers.

Behind the scenes an active bloc of urban members was jockeying for support from the farm group for the pending request for $150,000,000 additional for WPA, in return for support for the $250,000,000 parity fund.

Debate Often Heated.

The debate often was heated. Party lines were disregarded in many instances and some of the squabbles had little to do with actual provisions in the bill.

Democrats fought among themselves over a proposal by Kleberg (Dem.), Texas, to add $460,000 to the fund for pink bollworm control. It was defeated, 138 to 66.

After Republicans succeeded in knocking out provisions for $160,460 for Mexican fruit fly control and $13,485 for citrus canker eradication on the ground the expenditures had not been authorized, Tarver (Dem.), Georgia, declared his intention of "putting the shoe on the other foot" and raised a point of order against a $100,000 item for Dutch elm disease control. Carver subsequently withdrew the point of order but Lambertson immediately raised the same point and it was sustained, eliminating the fund.

Meanwhile, leaders of the opposing blocs, concentrating on the parity payments issue, sought to unite their forces.

Tarver's Warning.

Tarver warned that approval of the proposal to increase the fund to $500,000,000 meant ultimate defeat for the program. He charged that Republicans intended to vote for the increase only because they knew its adoption would result in a parliamentary situation which would make it impossible for the House to vote directly on the $250,000,000 item. Then, Tarver explained, both Republicans and conservative Democrats would be forced to vote down the entire $500,000,000.

"Half a loaf is better than no bread," Tarver shouted, in response to questions from Cooley (Dem.), North Carolina. "If the gentleman wants to vote for $500,000,000 and get nothing, that's his privilege."

By an 85 to 40 vote the House refused to add $150,000 to the $375,000 provided for tobacco inspection.

Garden Expert's Account Of Finding Rare Orchid

Manager of Closed Canal Zone Station Spots Long Petals of Chinela in Peon's Bouquet at Jungle Chapel.

An exciting account of the rediscovery on the slopes of a volcano in the remote regions of Panama of the long-lost chinela, an orchid of rare beauty with petals 30 inches long, is given in the current bulletin of the Missouri Botanical Garden by Paul H. Allen of Kirkwood.

Allen was manager of the Shaw's Garden tropical station at Balboa, Canal Zone. Since lack of funds has forced abandonment of the station, which will be taken over by the Canal Zone Government as a park with Allen as supervisor, this is his last report in an official capacity with the botanical garden.

The long-petaled orchid, so prized that it was virtually wiped out by collectors after its original discovery in 1778, is so rare today that Allen despaired of ever finding a specimen when he began an expedition last summer. Its rediscovery came almost purely by accident ,and might not have occurred at all had the visit of the searching party not coincided with the first mass ever said in the primitive re-

The party's host in the volcano area, the owner of a large estate who knew almost all of the difficult terrain, had not himself seen one of the plants since a previous Shaw's Garden expedition had discovered a few 10 years previously. He could offer Allen little encouragement as the new search began.

Mass in Rustic Chapel.

It so happened, however, that on the morning following the party's arrival, the host had arranged for a mass for the peons on his property to be said by a priest brought from the nearest city. At these services, which Allen attended at invitation of his host, he had the orchid which he had despaired of finding virtually handed to him on a silver platter.

The morning of the mass, Allen relates, was an occasion of great celebration. The peons "made brave in store clothes, stiff in unaccustomed shoes;" and all brought flowers to decorate the rustic bamboo chapel where the services were held.

As the mass began, an elderly woman, arriving late, came hurrying through the coffee bushes that surrounded the chapel with a bouquet of lilies and larkspurs. Half-hidden in the bouquet, Allen and his companions saw three spikes of the chinela they were seeking.

After an understandable "difficulty in preserving suitable decorum" until the services were over, they sought out the woman. They were delighted when she told them she had had eight chinela plants growing on a fallen log at her home in one of the hidden valleys of the mountainous area—and less happy when she added that her horses had eaten six of the plants the week before.

Plants Sent to Garden.

The searching party visited the old woman's home, crossing roaring mountain rivers on the way over crude suspension bridges of jungle vines, or over jams of huge logs, and "fished the remaining two plants out of the top of an orange tree where they had been put for safe-keeping against the ravages of the horses." In a nearby settlement, they found four other plants, all of which now have been sent to Shaw's Garden.

One of the most striking of orchids, the chinela, opens all of its flowers at the same time. At first the petals are only about four inches long, but they grow two inches a day until they have reached a maximum length of 30 inches. Allen describes them as "combining the beautiful with the almost unbelievably grotesque."

Another expedition described by Allen was in search of the giant aristolochia, a vine bearing flowers that reach a length of seven feet and are believed to be the largest in this hemisphere. The vine was discovered in 1937 in the province of Daria, Panama, bordering on Colombia, but the only specimens obtained were destroyed in a fire, and Allen returned to Daria to replace them last fall.

Although the ground on which the vines originally were found along the Tuyra River had been washed away by repeated floods since the 1937 expedition, Allen had little difficulty except physical discomfort in finding new ones. He found the vines fairly plentiful in out-of-the-way sections upstream, but was forced to search for them by crawling on all fours on the narrow mud ledges of the river bank and peering under heavy bushes and foliage.

The first flower found, Allen relates, was a "half-developed bud"—a rather amazing term for a blossom which he describes as 5 feet 6 inches long. It would not have been fully opened, he adds, for another two weeks. This specimen and others found later also have ben sent to Shaw's Garden.

TENNESSEE LOCAL OPTION LAW BLOW TO KENTUCKY EXPORTERS

Five Paid $5000 Each for Special Permits to Sell to Bootleggers Across Line.

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 25 (AP).—Kentucky's five licensed liquor exporters along the Tennessee border face loss of their $5,000,000-a-year business with bootleggers because Tennessee has repealed its prohibition law.

Last November the State issued special licenses to the five costing $5000 each, giving its sanction to the sale of whisky to persons who have Federal stamps and who make affidavits it is for sale in states which do not regulate sale of distilled spirits.

Since buyers are prohibited by Federal law from transporting liquor into dry states by common carrier they could not buy from regularly licensed Kentucky distilleries and wholesalers and the State was losing trade and taxes. Kentucky Revenue Commissioner James W. Martin said, in granting the special licenses, that it was a "necessary defensive" move to retain the Tennessee liquor business and taxes. The State taxes from this source are between $75,000 and $100,000 a year.

Now that Tennessee has voted a county option law the exporters, who have paid the year's license fee and other taxes, fear they will be left high and dry as whisky moves through the regular channels of trade. State officials will confer with them Wednesday to discuss the problem.

BLANCHE BARROW ENDS MISSOURI PRISON TERM

Outlaw's Widow, Sentenced in 1933, Returns to Relatives in Oklahoma.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 24 (AP).—Blanche Barrow stepped out of Missouri's prison today, and the State closed its last record of the notorious Clyde Barrow's frequent and deadly brushes with the law.

Mrs. Barrow was the widow of Buck Barrow and the sister-in-law of Clyde Barrow, both of whom finally were killed in fights with officers. It was a Barrow gang pistol fight that sent her to prison in 1933 on a 10-year sentence from which she was freed today, the reward of a model prison record. She boarded a train for Garber, Ok., alone. Warden J. Frank Ramsey said no one met her at the prison gates and she was unaccompanied when she stepped aboard the train.

"She'll be all right," Ramsey remarked. "She's got some fine people in Oklahoma and she's going down there to live with them. I don't think we'll see her again."

The small, attractive young woman—she is 28 years old now—met Buck Barrow in Dallas and stayed with him through a career of outlawry that ended with her capture as she nursed her dying husband, fatally wounded in a pistol fight. Buck, Clyde and the latter's cigar-smoking girl friend, Bonnie Parker, shot their way out of a police trap at Platte City, Mo., in 1933. Blanche was with them. They headed north, where Blanche and Buck Barrow were captured, Buck dying then from bullet wounds received in the fight at Platte City.

Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker escaped, only to die in a blaze of police machine-gun fire on a highway in Louisiana some time later.

Blanche Barrow was returned to Missouri and given 10 years for assault with intent to kill, although State troopers said there was no definite evidence she fired in the Platte City fight.

Once inside the prison, she dropped her identity as one of the Barrow women and fitted immediately into a quiet acceptance of prison routine.

"She never was any trouble," a guard said today.

PAUL DEAN HAS ONE BAD INNING AND YANKEES DEFEAT CARDS, 5-4

Crespi Handles Nine Chances at Second Base Without a Break and Contributes Two Singles to Redbirds' Attack—Three Hits for Terry Moore.

By J. Roy Stockton
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 25.—Paul Dean and Morton Cooper each had a bad inning this afternoon and the New York Yankees took the lead in the series for the championship of St. Petersburg by defeating the Cardinals, 5 to 4, in the fifth contest, in which three charter members of the Gas House Gang, the only remnants of the world champions of 1934, held a reunion.

Paul Dean, one of the heroes of the dramatic pennant dash and series victory over the Tigers, made his first appearance of the season on the hill for the Redbirds; Joe Medwick, who ended his holdout siege Tuesday, played three innings in left field and Pepper Martin, who had appeared only as pinch-batter or runner, started his first game, playing the nine innings in right field.

No Trouble Otherwise.

In the first he retired the enemy in order and showed a pleasing agility as he covered first on Selkirk's grounder to Mize. In the third he also turned back the Yankees without difficulty and in his final frame he walked DiMaggio, but had to pitch to only two more batters as Gehrig and Gordon flied out and DiMaggio was retired trying to steal.

Paul, never comparable to his brother Dizzy in rhythm, threw a few fast balls, but mixed up his delivery with slow stuff and a curve that has improved during his recent comeback efforts. The three batters who connected for safeties are likely to hit any pitcher at any time, so there was nothing about the brief outbreak to discourage Paul or the club. However, he will have to show his stuff over the nine-inning route before much can be known about his chances of being a dependable starter for the Cardinals.

In Cooper's one bad inning Rosar singled, Pitcher Steve Sundra rifled a triple over Center Fielder King's head and Keller lined a double to center, thus accounting in the one frame for half of the New York hits during Cooper's five-inning stretch on the hill.

Frank Crespi's performance at second was a bright feature of the Cardinals' errorless defense. He had several difficult chances among the nine he handled without a break, and looked like the best second sacker Blades has shown thus far. He took a throw as DiMaggio tried to steal and tagged Joe with a pleasing disregard for flying spikes. He also went behind second to throw out Rosar in the eighth, a play that would draw a hand from spectators in any major league park.

Crespi Shows Batting Eye.

Crespi also showed his batting eye, punching two singles to left and driving in one of the Redbird runs.

Terry Moore led the Cardinals with a double and two singles, while Johnny Mize was in stride with a double and single.

Moore's double and two infield outs produced a run for the Cards in the first. Mize doubled and Crespi singled in the second and Cooper singled in the fifth, was forced by Moore, who took second on Gutteridge's single and scored on one by Lynn King. Pepper Martin doubled in the eighth, and scored on Mize's single to right.

The game attracted 4256 cash customers and knothole boys made the total 5006.

The series final will be played tomorrow afternoon, with Bob Bowman and Bill McGee or Ken Raffensberger due to pitch against Ruffing, Pearson and possibly Hildebrand. Raffensberger had a tooth extracted today and may not be fit for duty.

TENNIS STAR WINS BADMINTON TITLE

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP). —Dave Freeman of Pasadena, Cal., and Mary Whittemore of Boston captured the men's and women's national Badminton singles championships tonight in the windup of the three-day tournament at the 165th Regiment Armory.

Freeman, National Junior tennis champion, overwhelmed Walter Kramer of Detroit who had dominated the sport since the national badminton tournament was begun three years ago. The scores were 15-9, 15-4.

Miss Whittemore ascended to the women's title by beating Helen Gibson of Westport, Conn., 11-1, 2-11, 11-4. Miss Gibson had eliminated Mrs. Del Barkhuff of Seattle, the two-times women's singles queen, in the semifinals last night.

GIANTS GET 18 HITS AND BEAT INDIANS, 10 TO 2

NEW ORLEANS, March 25 (AP).—The New Giants walloped the Cleveland Indians, 10-2, today behind the eight-hit pitching of Hal Schumacher, Clyde Castleman and Bill Lohrman.

The victory put them all even over a stretch of six spring campaigns. Since they began traveling together in 1934, each has won 37 exhibition games.

The Giants got off to a 3-1 lead in the second inning on Mel Ott's double, Zeke Bonura's single and Harry Danning's triple. Thereafter it never was close.

Danning, Bob Seeds and Burgess Whitehead each made three of the Giants' 18 hits while Alex Kampouris added a homer.

Blaeholder Stars but Senators Beat Milwaukee.

OCALA, Fla., March 25.—A pair of young lefthanders, Joe Kraukauskas and Rene Monteagudo, held Milwaukee to one hit today and gave the Washington Senators a 4-to-0 victory.

George Blaeholder, pitching for the American Association Milwaukee team, held the Senators helpless for five innings, but in the sixth Washington scored all its runs off Claire Bertram.

White Sox Stop Cub Rally and Win, 8-7.

LOS ANGELES, March 25 (AP). —The Chicago White Sox whipped their city rivals, the National League Cubs, 8 to 7, in an exhibition baseball game today by scoring six runs in the last two innings and nipping a Cub rally just in time. The Sox, trailing 5 to 2 going into the eighth, blasted Newel Kimball from the mound and showed no mercy for his successor, Al Epperly. The Cubs returned to battle with singles by Collins and Reynolds and doubles by English and Gleeson, but a double play and a pop-up stopped them short.

Dodgers Trim Bees, 9-8; Winning Run Walks In.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 25 (AP).—Tom Early's wildness in the tenth inning gave the Brooklyn Dodgers a 9-8 victory over the Boston Bees today. After scoring three runs in the ninth to tie the count, the Dodgers made their winning counter when Early walked Pinch Hitter Gene Moore with the bases full.

The Bees scored all their runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth frames as Hugh Casey weakened after a good start. They bunched five hits and an error for four runs in the third and smacked Bill Posedel for four blows, including a long triple Shortstop Mesner (right) of the Cubs, was pulled out of position by a bad throw and fell; Woody English (left) also tumbled in trying to back up Mesner. The White Sox won, 8 to 7.

AURORA REJECTS DATES ALLOTTED BY RACE BOARD

Burnett Plans Two Meetings At Fairmount

AURORA, Ill., March 25. APPLICATION for 60 days of racing at Fairmount Park will be made by D. C. Burnett, general manager of that race track, it was announced here today. Burnett, an official at the Aurora track here, said that he plans to conduct a spring and a fall meeting at Fairmount. He would not say what dates would be requested for Fairmount.

CHICAGO, March 25 (AP).—The Fox Valley Jockey Club, operator of the Aurora, Ill., racetrack, notified the Illinois Racing Commission today that it had rejected the May 1-24 dates recently alloted Aurora for the spring meeting which for several years has opened the long Chicago racing season.

George Foster, Commission secretary, said D. C. Burnett, resident manager of Aurora, had informed the Commission it would be impossible for the track to operate successfully through a meeting limited to 21 days. According to Foster, Burnett also expressed disappointment at the failure of the Commission to award the Memorial Day date to the track.

"Unless we can secure dates that will permit us to operate at a profit we will be unable to see our way clear to continuing," Burnett said.

Foster expressed the opinion that one or two of the other five Chicago tracks might seek some of the dates rejected by Aurora. He pointed out that all other dates for the season had been alloted. Should Aurora fail to attain an adjustment from the Commission, the season will open May 25 at Lincoln Fields, which has been awarded racing dates through June 24.

3 ST. LOUIS DISTRICT BOYS ON CAPE GIRARDEAU TEACHER'S TENNIS SQUAD

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., March 25.—A ladder system of eliminations has been developed by Coach Emmett R. "Abe" Stuber of the Cape Girardeau Teachers' College, to select the men to represent the college in tennis matches for the season. Six veterans have returned for competition.

By the system, players will be placed according to estimated ability, anyone below being allowed to challenge the one above for a chance to participate in the schedule. The top ranking players will be Dick Donnewald, Maplewood; William Parker, Cape Girardeau; David Marshall, Illmo; William Crowe, Blytheville, Ark.; Tommy Bowers, Illmo., and Burwell Fox, Cape Girardeau.

Signs With Reds.

TAMPA, Fla., March 25 (AP).—Lawrence (Larry) Webber, infielder fom St. Mary's (Cal.) College, signed a contract with the Cincinnati Reds today. He will be sent to the Reds' farm club at Waterloo, Ia., in the Three-I League.

WRAY'S COLUMN

The Third Division.

THE major leagues, like all Gaul in the days of Julius Caesar, seem divided into three parts—first, second and third divisions. You learn this after reading reports from spring training camps; also, from the pre-season professional betting odds now being laid by daring commissioners of the city.

In the American League you put the Yankees in first division, the Browns and Athletics in third division; all others are in the second stratum.

According to appearances and to the professional odds-makers, the American League might as well concede the championship to the Yankees now and permit the others to stage a pretty struggle for second place.

IN THE NATIONAL LEAGUE it's different. Five teams, included among them being our Cardinals, make up the anticipated pennant possibilities, with Boston and Brooklyn in second division. The Phillies are all alone in third division, being as far behind the National field as the Yanks are in front of the American.

That's the picture painted for you by professional bet commissioners, who, however, have been known to make errors which caused them to dig deeply into the safe deposit box or take the first steamer for the fruit countries.

Odds against anything or anybody may have a meaning, but there's been a lot of money made by coppering them.

Worse Than the Derby.

ODDS AGAINST the major league teams are almost as incredible as that 4-1 against El Chico in the Kentucky Derby book. For example, look over Jimmy Carroll's offering on the pennant races below:

AMERICAN	ODDS.	NATIONAL.	ODDS.
Yankees	1-2	Cubs	2-1
Detroit	4-1	Giants	5-2
Boston	9-2	Cincinnati	7-2
Cleveland	5-1	Pittsburgh	9-2
Chicago	15-1	Cardinals	8-1
Washington	15-1	Boston	25-1
Browns	100-1	Brooklyn	25-1
Philadelphia	200-1	Philadelphia	500-1

The odds are not based on last year's performances in either league, except at the top and bottom of the list. The winners and tail-enders of last year are expected to repeat. In between, betting men think, there will be major changes of position. In the National, for example, the Cardinals are picked to finish one place above their 1938 performance; Pittsburgh has been dropped from second place last year to fourth in the betting forecast; the Giants and Reds each are considered a notch better than last year's finish.

Boston, Cleveland, Detroit, Washington was the order of the American League "second division" last year. Carroll sees Detroit much improved and next best to the Yanks, dropping Cleveland to fourth position and Washington to sixth place.

AS FOR OUR BROWNS—well, there we are again crowding the Athletics for a cellar berth—so the forecast has it. We keep hoping these Browns will get somewhere. But it's like hoping you can balance your budget by launching a spending campaign.

LAWSON LITTLE KEEPS LEAD IN $5000 TOURNEY

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 25 (AP).—Lawson Little of Bretton Woods, N. H., sprayed shots all over the course today but the 27-year-old former amateur champion kept his score low enough to remain in front of the field at the half-way mark of the $5000 Greensboro Open golf tournament.

The curly-haired native San Franciscan did only a 73 on the second round, but that figure, added to his record-smashing 65 of yesterday gave him a total of 138 blows and a one-strike lead. John Bulla of Chicago and Ralph Guldahl of Madison, N. J., with 139's, were but a stroke behind.

The biggest advance during the day was made by Ben Hogan, the young pro from White Plains, N. Y. Hogan toured the Sedgefield course in 65 strokes today, to equal the course record set by Little yesterday. With a 79 for his first round, he moved up from far back to a tie for sixteenth place at 144.

Harry Cooper of Chicago and Clayton Heafner, the 24-year-old Greensboro pro, duplicated their opening round par 70's and were tied at 140 for third place with 140's, one stroke in front of Jimmy Hines of Great Neck, L. I.; Felix Serafin of Scranton, Pa.; Denny Shute of Coral Gables, Fla., and Henry Picard, of Hershey, Pa.

Lloyd Mangrum of Los Angeles took a big jump by adding a fine 67, three under par, to go with his starting 79. This advanced him to a four-way tie for twelfth place at 143.

Scores of 154 and under qualified for tomorrow's 36-hole finale, which will be played over the Starmount Forrest Club course.

PROFESSIONAL BASKETS TITLE SERIES BEGINS

CHICAGO, March 25 (AP).—The New York Yankees and House of David teams meet tomorrow afternoon in the opening game of the "world series" tournament of professional basketball.

Haney's Men Make 16 Bingles in Scoring Second 11-Run Total of Spring — Triples for Mazzera and Hughes, Four-Bagger for Silber.

SAN BENITO, Texas, March 25.—The Browns shelled two veteran Oklahoma City pitchers for 16 hits, including three home runs, this afternoon, and defeated the Indians of The Texas League by 11 to 3 for their ninth victory without a loss in 10 exhibition games.

Harlond Clift hit two home runs, each with a man on, and Beau Bell had four safeties, one a triple. Eddie Silber also drove the ball over the fence for a round trip. Mel Mazzera and Roy Hughes, the latter batting as a substitute, also had three-baggers and it was the best hitting day for Fred Haney's men so far.

There were two spells in the game when it appeared that the Browns were helpless before the class A-1 pitching.

Jack Brillheart, former National Leaguer, srtuck out four batters in succession in the second and third. Al Shealy, who has pitched for Boston and New York in the American League, the Indians' second pitcher, struck out the side in his first frame on the mound, the sixth.

Second 11-Run Total of Year.

But after being held scoreless and to four hits in five innings, the Browns went to work and bunched extra base hits for their second 11-run total of the spring season.

While the Browns were having their big afternoon at bat, Bill Trotter turned in a no-hit pitching performance for four innings. Lou Tost, his left-handed successor, was touched for all the Oklahoma City hits and scores. An error by Berardino figured in the first score for the minor leaguers, and a home run by Center Fielder Doc Graves, following a pass, gave them their other scores.

Hughes drove in the first St. Louis score in the fifth. Gryska singled with one down, advanced on Spindel's sacrifice and then Roy, up for Trotter, tripled.

In the seventh, Mazzera singled, Spindel singled and Silber hit over the left field wall.

The Big Fireworks.

Leading then by 4 to 1, the Browns put on a five-run spree. In the big storm, McQuinn walked and Clift belted one over the center field fence. Bell and Mazzera poled three-baggers in succession and Gryska hit a long fly which went as a sacrifice. Spindel and Tost singled and the catcher got home while Silber was being thrown out.

Mule Haas, former American League center fielding star, is the leader of the Indians. He retired midway in the game and it was his successor in center, Graves, who hit the homer off Tost.

Brownie Notes.

Vice-President Bill DeWitt announced that Pitchers Emil Bildilli and Bill Miller have been optioned to San Antonio. Also, Pitchers Johnny Sams and Loy Hanning, property of the Springfield, Ill., club of the Three-I League, and Bob Bergin, St. Louis U. High boy who is slated to pitch for Mayfield in the Kitty League, will be left in Brownsville when the Browns return to their training camp after tomorrow's game, to continue conditioning with the Missions. They will go north to their own clubs later.

Tomorrow the Browns will play Toledo of the American Association at Harlingen. Jack Kramer and Jim Walkup will pitch.

There is something different in score boards at San Benito. After a scoreless inning, a black square 's posted and only figures for runs scored show.

FORMER GERMAN SKIER WINS AT SUN VALLEY

SUN VALLEY, Idaho, March 25 (AP).—Tony Matt of Conway, N. H., won the downhill race in the national four-way combined championships today on a 2.3-mile course that left a heavy toll in hurt and disqualified amateurs.

The former German ski artist flashed down lofty Bald Mountain in 3 minutes 11.2 seconds, but the meet's biggest upset was the disqualification of Reidar Andersen of Norway, a favorite to capture the amateur prize, for missing a flag.

With Andersen out of the tournament, Dick Durrance of Dartmouth College, who led the amateurs home in the downhill, had the lead well to himself with Alf Engen of Sun Valley his nearest rival.

On a course only half as long but just as trying, Erna Steurt of Switzerland slipped over the snow in 2 minutes 24.4 seconds to win the women's downhill. The women—like the men—finished after bad spills that brought bloody noses and gashed faces.

CALIFORNIA YACHT WINS AT NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, March 25 (AP).—Stormy, owned and sailed by Cliff F. Baxter of the Newport Harbor Yacht Club of Los Angeles, Cal., outsailed a fleet of 21 star class sloops today in the first race of the Commodore Ernest Lee Jahncke trophy open series.

The race, on Lake Pontchartrain, New Orleans' "back door," was the opening event of the annual spring championship series of the international star class Yacht Racing Association.

Stormy took the lead on the second leg of the triangle on the first round, held its advantage throughout, and finished one minute and 44 seconds ahead of Sparkler II, owned and sailed by J. Breanon Cleary of New Orleans.

Masked Knight's time in the second renewal of Aiken's Imperial Cup was three minutes, 39 seconds for two miles over hurdles.

Royal Thomas, owned by Mrs. Lewis A. Park of Sewickley, Pa., was second, and Barrystar, from the Northwood Stables of John M. Schiff, of New York, third.

Sword, owned by Mrs. M. B. Metcalf Jr., of New York, outran King's Parade, owned by Paul Mellon of Pittsburgh, in the Palmetto steeplechase, two miles over brush, in 3:49. No other horse finished.

FLYERS LOSE TO TULSA, 6-2; PUSIE KNOCKS OUT REFEREE

WORLD SWIM MARK SET AS MICHIGAN KEEPS N. C. A. A. TITLE

St. Louisan Ejected From Game; Official Unconscious for Five Minutes —Series Now Squared.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

TULSA, Ok., March 25. — The Tulsa Ice Oilers won a bruising, biff-bang battle from the St. Louis Flyers, 6 to 2, here tonight to even the American Hockey Association final series at one-apiece. The third contest will be fought in St. Louis Wednesday night.

Jean Pusie, pugnacious Flyer defenseman, was ejected from the struggle for assaulting and knocking out Referee Stan Swain, and Bouncer Taylor, veteran St. Louis star lost a one-punch fist fight to Coach Fred Gordon of the Oilers in sidelights feature of a rough free-for-all game.

Pusie charged Referee Swain in the opening period and knocked the arbiter unconscious for five minutes. Swain had penalized Gene for slashing Les Whittles and the burly blue liner's blazing temper nearly started a riot. Swain recovered sufficiently to finish the contest, and Pusie was escorted off the ice for the rest of the struggle.

Spectators threw pop corn boxes and papers and vociferously jeered Pusie as he retired to the dressing room.

Nelson Protests.

Hub Nelson's bitter protest of Les Wittles' goal in the second period, claiming the Tulsa forward carried the puck forward illegally, indirectly caused the Taylor-Gordon fight. The goalie stationed himself in the Oilers' net, refusing to play. When Referee Swain threatened to forfeit the game Taylor was questioned near the Tulsa box regarding the protest.

Taylor said that "giving away two goals in one night was too much." Gordon promptly knocked Bouncer down, whereupon cooler players halted the affray.

Swain dropped the puck in center ice a few seconds later with Hub guarding the Tulsa goal and Purpur saved the Flyers another black mark by sitting on the puck and adjusting his equipment. Nelson resumed play after Purpur finished his fixing.

Tulsa took the lead in the second chapter, 3 to 1, as Sonny Wakeford and Whittles rapped in tallies.

St. Louis' weakened defensive corp suffered in the final 20 minutes as Pete Palangio, Wittles and Hank Dyck counted for Tulsa. Palangio and Whittles skated to the face of the Flyer net untouched.

Brenneman vs. Riley.

Nig Brenneman, who had swapped punches with Jack Riley earlier in the chapter, beat Bill Nutt on an assist from Taylor a minute and one-half after Palangio's poke.

Five thousand fans witnessed the final hockey game of the campaign in Tulsa, and undoubtedly the most thrilling.

Armstrong Strong Choice Over Day

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP).—On the off-chance that Henry Armstrong's little perpetual motion machine may be runninng down, some of the folks are around town giving Davey Day, a tough citizen from Chicago, an outside chance to take the hammer's welterweight championship Friday night.

But the "chance" is way outside. The gambling fraternity, who give away "angles" about as often as the mint distributes samples of its product, have installed the vest pocket Brown Bomber an odds-on favorite at 1 to 4.

EXTRA INNINGS by J. Roy Stockton

King Blozo Frisch.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 25.

The happiest man in Florida is Frank Francis Frisch, the Fordham Flash. You see he has something to worry about again. Something new. All winter long he had nothing to perturb him, no baseball club to manage, no Mudcats to hear. All he could do was feed the birds and plant plants and build bird houses and a new doghouse for Eric, the Norwegian elkhound.

You can't really do a good job of worrying over birds and dogs and flowers. But you can over a job, and Frisch has one now. He's going to broadcast play by play for the Red Sox and Bees in Boston and he's on a short Florida tour, to get the smell of baseball again.

We drove over to Bradenton to see him. We found him in front of the Manatee River Hotel. He had a score book in his hand, one of those great big ones such as the very important official scorer of a very important sandlot league uses. Under his arm was a leather envelope, with zipper. Inside were clippings about this and that in baseball. Yes, and Frisch was talking baseball—baseball and broadcasting.

Worry, Worry, Worry.

"Gosh, I hope I make good in this business," he said. "I like it fine. But I may have to go back to school and study English. And how do you think my Bronx accent will go in New England? I lost six pounds the first time I went into a broadcasting booth. They were giving me an audition. They told me to go into the next room, by myself, and broadcast three or four innings. Could I do it? I'd give it a whirl. I had an old score card in my pocket with the Cardinal lineup and so I gave 'em three innings. And that's all I gave 'em. When Mize hit a home run over the right-field wall to clear the hassocks and end the third inning, I sagged to the floor. I had lost six pounds. But I stayed the three rounds."

Frisch's eyes sparkled. Gone were the wrinkles of worry of 1938, when the Cardinals were going bad and Frank had a hunch he was going, too. But Frisch never did lose any of his enthusiasm, and he still has a lot of room in his heart for the Cardinals.

"Great possibilities on that club," he said. "Fine bunch of kids. They tell me that Orengo has the stuff. Give that club a shortstop and a little help behind the plate and on the mound and it'll win a pennant sure. Who's going to stop them."

That's always a Frisch slogan. "Who's going to stop us?" he would ask his men rhetorically. "We got it. If we hustle and play good ball, heads-up ball, we can win this pennant. And it's great to win."

Same Old Frisch.

And now Frisch wants to win in the broadcasting business. He is in the dugout an hour before the game, getting bits of information about the players, color background for future broadcasts. He asks questions. He wants to know how you and you and the other fellow keep score. And how do you pronounce some of those names? You never had to worry about how you said it in the dugout. Yes, Frank wanted a baseball job, but he thinks now he has the greatest job in the world.

Did he miss the old Gas House Gang?

"Could you help missing those birds?" he countered. "What a gang. And I see the Mudcats are out of business. What a mess they caused us one day in Rochester. We were to play an exhibition game there and on the trip up, I told the boys I was tired of those so-and-so gittars and that silly jug and Frenchy's washboard. I told them to put 'em away. Throw 'em in the Manyunk River or send 'em to Novus Scofus. I was really hot.

"Well, we got into Rochester and in the railroad station there were advertising placards about our visit. But did the cards tell about the Cardinals? No, right smack dab in the upper middle was a big picture of the Mudcats. Down in the corner, very small, were pictures of Mize and Medwick. How about that? What was this game coming to?

Office Wins Another.

"I had told the boys to leave their so-called musical instruments at the station and they did. But when we got to the ball park we found that the Mudcats had been advertised all over town, Mudcats instead of the Cardinals. Well, they called up the St. Louis office and got an order from somebody, or permission, for the Mudcats to play out there on the field. Sure, we had to let 'em play, but we were supposed to be a ball club, not a traveling circus."

Frisch didn't say it, of course, but that is one of the difficulties of managing a Cardinal club. He was not in sympathy with the

BEARS NOW HAVE TWO SQUADS OF EQUAL STRENGTH

By James M. Gould

Undoubted power, even though the execution of plays was a bit ragged, was shown yesterday as two squads of Washington University football men battled at Francis Field. Starting out, the teams were designated "Whites", a team of regulars in the main—and "Yellows," with a varsity player here and there among a flock of sophomores. Players were interchanged constantly during the two-hour workout but the comptometer showed that the team originally labeled the "Whites" won by a score of 29 to 0.

The points accrued through four touchdowns, three points placekicked after and a safety. The touchdown scorers were Bud Schwenk, Jack Warner, Slapack, a tackle and Lou Kaufmann. Schwenk did the extra-point kicking.

Two in Place of One.

The chief point brought out during the game, which closed the spring season for the Bears, was that, instead of having one first-string team with only mediocre reserves, Coach Jimmy Conzelman has at least two groups which, so far as ability goes, might almost be interchangeable.

With one of these defensive groups knowing all the plays of the team on the offense, scoring was at an irreducible minimum in the early minutes of the game and two periods passed before a score was made. Then, the "Yellows" fumbled on their own nine-yard line and, on the next play, Bud Schwenk twisted his way over the goal-line and converted on a placekick. It had taken the so-called first team about 35 minutes of actual play to push over a score.

Schwenk wasn't passing up to form, several of his heaves being intercepted and others being knocked down incomplete. But, in running, Bud was himself. He has an uncanny knack of twisting his leg just as it is about to be grasped by a tackler and continuing for some more yards.

When the "Whites-Yellows" or "Yellows-Whites" did get going in the final quarter, both teams being a bit affected by the heat, the scoring increased and 22 points were recorded in the final period.

All They Need Is Polish.

Naturally, the backs came in for a great share of attention. Schwenk, Frost, Warner, Bellevich, Theiling and Pfeiffer did yeoman work on the offense. Slapak, a freshman tackle a year ago, was a power on defense and caught a lateral from Schwenk to score a touchdown in the final period.

The Bears need to polish their attack; their defense seems entirely adequate. Nobody, these days, pays much attention to the linemen but Coach Conzelman, this Fall, will have many able forwards who will be able to perform so as to adequately give the backfield men a chance to get away.

Billikens Play Today.

The St. Louis University Billikens will engage in their penultimate spring football game this afternoon at Walsh Stadium at 2 o'clock. The Billikens will wind up their work next Sunday.

Alabaman Will Seek Billiken Boxing Title

Pairings for St. Louis University's annual intramural boxing tournament, scheduled for Friday and Saturday nights at the Billiken gym, will be made this week, Walter C. Eberhardt, director of physical education, announced yesterday.

The entry list was increased by stars from other sports and several defending champions are tuning up for the event.

Probably the best bout of the tournament will be in the light-heavyweight division where Defending Champion Frank Hagan, football and track star, will meet Dent Peister, for two years light-heavweight champion at the University of Alabama. Peister came to St. Louis U. to enroll in the School of Dentistry.

Besides Hagan, other outstanding athletes who have signed are Bill Cochran, football, basketball and baseball star, who will defend his heavyweight crown; George Hasser, pint-sized baseball and basketball player, whose middleweight title will be at stake; Beryl Carlew, football and basketball player who went well in last year's heavyweight division until he broke his hand, and Les Dudenhoeffer, captain-elect of the basketball squad, who will make his boxing debut in the novice class, middleweight department.

That Man Schwenk Again Does His Stuff

Wilson (Bud) Schwenk,N o. 33, whose performances on Washington University's freshman football team and on the first squad in the spring training drill, have stamped him as one of the best backs in the history of the school, carried the ball on this play in yesterday's practice game at Francis Field. Observers beileve that Schwenk will do the bulk of the running and passing next fall.

Brownie Players Have Done Nothing to Cause Him to Put Rules Into Effect, Haney Says

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SAN BENITO, Tex., March 25.—"Rules? Why, the boys haven't made any yet."

That was Manager Fred Haney's reply to an inquiry as to his rules of conduct for the Browns' players.

HUH? What was that? The BOYS hadn't made any rules? Howdaya get—wottinthe—"Did you say the BOYS HAVEN'T MADE ANY YET?"

HANEY.

"Yes. By their conduct, I mean. I have not laid down any regulations yet, about getting in at night, about drinking beer, about running around. I don't know enough about how these players do, yet.

"Rules don't help you any," he went on. "You know, when I took over the club, I knew the first thing the club needed was morale. Not that there had been anything to indicate the boys lacked morale. But every now and then, someone will write or a radio commentator will drop a reminder that the Browns never have won a pennant. There might be several players here who don't know that or at least never heard it until they got to San Antonio. I doubt that any of them thinks of it ever.

Must Think About Winning.

"But what they might think of is where the club finished last year, and the year before that and the year before that. If they think too much about a seventh-place finish a season back, they get to thinking and acting in the ways of a seventh-place club. So my big idea at the start was to get the boys to thinking about winning ball games this year."

Sort of building a foundation by excavating, eh?

"You might call it that," Haney went on. "Now, I couldn't be sure the team had the proper mental attitude if I started off by giving them a set of living rules. That's never fair, anyhow. If you get up on the stump and say: 'Boys, not a bottle of beer. Boys, not a cigarette at the ball park. Boys, snoring must begin not later than 10:30,' why, they all would be figuring out right off how to get a bottle of beer, or a cigarette in the clubhouse, and so on. If they didn't, I'd think there was something wrong with them.

Can Spot Bad Actors.

"Not all ball players are bad actors, you know. One or two on a club might not like to observe training rules strictly. But you can spot right away when the ball game begins who's had enough sleep last night and who's sweating out an overdose of beer. Then you can clamp down on the ones who don't know what's good for them, and if that doesn't work—well, you don't want them on the club, anyway.

"But the other day, on the way home from New Braunfels, I stopped the bus and got the boys out for a drink. I suppose some of them noticed I took soda. I didn't take the trouble to see if any or all of them took beer. We all felt pretty good, of course, after winning a good game, and I think they knew I felt good. I believe that helps to make them feel like they all are the same on the club.

"I don't know, of course but I don't think the Browns are bad actors. I'll find out, soon enough. But they have not made any rules for themselves yet."

San Diego Club Pitcher Killed In Auto Wreck

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 25 (AP).—James B. (Tiny) Chaplin, 32, star pitcher of the San Diego Padres baseball team, was killed early today in an automobile accident near National City, south of here.

Chaplin and Miss Alma Hamilton, 34, of San Diego, were returning from Tijuana when the accident happened, Deputy Coroner A. E. Gallagher said. Miss Hamilton, who was driving, said she was proceeding behind another car when it swerved suddenly to avoid a machine parked on the highway. Not seeing the parked car, her automobile sideswiped it, the impact hurling Chaplin into the windshield. His jugular vein was severed.

Miss Hamilton suffered only minor facial cuts.

He is survived by his widow and two children, Dorothy, 8, and Mary 4.

Kerr, Injured Ranger Goalie, May Play Tonight

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, March 25.

THE New York Rangers' hopes of returning home with one National Hockey League playoff victory over the Boston Bruins soared tonight when Manager Lester Patrick was advised that Dave Kerr, his injured goalie, had an even chance of returning to his cage for tomorrow night's third clash.

Kerr, who suffered shoulder and arm injuries during the 119 minutes, 35 seconds opener in New York Tuesday, seemed to be lost to the Rangers Thursday when he was replaced by Bert Gardiner, Rangers' farm team goalie.

X-rays revealed an eighth of an inch separation of muscles in Kerr's right shoulder, an injury which has been responding to treatment.

Brimsek, Three Other Bruins on All-Star Team

By Canadian Press.

TORONTO, March 25.—The pick of Boston's brick-wall defense and a Toronto-Montreal forward line heads the ninth annual all-star National Hockey League team announced today by the Canadian press. The selection was made by 34 hockey writers in the major league cities.

The verdict was nearly unanimous for the first-team forward line of Sylvanus Apps and Gordon Drillon of the Toronto Maple Leafs and Hector (Toe) Blake of the Montreal Canadiens. Eddie Shore, driving-force of the Bruins, led two of his mates to positions in the rear guard.

Here are the first and second teams:

FIRST TEAM.	Pos.	ALTERNATE TEAM.
Brimsek, Boston	G.	Rob'son, Americans
Shore, Boston	R. D.	Seibert, Chicago
Clapper, Boston	L. D.	Coulter, Rangers
Apps, Toronto	C.	N. Colville, Rangers
Drillon, Toronto	R.W.	Bauer, Boston
Blake, Montreal	L. W.	Gottselif, Chicago
Ross Boston	Coach	Dutton, Americans

The Writers' had only one serious difficulty in deciding on the first team and Aubrey (Dit) Clapper, former wingman and one-time ace of Boston's famed "Dynamite Trio" got the call in this case over Art Coulter of the New York Rangers.

Frankie Brimsek, sensational Eveleth, Minn., youngster who made his National League debut this season, became the first rookie in the history of these all-star selections to win an all-star berth. Shore, whose work still would have been high class if it had been restricted to the coaching he gave to young Johnny Crawford, made the first team for the seventh time. He missed only in 1934, when he was on the alternate lineup, and in 1937, when injury kept him inactive much of the time.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., March 25 (AP).—Louis (Michey) La Longe, of Buffalo, N. Y., former big-league catcher, signed a contract today to manage the Jamestown team in the new Class D Pennsylvania-Ontario-New York (Pony) Baseball League.

La Longe has played with the Washington Americans, Philadelphia Nationals, Buffalo International and various Pacific Coast League teams, and has managed four minor league teams.

PRINCETON MAN LOWERS BREAST STROKE RECORD

ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 25 (AP).—The University of Michigan's rule of the college swimming world continued tonight as the Wolverines scored their sixth consecutive triumph at the sixteenth annual National Collegiate Athletic Association championships.

Michigan, pre-tournament favorite, won the 400-yard free style relay, concluding event of the two-day program, to run its point total to 65, seven more than Ohio State was able to tally. The Buckeyes, outscored principally in the free style events, fought gamely to the end, forcing the Wolverines to a new pool record in the relay.

From the beginning the meet was a dogfight between Michigan and Ohio State. Princeton was third with 22 points mainly because of the brilliance of Hough and Alfred Vande Weghe, star backstroke.

Yale was next with 14 points, while the other points were well scattered. Texas, Harvard and Southern California scored 8 each; Northwestern 4; Columbia, Iowa and Iowa State 3 each; and Illinois, Florida, Kenyon and Franklin and Marshall 2 apiece.

Sharing honors with the well-balanced Wolverine team during the final night's program of five events was Richard Hough, Princeton natator, who pushed all existing records for the 200-yard breast stroke into the discard with an amazing two-minute and 22-second performance. Until tonight the N. C. A. A. and world mark was two minutes and 22.5 seconds, set in 1936 by Jack Kasley of Michigan. Hough was the defending champion in his favored event, having won a year ago in two minutes and 23.4 seconds.

"Outstanding Swimmer."

Hough was awarded a trophy as the "outstanding swimmer of the year" by the N. C. A. A. at the conclusion of the program.

In the 100-yard free style Charles Barker of Michigan and Paul Wolf of Southern California, fought to a tie in the good time of 52.9 seconds. William Quayle of Ohio State, was third and Waldemar Tomski of Michigan, fourth.

Hough was pressed all of the way in the 200-yard breast stroke by John Higgins of Ohio State. Justin Callahan of Columbia, Eastern Intercollegiate individual medley champion, was third.

Michigan practically clinched the meet in the 440-yard free style when Tom Haynie and James Welsh, Wolverines, finished one-two, respectively. The victory regained for Haynie the title he lost to Bill Kendall of Harvard in 1938.

Patnik Repeats.

Another defending champion to repeat was Al Patnik, 20-year-old Ohio State junior, who captured the three-meter (high board) fancy diving championship, with his teammate, Earl Clark, second. Patnik and Clark finished in the same order in the one-meter (low board) fancy diving yesterday.

Patnik totaled 161.32 points tonight, 32 more than Clark counted, and far outclassed the field.

Michigan's clinching relay victory was scored in easy style, the Wolverine anchor man, Tomski, finishing more than a length in front of Bill Quayle, Ohio State's fourth man.

The summaries:

100-YARD FREE STYLE—Paul Wolf, Southern California, and Charles Barker, Michigan, tied for first; third, William Quayle, Ohio State; fourth, Waldemar Tomski, Michigan; fifth, John Good, Yale. Time, :52.9s.

MEADOWS BREAKS POLE VAULT RECORD AT CHICAGO RELAYS

FENSKE BEATS CUNNINGHAM; MUNSKI FALLS

Tolmich Lowers 40-Yard High Hurdle Standard—Borican Short of 1000-Yard Record.

CHICAGO, March 25 (AP).—Charles (Chuck) Fenske, former University of Wisconsin star, defeated Glenn Cunningham, veteran Kansas miler, tonight for the second time of the indoor season, but Earle Meadows' record-breaking pole vault performance stole the show in the third annual Chicago Relays.

Fenske moved up last in the last lap to overtake the great Cunningham less than 25 feet from the tape. Fenske's winning time was 4 minutes 12.8 seconds, considerably above the best time of either performer.

Gene Venzke, former Pennsylvania veteran, was third. Walter Mehl of Wisconsin was fourth and John Munski, University of Missouri, fell in the last lap and did not finish.

Clears 14 Feet 6 Inches.

Meadows, formerly of Southern California and co-holder of the world's outdor record in the pole vault, cleared 14 feet 6¼ inches, bettering the recognized indoor record.

Meadows' performance was an eighth of an inch above the height cleared by Cornelius Warmerdam of San Francisco Olympic Club in an earlier indoor track meet this year in New York.

The indoor record is 14 feet 4⅞ inches, held by George Varoff, University of Oregon and was established in 1937 at Boston.

Allen Tolmich, hurdle star of Detroit, clipped three-tenths of a second off the 40-yard high hurdle indoor record.

Tolmich negotiated the distance in 5.1 seconds, beating the 5.4 seconds mark established in 1910 by T. N. Richard. Elmer Gedeon, University of Michigan, pushed Tolmich to the tape, losing by inches. Ed Smith, University of Wisconsin, was third.

Beetham Wins.

Charles Beetham of New York was only a tenth of a second off the indoor record in winning the 600-yard special run. He hit the tape a couple of feet ahead of Wes Wallace of Fordham University. Harold Cagle, Oklahoma Baptist University, was third, with Jimmy Herbert of New York, the record holder at one minute 11.1 seconds a poor fourth.

John Borican of Elberon, N. J., beat Howard Borck, New York, to the tape by 10 feet in the 1000-yard run, running the distance in 2 minutes 10.6 seconds, a half second behind the record. Mel Trutt of Indiana was third.

OUTDOORS

Wonders Never Cease.

Although it has been mentioned before, we never seem to fully comprehend what it is to have too much wildlife. A Colorado paper recently carried this headline across the top of a page, "Sportsmen Must Solve Problem of Rapidly Increasing Wildlife."

The latest problem in Colorado is that of the deer. In the past, it has been wolves, mountain lion and cougar. Like Pennsylvania, Wyoming, Michigan and several other states, deer seem to multiply rapidly in spite of their apparent inability to protect themselves against their natural enemies. Invariably, it has been the lack of natural food and shelter which suddenly awakens us to realize that the deer come into towns, raid haystacks and do everything but climb trees (they try hard enough) to get food.

I. T. Bode, director of the Conservation Commission in Missouri, has issued many warnings about this point. That is why Missouri is spending so much effort in planting sufficient food and cover to care for the game, fish and fowl before releasing it.

Estimates made of Colorado deer show that the count in 1915 was 10,000. During the war years, when there was a terrific demand for beef and mutton abroad, the ranges were loaded and the deer driven off. In the twenties, the predatory laws were enacted granting bounties for mountain lion and wolves. From this time on the deer family really grew, until, in 1935, it reached the peak of 55,000. In 1937 the count was placed at 105,000, while today it is estimated that there are approximately 175,000 deer in Colorado and not enough food to ordinarily properly care for more than 100,000.

About Dogs.

There is no greater absurdity than that four-legged pooch which took the blue ribbon over your sterling, blue-blooded, most intelligent dog, whether in the field or at the bench. At least, that is often heard as the handlers walk out of the ring or call their charge to heel after a 30-minute trial.

Of interest to those of the field trial who are bearing grudges against some judge or another, an interesting article, "When Good Friends Go Afield" by Arthur M. Lewis, which appears in the current issue of the American Kennel Gazette. Mr. Lewis is a nationally known judge, whose chief aim in life is to get all judges to use the same system of recording a dog's work in the field.

To quote from the article, "I advocate the use of a book of special design of the following points: 1. Style division—nose; game finding; thoroughness; courage; drive; range; quartering; backcasting. 2. Control division—taking direction; throwing off line; steadiness. 3. Retrieving division—marking fall; owning fall; passing over fall; into wind; running bird, dead or alive; size of game; pick up; pace and line of return; carry and delivery; mouth; dropping game."

In addition, Mr. Lewis points out that he always takes field notes which enable him to take into consideration exceptional performances or conditions.

Ducks Shot in Illinois.

Duck hunters in Illinois last season brought down 110,000 fowl, according to the returns made to the State. Illinois has a law whereby shooters who lease or own hunting property must keep an accurate count of their bags.

Although the State may expect some error in compiling the returns, the final figure of 110,000 is close enough to give some idea of the number of birds killed in Illinois, even in what was termed as "the worst year."

T. C. Main, general manager of Ducks Unlimited in Canada, was recently in St. Louis and estimated that it would not cost over a few hundred dollars to save a hundred thousand ducks by repairing and building dams to create ponds and lakes sufficient in size to care for that number, in the breeding grounds of Canada.

Fox Hunting at the Capitol.

Missouri fox hunters had their annual roundup yesterday in Jefferson City. Several hundred dogs were on hand to take part in the drag-race which led through the main streets of the Capitol City. A bench show was later held at the Capitol following which addresses were made by I. T. Bode and Attorney-General Roy McKittrick.

GALVESTON GIRLS WIN NATIONAL A. A. U. BASKET TOURNAMENT FINAL

WICHITA, Kan., March 25 (AP).—Galveston's Anicos turned on a vicious drive they had kept in reserve all week and crushed the Little Rock Flyers tonight, 21 to 8, for the championship of the women's National A. A. U. basketball tournament.

So tight was the defending champions' defense the Flyers, holders of the title in 1937, got their first field goal late in the fourth period.

The Flyers, second seeded team, got only two open shots at the basket in the first half, which ended with the repeating champions leading, 17 to 4.

The Davenport (Ia.) A. I. C. team defeated the Tupelo (Miss.) girls, 20-18, in the consolation final. The Wichita Thurstons beat the Des Moines (Ia.) A. I. B. girls, 28-16, for third place.

47 CLUBS HAVE ENTERED MUNY BASEBALL PLAY

League representatives of the Municipal Baseball Association yesterday reported that 47 teams in 23 leagues, nearly 50 percent of last year's entry, had paid their entry fees.

Five of last year's leagues already are filled and several others are reported to be within one or two teams of capacity. With three weeks still remaining for entries to be filled, officials expect the entry to surpass last year's total of 112 teams.

Besides these, three new leagues are reported as organizing, the Southwest League, the Warehouse League and the District DeMolay League.

The Muny schedule will start Saturday, May 6, and Sunday, May 7. It will be the twenty-seventh annual campaign.

The leagues being organized, the diamonds on which they will play and the league representatives of each are as follows:

SENIOR DIVISION.

Mercantile League at Fairground 3 and 4. Rep. Phil J. Kavanaugh, 915 Pine street, Chestnut 5790.

South Side League at Carondelet 1 and 2; North Side League at Fairground 1 and 2; Triangle League at Minnie Wood Park; and City League at O'Fallon 1, 2 and 4. Rep. Gus Wamhoff, 1102 Locust. CHestnut 2998.

by Debs Garms, to equal Brooklyn's three-run rally in the sixth. An error by Garms with two on base and Tuck Stainback's double tied the score in the ninth.

Three Hits Off Rowe in Five Innings; Tigers Win.

LAKELAND, Fla., March 25 (AP).—Schoolboy Rowe, striving for a major league comeback, worked five innings in today's exhibition game and was credited with the Detroit Tigers' 7-4 thumping of the Cincinnati Reds. Rowe permitted four runs, one unearned, and three hits.

The Schoolboy also had power at the plate, getting a double and a triple in two appearances. Lee Grissom, the first of three Redleg hurlers, was charged with the loss. Detroit won the game in the third when it scored twice to break a 3-3 tie.

Phillies Finally Win; Defeat Tulsa, 6 to 3.

McALLEN, Tex., March 25 (AP).—The Phillies won their first exhibition game in 10 tries today with a 6-to-3 victory over Tulsa of the Texas League. It was Merrill May's homer over the center-field fence with Morrie Arnovich on in the sixth that put the Phillies ahead. Walter Beck stopped the Tulsans with one hit in the last three frames.

Athletics New Player Helps Beat Jersey City.

LAKE CHARLES, La., March 25 (AP).—Dee Miles, who signed last night with the Athletics, paid dividends in today's exhibition game with the International League's Jersey City team by larruping a homer in the sixth with the bases filled to help the Athletics along to a 12-to-6 victory. Dick Siebert added a homer to the Athletics' 14 hits. Jersey City's Jones hit a homer in the third, scoring Ramsey to help the Internationals to their big inning with three runs.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25 (AP).—Maurice Van Robays, biggest of the Pirate camp sensations, continued his hitting splurge today by walloping a homer more than 400 feet over left center, with one man aboard, but that didn't save Pittsburgh from a 4-3 exhibition defeat at the hands of the San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast League.

The Seals nicked Joe Bowman for nine safeties and their four counters in the six innings he pitched then were retired in order the rest of the way by Rookie Righthander Nick Radunich.

Three Pirate regulars were out of the lineup. Left Fielder Johnny Rizzo is nursing a sore side. Second Baseman Pep Young and Third Sacker Lee Handley were benched for poor hitting.

Sets Tenpin Record.

Bud Rice, bowling with the leading Scullins, set a new single game record of 277 in the Maplewood handicap bowling league at the Saratoga Recreation Friday. Rice finished with a 625 series and helped the Scullins total 2841 and win two games from the Wide Awakes. Walter Grueber paced the winners with 644 can League club could do and really balance the old thing. Economical methods haven't done much good. Unless somewhere tucked away in that minor league grab-bag of new talent there is a 20-game pitcher, there isn't much reason to expect better things of our boys, this year.

Pitching is what this club needs to start something. If the material now in hand starts hitting on all cylinders, good pitching might carry this club upwards. But, what with one proved pitcher, a holdout shortstop, Beau Bell's hitting an unknown quantity, and Texas League replacements relied on to add needed vitamins to the club's pep, that 100-to-1 price seems about 200 points off.

It would be a terrific upset if some club beat the Yankees out of the league pennant this year; it would be a miracle if that club turned out to be the Browns.

Well, He Asks For It!

THE AGITATION to have the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals intervene in the world championship fight at Los Angeles April 17 is just a dud. The suggestion that damage to Jack Roper's limbs or health may result from his encounter with Brown Bomber Louis, seems to provoke that canned comeback: "Well, he asked for it!"

There are, however, those who think the 36-year-old near-novice Roper ought to have his head examined; and yet others may retort that the Roper dome would be a more interesting exhibit after than before the fight. So many things could happen to it.

It's really remarkable what a good journeyman leather thrower can do to the human physiognomy. If you were at ringside in Toledo, July, 1919, you saw an example of remaking the map which not even Adolf Hitler can surpass. What Jack Dempsey did to Willard's face only the plastic surgeons of the day might equal.

His seconds covered Jess' head with a towel as he left the ring because what had been the sou', sou'west corner of the Willard map had been face-lifted around to nor', nor'west—and so on. One look at Jess was enough to make you wish you had interested the S. P. C. A. in the matter.

And so this Roper, unless he has been hiding his talents for the last 10 years, seems likely to present even a worse front after the Bomber gets through with him than did Big Jess after the Mauler mauled him.

Let's hope for the sake of Roper's Hollywood career, that Joe plays on the commissary instead of the head. That would—literally—save Jack's face.

Billikens Begin Outdoor Baseball Work Tomorrow

With their opening game against Eden Seminary slightly more than a week away, Billiken baseball players will hold their first outdoor practice session tomorrow on Diamond No. 4 in Forest Park.

Coach Carl Pike, who has been working out his batterymen in the gymnasium for the past few weeks, will have returning lettermen for every position and indicated that the vagaries of spring weather were his chief worry.

"A rotten break from the weather man can get us off to a very bad start this year," he said. "Including our opener, we meet Illinois Normal, Bradley Tech and the University of Iowa all within the space of a week and that means we'll have to make every minute of practice count if we're going to have a successful season."

Returning lettermen include Bill Clark, catcher; Roy Scott and Mike Hart, pitchers; George Perkinson, first; George Hasser, second; Eldon Blumentritt, third; Capt. Mel McGonnigle, short, and Bob Hyland, Bill Cochran and Bill Ratican, outfield.

However, there probably will be sevral shifts in the lineup, as Coach Pike, in an effort to bolster his batteries, is trying Cochran behind the plate and may call upon McGonnigle for mound duties.

The addition of Clayton Mudd and Ed Christman as pitchers is expected to help the mound staff, and material from the under-classmen should provide material for the other positions.

Krieger, Conn and Apostoli Refuse To Box Moore Here

IN A MESSAGE to the Post-Dispatch last night, Larry Atkins, boxing matchmaker for Promoter Tom Packs, stated that he had made apparently attractive offers to Billy Conn, Pittsburgh middleweight, Solly Krieger, recognized on the Pacific Coast as the 160-pound champion and Fred Apostoli, recognized in New York as the middleweight king, to meet Archie Moore in an overweight match in St. Louis. But they all turned him down.

Atkins also stated that he had spent some time with Promoter Mike Jacobs in an effort to arrange a match in St. Louis between Mellio Bettina, accepted in New York as the light-heavyweight champion and John Henry Lewis, for the 175-pound title in St. Louis within the next 60 days. The plan is still pending.

LANGENBERG IS UNIVERSITY CLUB SQUASH WINNER

Oliver M. Langerberg became the new squash racquets champion of the University Club when he defeated last year's title-holder, Edward E. Haverstick, 15-12, 15-13, 18-14, yesterday during the annual "Red and Blue" festivities.

The outstanding match yesterday was an exhibition between Jack Gordon, nine times holder of the University Club title and also winner of the Western squash championship three years ago, and Sherman Howes of Boston, who as a member of the Union Boat Club, was No. 3 in the 1938 national squash racquets rankings. Gordon defeated Howes, 15-7, 14-15, 11-15, 14-15, 15-7. It was one of the best matches played at the club in years.

Rodney Searight won the Class B title by beating David Francis, 11-15, 15-12, 8-15, 15-11, 15-14, while Dick Tate won from John Cella, 10-15, 15-7, 10-15, 15-11, 15-12, for the Class C laurels.

The club squash playing membership was divided into two groups, Reds and Blues, and the side losing the most matches paid for the major portion of last night's banquet. The "Reds" had won eight of the 12 matches that were completed.

The results:

W. K. Haverstick, Red, defeated A. Goodloe, Blue, 15-13, 17-16, 18-17.

ZELTMANS VS. TAITS IN MUNY SOCCER

WINNER MEETS SCHUMACHERS FOR THE TITLE

Each of Today's Contenders Won and Lost a Game in Playoffs—Juniors in Preliminary.

By Dent McSkimming

Faced with the necessity of winning today or dropping out of the Municipal Soccer championship series, the Zeltmans, champions of Sherman Park, oppose the R. H. Tait club, champions of Fairgrounds Group Two, in a fourth round match, at Grounds Two at Fairground Park. In a previous meeting, the Taits scored a 4-3 victory in an exciting overtime battle. Since that time, the Taits have lost to the Schumachers and the Zeltmans have squared their account by eliminating the Plaza A. C.

Having won both their playoff games—one from the Taits and the other from the Plazas—the Schumachers are forced to remain idle today, waiting upon the outcome of the fourth round match. The final of the series (Schumachers vs. today's winner) will be played next Sunday. In order to round out today's program Recreation Department officials have scheduled the Sherman Boys' Club against the St. Engelberts, to start at 1 p. m. They will be playing the second game of their round robin series for the Junior Division championship of the Community Center League.

Manager Hohman of the Zeltmans is hopeful of having his regular goaltender, Leonard Hartman, back in uniform after a week's absence, and it is believed that Eddie Stratmann will return to his forward position. Stratmann's absence last Sunday hurt the Zeltmans in their match with Plaza A. C. The Taits have several cripples in their squad but all the regulars are expected to start.

BRADY TO MANAGE SOCCER ALL-STARS WHO OPPOSE SCOTS

A. J. (Tate) Brady, who led the Scullin Steel team to a national soccer championship about 17 years ago, will manage the St. Louis team which will oppose Scotland international team here May 28, it was announced last night by Phil A. Riley, promoter of the game. Brady, himself an outstanding soccer fullback prior to 1930, has been inactive since he dropped his connection with the Stix, Baer & Fuller club, about six years ago. He helped Jim Burke and Jack Dwyer build that team up to a point where it won the national championship in 1933.

Brady will be assisted in the management of the St. Louis stars by Alec McNab who will captain the team.

EXTRA INNINGS by J. Roy Stockton

Mudcats. But Sam Breadon had helped buy the gittars and what manager would issue a cease-and-desist order that was in conflict with the apparent wishes of the club president? Especially a manager who has to get along on a one-year contract, as Cardinal managers do.

You'll never hear a word of complaint or criticism from Frisch, however.

St. Louis Blues.

"They were great to me in St. Louis," he told me. "Breadon was fine and Rickey was fine. You have to win in this game. I didn't win last year and that's baseball. But the happiest days of my baseball life were those I lived in St. Louis. How could I feel anything but friendly toward everybody connected with the club?"

When Frisch signed the contract to broadcast, he had a clause inserted making it possible for him to withdraw if a major league managerial job became available.

"But I don't know whether I want one," he grinned. "What a life this is, up in the press box or broadcasting booth. Say, you birds don't know what worry is. Yes, this is great. And say, do me a favor, will you. Tell everybody in St. Louis hello for me. What a town that is!"

They Are the Backbone of the Tait Club

These three halfbacks, Eddie Girard, Joe McWilliams and Jim Jerden, have done more than any other group on the team to keep the R. H. Tait club in the Municipal soccer playoffs. They face a difficult task today in trying to stop the Zeltmans, at Fairground Park.

SCOUTS TO HEAR TALK ON CAMPING SAFETY

Second Session of Special Training Course Tomorrow Night—Outings.

Camp health, safety and sanitation will be discussed by Dr. T. J. Brookes, physician and member of the St. Louis Boy Scout Council Camping Committee, at the second of a series of four sessions on camping tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock at Mullanphy School, 4221 Shaw boulevard.

More than 650 scout leaders attended the opening meeting last Monday evening of the Council's special training course in camping. Conrad E. Meinecke, scout executive of Buffalo, N. Y., was the principal speaker.

Following Dr. Brookses' talk, which will open tomorrow's meeting, the leaders will be assigned to two groups for the study of activities of quartermasters and camp directors. Those at the quartermasters' section will learn the fundamentals of organizing a troop kitchen, troop camp cooking and kitchen sanitation.

The camp directors' group will study various phases of organizing for camp, including budget plans, camp personnel, activity programs and commissary problems.

Other meetings of the training course will be held April 3 and 10. Wes H. Klusman, assistant director of the national camping program of the Boy Scouts of America, will be a speaker at one of these sessions. Among other speakers will be Alfred H. Wyman, executive secretary of the Park and Playground Association, and Scoutmaster August Willm of Troop 306.

Scouts James Hughes and Robert Ward were advanced to Eagle rank last Thursday at a court of honor held by Troop 280 of Our Lady of Lourdes Church. Scout Robert Capps received Star rank and Bill Barnett was advanced to Life Scout.

Two Cub and Dad outings will be held this year, on the week-ends of June 3 and 4, and June 10 and 11, at the Irondale reservation. The feature event of the season for St. Louis Cubs will be the annual Cuboree June 17 at Forest Park.

Sea Scout swimming classes will be held this year under the direction of Ernie Vornbrock at the Downtown Y. M. C. A., 1528 Locust street. The class for merit badges in swimming will begin April 4. The Junior Life Saving class will open Saturday morning at 9 o'clock and the Senior Life Saving class will be held every Monday and Thursday evening at 8 o'clock beginning April 10.

GIRL SCOUTS.

Cedarledge camp for St. Louis Girl Scouts will open June 28 for four two-week sessions under direction of Miss Georgia Flowers. About 100 girls are expected by scout officials to attend each session, which will feature hiking, handicraft, cooking and play activities. Cedarledge camp is near Pevely, Mo.

The North County District Committee of the St. Louis Girl Scout Council will meet tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock at the home of the vice-chairman, Mrs. R. H. McRoberts, 42 Crestwood drive, Webster Groves.

Auto News and Notes

APPROXIMATELY 1200 JOBbers and dealers of the Shell Petroleum Corporation attended the annual sales and advertising meeting and banquet Wednesday, in the Gold Room of the Jefferson Hotel. C. W. Manville, central division manager, gave a resume of the advertising and merchandising program for the entire year of 1939.

C. W. Manville.

P. C. Thomas, central division sales manager, introduced the "Share the Road" campaign that Shell is sponsoring. The campaign is a crusade against "Screwdrivers" (screwey drivers), whose antics cost American motorists thousands of dollars in wasted gasoline as a result of their needless "stop and go" driving. "Share the Road" emblems will be distributed to motorists throughout the country, to indicate to others that they are sharing the road. Newspaper advertising and other media will bring this campaign to motorists' attention on the highways and byways.

P. C. Thomas.

C. P. Ayers, central division merchandising manager, discussed merchandising features, among them Shell's "minute movies" billed in many theaters.

The "Share the Road" was praised by several speakers as an incentive to safe driving. Among these speakers were City Counsellor Edgar H. Wayman; Frank McDevitt, Director of Streets and Sewers, and Sergt. Roland Schumacher, of the Traffic Division, Police Department.

MODELS OF THE NEW STUdebaker Champion, which is the latest entry in the lowest price field, now are being shown in St. Louis by Arthur R. Lindburg, Inc., the distributer, and dealers. The new car has a six-cylinder 78 h. p. engine and body lines by Raymond Loewy, who designed the Broadway Limited, many of the New York fair buildings and steamships, airplanes and furniture. Shipping weight of the car is only 2390 pounds, but new methods of construction are said to make it exceptionally strong and rigid. Unusual gasoline economy is claimed.

Brakes are hydraulic. Steering post gear shift is standard, as are Studebaker independent planar front wheel suspension, shock absorbers front and rear, hypoid rear axle and battery under the hood. Overdrive is available at extra cost, as is the hill holder. Bodies are all steel. Front seat hip width is 52 inches and rear seat shoulder width 52¾ inches. There is plenty of leg room. Trunk capacities are large—16.4 cubic feet in sedans and 30.5 cubic feet in coupes. The Champion is built ready to take the Studebaker climatizer.

THE MERRY MOTOR CO., 5800 Delmar boulevard, Packard dealer, has also been appointed a Studebaker dealer for Metropolitan St. Louis. The firm is headed by H. C. Merry.

ONE OF 24 KEY CITY MEETings to survey business conditions and dealer sentiment which the Pontiac Division of General Motors is conducting was held Thursday at the Coronado Hotel with C. P. Simpson, general sales manager; Verne L. Murray, assistant general sales manager; Allen Wright, regional manager, and L. W. Thoms, zone manager, representing the company.

DODGE DEALERS OF ST. Louis and vicinity held a meeting Thursday at the Chase Hotel, at which the principal speaker was J. W. Hutchins, assistant general sales manager of the Dodge division of the Chrysler Corporation. Hutchins drew verbal pictures of the principles underlying the automobile trade and of its evolution through the years.

THE LARGEST DRIVEAWAY of new automobiles ever to be brought back into the Ford Motor Co.'s St. Louis branch territory by a group of new owners and dealers left the plant of the Lincoln Motor Co. last Friday noon when 154 Lincoln-Zephyr owners and dealers were given their new automobiles in Detroit. The 154 new owners and dealers left St. Louis Thursday evening over the Wabash Railway in an all-de luxe all-room train as the guests of the Vogue Motor Co., St. Louis branch Lincoln-Zephyr distributers, and M. N. Johnson, St. Louis manager for the Ford Motor Co.

CHAMBER URGES PAY-AS-YOU-GO SOCIAL SECURITY

U. S. Organization Calls for Revising Tax Schedule Accordingly, but Suggests No Rate.

COMMITTEE'S PLAN LIKE MORGENTHAU'S

Some Change Indicated as Congressmen Rally Behind Proposal to Defer 50 Pct. Rise in Levy.

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP).—A committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce recommended today that the social security program be put on a pay-as-you-go basis and the tax schedule revised accordingly.

The report presumably was drafted before Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau advanced yesterday the administration's proposals for changes in the system. In some respects, however, its recommendations following Morgenthau's closely.

Morgenthau suggested that the present plan for a full reserve might well be abandoned in favor of a contingent reserve of $2,500,000,000 to $3,000,000,000.

The Chamber of Commerce report, while recommending a pay-as-you-go basis, suggested maintaining "a contingent reserve sufficient only to permit continuation of maturing benefit payments during periods of temporary depression and continuation of stable tax rates."

Change in Program Likely.

Some change in the present program seemed assured by a general rallying of Democrats and Republicans in Congress behind Morgenthau's proposal that the 50 per cent increase in the tax rate scheduled for next year be deferred in whole or in part.

Chairman Doughton (Dem.), North Carolina, of the House Ways and Means Committee said today the proposals merited "serious consideration." His committee gives first congressional study to proposed tax changes.

In a statement, Doughton also chided Republican members of the committee for issuing a statement yesterday saying Morgenthau's recommendations were what the Republicans had been demanding for three years. Doughton said the action of the minority members was "in keeping with the Republican tradition of playing political football with proposals and legislation to meet fundamental social needs."

No Specific Tax Plan Offered.

The Chamber of Commerce advanced no specific suggestion for a tax rate next year, but said the question should be studied in the light of putting the program on a pay-as-you-go basis. The present tax schedule contemplates, however, building up a full reserve—about $1,131,000,000 already has been accumulated—and the Chamber commented that this was "a highly deflationary process in a period of business depression."

The Chamber also recommended:

That old-age benefit payments begin in 1940, instead of 1942 as provided in the present act.

That provision be made for giving the widow of an insured worker, after she reaches 65, an annuity "reasonably related to the annuity her husband would have received" and for earlier payments to widows with small children.

That care be taken to see that the ultimate cost of the program is kept within 10 per cent of payrolls. (It said the present plan contemplated this with the expectation that 6 per cent would be provided by employers and employes and 4 per cent by the Government from general taxation.)

Against Extension at Present.

That no extension of the system to other classes of employes be made at present, except possibly inclusion of employes of banks in the Federal Reserve System.

That consideration be given to restricting to burial benefits payments to the estates of workers who die before reaching age 65. (Present law calls for lump sum payments equal to the amount the workers paid in plus interest.)

That employes contribute to funds from which unemployment compensation is paid.

Meanwhile, Representative Bell (Dem.), Missouri, said expressions by the President and Morgenthau favoring limitations of social security reserves meant "continuation of employment of between 5000 and 7000 people in the Kansas City area alone." These jobs were threatened by scheduled tax increases next year, he asserted.

"The crux of the danger of delayed tax revision is that businesses and industries employing the greatest number of people will be crippled the most," he said.

The Helpers of the Holy Souls will sponsor a passion play, "The Upper Room," at the Cathedral School Auditorium this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The program will be given by a cast of Negroes from St. Benedict's League Center. The Sumner High School Chorus will sing.

Oregon Law Virtually Abolishes Right to Strike; Faces Tests by Labor, Courts and Public Opinion

Effort Likely to Be Made to Modify Initiative Measure Put Through in Protest at Union Racketeering.

PORTLAND, Ore., March 25.

OREGON'S new labor law, which virtually abolishes the right to strike and is regarded by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor as a threat to the very existence of unions, is beginning to attract national attention.

By the first of this month, bills restricting union activities—all of them modeled more or less on the Oregon law—had been introduced in 16 states. The late Gov. Fitzgerald of Michigan sponsored one. So did Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota. Utah is considering a drastic measure. Even Wisconsin, which under the long sway of the La Follettes was more generous toward labor than even liberal Oregon, has not one, but two such proposed laws before its Legislature in Madison.

The outstanding thing about the Oregon law is that it was adopted not by a Legislature, but by popular initiative last November by a vote of 197,771 to 148,460. The culmination of four years of union racketeering and labor strife—years of pitched battles, idle mills, price-rigging deals and millions and millions lost—the measure is merely entitled "A Bill Regulating Picketing and Boycotting by Labor Groups and Organizations."

However, it outlaws all industrial disputes except those between an employer and the majority of his workers. This hamstrings the relatively small craft unions of the A. F. of L. For example, the delivery wagon drivers of a department store may not strike unless they can persuade a majority of the clerks and other employes of the establishment to join them.

Bars Jurisdictional Strikes.

Further, the law forbids all jurisdictional strikes. While this section was directed against the CIO-A. F. L. feud, which was particularly bitter in Oregon, it makes it possible for an employer to outlaw almost any strike. He needs only a handful of loyal employes to form a union of their own and a legitimate dispute becomes an outlawed jurisdictional quarrel. Say, for example, that a lumber mill employs 1000 persons. A dispute arises over wages or hours, and 950 of the 1000 employes join in a strike. If only a few of the remaining 50 can be "organized" as a rival union, the strike can be scotched.

Sympathy strikes, secondary picketing and strikes for union recognition are forbidden. Only wages, hours and working conditions are regarded, under the law, as legitimate causes of disagreement.

Back-to-work movements, feared by unions as an effective strike-breaking device, are insured by the law's provision safeguarding a man's right to work for an employer of his own choosing. Direct and indirect interference with this right is forbidden.

Apparently closed shop agreements also are excluded effectively by this provision. Such a contract could be interpreted as interference with the right to work, it is held, whenever one man in a closed shop refused to join the union.

Another curb on unions ordains that they may collect dues only for "legitimate requirements," and that any member may demand an accounting at any time.

Probably the most sweeping section of the law, however, is the one that provides that labor organizations may not in any way interfere with manufacturing, harvesting or commerce.

Opposition to Law.

The courts are granted the power to enforce these provisions by injunction and all State laws to the contrary are declared void.

Labor, as represented both by the A. F. of L. and the CIO, was up in arms as soon as the law was proposed, and vigorously fought it. More conservative elements were also opposed to it. The Portland Oregonian, the traditional organ of the Republican party in the Northwest, said that the measure "contains vengeful provisions restrictive of the rights of workers as American citizens." [illegible] opinion was echoed by the press generally.

Charles A. Sprague, the country editor who became the Republican Governor of Oregon as a result of the same election that put the law on the statute books, did not like the measure and said so. He feared that it would shackle unions in their "legitimate endeavors."

Now that the heat of battle has cooled and there has been more time for reflection, it is thought in several quarters that the law probably goes too far. Its extremism, they contend, may defeat its very purpose of curbing the abuses of labor organizations.

Doubt of Validity.

Also there is doubt that it will pass judicial review. The unions are eager for a test case. The A. F. of L. has assigned Joseph Padway, its chief counsel, to the fight, and the CIO legal staff, headed by Lee Pressman, is also ready to take a hand. The A. F. of L. has announced also that it will open western headquarters in San Francisco next week largely as a base for its campaign to offset anti-union activities in Oregon.

The labor lawyers argue that the Oregon law is unconstitutional as well as in contradiction to the Norris-LaGuardia and the Wagner Acts. Also they have advanced the theory that it is incompatible with the Federal unemployment insurance set-up since it departs from the Federal concept of unemployment caused by labor difficulties.

Proponents of the new law assert the unions must shoulder the blame for it. Those in the William Green camp allowed themselves to be dominated by the teamsters' thugs who for four years were a law unto themselves; the John L. Lewis faction placed itself under the leadership of Harry Bridges and Harold Pritchett, both aliens and one of them a suspected Communist, who enraged many Oregonians by coming into the state and preaching "class war."

"Goon" Squads.

The teamsters, headed by Dave Beck, Al Roser and Harry Dail, began in 1934 what the Oregon Attorney-General's office described as "a premeditated, cold-blooded plan of action on the part of self-appointed, racketeering union officials to establish themselves as dictators over the labor, economic, political and industrial destinies of Oregon."

That was the year of the coastwise strikes—Dave Beck's big year. Rosser, his chief lieutenant, had a 10-foot baseball bat in his office labeled "The Club of Local 162." He and his "goons" actually used such weapons—and sometimes even more lethal ones. They were able to tie up any industry they saw fit through their hold on teaming, an essential service in a state of great distances like Oregon. As told in the Post-Dispatch two years ago, the teamsters were able to apply pressure wherever they wanted simply by refusing to deliver raw materials to a plant or to haul away finished products. It was easy for them to tie up docks, lumber yards, mills or stores just about at will.

Rosser maintained a gymnasium in a downtown Portland building. There he kept a troupe of strong-arm men in good physical shape for use wherever and whenever needed. A generous supply of tear gas was also kept on hand.

The plug-uglies and the gas did extra duty after Green declared open war on the CIO at the Denver convention of the A. F. of L. and designated the Pacific Northwest as the battleground.

THE MAN WHO INVESTS $2,000,000 A DAY

First Personal Interview Given by Metropolitan Life's Chairman

HOW GREAT FINANCIER PLAYS 'HUNCHES'

Career of Frederick Hudson Ecker, Who Rose From $4-a-Week Office Boy to $250,000-a-Year Boss of World's Biggest Finance Corporation.

By RICHARD L. STOKES

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 25.

IT was a small, dusky man of 71 years, simple, modest and kindly, with a figure at once slight and curiously sturdy, who on a recent afternoon, with alternate diffidence and impetuosity, underwent the first personal interview he had ever granted, though he has frequently chatted with reporters on business themes. Winter sunshine, blazing across Madison Square Park, illumined his snowy hair and aquiline features, and glinted from lively brown eyes that darted through silver-rimmed spectacles. The spacious chamber, on the second floor of the Metropolitan Tower, was quietly opulent, with mahogany panels typical of a bygone era and quaintly out of place in the modernist fashions of today.

For the mind's eye, the most impressive article was a desk of kingly dimensions. It was scrupulously bare of papers, but on its shining surface are deposited daily for solution the knottiest problems of many departments—legal, actuarial, sales, underwriting, advertising, welfare and the like. As a major phase of these activities is ranked the investment of an Amazonian torrent of wealth which storms through the building at a rate of $250,000 an hour, $4166 a minute and $70 for every tick of the clock during an eight-hour day. It was the desk of Frederick Hudson Ecker, board chairman and chief executive officer of the most colossal financial corporation history has yet evolved, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

Investment Unit $10,000,000, Total $700,000,000 a Year.

Its unit of investment, Ecker a few weeks ago testified before the Temporary National Economic Committee in Washington, is the staggering sum of $10,000,000. Every day of each twelvemonth, on an average, its financial officers and committees determine the investment of $2,000,000. Most fantastic of all, this legendary stream, totaling $700,000,000 a year, is fed by premiums averaging 46 cents a week which are paid by approximately one-fifth of the population of the United States and Canada. The proportion rises to 50 per cent in St. Louis, the company's prize area, where every second man, woman and child is a Metropolitan policyholder.

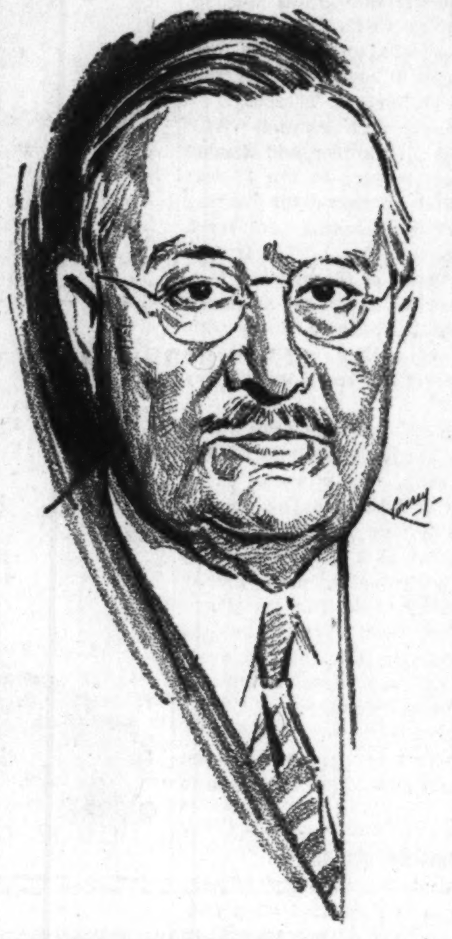
The corporation has 100,000 separate investments, which means that its experts have studied the details not only of that number of enterprises but of several hundred thousands of others which have been rejected. Ecker affirms there is no such thing as a riskless investment, and that safety can best be approximated through widespread diversification of interests.

"There must be infinite care in selecting a risk," he declared, "and eternal vigilance in safeguarding it." But after all possible precautions as to facts and accounting have been exhausted, he is inclined to believe that one of the most priceless faculties a great investor can possess is "a good, healthy hunch."

Millions of Dollars Saved by His Intuitive Judgments.

Ecker's "hunches" are famous among his associates, who interpret them as instantaneous acts of judgment, based on long years of experience, with steps of reasoning of which he is unconscious. On numerous occasions they have saved his company in a moment from losses exceeding what it has paid him in total salary. Through what seemed mere intuitive impulse, he has vetoed projects coming before him that had been generally accepted as desirable. The writer was not permitted to name specific instances in which the "hunch" has operated so as to save millions of dollars to the Metropolitan. If the list could be published, it would be adorned with some of the most plausible and illustrious swindles of the last two decades, in America and abroad.

Though for a quarter-century a towering figure in the world's capital markets, Ecker, so far as the general public is concerned, is a man whom nobody knows. Out of what appears an innate dislike of reclame, he has cultivated such privacy that his very name is probably unfamiliar to more than a few of his company's 29,000,000 policyholders, with insurance in force amounting to $22,612,403,549, or nearly two-thirds of the national debt. He opened the interview of two hours—during which half a million dollars of new investments swept from the Metropolitan's coffers—with a pelting hail of questions, financial and political.



FREDERICK HUDSON ECKER

"DO YOU know what a billion is?" . . . a dollar a minute . . . $60 an hour . . . $1440 a day . . . $525,600 a year . . . $1,051,200,000 for 2000 years . . . "If someone could have begun drawing an income of $1 a minute at the birth of Christ, it would have taken him until today to amass a billion dollars."

Not Particularly Interested in Money, Serves Without Pay.

Since he has been influential in the company's fiscal policies, it has made total investments of several billions of dollars. But the likelihood emerged, in the course of talk, that Ecker is not himself particularly interested in money. He entered the Metropolitan's service 56 years ago as an office boy at $4 a week. The highest annual salary he has received was $250,000. This stipend, during the depression, he voluntarily reduced to $150,000. He has refused invitations to join the staffs of other financial organizations at a remuneration more promising.

Under the company's rules, he was due to retire on Dec. 31, 1937. The directors unanimously besought him to continue as chairman of the board. He agreed to do so, but on his own terms. The directors told him to write his ticket. It was that he should serve without salary. His income from the Metropolitan, since Jan. 1, 1938, has consisted wholly of his pension, less than $30,000 a year. As principal author of the company's pension plan, he felt it would be unethical for him to be the first to violate its provisions.

"I very definitely deny being in the millionaire class!" he exclaimed.

During the last 33 years, the Metropolitan has multiplied its assets from $174,000,000 to $4,942,900,416. The phenomenal growth of insurance during the twentieth century is attributed by Ecker in considerable part to one man—the Chief Justice of the United States. The New York State Armstrong Committee investigation of 1905, with Charles Evans Hughes as counsel, was denounced as a witch-hunt and "a Socialist assault upon the pillars of civilization" but, in Ecker's opinion, it resulted in constructive legislation which immensely enhanced public confidence in insurance.

Photographic Memory but Not Always Right in Calculations.

Though possessing a photographic memory for figures, Ecker, it seems, is not always infallible as to mathematical calculations. The story is told that some years ago he and another Metropolitan officer, walking home together, discussed a prospective investment of $25,000,000 at 4 per cent. After a mental computation, Ecker stated that the return would be $100,000. The next morning he sent for his companion and rather sheepishly acknowledged that the correct figure was $1,000,000.

"Do you know what a billion is?" he demanded of the writer. Wrinkling his brow, he seized paper and pencil. A dollar a minute, he figured laboriously, would mean $60 an hour, $1440 a day, $525,600 a year and $1,051,200,000 for 2000 years.

He Credits Success Neither to Genius Nor Alone to Industry but to the Desire to Do His Job, Whatever It Is, Better Than the Next Fellow.

"In other words," he announced, "if someone could have begun drawing an income of $1 a minute at the birth of Christ, it would have taken him until today to amass a billion dollars."

During his career, the Metropolitan's unit of investment has leaped from $10,000 to $10,000,000. His point was that in order to handle billion-dollar magnitudes it is necessary to employ titanic yardsticks. He holds that it is as easy to think in such terms as for an astronomer to deal with light-years. "Of course," he added, "it came on gradually."

The Urge to Do Anything Better Than the Next Fellow.

Ecker is sure that genius was not one of the reasons for his success. He conceded that it might be industry. He asserts that "work is the greatest fun in the world," and suspects there is a menace in current agitation for more and more leisure. If it continues, he predicted, "men who love their jobs will have to learn how to endure leisure in order to enjoy the privilege of working." Perhaps the prime factor of his career was expressed in this remark: "If my task were digging ditches, something would make me try to dig them better than the fellow next to me."

His observance of this instinct placed the Metropolitan under the unique necessity of creating at least four offices to accommodate Ecker's expanding talents. His rule has been to master the job just ahead of the one he held. In practice it has often worked out to preparing himself for posts that did not exist.

He is just a year older than the Metropolitan, which came into being in 1868, with two rooms for office space, a staff of six and a leather dispatch box to contain all its assets. But its beginning was during the Civil War, when the National Life & Limb Co. was incorporated by special act of the New York Legislature, in 1863, with a capital of $200,000, for the hazardous purpose of "making insurance upon the lives and limbs and health of the soldiers, sailors and marines in the army and navy of the United States of America."

The concern was reorganized two years later for insuring civilians and travelers rather than warriors. It split during 1866 into the National Life Insurance Co. and the Travelers' Insurance Co. The latter, in 1867, received permission from the Legislature to write life insurance, and in 1868 was authorized to assume the title of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

Meeting With Future Boss Riding on Slow Elevator.

Ecker was born Aug. 30, 1867, in the tiny village of Phoenicia, N. Y., in the Catskills. He came of Huguenot stock, settled in Alsace. His grandfather, Jacob P. Ecker, was graduated from the French Military Academy, and served on the staff of one of Napoleon's Generals. The family, including 12 children, emigrated to America when Frederick Ecker's father, John Christian, was 7 years old. At the outbreak of the Civil War, John Ecker enlisted in the renowned "Iron Brigade." He fought in 32 engagements, was wounded and left for dead on the field, and rose from Sergeant to breveted Major.

Frederick Ecker attended public school in Phoenicia and then in Brooklyn, to which the family removed. He finished the grammar grades at 15. Since the household was poor, he decided his best chance of getting on in the world was to work in the day and attend school at night. His first job was with a small manufacturing concern. Then he promoted himself, at a wage of $3 a week, to a position as office boy for the law firm of Arnoux, Ritch & Woodford, at 32 Park place, New York City.

The elevator in this building moved with majestic lack of speed, so that the youth, riding up and down, had full opportunity to admire the sumptuous furnishings and elegant plate-glass partitions of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., on the second floor. The firm which employed him was counsel for the Metropolitan, with the result that he encountered its president, Joseph Fairchild Knapp, and eventually asked for a job,

Hitler Must Reckon on Chance That America May Intervene To Stop Him, Lloyd George Says

With Rapprochement of Russia and Western Powers, He Doubts Fuehrer Will Crowd Rumania Further.

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE

Wartime Prime Minister of Great Britain.

ANTIBES, French Riviera, March 25.

I AM writing this article in the south of France. The hills around are crowded with fortifications to resist a possible Italian invasion. Some of them are old, but many have been constructed recently.

In September, when France was on the brink of war with the military dictators, the peasants were preparing to flee into the interior of France with their belongings. This last move of Hitler has revived the sense of general apprehension in this area. Mussolini may move next.

The possibilities are numerous and widespread. They extend from the German Ocean to the Mediterranean and the Red Sea. You have only to recount the countries which live now in daily and nightly dread of the blow falling upon them—Rumania, Poland, Yugoslavia, Switzerland, Holland, Belgium, Tunis, French Somaliland and France itself.

War a Reality.

To the inhabitants of Europe, without distinction of age or sex, war is a reality. In September last, trenches were dug and air raid shelters constructed to protest men, women and children against bombs from the air, and gas masks by the million were distributed to save them from being strangled by poison gas.

The shameless grabbing of Czecho-Slovakia by Germany has roused Europe at last to such a hurricane of anger and apprehension as has not been witnessed since the invasion of Belgium. It has shaken off the moral torpor from which no outrage on liberty and right has seemed able to shake this continent, whose ethical impulses appeared to be exhausted by a tremendous struggle for international rights.

The annexation of Austria by force left Europe apathetic. The suppression of democracy in Spain by German and Italian armaments did not seem to produce a ripple on the conscience even of free countries, each of which in its turn has given official recognition to this outrage. The dismemberment of Bohemia, the handing over of the defenses of the Czecho-Slovakian republic to Hitler, thus leaving that state at his mercy, were almost hailed with a sigh of relief.

"Abject Capitulation."

Chamberlain and Daladier were welcomed as conquerors when they returned from that abject capitulation, and chaplets of olive leaves were placed on their brows. The independence of Abyssinia had long ceased to worry nations that had once vowed protection to that doomed land. The empire which took the lead in the protest against that act of rapine sent her leading statesmen to Rome to toast the success of the infamy. When the British Prime Minister raised his glass to the Italian Emperor of Abyssinia, Britain as a whole took it without a murmur.

The building up by the dictators of huge armies and air fleets and formidable navies did not seem, for three years, to cause any deep uneasiness in Britain and France.

Their rearmament programs just trundled along sluggishly and clumsily. When they almost blundered into war last September they had no effective protection for their cities against air raids. That discovery gave them a temporary fright, but once the scare was over there were signs of a lapse into a mood of vapid complacence. We were settling down comfortably to the new world rearranged for us by Hitler.

U. S. Seemed to Understand.

There were still a few independent observers who were uneasy, and it is fair to admit that America seemed to understand much better than we did how perilous was a situation in which democracy was placed by this pusillanimous acquiescence in the allround triumph of dictatorship. But here in Britain and in France, ministers were admonishing those who harbored misgivings, for inculcating unfounded and mischievous pessimism. They were accused of sacrificing patriotism to partisanship and prejudice.

We can never forget the elaborate denunciation of "jitterers" by Sir Samuel Hoare, who is high up on the rota of successors to the premiership. A vision of general disarmament before the end of the year was thrown on the screen by ministerial propagandists. Then came the thunderbolt which shattered this flimsy palace of hallucination in which we were invited to dwell and carry on our business.

Lord Halifax, in his speech in the House of Lords, said that the annexation of Czecho-Slovakia "profoundly shocked" the world. It was like an incident that I witnessed behind the French front in 1916, when a friend of mine was walking leisurely along a road looking around him to enjoy the prospect. Suddenly, and without warning to him, a great gun hidden in the brush not far from him went off with a terrific bang. The concussion swung him completely around and he suffered for weeks from the shock.

The Unpredictable Hitler.

It is not too much to say that no one expected the Hitler gun to go off at that time and in that direction. The effect of the detonation was stunning. The fact that Hitler keeps his plans to himself until the moment comes to put them into action deepens and intensifies the anxiety and the bewilderment which is experienced everywhere today. No one knows what will come next. The Czecho-Slovakian coup has planted in the nerve-centers of the world an ineradicable conviction that more of the same sort of crashing surprise is bound to come. But where and when?

The Memel incident in itself does not seem to threaten the Europe-wide upheaval which is so generally feared. It was hardly a surprise. But are there no others in the Hitler or Mussolini electric batteries?

Last October Hitler declared that the period of surprises had come to an end, that Germany had no further territorial claims. Five months later he annexed Czecho-Slovakia. But Hitler will henceforth be confronted by a new Europe—a Europe frightened but no longer intimidated.

Russia Enters Picture.

The most significant development of the last few days is the rapprochement between the Western Powers and Russia. Till now Chamberlain has ignored Russia and Bonnet tricked that great country out of what was in September a willing and a proffered co-operation.

I have more than once called attention to the crass folly of snubbing Russia. I have pointed out repeatedly that this vast and resourceful country has a powerful army and a fine air force. Had she been called in at Munich, there would have been no capitulation to Hitler. Autonomy would have been granted—and rightly granted—to the Sudeten Germans, but the immense quadrilateral of fortifications so essential to the defense of Czecho-Slovakia would not have been handed over to Germany.

That foolish surrender left the republic defenseless and prostrate at the feet of Hitler. The Fuehrer's military advisers would never have advised him to face the redoubtable combination of overwhelming force which they would have had to encounter had Russia been brought in. There would have been France with her great army,

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

History for Burton Holmes.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN photography and description, Mr. Burton Holmes is an artist, but in history, economy and clear thinking he is lacking. He saw the new Irish hospitals built by the Irish Sweepstakes and jumped to the shallow conclusion that all men are gamblers and that we should legalize lotteries.

Mr. Holmes ought to know that long before the Irish Free State was born, our national Government and the several states had their fingers burned with lotteries. He should know that the Town of St. Louis used a lottery to raise money for its Fire Department until the people rose up in disgust and stopped it. He should know that the Missouri lottery, which was chartered to build a railroad, operated for many years, collected millions of dollars, corrupted officials to perpetuate its existence, and never built the road—not a mile of it.

He should know that a Massachusetts lottery collected $886,439 to save Plymouth Rock, but spent for the saving only $9876, or a fraction over 1 per cent; that in Pennsylvania a lottery sold tickets to the tune of $21,248,891 to construct a canal, but used for this purpose only $340,000, or about 1.6 per cent, and that the Louisiana Lottery, with a take of from $30,000,000 to $60,000,000 a year, paid between one-tenth and two-tenths of 1 per cent for its franchise.

Mr. Holmes should know that Washington and Franklin condemned the gambling in their day, when lotteries were on the increase. The Supreme Court of the United States holds lotteries to be the worst form of gambling. Mr. Holmes should know, too, that at one time lotteries were used throughout this country to raise funds for hospitals, schools, churches and government; that many prominent citizens favored them; but that the great majority of the people, like John Hancock, seeing the attending evils and corruption, resolved to drive them out; that the hold of the lottery operators and promoters upon legislation was so powerful that it required a long and terrific struggle to throw off the chains of this lottery slavery.

Mr. Holmes is at home in his own field, but when he gets into tax economy, lottery lore and sound reasoning, he is a veritable "babe in the woods."

A STUDENT.

For Discontinuance of WPA.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

TO all Congressmen who put forth their ablest efforts to have the WPA continue without curtailment, I would like to say, "Better to concern yourselves with improving the moral fiber of our citizenry, instead of further seeking to undermine and weaken it by robbing it of stamina through WPA."

If there ever was a need for the WPA program, that time has certainly passed. As conceived, the WPA was meant to benefit those who were actually in need; but it is easy to see it has evolved into nothing short of a racket wherein puppet politicians and other impostors are chiefly benefited. And since this condition either cannot or will not be rectified, the alternative of discontinuation provides the way out.

MADELYNE ROUSSIN.

Says Russia Will Admit Jews.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I WOULD like to inform Whidden Graham, who suggests Russia as a haven for refugees, that that country has already absorbed thousands of refugees from Germany, Austria and Spain. These are practically all non-Jews, opposed to the form of government existing in those countries.

The Soviet Union stands ready to accept Jewish refugees and has set aside a large state in Eastern Asia for this specific purpose. However, the world Jewish leaders are not in sympathy with the Soviet regime, and in any discussion of possible colonies for Jewish settlement, these leaders refuse to invite Soviet representatives.

It is the same as with other problems. The Soviet Union is left out as an "orphan." Just as at Munich, the Soviet Union was entirely disregarded, so in the discussions of the refugee problem. It is about time that the Soviet Union be considered as one of the family of nations and be treated accordingly by the diplomats of various countries. Then perhaps the refugee and other problems will be less difficult to solve.

H. HERMAN.

Save America First.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

HOW wonderful if the powers that be could solve our own domestic problems before trying to be nursemaid to a changing universe. How much easier to preserve democracy if we could find a way to make democracy work, or at least make it work more smoothly. I love freedom, but freedom without security is only half a loaf, and our 12,000,000 unemployed probably wonder at its meaning.

Germany may be in the wrong, and probably is; but that it is not our worry, because we couldn't tell what was right if we had to. Once we interfered in the affairs of Europe, and the results were disastrous.

A successful America need fear attack from no nation, so why not dedicate our time to making this a successful America and let the rest of the world roll by?

Jefferson City. F. ROBERT.

FOR A NATIONAL REDEDICATION.

The country, we feel certain, was deeply impressed with the ceremonies at Washington on March 4 in commemoration of the first session of Congress 150 years ago.

The speeches of the President, the Chief Justice and leading members of Congress, in their fervent devotion to our kind of government and our way of life, must have thrilled all who heard or read them.

At a time when democracy and the democratic principle are under attack in various parts of the world, the presence on the same platform of the leading figures of the United States, representing the three great branches of government, was a sign of unity and strength.

At a time when democracy is being described as decadent, the ceremonies at Washington, both in the power and eloquence of the speeches and in the obviously genuine enthusiasm of the audience, was a signal that, in the United States at any rate, democracy is vividly alive.

Some months ago, President C. A. Dykstra of the University of Wisconsin suggested that all our educational facilities—schools, the press, the radio and the screen—be marshaled together to "fire our people with a sense of unity, a common cause, a clear objective and a love of America and what its perpetuation may mean in this confused and warring world."

The ceremonies at Washington did dramatize democracy. They did fire the people with a passion for our traditional way of life.

It occurs to the Post-Dispatch that what took place at Washington should be repeated on an even grander scale at some significant time and at some significant place before the greatest assemblage of American citizens ever gathered together.

The theme of the meeting would be the country's rededication to democracy, to the dignity of man, to all the precious things we live by.

The speakers would be the President of the United States, the Chief Justice of the United States, the leaders of Congress and representatives from all the states. On the stage, besides the speakers, might be members of the Cabinet, the entire membership of Congress and the Governors of the 48 states. As suitable for the occasion, there would be bands, orchestral music and perhaps the singing of national airs by a great choir of voices.

The Post-Dispatch suggests as an appropriate date next July 4.

It makes no suggestion of the place, though St. Louis would be deeply gratified if it were chosen as the host for such a gathering.

As our citizens see the dictators herding hundreds of thousands of people to hear them speak and to watch exhibitions of armed might in Moscow, Berlin and Rome, would it not be a fitting answer for our countrymen, of their own free will, to gather in a mighty demonstration of the glories of democracy?

We believe that, in a time like this, when the peace and security of the world are threatened by powers which speak an alien and terrible language, such a meeting of American citizens, loftily conceived and loftily executed, would not only be a contribution to the cause of domestic concord and national unity, but would say to the world, in Benjamin Franklin's historic phrase, "Don't tread on me."

EXERCISE IN EUPHEMISM.

Pursuit of a milder synonym for "depression" has been even more prolonged and intensive than the search for a word to replace "business appeasement." The expressive monosyllable, "slump," has long ago been outlawed by those who hope to restore confidence through psychological suggestion. "Recession" has been a favorite in recent months, but its sound, suggestive of "recessional," is a bit too melancholy for the purpose. "Relapse" was once in vogue, and was frowned upon when its clinical, even funereal, connotations were realized.

Now all the helpful word-sleuths can quit thumbing the dictionary and the thesaurus, for the long-sought verbal evasion has been found. Its discoverer is Secretary Morgenthau, who announced it to the world last Friday, in testifying before the House Ways and Means Committee, when he said, "In periods of incomplete business recovery like the present . . ."

A WEIRD THRILLER FROM THE WEST.

Not since the days when Billy the Kid terrorized the Southwest has there been such a bizarre and exciting episode as that which ended Friday with the shooting of young Earl Durand. The strange Wyoming woodsman had killed four men and caused the death of a fifth in the last nine days. Standing six feet two, with a wild mane falling about his broad shoulders, the taciturn slayer looked the part of a man reputed to relish his meat raw.

Arrested on a charge of poaching, he kidnaped his jailer, killed two peace officers who pursued him, and took to field, forest and mountain range that he knew so well. There was a touch like something from an Edgar Allan Poe tale in the taunting note he left for the Sheriff—"When you kill me I suggest you have my head mounted and hang it in the courthouse." A deadly shot with rifle, pistol and bow and arrow, and ruthless in his use of any weapon, Durand might have been a reincarnation of the cold-blooded Billy the Kid.

A posse of more than 100 peace officers, National Guardsmen, townsmen and ranchers went after him. Science played a futile part against the woodsman-killer. The radio, trench mortars, anti-tank guns, gas bombs from a plane and automobiles were used against him to no avail. The crafty woodsman slipped away. He gave himself the coup de grace after he had been shot down in the holdup of a bank in his home town at Powell, Wyo. Writers of Western thrillers will have to admit that truth is much stranger than fiction.

A GREAT STATE PAPER.

Gov. Stark surpassed himself Thursday. His special message will be rated among the truly great State papers of Missouri history. It revealed polemic powers its author had not previously demonstrated, had not been known to possess.

The O'Malley ouster was a turning point in the career of Gov. Stark. It was the first major repulse in the dynastic experience of Boss Pendergast. And the Governor is winning the war. His victories are events of substance and far-reaching import. The lawless supremacy of the Pendergast machine, apparently impregnable in its brass-knuckled security, has been riddled. Its immunity from the law has been shattered. Its political power has been met and routed at the polls. Many of its underlings are in prison. Many more are under the shadow of indictment. The seat of Missouri's government has been removed from the audience chamber of Kansas City's overlord to the capital of the State.

The Governor now proposes to consolidate his position, really and permanently to win the war, by taking the control of Kansas City's Police Department from the wanton mismanagement of the Pendergast machine and placing it under the direction of the State. And so his philippic of Thursday.

Our Governors have mostly been lawyers. With the exception of Frederick D. Gardner and Samuel Baker, they have all been lawyers in the 34-year period since Joseph W. Folk succeeded the retiring physician, Alexander Dockery. Looking back for a minute down the leisurely reaches of Plutarchian comparison, the graceful theses of the polished Herbert S. Hadley may be recalled, the rustic eloquence and vivid imagery of Elliott W. Major, the sparkle and shrewd plausibility of Arthur M. Hyde, the cogency of Caulfield, the riveted reasoning of Guy Park.

But out from his apple orchards has come Lloyd Stark with a forensic challenge of bristling content and at times Websterian style. The utterance is, we believe, historic and may well be prophetic.

Whimpering partisanship may roll its eyes and clasp its hands and lament that the Governor is "splitting the party." Such lugubrious hypocrisy deceives nobody. The infamy of the Pendergast machine is the ruinous force that is destroying the Democratic party in Missouri. Gov. Stark's documented arraignment is the unanswerable voice of Missouri's aroused and resolute decency.

DON'T PIN THIS ON HITLER.

Poultney Bigelow has made his annual pilgrimage to the shrine of Doorn's most publicized alien resident and returns oozing prophecy at every pore. In his crystal ball he sees a bigger Hitler than Hitler himself has ever seen, and peering far into the future, he predicts that the infant son of Prince Louis Ferdinand, the ex-Kaiser's great-grandson, will be crowned "King of Germany." We are in no position to contradict Poultney Bigelow, but, giving Hitler the full measure of his faults, we should like to acquit him of any design to restore the Hohenzollern dynasty.

END OF A MUNICIPAL MYTH.

St. Louisans have indulged themselves for some five years with a vision of sybaritic splendor—the Mayor's $30,000 bathroom. When campaign orators found that other indictments palled, they got a surefire response by a castigation of City Hall luxury. Any harassed taxpayer could always build himself up to martyr's status by brief reflection on that plumbing extravaganza. Mayor Dickmann said it wasn't so, but the legend lived on.

Now the municipal myth has been shattered by no more arduous research than looking the place over. At the public hearing on the city budget Thursday, the fabulous bath was again a subject of sarcastic comment. After the meeting, 60 of the citizens present decided to see for themselves. What they saw in the Mayor's office was a modest shower, a little better than a gymnasium or a swimming pool locker room could boast, perhaps, but certainly no throwback to Pompeiian splendor. It was agreed that the installation couldn't have cost much more than the official but unbelieved figure of $500.

The Mayor's bath thus goes down the drain as an issue in municipal politics. It was based on a strange distortion of the cost of modernizing the whole office (which cost $23,000), and it was a marvel while it lasted.

Under a bill sponsored by 50 Senators to take the profit out of war, a St. Louisan with $100,000 income might have carfare to Kirkwood, but the million-dollar-a-year man would hand to the Government the whole roll, wrapped up in his shirt.

WHOSE ATTORNEY WAS BARKER?

The O'Malley compromise sprouted another posthumous carbuncle when former Gov. Guy Park explained that he had been misled into approving it by the assurance of John T. Barker that Attorney-General McKittrick had pronounced it satisfactory. A day or two later, Mr. Park learned that McKittrick had not sanctioned the settlement, had not even seen it. But when Mr. Park, as Governor, sought to withdraw his consent, Mr. Barker said it was too late.

John T. Barker was then, and for years has been, employed by the State of Missouri in its litigation with fire insurance companies. As such he has been handsomely paid, though not in the fantastic amount he felt his services merited. But just whose attorney was John T. Barker when he was working furiously to procure ratification of a compromise that tricked the policyholders out of the money collected from them through illegal rates? His clients, whoever they were, were not the policyholders.

Young Professors in the High Courts

The Mirror of Public Opinion

President's recent appointments of law teachers foreshadow more interpretations based on legal philosophy and fewer on words of statutes, commentator says; such Judges have no background of special clients, and have academic habit of searching out sources.

Arthur Krock, Washington Correspondent, in the New York Times.

WASHINGTON.

TWO more professors of the law instead of its active practitioners were named to the high Federal bench by the President last week, and as this appointive trend increases, the interpretation of law is certain to pivot more on legal philosophy than on the words of statutes. At any rate, this is the growing opinion among members of the bar who have been noting with deep interest the President's raid on the law schools to reorganize the Federal judiciary.

The newest Associate Justice designate of the Supreme Court, William O. Douglas, was not long, if actually ever, an active practitioner. The same is true of Dean Wiley Rutledge, of the Iowa University Law School, just named to the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia. Dean Charles E. Clark of the Yale University Law School and Dean Herschel W. Arant of the collegiate legal cradle in Ohio have recently been appointed to the Federal bench, in the wake of the President's selection of Prof. Felix Frankfurter of the Harvard Law School to replace the late Justice Cardozo on the Supreme Court.

The President's disposition to turn to the colleges for legislative draftsmen and administrators has been made apparent since he took office and the Brain Trust was first installed in places of power in Washington. But only recently has the high judiciary begun to be derived from similar sources, and the new Attorney-General, Mr. Murphy, has warmly seconded the President's inclination to intrust enforcement and interpretation of law to men who would bring to these functions a philosophy based on history and a theory of public welfare rather than upon the text of the law itself.

The general and rather critical comment has been heard that most of the men in the category above have been made high Judges without previous judicial experience. This is neither new nor striking, since only one member of the Supreme Court as now constituted was even briefly a Judge before he was nominated by a President. The Chief Justice's only bench experience was gained in his earlier Supreme Court tenure. Justices McReyonlds, Butler, Stone, Roberts, Reed and Frankfurter—like Mr. Douglas—never served on a lower bench; and while Justice Black judged for 18 months, it was in the Police Court of Birmingham. But it is not this appointive tendency which seems to concern lawyers.

Their twofold complaint is that, beginning with Justice Frankfurter, the President has gone too often outside the area of active practice for his important judicial places; and that judicial promotion seems to be going out of fashion. To the first half of the complaint, there are the recent exceptions of Judges Patterson of New York, Biddle of Pennsylvania and Clark of New Jersey. But to the highest bench and to the almost equally important Circuit Courts, the President has been sending many teachers instead of practitioners.

It is naturally difficult to convince a lawyer who has long battled before the courts that a teacher of his profession is as qualified to pass judgment as one who has endured the heat and dust of the fray. But he may be prepared to admit what seems to have been a strong consideration with the President and the Attorney-General in connection with these latest appointments. This is that the lack of a background of special clients and the ingrained academic habit of searching for the sources and purposes of law are more likely to fix a settled philosophy of decision upon a Judge.

If this is true, as the President presumably thinks it is, then his new Judges from the law schools will apply that general philosophy, and it will probably conform in general respects to Mr. Roosevelt's own. Should this further consequence occur, then the President's shadow will be cast upon decisions far after the time when he has passed from the public scene and the New Deal has been succeeded by another political dispensation. A President, as ample records reveal, invariably seeks for the high bench a man who shares his philosophy of sound judgment, though he well understands this will not cover individual cases.

Mr. Roosevelt's remaking of the Supreme Court has attracted so much attention that his recent recasting of courts almost as important has been little noted except by lawyers. A good illustration is provided by the present personnel of the District of Columbia Circuit bench to which Dean Rutledge has just been nominated.

The authority of this court exceeds that of the other Federal Circuit bodies because it provides a bottleneck through which the Government can siphon many important test cases. It has direct authority over executive bodies and passes on disputes between the legislative and executive arms. It can be used most readily in a quest by the Government for favorable decision in vital disputes. The President has now named five of its six members, all men well under 60.

Thus, on the point of age as well as on the point of derivation of Judges, the President has lately been enforcing his ideas very systematically. Both trends are of future as well as of present significance.

"THANKS, BOSS."

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

THE 7,000,000 industrial workers of Italy are to get pay increases, thanks to the benevolent action of Il Duce. To a casual observer, this might seem to indicate that Fascism is most generous to its working class, and that Italy is making substantial economic progress.

A slightly less casual observer, however, will note that the generosity of the Fascist regime is rather sharply circumscribed. Pay increases will range from 5 to 10 per cent. This does not even begin to make up for the reductions in pay imposed a few years ago in a drastic deflation program.

A still more observant person will note also that the average hourly wage of industrial workers in Italy has been 2.11 lire. On 11 cents an hour, the Italian workman must admit there was plenty of room for improvement. Living is not cheap in Italy, and feeding a family on 80 cents a day provides something less than luxury.

The decree ordering pay increases calls attention to the absolute centralization of economic power under Fascism, to the shockingly low standard of living of the Italian masses and to the arbitrariness with which economic changes are made.

The individual man has sunk to a low level when he becomes one of 7,000,000 who must look up to a dictator and say, "Thanks, boss"—in gratitude for a wage increase of from 11 to 12 cents a day.

When Charity Is Futile

Books in the News

CRITICISM is heaped upon corporate philanthropy in "Money to Burn" (Longmans, Green & Co., New York), by Horace Coon. Bitter as are some of his accusations against great charitable trusts, Mr. Coon backs most of his charges with strong evidence that relief project "boon-doggling" has its match on an even larger scale in useless surveys paid for by various foundations.

The writer makes a case for charges that philanthropic funds have been used for speculative purposes, that financial statements from foundations are sometimes misleading, that trusts are used to avoid taxes, that practically all foundations were set up in an attempt to win immortality for the founders and that agencies of many corporate philanthropies influence public opinion unfairly.

The chapter, "Who's Who in the Foundations," flays the heads and trustees of various foundations as "top employes" who come "very close to that inner circle" of the men who actually "own or run America." The author pictures them as smug individuals who "can talk in terms of high idealism and make speeches which sound disarmingly frank."

As far as he knows, Mr. Coon says, the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, worth $12,000,000, exists for sending Nicholas Murray Butler abroad every year and for publishing a few pamphlets, but not to come to grips with modern theories on the cause of war.

The late Julius Rosenwald is hailed for his philosophy that contemporary needs are the only needs of which we can be certain, and that "the dead hand has been proved a hindrance, if not indeed a menace to mankind." And, in fact, a Boston hospital has a fund to provide wooden legs for Civil War veterans. An orphan asylum in Baltimore never had an inmate. A former president of the Pennsylvania Railroad left $2,000,000 to care for daughters of railroaders killed working for the Pennsylvania, and then modern safety methods made it impossible for the road to kill enough of its employes to make the funds useful.

Mr. Coon, on the other hand, sees much good in what the foundations do. He does not want them abolished. He wants them put under greater public supervision and control. He would like another congressional investigation of them such as that conducted in 1915. No reader of his book will deny that more light needs to be shed on the foundations and that dead hands need to be shaken off idle money bags. R. R.

PROBABLY one of the most misleading book titles of the year is "How to Live on $1 a Week; or The Easy Business Ways to Earn $100 a Week," by Elmer C. Rice (Rice & Rice, Melrose, Mass.). The title is derived from an essay of the same title by the author, which won attention at the turn of the century.

In reality, the book is in large part an autobiography of the author, an old-time newspaper man, and a study of the methods and effects of low-cost classified advertising. When Mr. Rice left the newspaper field, it was his genius for writing effective but cheap advertisements that started him in the squab business. He is now the largest producer of squabs in the country.

The book correlates his experiences in the business field with his earlier reportorial feats. A vanished era in newspaper work is recalled in reading his tales of how news was "created" and many stories written entirely from the imagination. W. S.

union. The A. F. of L. countered with a boycott on CIO-handled lumber. This meant a general halt of activities in all allied fields. Unemployment spread quickly. Business firms lost heavily.

Violence marked the boycott. Rosser is now serving 12 years in the state penitentiary for arson in a $90,000 lumber yard fire. The authorities arrested 120 of his strong-arm men. Of these 69 pleaded guilty to various charges, including arson and assault and battery. Eleven others have been convicted so far.

But before the racketeers met their Waterloo some business men recognized their power and decided to profit by it. Agreements were made with the teamsters to maintain prices. A brewery, for example, could not have its beer moved, although it hired union men and paid union wages, because it was selling it below the established price.

When Reaction Set In.

A reaction set in. Other unions disowned the teamsters. Rank and file members of the teamsters' union began to sign the initiative petitions, especially when an audit of their books for 1937 showed the union officials had spent $42,434 without an accounting.

The signatures of 8 per cent of the registered voters—almost the same as Missouri's requirement of 8 per cent of the voters in at least two-thirds of the State's congressional districts—were soon obtained to place the proposed labor law on the ballot. This was speeded up when the impression was given that this was a movement of farmers, indignant because the teamsters had made it impossible for them to get their crops to market.

It was the exposure of this "farmers' revolt" that caused much of the current disapproval of the new law. The initiative was promoted by "The Associated Farmers of Oregon," but the post-election accounting of campaign expenditures showed that of the $32,440.65 spent in behalf of the measure, $32,336 came from the Oregon Business Council. The "farm movement" proved to have been the work of W. W. Knight, attorney for an industrial association, and former Mayor George Baker of Portland.

Thoughtful business and civic leaders today are hoping that the Legislature will modify the labor law adopted by voters under the initiative. They feel union excesses must be controlled, but that a less drastic measure will be more effective in the long run. They say the people voted against racketeering and not for the suppression of unions. Therefore they now favor a law more in harmony with the Oregon tradition that made the State a pioneer in minimum wage and maximum hours legislation, workmen's compensation and anti-injunction laws, and that caused the Manufacturers' and Merchants' Association of Oregon to continue to observe the 1912 minimum wage law despite the fact that such legislation was held invalid by the United States Supreme Court in 1923.

EPISCOPAL CATHEDRAL GETS MEMORIAL LAMPS

Widow of Dr. H. G. Mudd Presents Ecclesiastical Lighting System.

An unusual ecclesiastical lighting system has been presented to Christ Church Cathedral by Mrs. Margaret Clark Mudd as a memorial to her husband, Dr. Harvey Gilmer Mudd, eminent surgeon, who died Aug. 16, 1933.

It is anticipated that the lights, which supplant the present equipment, may be intalled before the annual flower service April 23. The new system comprises 16 hanging lamps designed in dull pewter decorated with gold leaves and embellished with red. It cost about $4000.

Fourteen lamps, each 13 feet over all, will be hung in the nave, one in each of five arches on both sides and the others in the transept. Two smaller fixtures will be placed in the balcony. The lamps, designed by the architectural firm of Nagel & Dunn, presented the problem of creating fixtures which would not only harmonize with the classic interior of the Cathedral but appear in proper proportion within a structure which is unusually narrow and high.

Three distinct lighting effects are embodied in each fixture. They contain a circle of nine candles, surmounting a ring which conceals 12 of each in a transluscent bowl.

The design of the pendant fixtures embodies alternate crowns and miters in the top canopies. All but two terminate in tassels. The pair to be placed at the west end of the Cathedral bear Mr. Mudd's initials.

The following inscription is to be carved on the stone south wall near the west entrance:

"These lamps are hung in this Cathedral by Margaret Clark Mudd to the Glory of God and in grateful memory of Harvey Gilmer Mudd, beloved physician who spread light and love along his way."

Lloyd George Thinks America May Intervene

Russia with her 13,000,000 trained men, backing up Czecho-Slovakia with her excellent and highly trained army of 1,000,000 men entrenched in well-devised and constructed forts in the mountains. The latter are now eliminated, but France, Russia and Britain, with her fleet the greatest in Europe, remain.

America in Background.

One of the potent new factors with which Hitler has now to deal is the entrance of Russia effectively into the anti-Nazi confederation. But there is another in the background, though less in the background than it was before the crushing of the Czech republic—the mighty power of America. Germany knows already what the intervention of the United States may mean.

Poland also will count. She is less pro-German than she was six months ago. She is thoroughly terrified by these last coups. Her army is by no means negligible; she could call at least 2,000,000 trained men to her colors. If Rumania were attacked, Poland would not tamely await her turn for Hitler to organize pretexts for intervention among her large German population in the Corridor and in Silesia.

If Britain and France take advantage of the new spirit of co-operation among menaced countries frightened by the annexation of Czecho-Slovakia, and great democratic countries indignant at so flagrant a crime against international right and good faith, there will be surprises to upset the world and the dictators will be compelled to halt in their swaggering march against liberty.

And Mussolini.

I hesitate to offer any opinion as to what that incalculable man, who is the real leader of the German people, may or may not do. The advancing threat to the Rumanian boundaries has been fully pressed to wring generous terms for Germany in the Rumanian economic pact, but I cannot see Hitler committing himself to so rash an enterprise as the invasion of a country which has Russia for its neighbor. It would convert a rapprochement between Russia and the democracies of the West into an overpowering military alliance.

There remains Mussolini. So far he has preserved a Hitlerian silence. Up to the present the realized profits of the alliance with Germany have gone entirely to Hitler. Ethiopia still is a liability and so is Spain. Will Mussolini be satisfied with useful but small and undramatic concessions from France?

If so, peace is assured with Italy. The duce is in a very tight place. As a very influential member of the Italian Fascist Council is rumored to have said: "You cannot make war with the king, the church and the people against it." Mussolini may therefore find that moderation is the truest courage and the surest victory.

NET-WORTH STATEMENT ON U. S. TAX EXPLAINED

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Building.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—There is puzzlement among certain taxpayers in the upper brackets who did not this year receive Form 962 of the Internal Revenue Service of the Treasury Department, though they received it last year and, in some cases, after consulting their attorneys, refused to answer its questions.

Form 962 requires a statement of net worth, under oath, supplemonetary to the taxpayer's ordinary return, with a detailed description of assets and liabilities at the beginning and end of the taxable year. It calls for statements of cash, stocks, bonds, mortgages, real estate holdings, leases or leaseholds, business and non-business properties, partnership interests, etc. It was sent in 1938 to numerous taxpayers whose wealth was estimated to exceed $100,000.

A spokesman for the Treasury said today that Form 962 is not authorized by the Revenue Acts, but is a department regulation, and is still in force. It was sent only to those taxpayers whose returns appeared to be insufficiently informative, and was particularly designed for racketeers, whose assets and income are often shrouded in mystery.

"The statement has not been used," the spokesman continued, "when it was found possible to determine income without it. The form is still available, and is employed by revenue agents as a supplement to the taxpayer's return. If the return does not supply adequate information, the agent has authority to require a net worth statement to be filled out."

In two places, under the head of assets, the form calls for detailed information as to stock ownership in personal holding companies and controlled corporations. It requires descriptions of holdings in seven types of Government securities, whether taxable or not, and of State and municipal bonds, which are exempt from Federal taxation. Under liabilities, it demands a statement of accounts and notes payable to relatives and personal holding companies.

If fewer net worth forms were sent out this year than last, it was added, the reason probably was that more returns were satisfactorily made out. Moreover, the Treasury in 1938 made a mistake of dispatching too many of these net worth statements, and has now reduced the number.

The forms, concluded the spokesman, were never a "fishing expedition" of the Treasury for detailed information on the net worth of the rich, but merely a device for supplementing returns which appeared incomplete. It was admitted that the Treasury failed to act in some cases when taxpayers refused to fill out the statements on advice of their attorneys that there is nothing in the law to compel them to do so.

"A Treasury regulation has the force of law," the informant declared. "But in many instances we did not wish to make an issue of the matter with taxpayers obviously reputable. Against racketeers the net worth statements are still being wielded with rigor."

MAYOR ISSUES PROCLAMATION ON "CANCER CONTROL MONTH"

Calls on Citizens to Co-operate in April Campaign Against the Disease.

The month of April was designated as "Cancer Control Month" in a proclamation issued yesterday by Mayor Dickmann in which he urged all citizens to co-operate with the American Society for the Control of Cancer to fight the disease.

"The most significant fact about cancer," the proclamation said, "is that in its early stages it may be cured. If present medical knowledge was used in its fullest degree about one-third or one-half of those now dying could be saved.

"If physicians are to save thousands of lives, however, our citizens must learn to have annual complete physical examinations and to seek promptly the advice of the family doctor as soon as symptoms which may mean cancer appear."

Frederick H. Ecker; He Has $2,000,000 a Day to Invest

with a hint that "I expect to do a little better than I am doing now."

On May 7, 1883, Frederick Ecker, at the age of 16, for the first time boarded the Williamsburg ferry as a Metropolitan employe. The Brooklyn Bridge was nearing completion. One of his duties was to place in racks at night the registers which clerks had written by hand during the day. Stenographers, as well as telephones, were almost unknown. At the end of the first week he peered into his pay envelope and with inexpressible joy discovered four $1 bills. Speaking at the 1933 convention of Metropolitan field agents, in New York, Ecker was not quite sure whether this represented a raise of 25 or 33 1-3 per cent.

He entered night school classes in arithmetic and accountancy. Then he undertook real estate law, which led him to a partial course in general law. He did not complete it, or attempt the New York bar examination, but there is a saying at the Metropolitan that he is the best lawyer in the company. He read considerably in the English classics, and was an enthusiast of Milton's "Paradise Lost." For mental recreation he turned to penny dreadfuls of the "Old Sleuth" type, and devoured them by the hundreds. Something of that taste has persisted. Outside financial literature and biography, his favorite reading today is detective novels. A book of this species reposes every night beside his bed. E. Phillips Oppenheim is his pet author.

He trolled a lusty first bass in various singing societies, and acquired a love for old-fashioned operas, "with a tune." He particularly admires "Aida." At the mention of Verdi's masterpiece, his head was flung back. For a moment or so the compartment, more used to discussions of fabulous millions, resounded with the opening measures of "Celeste Aida."

Passion for Athletics.

He looks today 20 years younger than his age—a fact which he ascribes to an early and consuming passion for athletics. As soon as he could afford it, he joined a gymnasium, and often ran 10 miles on a cinder track before going to work in the morning. Later he took up tennis, and at 40 learned golf. Until recently it was his habit to dispatch 36 holes very day he played. The score, in his prime, was almost professional, for it was in the lower 70s. Even now he is exasperated if it goes above 90.

His night school studies and industry, which did not balk at hours from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m., attracted notice from his superiors. He was aiming at a bookkeeper's job, but his first promotion was to be assistant to the manager of the Metropolitan's real estate section. There he made himself a foremost authority on New York City land values.

During a series of panics, particularly that of 1893, the Metropolitan, under his guidance, worked out a policy, ready at hand when the Hoover depression arrived, for rehabilitating rundown properties, which were easily disposed of after being filled with tenants and restored to an income-producing basis. The heart of this program was leniency. Foreclosure was avoided save as a last resort. The defaulting owner was aided to work out his own salvation, and with it the salvation of the Metropolitan's loan. During the depression of the 1890s, the real estate holdings of life insurance companies doing business in New York state rose to 11 per cent of their assets. In the peak year of 1936 the ratio was 8 per cent.

In Charge of Realty Deals.

In consequence of Ecker's success in his first responsible position, the Metropolitan created a bond and mortgage division to handle all its real estate transactions, and placed him at its head. He was 26 years old. Even then he displayed a continental point of view. One day he reported to John Rogers Hegeman, who had become president after Knapp's death, that he had traded a downtown property partly for cash and partly for a ranch in California.

"Young man," shouted Hegeman, dropping his pen, "have you lost your senses?" Some years later, Ecker sold the ranch at a profit of $100,000.

During this period the Metropolitan set its heart on the premises it still occupies, at 1 Madison avenue—then the site of the Madison Square Presbyterian Church, pastored by the redoubtable Charles H. Parkhurst. Across the way flourished such hostleries as the Fifth Avenue Hotel and the Hoffman House. To all proposals for selling the lot Parkhurst, himself a sharp trader, replied that the denizens of these inns, on raising their curtains in the morning, should be able to see "the spire of God, pointing like a finger to Heaven."

Ecker purchased for $520,000 the plot on Madison avenue between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth streets, whereupon Hegeman once more asked whether the young real estate officer had taken leave of his wits. On this site, Ecker proposed to Parkhurst and his trustees, the Metropolitan would build for them a Greek temple, designed by Stanford White. All sales resistance collapsed when he dramatically promised that one day Dr. Parkhurst would be able to announce from his pulpit: "On next Sunday we shall worship across the street." This actually came to pass. But 12 years later the property was again in the hands of the Metropolitan and the Greek temple was torn down.

Metropolitan Tower His Idea.

The idea of the Metropolitan Tower came into being during a conference between Hegeman and Ecker. One of them chanced to juxtapose a picture of the company's home office on a photograph of Parkhurst's steepled church. Until the erection of the Woolworth Building, the Metropolitan Tower was the highest skyscraper in New York. Even today, with its great clock dial, visible at night for miles around, it remains a landmark of the Manhattan skyline.

In 1905, the Metropolitan decided to place in Ecker's hands supervision of all its financial operations, and created the office of comptroller. A year later, it established for him the post of treasurer. He was 40 years old. He became a director in 1909, vice-president in 1919 and the company's fifth president in 1929. So that he might continue to serve as chief executive officer, the office of chairman of the board was set up for the first time in March, 1936.

When the Metropolitan was mutualized in 1915, the task fell upon Ecker of persuading its stockowners to sell to the company for $6,000,000 their holdings with a face value of $2,000,000. He had no power to compel them to do so. Dividends were limited by statute to 7 per cent. He pointed out that the cash proceeds could immediately be reinvested so as to earn 12 or 15 per cent. But it seemed probable that the shares, if held, would multiply some day hundreds of times in value. His final argument was that, for the sake of public interest, the Metropolitan should cease to be a stock company. Control of its huge investment resources would be a permanent temptation to market operations. Thanks to this plea, he was able to acquire every one of the 80,000 shares.

Company in Health Work.

Four-fifths of the Metropolitan policyholders are in group or industrial insurance, and are therefore largely city dwellers. The death rate of industrial policyholders is about 140 per cent of that for standard ordinary life policyholders. As a matter of enlightened self-interest the company became "the greatest single health agency in the world." It has financed laboratory research into serums for influenza and pneumonia, and conducted nation-wide motor safety campaigns. During a number of years it distributed 800,000,000 copies of health pamphlets at a rate of one every second. Something like 100,000,000 nursing visits have been paid to Metropolitan policyholders. Partly as a consequence of such measures their average life expectation since 1911 has risen from 47 to 61 years.

Project in the Bronx.

The company activity of which Ecker is perhaps proudest, and of which he speaks with youthful ardor, is that of housing, in which the Metropolitan is engaged on a scale which only the Government could surpass. After the World War, it constructed three projects of apartment houses in the Borough of Queens, at a total cost of $7,000,000. These were rented to 2125 families of about 9000 persons at $9 a room per month, and until the depression returned each year a gross profit of 8 or 9 per cent.

The company is now beginning, and expects to have partly ready for occupancy in October, a project on 129 acres in the Bronx, which is to cost between $40,000,000 and $60,000,000. It will have 42,000 rooms and accommodate 13,000 families, with a population larger than that of Poughkeepsie. It is planned for families with incomes of from $35 to $65 a week. The buildings will include shops of all kinds, neighborhood and central, theaters and offices for doctors and dentists. But the housing is to cover only 27 per cent of the area, most of which will be devoted to parks, boulevards and playgrounds.

Only "a stupid and shortsighted landlord," in Ecker's opinion, will build up to 80 or 90 per cent of his ground surface. The prime cause of real estate depreciation, he holds, is obsolescence, and the chief cause of obsolescence is lack of light and air. The Bronx undertaking will prove, he declares, that private industry can furnish on a large scale up-to-date and attractive living quarters at moderate rentals, and still make a profit. In this project, he says, the speculative motive is entirely absent; it is purely an investment enterprise.

Reverse Side of Medal.

The reverse of the medal is that, during recent years, Ecker has experienced some painful ordeals at the hands of congressional investigators. In addition to testimony of the last few weeks regarding the nomination and election of Metropolitan directors, evidence has been recorded that he was paid $50,000 for services in reorganizing the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad, and that he figured on the "preferred list" at the launching of a Van Sweringen holding trust, the Alleghany Corporation, in 1929, by J. P. Morgan & Co. A few years later, the Alleghany Corporation became bankrupt. Ecker's allotment was 1000 shares, which he was permitted to buy at $20, though the public price subsequenly rose to $35. Finally, his son, Frederic Worral Ecker, who is executive vice-president of the Metropolitan and therefore only two steps removed from the post his father occupies, is often nicknamed "the heir apparent," and has been held up as a notable example of nepotism.

Associates' Reply.

Other officers of the Metropolitan reply that while the St. Paul check for $50,000 was made out to Ecker personally, he at once, under an inflexible company rule, indorsed it over to the company, so that the fee was paid to the Metropolitan and not himself. They admit that he made a profit of $15,500 on the Alleghany deal, but they assert the stock was offered to him in January, when there was no market and it might go up or down, and that he did not sell until June. This was one of three occasions on which he purchased stock from J. P. Morgan & Co., it is declared. Ecker is on record as stating that "while in the instance of the Alleghany purchase I did make a profit, my transactions in the other two securities resulted in losses. The three transactions taken together resulted in a loss for me and not a profit."

Ecker's associates affirm that it was Haley Fiske, a former president of the Metropolitan, now dead, who against the wish of both father and son induced the latter to quit a job at the Bankers' Trust Co. and join the Metropolitan's staff. Both felt that the financial opportunities in banking far exceed those in insurance. The younger Ecker is a graduate of Harvard and served overseas as a First Lieutenant, winning the Croix de Guerre and the Distinguished Service Cross for gallantry in action.

Twice Married.

The elder Ecker resides in a 14-room apartment at 660 Park avenue. In 1890 he married Henrietta Worrall Harris, who died in 1931. Their daughter Ethel is Mrs. Heisler Harrington. In April of 1932 Ecker married Mrs. Edith Dally Stafford, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Philippe Dally of Paris. Ecker is a director of the Chase National Bank and Western Union Telegraph Co., vice president of the Union Dime Savings Bank, president of the Provident Loan Society of New York and a trustee of the Consolidated Edison Co. of New York. A past president of the Chamber of Commerce of New York State, he is also an officer of a long list of charities. He is a thirty-second degree Mason, a Noble of the Mystic Shrine and a trustee of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church. President of the Blind Brook Golf Club, he is a governor of the United States Seniors Golf Association and a member of the international committee of the United States Golf Association.

DEACONESS HOSPITAL ANNIVERSARY PAGEANT

About 300 Will Take Part in Performance at Auditorium Today.

About 300 members of Evangelical and Reformed Churches will participate in a pageant, "Highlights in the Ministry of Healing," to be presented at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in Municipal Auditorium.

The pageant is part of the observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Deaconess Hospital, 6150 Oakland avenue. Students from Eden Theological Seminary; members of the Evangelical and Reformed Young People's Federation and various churches will participate. A chorus of 50 from several church choirs will give the musical program.

Written by Sister Beata Schick and other members of the hospital staff, the pageant dramatizes the experiences of a young woman who dreams that she is allowed to witness the work of such figures as St. Francis of Assisi, the Sisters of Magdalene, the Knights Hospitalers, St Vincent de Paul and Florence Nightingale.

In the closing scene 50 student deaconesses in costume will be arrayed across the stage, against a background of nine representative groupings from the preceding acts.

Speaking parts will be taken by Miss Marguerite Connell, Miss Marie Intemann, Paul Eisen and the Rev. F. P. Jens, hospital superintendent.

Confusing Events Abroad With Various Domestic Factors Make For Erratic Stock Fluctuations

Volume of Business Heaviest on Downturns During Week—Final Changes Small —Average Up .5 of a Point.

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP).—The stock market shifted to the winds of European power politics this week, but prices' net changes were small.

The confusing succession of events which accompanied Hitler's further march to the east combined with various domestic factors to develop a series of erratic fluctuations with volume, nfortunately from the "long" point of view, heaviest on the downswings.

While traders viewed the Germano-Rumanian trade pact as acting to avert immediate hostilities, the gobbling up of Memel and the announcement American and British marine underwriters had reimposed war risk insurance on trans-Atlantic cargoes, kept them from heavy commitments.

The market's interest in foreign affairs was well demonstrated by the way in which, almost each day, it followed the pattern traced by London and Amsterdam exchanges, yielding even to changes registered in the street markets which operate in those cities after regular trading hours are over.

At the finish the list was spotty, with minus signs and no single group had managed to work ahead as a whole.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at 49.1 was off .1of a point for the week, the second consecutive decline in the composite. The Dow-Jones average of 65 stocks advanced .5 of a point over the week to 47.58.

Railroad shares were aided by a new hopper full of suggestions for remedial legislation and a slight contra-seasonal rise in freight carloadings. "War baby" stocks, such as the steels and aircraft, enjoyed demand and coppers, in some cases pulled ahead on an increasing call for the metal for export and the virtual disappearance of resale copper.

Few Utilities Popular.

A few utilities continued in popular favor, although there were soft spots in the division. The specialty list, including building material stocks, tended to dip, as did chemicals. A report by Dun & Bradstreet that retail trade for the week had not been up to expectations coincided with weakness in some of the merchandising issues.

Farm implement stocks were inclined to be heavy and the oils failed to make much progress.

Apart from their fears of trouble in Europe, traders were chary about the increasing confusion over the chances for tax revision legislation at this session of Congress, the battle between the budget balancers and spenders in the national Legislature and what was described in some quarters as a lull in the recovery move. The Associated Press index of industrial activity remained unchanged for the week at 87.9 per cent of the 1929-30 average.

Commodity futures contracts mostly moved in rhythm with the stock market, and got about as far in the end. Narrow were corn, cotton, crude rubber, cottonseed oil and wool tops. The number 3 sugar contract was ahead, as were raw hides, Straits tin and Santos coffee. Wheat aud cottonseed oil tended downward.

In the spot markets, declines were recorded for hides, rubber, steel scrap, eggs, lard, corn, wheat, rye, cotton, cotton cloth and silk. Higher were bituminous coal, butter, lamb, oats and tin.

Lower Trend at Week-End.

The market today emerged from the rather nervous week with trends generally pointing slightly lower.

While sentiment was buoyed to some extent by the latest New Deal move to taper future increases in Social Security payroll tax rates, brokers thought the complex foreign situation was still a substantial buying deterrent.

Lightness of dealings on the day's decline provided some encouragement for analysts, although it was not overlooked that yesterday's advance was accomplished on an exceptionally meager turnover.

Transfers for the two hours totaled 439,270 shares, the smallest aggregate since Feb. 18, and compared with 1,007,240 last Saturday. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .2 of a point at 49.1.

Despite the predominance of slipping tendencies in the brief session, a number of issues managed to come out with modest net advances.

Among Day's Losers.

Off fractions to around a point or so at the close were U. S. Steel, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda, Kennecott, Westinghouse, J. C. Penney, Southern Railway.

Exhibiting plus signs at the finish were Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Allied Chemical, Sperry, Montgomery Ward, American Telephone, Santa Fe and N. Y. Central.

A bolstering influence was seen in the continued heavy flow of foreign gold to the United States, with "earmarked" funds now around $1,000,000,000.

FARMERS' CASH INCOME FOR 2 MONTHS, $1,105,000,000

Decline of Only $2,000,000 From Year Ago—Government Payments Heavier.

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP).—Farmers' total cash income, including Government payments, aggregated $1,105,000,000 during the first two months of this year, a decline of only $2,000,000 under the like 1938 period, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Farm cash income from marketings in the first two 1939 months at $1,008,000,000 were 5 per cent under the $1,059,000,000 last year. However, Government payments of $97,000,000 were a little over twice the $48,000,000 in the like 1938 period, bolstering the flow of dollars into the farm pocketbook.

WHOLESALE PRICES OF KEY COMMODITIES SAG

Markets Confused as Efforts Are Made to Read War Signs in Europe.

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP).—Wholesale prices of key commodities mostly sagged in confused markets this week as speculators tried to read the war signs in Europe.

Wheat, usually most sensitive to the recurrent flareups of war fears, declined on what some market observers took to be speculative judgment the present crisis, like that last September, would blow over without embroiling Europe in war. But the market also was influenced by appraisal of domestic crop prospects.

Remembering the spectacular climb of the important raw materials and foodstuffs of world trade in the last war, some traders were inclined to give cautious support to a few staples, such as rubber and silk, on the theory strike was inevitable if Germany and Italy move for a showdown on colonial claims.

Against this, however, they had to weigh indications the European crisis was retarding seasonal improvement in some home industries, prior to the German march into Bohemia, it was noted, textiles and other lines had become more active and industrial raw material prices were looking up a bit.

Drop in Index.

The net result of the week's maneuverings was a further small drop in the Associated Press index of wholesale prices of 35 important staples. It dipped to 66.01 compared with 66.03 the previous week and 69.19 a year ago.

Under the surface, commodities generally seemed to have reached fairly solid foundations. In contrast with violent fluctuations from 1929 through 1937, most staples for months have clung to a rather stable course.

Butter futures rallied from a previous sharp decline. Tin advanced on a cut in the export quota by the international control group for the industry. Cotton futures were off moderately, while the trade waited impatiently to see what Washington would do about the huge surplus accumulating in the United States. As the country's chief export, cotton had much at stake in the changing European map. Germany long was one of the chief buyers.

What Index Shows.

Department Store Sales.

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP).—The Federal Reserve Board estimates department store sales in the week ended March 18 were 5 per cent higher than in the corresponding week last year and that sales for the four weeks ended March 18 were 3 per cent above the similar period last year.

For the four weeks, all of the 12 Federal Reserve districts reported gains over last year except for the Minneapolis, Kansas City and Dallas districts. In the week ended March 18, 10 districts had gains over last year, while the San Francisco area was level with and the Boston district below a year ago.

Odd-Lot Stock Trade.

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP).—The Securities Commission reported today these transactions by customers with odd-lot dealers or specialists on the New York Stock Exchange for March 24: 4020 purchases involving 107,965 shares; 3156 sales involving 80,592 shares.

To Cut Mill Operations.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 25 (AP).—Steel operations in Alabama will decline six points to 72 per cent of capacity next week, when two open hearth furnaces in Birmingham are taken from production by the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Co.

This represents a drop of 11 points from the 83 per cent rate maintained for most of the first quarter. The decline was attributed to slackening of small lot orders and reducing of inventories in some quarters.

JAPAN REAPPEARS AS BUYER OF COPPER

Cut in Tin Quota Is Other Feature of Nonferrous Metals.

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP).—Reappearance of Japan as a buyer of copper and a cut in tin quotas were top news in non-ferrous metal markets this week.

Japan, although not so aggressive a buyer as a year ago—when it was less a question of price than promptness of delivery—took a fair amount of copper at prices ranging from 10.20 to 10.30 cents a pound.

The domestic market appeared encouraged over firmness of the current refiner price of 11¼ cents a pound and some producers were unwilling to dispose of copper early in the week, anticipating higher export prices.

Metal men continued to underscore the sound statistical position of the industry. Fabricators, although estimated to have only enough stocks on hand to last about three weeks, continued to buy on a hand-to-mouth basis, while shipments from fabricators were just about in line with their intake from producers.

The International Tin Council fixed tin export quotas at 40 per cent of basic rates for the second quarter of the year. The first quarter allowance was 35 per cent, plus 10 per cent for buffer stocks, but as the buffer pool was eliminated the change was tantamount to a 5 per cent reduction.

The price of Straits tin advanced ⅜ of a cent a pound to 46⅝ cents at the weekend. The rise followed the export cut, a rise in war risk insurance rates and expanding demand by American tin plate and automobile interests.

Signs of recovery in galvanizing operations were not reflected in quiet zinc markets. Prices were unchanged at 4.50 cents.

WHEAT MARKET FIRM ON LIGHT WEEK-END TRADE

Favorable Weather More Than Offset by Tone of Liverpool and Political Tension Abroad.

CHICAGO, March 25 (AP).—The wheat market was firm in a very light trade today, prices closing as much as ½ cent up and at the session's best level. Slight opening losses were short-lived.

Reports of rains and good growing weather in the domestic winter wheat belt were more than offset by firmness at Liverpool and Winnipeg and continuing political tension abroad.

Wheat closed ⅛@½c higher, May and July 68@67⅞c; corn unchanged to ¼c up, May 47⅝c, July 49⅜c; oats ¼@⅜c up, May 29⅝@¾c; soy beans unchanged to 1c up, May 88¾c; rye ¼@⅜c up, May 41⅞c, lard unchanged to 3 cents higher.

Winnipeg displayed strength, closing ½ ¾@c up. Kansas City finished unchanged to ⅛c up and Minneapolis unchanged to ¼c up.

Beneficial moisture fell over the Southwest wheat area and more was forecast for most of the coming week. There were reports that growing conditions were the best in years for the Dust Bowl region.

The Commodity Credit Corporation announced that Government loans of 1938-39 corn through March 23 totaled $109,103,253 on 191,623,417 bushels, an increase of 10,158,328 bushels for the week.

A comparatively sharp advance carried May oats to 30 cents a bushel, up ⅝c from the previous close and the best level since early in January. Local shipping sales totaled 77,000 bushels.

Rye trade was light and prices firm. Lard was unchanged to slightly higher, reflecting a steady cottonseed oil market.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, March 25.—In the cash grain section Saturday wheat was ½c higher. Offerings were small and quality was lacking. Premiums were firm, with No. 3 red light garlicky grain selling 3½c over the future figure and No. 4, 1c over. Corn was ¼@½c higher. Demand improved and offerings cleared quickly. Mills, elevators and industries bought. Premiums were about steady, with No. 2 yellow selling ¾c to 1c above the May delivery and No. 3, ¼c below. Oats were ½c higher. There was not enough on sale to determine the extent of the demand. Mills and elevators were in the market.

$92,000,000 IN GOLD BOUND HERE OVER WEEK END

Similar Amount Added to Nation's Supply During Week Ended Wednesday, Reserve Bank Reports.

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP).—The resources of official stabilization funds kept foreign monies on a straight course in relation to the dollar during the week.

Full impact of Germany's latest territorial acquisitions was more strongly felt in prices of monies for future delivery—instead of spot rates. The discount on the pound sterling deliverable in 90 days, for instance, widened at one time to 2 3-16 cents, while fluctuations in the spot rate were confined to ⅛ of a cent.

As the week closed, however, a distinctly more cheerful sentiment circulated in money centers. Confirmation of the improvement was found in a sharp jump in the recently shaky Swiss franc and narrowing of discounts on forward rates.

The Swiss francs—apparently still uninfluenced by Government control—dropped about .12 of a cent on the week despite a midweek rebound of more than .03 of a cent.

Other leading currencies, including the pound sterling, the French franc, Netherlands guilder and belga, were about unchanged.

Strong-rooms of trans-Atlantic liners were clogged with more gold headed for United States vaults. In a new shift of what was believed to be both private capital and central bank reserves abroad, a total of around $92,000,000 of the yellow metal was reported ready for shipment to America over the week end. A similar amount was added to the nation's supplies during the week ended Wednesday, according to Federal Reserve figures.

Engagements of gold for shipment here for the week through Friday jumped to $39,064,000 from $10,361,000 in the similar period of last week, the Federal Reserve Bank reported.

An additional $14,862,000 in gold was slated for shipment from England to American vaults, the Federal Reserve Bank reported today.

With trans-Atlantic liners already loaded down with the yellow metal fleeing from war-threatened Europe, the latest additions to present stocks will place United States holdings of the metal well past the $15,000,000,000 mark and at the highest point in this nation's—or any other nation's — history.

A substantial part of the metal was believed to represent European Central Bank reserves as well as private capital.

Aside from a fresh break in the Swiss franc—which dropped .02 of a cent in terms of the dollar—major European monies showed minor changes.

Sterling dropped 1-16 of a cent while the French franc advanced .00 1-16 of a cent. The belga and guilder were unchanged.

LITTLE BOND CHANGE AFTER WIDE SWEEPS

Rails Show Greatest Ranges Over Week—Tapering in Some Foreign Issues.

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP).—The bond market swung sharply up and down during the past week, but around the finish prices were just about where they stood seven days ago, except for tapering in some foreign dollar issues.

Among domestic corporate loans, the widest swings were in the rails, but industrials and utilities also were volatile to changes in sentiment.

The unsettled foreign situation, with the German Reich further extending its territorial boundaries without firing a shot, was a prime jitters-breeder, but President Roosevelt's comment in Washington there could be no revision of taxes on business at this time that might lessen Federal revenues, also served as a mid-week depressant.

Capital markets showed a glint of life during the period with public offerings of $17,500,000 Northern States Power Co. 25-year first mortgage 3½s and $22,500,000 National Distillers Products Corp. 10-year 3½ per cent debentures.

Moreover, Texas Corp. filed a registration statement with the Securities & Exchange Commission for a proposed issue of $40,000,000 of 20-year 3 per cent debentures. Proceeds of the sale, the company said, would be added to working capital and used for plant expansion.

United States Government bonds moved unevenly during the week, but demand of banks and other financial institutions for the Federals for investment purposes lifted many treasuries into higher ground toward the end of the period. Longer-term Governments, dealers reported, showed the best advances.

Among foreign dollar bonds, Belgian, German, Japanese and Polish issues tended downward.

United States Government securities moved up sharply in the bond market today, with gains in some Treasury issues ranging to 11-32 of a point.

Dealings in the Federals were small, however, as they were in securities generally. Transactions in all bonds in the New York Stock Exchange at $2,641,600, face value, were the smallest for any Saturday since Sept. 3, last.

Domestic corporate issues and foreign dollar bonds held about even. Business news was sparse, and the European situation was quiet.

Fractions higher among corporate issues were Chesapeake & Ohio 3½s at 99½, Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s at 63¾, New York Central 5s at 63⅝, American & Foreign Power 5s at 57⅜, Columbia Gas & Electric 5s of '61 at 101⅜, Continental Oil 2¾s at 108⅜, Firestone Tire 3½s at 104, Goodrich 6s at 100½, and International Paper 5s of '47 at 99.

Part of a point lower were Santa Fe 4s of '95 at 108⅝, Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4½s at 12⅛, St. Paul 5s at 8¾, International Hydro Electric 6s at 83⅜, Montana Power 3¾s at 99⅝, Alleghany 5s of '49 at 70 and 5s of '50 (stamped) at 32¾, American Telephone 3¼s of '66 at 108 and International Telephone 5s at 68½.

Among foreigns, Italian 7s of '51 were up 1½ at 64½, while German 7s of '49 were ¼ down at 23½.

Wool Market Survey.

BOSTON, March 25 (U. S. D. A.).—The demand for spot domestic wools was very slow on the Boston market during the past week. Quotations were largely nominal in view of the lack of trading. Sales of small quantities of wool for filling-in purposes were at about steady to slightly easier prices. Graded bright combing fleece wools on this market were quoted at 27 to 30 cents, in the grease, for fine delaine, at 29 to 30 cents for half bloods, at 30 to 31 cents for three-eighths bloods and at 29 to 31 cents for quarter bloods.

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, March 24 (U. S. D. A.)—Little business was being transacted on spot domestic wools on the Boston market today. A few small lots taken for piecing out were bought at prices prevailing earlier in the week. An occasional user placed orders for limited quantities of country packed lots of three-eights and quarter blood bright fleece wools for delivery in late April or in May at 26 to 28 cents in the grease delivered East.

INDUSTRY AND TRADE SHOW GAINS IN MARCH

First Three Weeks of Month Reflect Rise After Slow Period in February.

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP).—The Federal Reserve Board reported today that industrial activity and trade in the first three weeks of March scored "seasonal increases."

In February, the board said, industrial activity held at the January rate without the usual rise and retail trade increased less than seasonally.

The board's seasonally adjusted index declined in February to 98 per cent of the 1923-25 average. In January the index stood at 101 and in February, 1938, it was 79.

In the steel industry, the board said, activity did not show the usual advance in February, remaining at about 54 per cent of capacity. In the first three weeks of March, however, production climbed to 56 per cent.

There was some decline in automobile assemblies in February following a period of considerable increase, but output was in somewhat larger volume in the first three weeks of this month. Output of lumber and plate glass continued to decrease in February, while cement production, which had been curtailed in January, increased considerably.

Textile production in February held about even with January. At cotton and woolen mills activity increased somewhat, but at silk mills there was a marked decline. Output of shoes and tobacco products continued high. In the meat packing industry, activity declined further.

Bituminous coal production was maintained in February and crude petroleum output likewise continued substantial. Anthracite production declined in February and in March was reduced further as mine owners and workers agreed on a curtailment program, the report said.

Factory employment and payrolls increased somewhat less than is usual between the middle of January and the middle of February.

Department store sales were at about the same volume in February as in January, but gained in the early part of March.

LATE DOUKHOBORS CHIEF'S SON CHOSEN AS HIS SUCCESSOR

Peter Verigin, Leader of Sect in Russia, Proclaimed Ruler of 15,000 in Canada.

BRILLIANT, B. C., March 25 (Canadian Press).—Peter Verigin III, head of Doukhobors in Russia, was proclaimed leader today of the 15,000 members of the religious sect in Canada.

He succeeds his father, Peter Petrovich Verigin, who as Peter II ruled the Canadian Doukhobors from 1927 until his death last Feb. 7. The choice was made as 4000 Doukhobors joined here in a final tribute to Peter II.

Pending arrival of the new leader, John Verigin, grandson of Peter II, will act in his stead, assisting in the direction of financial and economic matters.

The first Doukhobors came to Canada in 1892 and established a colony in the Grand Forks district. From this beginning has grown a "Doukhobor empire" with large land holdings, mills and factories.

FIRMIN DESLOGE GROUP BUYS GANAHL DAIRY

Attorney J. Spencer Wolling Among Those Paying More Than $50,000 for Concern.

The Ganahl Dairy Co., owned by J. G. Ganahl, who founded it in 1924, has been purchased by Firmin Desloge, an investment broker, and J. Spencer Wolling, an attorney, for more than $50,000, Wolling announced last night.

The company was incorporated Feb. 21 and the management of the business taken over by the new officers March 1. Of the six stockholders, Desloge and Wolling own a controlling interest; the others are employes of the company.

The transaction involved the dairy herd at the farm at Clayton and Kehrs Mill roads, the pasteurizing plant there, equipment at the distributing point at 300 South Newstead avenue and trucks and paraphernalia used in the business. The name will not be changed.

Ganahl, who owns the farm in the county, will rent to the corporation the real estate in which the equipment is housed. Desloge and Wolling are the principal officers of the new company. Wolling has represented legally both the Desloge and Ganahl families for about 18 years. During a recent illness of Ganahl, he operated the dairy business.

How Secure is SOCIAL SECURITY?
For most of us, social security is as secure as our investments.
And that isn't very secure, if our investment happens to be in buildings constructed with wet lumber.
Such property depreciates rapidly, because of the cracks in walls, warped framework, uneven floors and other troubles.
On the other hand, well-built homes and small apartments are the most stable investment known.
Pre-shrunk, stabilized lumber—moisture-tested piece-by-piece, is one of the most important of all requirements for good construction. Insist on it. Resent a substitute. Nothing but pre-shrunk, stabilized lumber is sold by Goodfellow. They are pioneers in moisture-testing and super grading.

CONSTRUCTION AWARDS IN ST. LOUIS AREA UP

February Contracts for All Building in District Totaled $7,636,000.

Construction contracts awarded in the St. Louis-East St. Louis metropolitan area during February were up to 280 per cent over the total valuation established in the corresponding month of 1938. Residential work was the most active, followed by heavy engineering. Non-residential building also passed the February, 1938 level by a wide margin.

The monthly summary of local construction prepared by C. S. Bennett, the St. Louis manager of Dodge Reports, a division of F. W. Dodge Corporation, emphasized the currently favorable comparison between contracts awarded in the first two months of 1939 and 1938.

"A grouping of all types of building and engineering construction contracts awarded in and around St. Louis and East St. Louis durnig January and February reveals a valuation-jump of more than six and a half millions of dollars beyond the record for those months of last year," Bennett said.

"Residential contracts led the other classifications with an advance of about $4,000,000. Non-residential work moved ahead with a two-months' margin of more than a million dollars and heavy engineering went ahead with $1,342,000."

February contracts for all building and engineering construction, in the St. Louis-East St. Louis metropolitan area of St. Louis County, Missouri and Madison and St. Claire counties, Illinois, amounted to $7,636,000. This includes a gain of 280 per cent over $2,013,000, the valuation recorded for February, last year.

The total of the contracts awarded in the first two months of 1939 was $11,677,000. Last year it was $4,973,000.

Non-residential building for which contracts were awarded in February, amounted to $1,717,000. The corresponding 1938 total was $796,000. A gain of 116 per cent was established last month.

The first two months' awards for non-residential work were valued at $2,502,000, far ahead of $1,316,000, the 1938 total for the same months.

Last month's residential contracts reached $4,687,000 in a tremendous gain over those amountin gto $953,000 in February of last year.

In this classification, contracts in the St. Louis-East St. Louis metropolitan area totaled $5,863,000 during the opening months of the year. The corresponding 1938 total was $1,687,000.

Heavy engineering construction in St. Louis, undertaken by the various governmental agencies and the public utilities, accounted for February contracts totaling $1,232,000. The 1938 record carries the Feruary valuation at $1,970,000.

Engineering contracts awarded in January and February, combined, amounted to $3,312,000 in a long gain over those months of last year, when the total was $1,970,000.

The Dodge Reports summary closes with the assuring comment that actual contract awards for work and materials are the basis for the facts and figures on activities in the St. Louis-East St. Louis metropolitan area.

The "905" Liquor Stores have taken a long-term lease on a storeroom at 6223 Easton avenue, in the Wellston retail district. Extensive alterations are now being made to the premises. The new store is scheduled to be opened March 31.

The Shuchart Realty Co. represented the "905" Liquor Stores. Eugene J. Altheimer, Williams and Calmer, Inc., acted for the lessor.

FIXTURE COMPANY LEASES BUILDING ON N. SEVENTH ST.

The Melman Fixture Co. has leased the three-story Commercial building at 809-11 North Seventh street, between Delmar boulevard and Morgan street, comprising 10,000 square feet of floor space.

The lessee will occupy the building for sales and exhibition purposes. The concern deals in office fixtures and kindred lines. The property is owned by the Eight-O-Nine Corporation. The Henry R. Weisels Co. negotiated the lease, which is for a long term.

Business for sale ads in the Post-Dispatch want pages become business opportunities for many readers with business experience.

18-UNIT BUILDING REPLETE WITH ATTRACTIVE FEATURES

The finishing touches have been given to the three-story 18-unit apartment building at 743-5-7 Westwood drive in Moorlands Addition, Clayton, erected by the Lichtenstein Estate, Inc., real estate operators and builders.

The building is in the Georgian style with slate roof and white shutters. Construction is along the skyscraper lines, with steel girders, with frame work from the basement to the roof. Exterior wells are insulated and waterproofed. Copper plumbing has been used throughout.

The interior is replete with attractive features. There are inlaid hardwood floors, colored bathrooms with illuminated ladies' vanities, hardwood built-in shoe racks and mirrors, Venetian blinds, tiled daylight kitchens, equipped with the newest type of gas ranges, refrigerators, and ventilating fans, with inlaid linoleum floors. Floors and roof are thoroughly nisulated.

The basement contains an 18-car fireproof garage, laundry facilities, janitor quarters and storage space. The garage entrance has electrically operated doors.

The project was financed through the Syndicate Investors, Inc.

WM. M. TAGGERT JR. ACQUIRES DIELMAN ROAD RESIDENCE

William M. Taggart Jr. has purchased a residence of modified colonial design in the Orchards, a new development on the Dielman road, about half a mile north of Ladue road.

The house is of brick and clapboard construction, embellished with large bay windows. The first floor consists of living room, dining room, kitchen, lavatory and large screened porch. There are four bedrooms and two baths on the second floor. Nine large closets are well distributed.

The house stands on an elevation with a comprehensive view of the surrounding country. It was erected by William Clabaugh, contractor. Negotiations in the present transaction were handled by B. Valle Grossman, realtor.

CHAPMAN ICE CREAM CO. BUYS BUILDING NEXT TO PLANT

Arthur S. Martin and Son has effected the sale of the two-story and basement building at 3918 Easton avenue to F. G. and J. H. Larmore, represented in the negotiations by Dewey J. Schmoll, manager of the real estate department of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Co.

The building was immediately leased to the Chapman Ice Cream Co., whose plant is housed in a two-story building occupying adjoining ground. The additional building gives the concern a total frontage on Easton of 108 feet by a depth of 213 feet.

Martin & Son also represented the Chapman concern in the negotiations.

HERE'S THE TRUTH ABOUT USED CARS—and WHY they MUST be sold QUICKLY

—Any Reputable Dealer Will Verify That Statement!

When we make a trade-in allowance on a used car for a NEW one—no matter what the amount allowed—we MUST sell that car as quickly as possible in order to realize our legitimate profit on the NEW car sale. You understand that. But there's a rub—and here it is!

The longer the trade-in remains on our hands, the more it shrinks in value to us. We MUST turn over our used car stocks as soon as possible, in order to purchase new models. After all, OUR profit ACTUALLY is made on NEW car sales.

So, Frankly, Here's Our Proposition to You!

We've been fortunate—we're frank and proud to say—as CHEVROLET dealers. Now we've set a sales quota on NEW 1939 models which makes necessary our disposal of used car stocks as soon as possible. Therefore, we have re-priced ALL our used cars for immediate clearance. And, if you are wise—and we mean just that—and wish to get the utmost in unused transportation, at the lowest maintenance cost—just glance over the representative offerings we make below—remembering that Shearer Chevrolet Built Its Reputation on Service!

For while, as CHEVROLET Dealers, we sell what we think is the best built automobile in its price range today, nevertheless, the policy that has brought our company to its present city-wide prestige is the fact that we insist—

Every Automobile Owner
MUST BE KEPT SATISFIED

regardless of where, or from whom, he purchased his car originally. Now let's check the offers below—and we know, you'll come in this week!

TO A SALESMAN WHO SHOULD BE EARNING $50 A WEEK.

If you are stalled in your progress by some slow-moving organization which won't appreciate your efforts, we want to talk to you. Life is too short to pay the penalty for some one else's shortcomings.

Long ago we learned that salesmen are as good as you treat them.

They are the most important cogs in any organization. If a salesman is happy and prosperous, he can sell.

We have learned that, too. If you are seeking a new employer who worries more about his salesmen than he does about himself or his merchandise, you will find him here. Interview between 9 a. m. and 2 p. m. Monday.

Barbary Coast Wiped Out Quarter of a Century Ago, But Legend Will Not Die

This Section, Long Gone as Such, First Place Visiting Firemen Want to See in 'Frisco.

By Inez Robb

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25.

"THE loveliest colored show in town" is the fading legend still written across Purcell's, the name of a famous—or infamous—cabaret at No. 543 Pacific street, the very heart of the old Barbary Coast.

Today a new, bright sign hangs in front of old Purcell's, gathering dust for lo, these many years. The new sign reads "Future Home of Merli Bros., pottery, glass, china, antique furniture of domestic and imported distinctive creations."

There is the story of Barbary Coast in a nutshell—or two signs. From antics to antiques; from homicide to home furnishings in a generation.

The old Barbary Coast, the most brutal, notorious and obscene vice district in the United States, is gone, but the malodorousness lingers on. In 1906, the fire and earthquake dealt a knockout blow to the Coast. It tried to rebuild, but it never succeeded in recapturing its old rough-and-tumble viciousness. Then civic virtue, egged on by women's clubs, landed a death blow with stringent laws and regulations just before the World War.

● YET VISITING FIREMEN from all over the world scarcely set foot in San Francisco before they demand a sight-seeing tour along Barbary Coast. Although the Coast, as such, disappeared a quarter of a century ago, the legend will not die, and any true San Franciscan worthy the name treasures a sneaking, sentimental pride in the legend.

Today there is absolutely nothing for tourists to see in a district where vice, to toss in a bromide, was once rampant, to say the least. The 400 and 500 blocks on Pacific street were once the very heart of the Coast. But as I walked about these colorless, dusty, dun-hued blocks today, it was all but impossible to imagine that once these streets teemed with people; that there were from 500 to 1000 dance hall girls in each block; that the cabarets, now padlocked and crumbling, were once as sinister as they were gay.

—o—o—

● TODAY THESE TWO BLOCKS are a bleak conglomeration of auto repair shops, vacant buildings, a half dozen cheap restaurants and beer parlors, a sausage factory, a Chinese laundry and a barber shop. In each block two large California wine companies have remade a group of old buildings into warehouses.

"Try Parente's Famous Pisco Punch" read the sign in the Parente Bros. bar, the only spot on the two blocks that looks as if it had escaped the blight of time and moral reform.

"You sure you want Pisco punch, lady?" John, the elderly bartender repeated after me as I edged onto a bar stool. "Why, we ain't had Pisco punch in years. We just haven't taken the sign down.

"That punch was famous when the Coast was the Coast, and I've been in this district 55 years. It was made of Pisco brandy from Pisco, Peru. But we can't get it any more. Anyway, it's no drink for ladies. Why, Duncan Nichols, the Scotchman who invented it, would never sell more'n two drinks of it to any customer.

—o—o—

● "YOU WOULDN'T THINK that this was once the busiest block in the United States, would you?" John said. "Well, mam, in the afternoon, when the ladies promenaded, the street was so black with people, you couldn't push your way through the crowd."

For a brief time this year a brisk if small revival of the old Barbary Coast tradition seemed imminent. A smart promoter, willing to cash in on the Coast's past fame and San Francisco's present World Fair, tried to revive the 500 block on Pacific street under the name of "International Settlement."

A dozen night clubs, restaurants, cafes and cabarets were planned on paper when Barbary Coast's formidable enemy, the vigilant club women of San Francisco, got wind of the affair. That was the end of the Barbary Coast revived as the International Settlement or by any other name. The city resolutely refused liquor licenses to any place in the 500 block. The revival fell flatter than the promoter's face.

A Speaker's Wife

By Emily Post

DEAR Mrs. Post: Our club is having a speaker at its next dinner, who has consented to be with us without receiving his usual fee. This is a woman's group, but at this dinner we are having our husbands with us. I feel that under the circumstances this man's wife should also be invited. Some of the other members of the committee feel, however, that as she is a complete outsider and not even living in this town, it would be out of order to invite her. Will you advise us?

Answer: Evidently this speaker's interest in your club is personal, and it seems to me the least you could do to show your appreciation would be to invite his wife. In fact, I think to do otherwise would be inexcusably rude.

● DEAR MRS. POST: I read in your column that when the wedding is at home, the bride's mother is usually upstairs with her daughter until the last minute, and that of course the father is upstairs, too, waiting to come down with the bride. Who then greets the guests?

Answer: The family's butler or maid or whoever is to perform this service stands at the door and tells arriving guests where the gentlemen are to leave their hats and coats, and the ladies their wraps. This being done, the guests wait at the entrance of the room in which the ceremony is to take place, exactly as they would wait at the foot of the church aisle, until the ushers show them to places. When a house wedding is very big, chairs are sometimes placed in rows and guests are seated. But at most house weddings the ushers simply show them to places to stand.

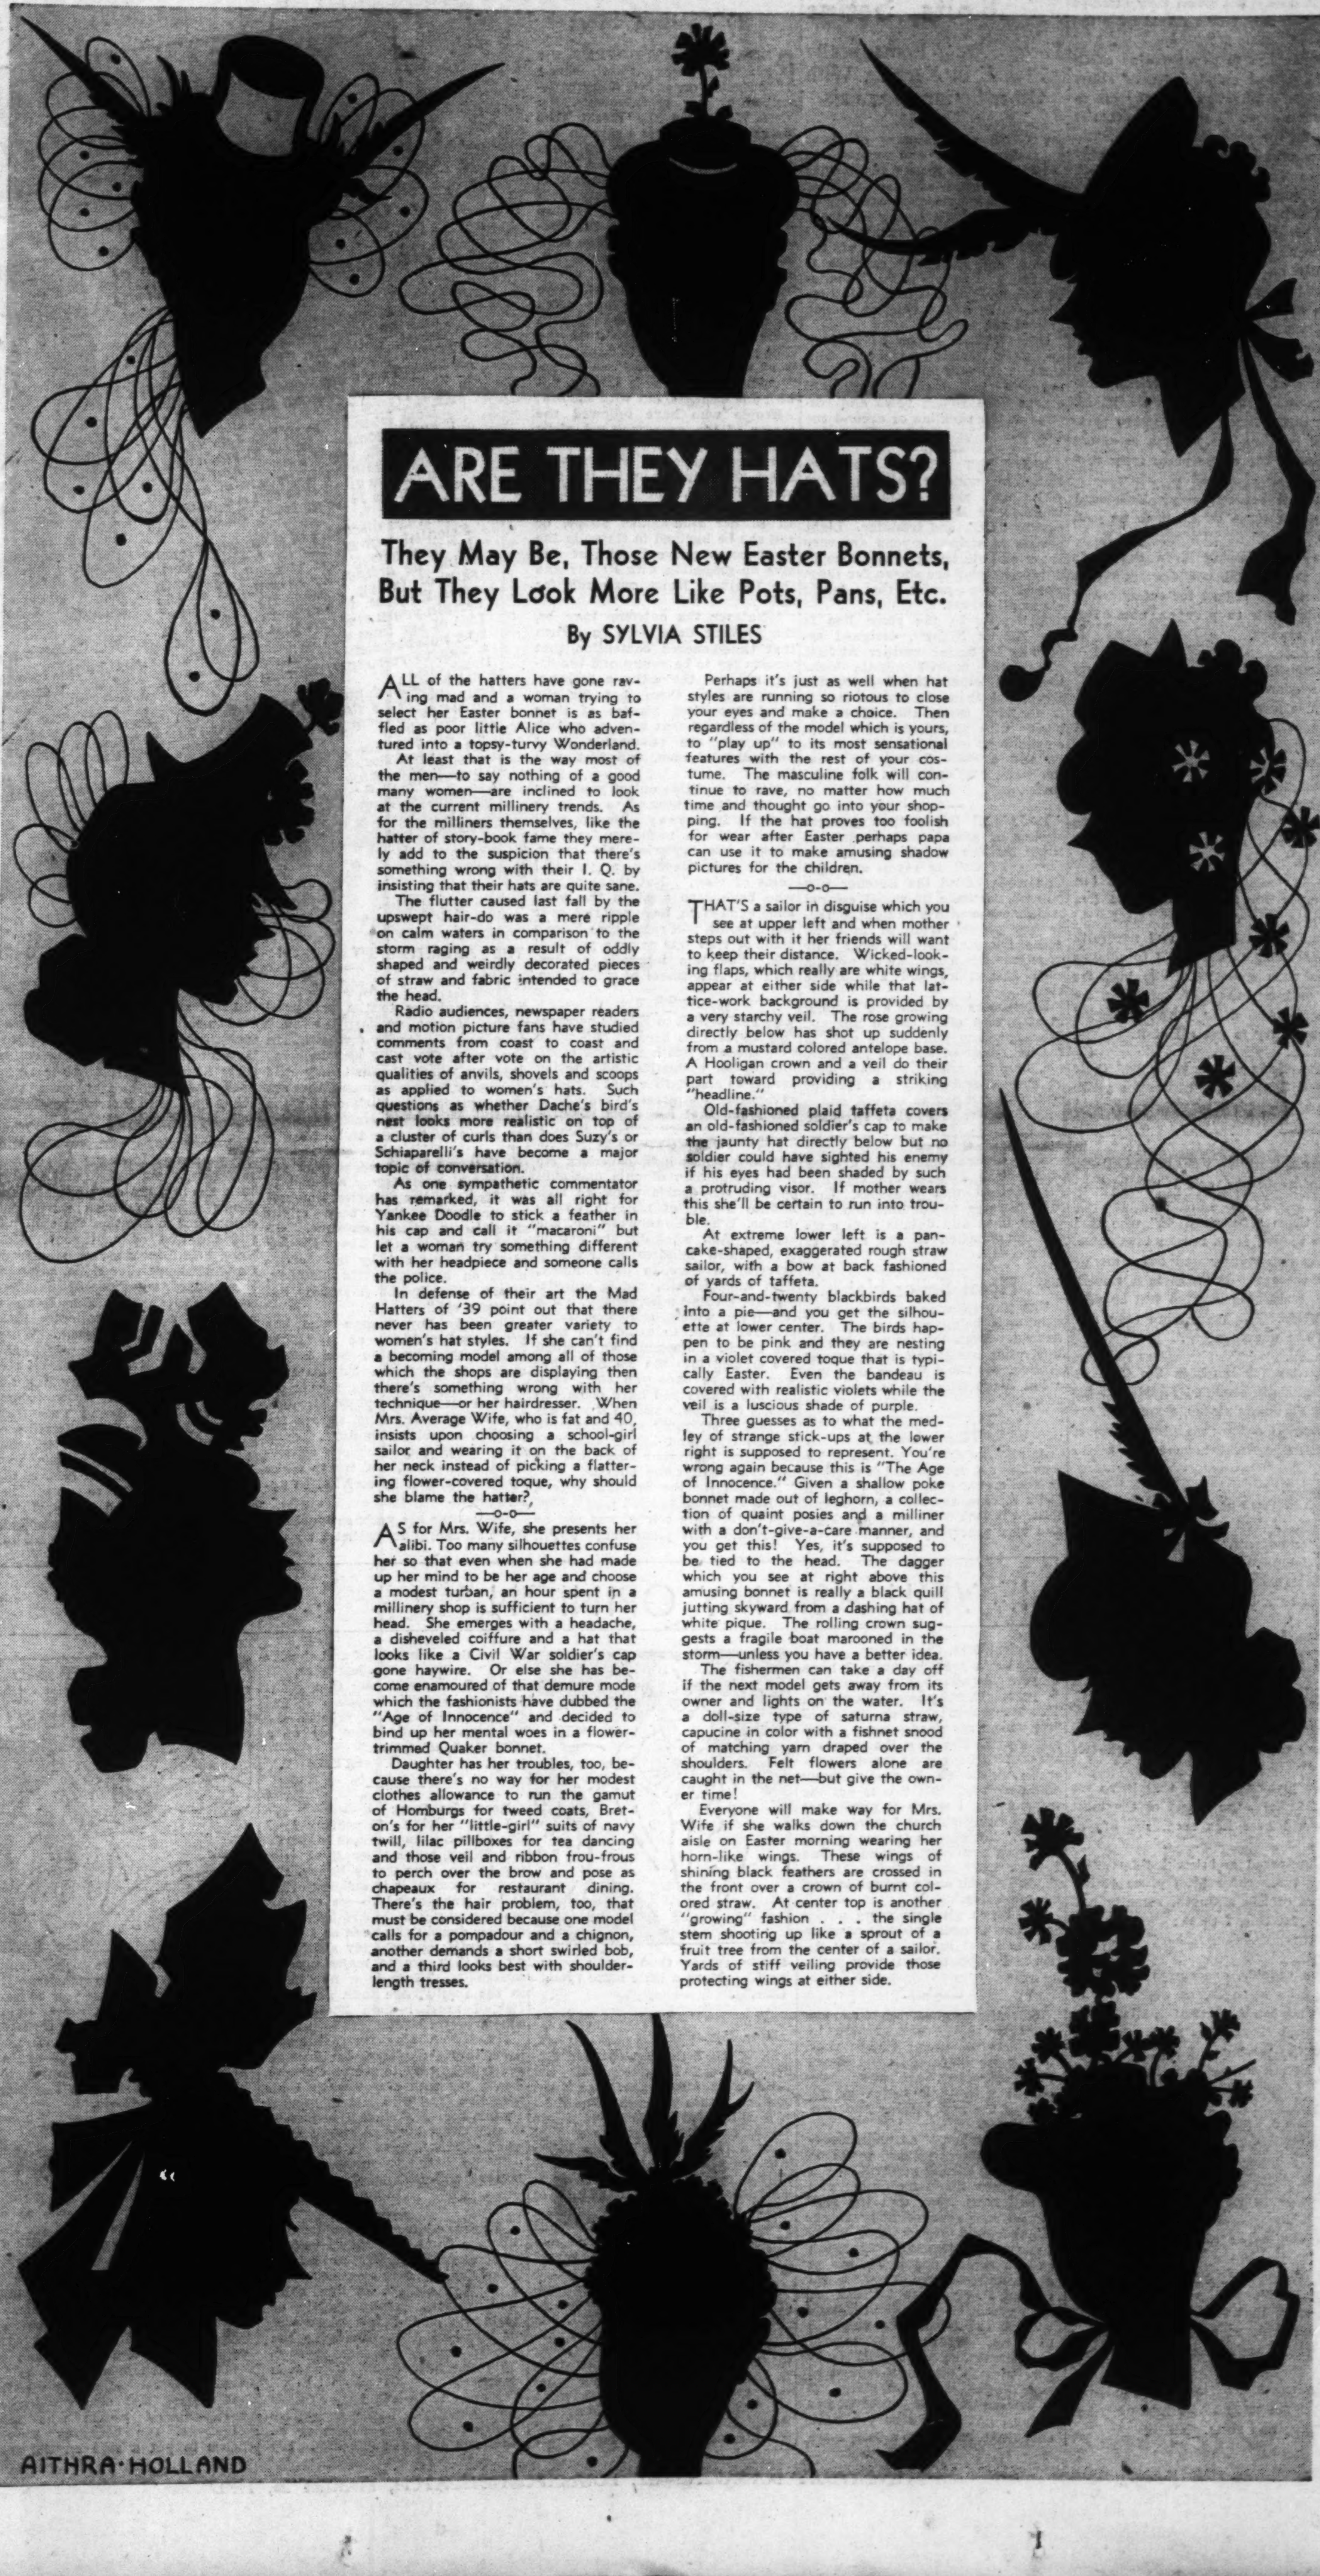
DEAR MRS. POST: When is a man supposed to take off his hat in entering the theater and when may he put it back on again when he leaves?

Answer: He takes his hat off as he passes the ticket taker on the way into the theater but puts it on again before leaving his seat. He does this so he has his hands free to put on his coat.



ARE THEY HATS?

They May Be, Those New Easter Bonnets, But They Look More Like Pots, Pans, Etc.

By SYLVIA STILES

ALL of the hatters have gone raving mad and a woman trying to select her Easter bonnet is as baffled as poor little Alice who adventured into a topsy-turvy Wonderland.

At least that is the way most of the men—to say nothing of a good many women—are inclined to look at the current millinery trends. As for the milliners themselves, like the hatter of story-book fame they merely add to the suspicion that there's something wrong with their I. Q. by insisting that their hats are quite sane.

The flutter caused last fall by the upswept hair-do was a mere ripple on calm waters in comparison to the storm raging as a result of oddly shaped and weirdly decorated pieces of straw and fabric intended to grace the head.

Radio audiences, newspaper readers and motion picture fans have studied comments from coast to coast and cast vote after vote on the artistic qualities of anvils, shovels and scoops as applied to women's hats. Such questions as whether Dache's bird's nest looks more realistic on top of a cluster of curls than does Suzy's or Schiaparelli's have become a major topic of conversation.

As one sympathetic commentator has remarked, it was all right for Yankee Doodle to stick a feather in his cap and call it "macaroni" but let a woman try something different with her headpiece and someone calls the police.

In defense of their art the Mad Hatters of '39 point out that there never has been greater variety to women's hat styles. If she can't find a becoming model among all of those which the shops are displaying then there's something wrong with her technique—or her hairdresser. When Mrs. Average Wife, who is fat and 40, insists upon choosing a school-girl sailor and wearing it on the back of her neck instead of picking a flattering flower-covered toque, why should she blame the hatter?

AS for Mrs. Wife, she presents her alibi. Too many silhouettes confuse her so that even when she had made up her mind to be her age and choose a modest turban, an hour spent in a millinery shop is sufficient to turn her head. She emerges with a headache, a disheveled coiffure and a hat that looks like a Civil War soldier's cap gone haywire. Or else she has become enamoured of that demure mode which the fashionists have dubbed the "Age of Innocence" and decided to bind up her mental woes in a flower-trimmed Quaker bonnet.

Daughter has her troubles, too, because there's no way for her modest clothes allowance to run the gamut of Homburgs for tweed coats, Breton's for her "little-girl" suits of navy twill, lilac pillboxes for tea dancing and those veil and ribbon frou-frous to perch over the brow and pose as chapeaux for restaurant dining. There's the hair problem, too, that must be considered because one model calls for a pompadour and a chignon, another demands a short swirled bob, and a third looks best with shoulder-length tresses.

Perhaps it's just as well when hat styles are running so riotous to close your eyes and make a choice. Then regardless of the model which is yours, to "play up" to its most sensational features with the rest of your costume. The masculine folk will continue to rave, no matter how much time and thought go into your shopping. If the hat proves too foolish for wear after Easter perhaps papa can use it to make amusing shadow pictures for the children.

—o-o—

THAT'S a sailor in disguise which you see at upper left and when mother steps out with it her friends will want to keep their distance. Wicked-looking flaps, which really are white wings, appear at either side while that lattice-work background is provided by a very starchy veil. The rose growing directly below has shot up suddenly from a mustard colored antelope base. A Hooligan crown and a veil do their part toward providing a striking "headline."

Old-fashioned plaid taffeta covers an old-fashioned soldier's cap to make the jaunty hat directly below but no soldier could have sighted his enemy if his eyes had been shaded by such a protruding visor. If mother wears this she'll be certain to run into trouble.

At extreme lower left is a pancake-shaped, exaggerated rough straw sailor, with a bow at back fashioned of yards of taffeta.

Four-and-twenty blackbirds baked into a pie—and you get the silhouette at lower center. The birds happen to be pink and they are nesting in a violet covered toque that is typically Easter. Even the bandeau is covered with realistic violets while the veil is a luscious shade of purple.

Three guesses as to what the medley of strange stick-ups at the lower right is supposed to represent. You're wrong again because this is "The Age of Innocence." Given a shallow poke bonnet made out of leghorn, a collection of quaint posies and a milliner with a don't-give-a-care manner, and you get this! Yes, it's supposed to be tied to the head. The dagger which you see at right above this amusing bonnet is really a black quill jutting skyward from a dashing hat of white pique. The rolling crown suggests a fragile boat marooned in the storm—unless you have a better idea.

The fishermen can take a day off if the next model gets away from its owner and lights on the water. It's a doll-size type of saturna straw, capucine in color with a fishnet snood of matching yarn draped over the shoulders. Felt flowers alone are caught in the net—but give the owner time!

Everyone will make way for Mrs. Wife if she walks down the church aisle on Easter morning wearing her horn-like wings. These wings of shining black feathers are crossed in the front over a crown of burnt colored straw. At center top is another "growing" fashion . . . the single stem shooting up like a sprout of a fruit tree from the center of a sailor. Yards of stiff veiling provide those protecting wings at either side.

Dreams Up Parties on Large Scale

Alfred I. Barton Puts on Real Eye-Poppers.

By Lucius Beebe

NEW YORK, March 25.

ALTHOUGH various other persons contrive to insinuate their occasional whoopee into the public prints for greater lineage, America's authentic No. 1 party giver probably is the fabulous Alfred I. Barton, sometime of Montauk Manor, on Long Island, sometime courier to the late President Wilson and currently manager of Miami Beach's very snooty, very costly and very chic Surf Club. Dreaming up routs, festivals, pageants, charades, barn raisings and feastings is the breath of Barton's life. Sometimes he arranges them for other folk; just as often he evolves them for the pleasure of his own friends and guests. And since he enjoys as clients of the Surf people to whom money is less than no consideration at all and has at his disposal an imposing organization, the finished product is likely to be an eye popper of no mean order.

AS AN INDEX of his prestige as a sort of synthetized Ward McAllister and Lucullus stands the circumstance that every New York social reporter and columnist of importance feels that his news coverage of the glamour scene must include at least one pilgrimage to Florida every year to tear a grouse and empty a couple of magnums of Mumms with Alfred.

Despite, however, the almost stupifying splendors of Barton's home entertaining and his dinner parties at the Surf, it is at the Surf's Saturday evening galas that his genius for running up supercharades finds its fullest expression. A staff of eight artists, scenic designers and carpenters is constantly at work on the club's premises executing decorations and sets for these occasions from Barton's preliminary sketches, and the patio, lounge and pool are transformed on successive weeks into the Taj Mahal, a trailer camp or a preview of the New York World's Fair, as may suit his whim. For the trailer camp evening he rounded up a score of the most ancient and battered jalopies to be found in Florida, the home of the disintegrated T Model heap, and the guests drove them merrily around the lobbies and restaurants, oversetting tables and dowagers and colliding amidsts fountains of glass, spare parts and debutantes. The only thing that prevented him from having elephants at the Taj Mahal evening, and very cross he was, too, about it, was that there was no door to the club big enough to admit them.

NOTHING had ever baffled Alfred before. On one occasion he had an airplane load of lobsters flown from Gloucester. Not for eating purposes—heaven forbid anything so utilitarian—but as decorations to a mousse of English sole served at a private dinner. He is, too, a great hand at inventing costly little elegances and never misses an opportunity to serve individual water ices in entire pineapples, one to a guest, or to have tables for 300 built entirely of ice specially frozen so as not to melt and the gelid depths of each block decorated with rare orchids frozen in. It is a tenet of the Miami creed that if anybody ever were so coarse as to command a pork chop at the Surf a whole roast pig would be served up and all but the single chop at once tossed into the adjacent Gulf Stream.

For the last nine years Alfred has been arbiter of elegances to the Surf. He just goes into a trance and suddenly the entire staff of 150 servants finds itself in moujik costume and serving dinner out of sleighs for an evening in Old Moscow. The force had to learn how to tie turbans for the Taj Mahal night last week and a Hindoo was specially imported to coach them in the art much as Brooks Brothers sends around a professional Ascot tie tier to Manhattan's better weddings.

For his final gala of the year Barton is now muttering dreamily about a pageant representing the history of civilization from earliest recorded times down to the inaugural of Chester A. Arthur. He's always wanted to represent the Burning of Rome and the signing of the Concordat of Worms, and he feels he can include both of these. Also he can fill the swimming pool with crocodiles to represent Nero's gardens. One of these days he says he's going to reproduce the Creation right out of Genesis, and when Alfred says "Fiat Lux," the populace of Miami will be quick to reach for their sun glasses. The original evolution of the universe will be as a third Shubert road company compared to Alfred's version of it.

HOLLYWOOD'S HOPPER

by HEDDA HOPPER

HOLLYWOOD, March 25.

SOME of our Hollywood stars seem to have dual personalities. When fighting over the terms of a contract, the old wolf spirit comes right to the fore. And lucky for them it does. But when they attempt any other kind of a business deal, they're only lambs marked for the slaughter.

VIRGINIA BRUCE.

A movie star has to pay twice as much for everything, and stand a lot of abuse because people think stars will pay off to protect their names. Landlord graft has been going on for years among them. The whole acting profession should give a vote of thanks to Virginia Bruce for carrying her house damage case into court.

Just as Clark Gable fought that sensational case brought against him some time back, when a woman whom he'd never seen claimed he was the father of her child. Why, he even had to prove he wasn't in the same country. A star with less courage than Clark might have paid off, only to be blackmailed again and again.

—O—O—

● MANY ACTORS were the victims of real estate sharks, now largely exterminated through the action of the real estate board. Wasn't it Fred Niblo who built a beautiful home on expensive acreage on a hill top, and, after the first rain, had to build a retaining wall at a cost of around $40,000 to prevent the entire place from slipping into the meadow below?

Realizing their own weakness in this respect, many Hollywood stars employ business managers. Some of these turn out to be godsends, others are worse than wolves.

A business manager gets a salary for keeping down the star's expenses and seeing that he gets all the interest and discounts that are due him and invests his income with due regard for safety. And he should protect him from those who seek to prey on him. But wolves are more common than angels, always.

—O—O—

● IT'S THE WOLVES who are responsible for the fact that many of our stars are loaded down with enormous estates which they didn't want in the first place. Expensive jewels and other possessions are urged upon them because the manager is the kind who grafts a cut of everything sold to his employer.

Urging actors to buy enormous estates on the flattering assumption that his station requires it, is the pet trick of most managers. Stars are so busy fighting to keep their places in the sun, fighting for good pictures, studying to give better performances, their time further taken up with demands the studios make upon them, that they don't realize what's being put over.

Here we have the greatest earning capacity in the world, but there aren't two in 10 who put it away for a rainy day and live on the interest.

It's a case of keeping up or ahead of the Joneses and naturally they're spending income. It's the easiest thing in the world to acquire a staff of servants. Sure, the house runs smoothly. The business manager sees to that. But when the earning capacity diminishes, try to run that place with a skeleton staff. And after you've struggled hopelessly with that for a couple of years, try to get rid of it.

—O—O—

● THEN THERE are the kind of guardians who have robbed their children so flagrantly that the stars have been in the courts for years and will be as long as the kids have a penny left to fight over.

Smart people, like Mae West, put all their holdings in a corporation and own nothing. Mae did that after a fake threw himself in front of her car, hoping for damages. Nothing was hurt but his racket and one studio made it into a picture called "Ambulance Chaser."

Then we have the screen agents, those "10-per-centers" who find jobs and contracts for all of us. When they're good, they're invaluable. They put tremendous skill into getting opportunity and more money for their clients. But with many of them the business is a racket.

Eventually, I hope that caution and business acumen will be part of the training of every actor and actress. For they, more than any other class of people, are the prey of the unscrupulous.

—O—O—

● HEDY LAMARR joined Gene Markey for lunch in the Cafe de Paris yesterday. Gene had several beautifully groomed females at his table when his wife walked in wearing burgundy slacks, a long red fox coat, and high heeled shoes. Joan Bennett set a fast pace in smart dressing when she was Mrs. Markey. Hedy will have to do better than this.

—O—O—

HELEN MYRON, who dresses Jane Withers at Twentieth Century-Fox, was registering to vote on the lot. Asked what her party was, Helen queried, "What's in now?" "Democrats," came the answer. "Well, I'll take the other one," says Helen. . . . Helen tells me that Jane Withers is on a meat and vegetable diet and has lost four inches around the waist. She wants to be a beautiful baby!

He Walked Apart

By Elsie Robinson

IT GETS me down, sometimes—all the hurry and the worry and the pressure of these dizzy days. Makes me feel as you so often feel . . . as if I'd lost my bearings.

When times like that come, there's just one phrase that helps me most. A short phrase, yet it holds, I believe, the secret of the most generous and courageous like the world ever has seen, the life of Jesus of Nazareth.

A poor boy—born in obscurity—hampered and heckled by every kind of cruelty and corruption during those three brief years of His ministry; what miracle was the source of His strength, serenity and unstinted service? No miracle at all—just this, I think:

"He walked a little way apart."

—O—O—

AGAIN AND AGAIN, as His story unfolds, one comes upon that phrase. At every demand on His gentle strength, at every test of His gallant spirit, one finds Him following the same trail in His search for rest and re-creation of body and spirit. Invariably He would leave the clamorous crowd . . . turn from the pressure of heat and haste and—"walk a little way apart." And, having walked, He always would return—renewed.

—O—O—

● SO MANY SCENES. A jostling crowd. Sick men on litters . . . Beggars in whining droves. A leper fumbling, with his blind, blank face. A sneering general in his chariot. A sobbing, starving mother with her dying babe. A man who moaned, "Oh, Master, I believe—help Thou my unbelief! A sick world clutching at His single store of strength and faith! Where did He find the answer that He gave . . . the strength which healed the blind and cured the lame and lifted dead men from their sealed tombs?

"He walked a little way apart!"

—O—O—

HE TURNED AWAY, a moment, from that tortured throng . . . and all that draining sense of hurt and hate and wrong—and bared His heart. And, in the quiet, felt His Father's presence fill Him—like a song!

Oh, Father, help me, too, to turn my heart from sin and pain. And in the silence as I walk apart, help me to find Thy healing peace again. And so be cleaned of my own fear and stain. Amen.

THE WORLD AS WOMEN SEE IT

Lighter Gowns Are Replacing Knits, Satins

They Are Romantically Styled, in Keeping With Other Spring Essentials.

GOWNS and pajamas of sheer cottons, silks, and rayons are beginning to replace the heavier knits and satins, and for the most part they are as romantically styled as the rest of the spring wardrobe essentials. Ruffles, flounces and sashes characterize most of the gowns, and a typical example is the flowered batiste gown in shades of blue and pink, with a wide blue ribbon sash and a swirling scallop around the hemline.

Other cotton gowns have black or dark colored ribbons run through the lacy neckline, a charming and old-fashioned touch; still others have ribbon bows and rosettes at the neckline or around the sleeves.

—o-o—

FLOWERY PRINTS are especially in evidence, although the white and pastel dotted swisses, trimmed in lace and ruffles, are equally dainty and feminine. Light pastels in striped rayons are very sheer and flattering, and satins in lighter weights are shown for those women who prefer that fabric above all others.

A novelty in the gown line is the Midriff Nightie, designed especially for hotter weather. At first glance the midriff nightie looks like any other flowered batiste gown, but then you notice that it is in two parts, the rib-length blouse with puffed sleeves and an elastic band enabling it to fit snugly, and a skirt flaring out from the waist and ending in the usual ruffle.

—o-o—

PAJAMAS follow the general styling of gowns, with models in sheer batistes and heavier crinkle crepes, as well as rayon and silk. One style, called the Butcher Boy pajama, is made of pastel colored crinkle crepe with a straight, butcher boy jacket, trimmed in thick white fringe. Another clever pair of pajamas is made like an overall, with suspenders and a separate blouse.

Housecoats of cotton are keeping in step with other cotton lingerie. One especially picturesque style is the housecoat of checked gingham, red, blue or black, with white eyelet embroidery edging the low cut neck and full puffed sleeves, and a wide Southern Belle skirt sweeping the floor.

Above all things the new spring gowns, pajamas, and other articles of intimate apparel are designed for comfort and lightness. That they manage to combine the necessary lines and details with style and imagination is the more to their credit.

Floral Sailor Hat

The tiny extreme hats aren't the only ones being made entirely of flowers. Even the more conservative sailor comes in a totally floral version, for those women who like a hat that's trim and pretty all in one.

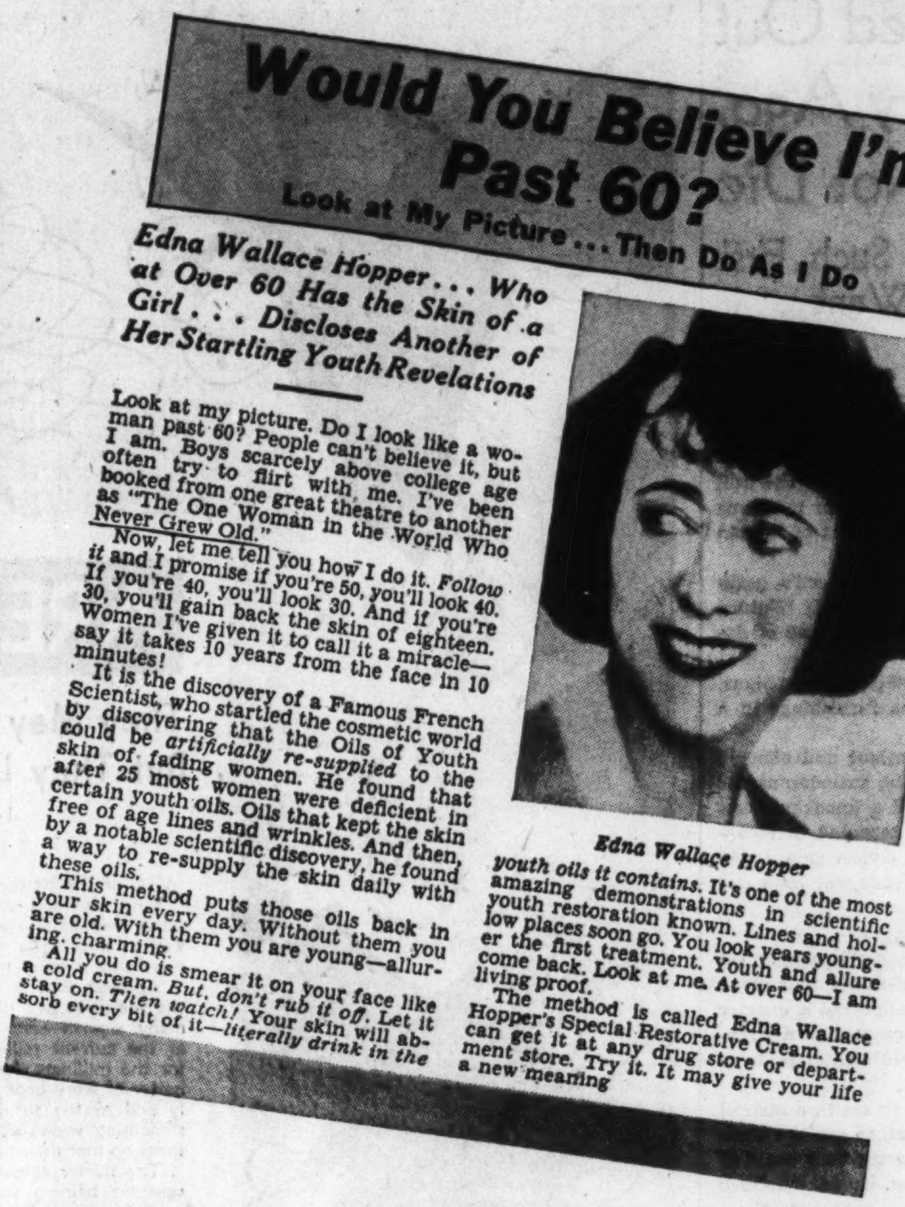
Gift in China

A gift in China for the bride who has not yet selected her dishes is the creamer and sugar set in Della Robbia, the soft blue pattern that will look well with anything, and very pretty by itself.

'WOMAN Who Never GREW UP'

Will History Give This Title to 75-Year-Old Edna Wallace Hopper?

By Clarissa Start



Would You Believe I'm Past 60?

Look at My Picture . . . Then Do As I Do

Edna Wallace Hopper . . . Who at Over 60 Has the Skin of a Girl . . . Discloses Another of Her Startling Youth Revelations

Look at my picture. Do I look like a woman past 60? People can't believe it, but I am. Boys scarcely above college age often try to flirt with me. I've been booked from one great theatre to another as "The One Woman in the World Who Never Grew Old."

Now, let me tell you how I do it. Follow it and I promise if you're 50, you'll look 40. If you're 40, you'll look 30. And if you're 30, you'll gain back the skin of eighteen. Women I've given it to call it a miracle—say it takes 10 years from the face in 10 minutes!

It is the discovery of a Famous French Scientist, who startled the cosmetic world by discovering that the Oils of Youth could be artificially re-supplied to the skin of fading women. He found that after 25 most women were deficient in certain youth oils. Oils that kept the skin free of age lines and wrinkles. And then, by a notable scientific discovery, he found a way to re-supply the skin daily with these oils.

This method puts those oils back in your skin every day. Without them you are old. With them you are young—alluring, charming.

All you do is smear it on your face like a cold cream. But, don't rub it off. Let it stay on. Then watch! Your skin will absorb every bit of it—literally drink in the youth oils it contains. It's one of the most amazing demonstrations in scientific youth restoration known. Lines and hollow places soon go. You look years younger the first treatment. Youth and allure come back. Look at me. At over 60—I am living proof.

The method is called Edna Wallace Hopper's Special Restorative Cream. You can get it at any drug store or department store. Try it. It may give your life a new meaning

THE ADVERTISEMENT WHICH BROUGHT MISS HOPPER TO THE ATTENTION OF THE FEDERAL TRADE COMISSION.

EDNA WALLACE HOPPER, the modern Peter Pan, Ninon d'Enclos, or, as less literally described by her press agents, the "One Woman in the World Who Never Grew Old," is again in the news, this time not with the stern regime of diet, exercise, cold baths, cold creams, and cold comfort that had all the youth and beauty seekers agog in the 1920s, but because of a trifling trouble with the Federal Trade Commission. The commission, it seems, has been scrutinizing with gimlet eyes an advertisement in which she boasts, "Boys scarcely above college age often try to flirt with me," and they have come to the conclusion that the 75-year-old Edna—for that, as closely as any woman's age can be approximated, is hers—is flirting, not with Joe Colleges, but with the law.

People who have followed the career of the grandma-aged girlie with alternate awe and amusement are inclined to wonder what effect this tripping-up by the foot of the F. T. C. will have on Edna Wallace Hopper. Will she take it all in her slim-ankled stride, or will she be inclined to throw in the night cream glove in disgust and give up grappling with Beauty and the Business Beast once and for all?

Whatever the outcome may be, the incident does seem to affirm that time-honored contention that women try to be young and beautiful, not for the esthetic satisfaction it gives them, not for the chartreuse-edged glances of their sisters, but so that men, or college boys who are reasonably exact facsimiles of men, will flirt with them.

Making a fetish out of youth per se has always seemed to us to be pretty silly, anyway, although we'll admit we're a pushover for such phrases as "growing old gracefully" and "keeping a youthful point of view." But those of you who have been aged in the wood long enough to have worries over losing youth will recall that Edna's point of view was never a youthful one. She was intensely serious, with the seriousness of stodgy age.

WITNESSES to Edna's personal appearance here in 1926 when she was but a stripling of 62, touting her cosmetics and offering herself as a model for that mythical advertising character, "You too," will recall that her day's whirl of gaiety began with arising from a pillowless bed, where she lay on her back under light coverlets. No cozy communion of chin and shin beneath the double wool, no last-minute hiding of nose in downy depths. When Edna woke up, she got up. And what did she get up to? Fifteen minutes of vigorous exercise in time to lively music, then a cold bath, not a spingle-spangle hit and miss shower, but a tub into which she descended, posterior first, to avoid, she said, the shock. Personally we contend she slipped into the ice floes that way because once you start in a tub backwards you have some difficulty stopping, whereas if you get in feet first, you'll end up sitting on the edge and loudly splashing the water with your fingertips for the benefit of those outside.

The rest of the Spartan regime, which extended to mud packs, diet, and water-wave combs, was just as alluring to the pioneering spirit, just as arduous to the pampered flesh. It was during the lamb chop and pineapple diet era, but her design for living also included days on which she had only cold consomme, or two oranges with milk of magnesia. Restrictions on the spirit included cultivating repose for the face, a true test of fortitude at the bridge club. And all that, the grim humorless routine of self denial, was sternly adhered to by Edna and her disciples, ironically enough so that they might simulate careless, carefree, extravagant youth. The Hopper ideal is evidenced by her statement on her sixty-third birthday, "I am mentally and physically but 15 years old."

Certainly any woman who has progressed mentally at all looks back with horror on her callow, melodramatic 15-year-old state of mind. Nor should the 15-year-old appearance be a physical aim. Youth, often charming, always appealing, is seldom beautiful. Young girls, being a shade more observant than their elders, try to make up for this lack by striving to appear older.

The results are perhaps touching, but not nearly so pathetic as the sight of women of 30 and upward clad in school girl hair ribbons and socks, cultivating little girl mannerisms and little-girl voices, watching their diets, watching their chin lines, watching in fact, everything but the snickers their antics arouse.

The end to Edna Wallace Hopper's unceasingly strenuous means, are, we gather from the college boy quotation, romances. Let us delve back through the clippings and see if the game has been worth the candle, not to mention the chill tub and the diet of cold soup. The Hopper in Edna's name came from De Wolf Hopper, for Edna, as someone quipped, was "one of his early wives." Since the Mrs. Hoppers numbered six, that indicates little as to preferential charm. When the marital boat sprang a leak, she married A. O. Brown, stock broker, in 1908. There too her battling average soared and the Browns separated for 13 years and were then reunited for a much publicized second honeymoon. In the interim, she announced her engagement to a British army officer, in 1924, whose name she declined to reveal, because, she admitted she had "already lost a couple of husbands that way." In 1926 she called off a wedding with a French Duke because he was too expensive even for a cosmetic queen.

After ducking the Duke, she rejoined Husband Brown and records indicate no further loves, although at one time she had a drummer jailed for "writing amorous and obscene letters."

These didoes were good publicity, but scarcely an indication of the more abundant life.

Now it would seem that she has suffered the last crushing blow, with this threat of the F. T. C. to spy on her peregrinations and determine whether college boys actually give her the eye. If they don't, she may as well admit that old rocking chair's got her. As a business, Youth with the capital yumph, netted her a tidy sum. As a woman, it availed her nothing. She's in the same boat with all the other 75-year-old women—out of the race with Hedy Lamarr.

Poor Edna! If she treasured the indiscriminate come-ons of college boys as much as her ad seems to indicate, she'll probably feel pretty bad about it. And if she does, she ought to go down in history, not as the Woman Who Never Grew Old, but as the Woman Who Never Grew Up.

GIRL ABOUT TOWN

By Clarissa Start

WE spent the part of a most stimulating day recently with Elda Vettori, Metropolitan Opera singer, and native St. Louisan who returned to the local heath for a whirl of six concerts in as many days. Nor was the whirl confined solely to her musical life.

In the two hours we visited her at her sister's home, 4936 Berthold avenue, she gave a singing lesson to a friend, granted an interview, prepared for her concert, answered calls, and kept dashing into other parts of the house to be sure various guests were being properly entertained. Although it is more than 15 years since she made her first operatic appearance, her vitality and vivacity are tremendous. In the afternoon we witnessed her final concert, at Cleveland High School, an annual stopping point.

THE CONCERT began at 1 p. m. but at 2:15 she was still singing encore after encore, numbers she thought up on the spur of the moment, some of them with her arms around the blushing president of the senior class, blowing kisses to Principal Maddox, crying into her red chiffon handkerchief at the end of one number, swirling the skirt of her ankle length black chiffon dress in a Carmen selection, bobbing the black feather turban that topped the ensemble.

So contagious was her dramatic manner that the high schoolers, usually averse to anything classical, or in their term "long hair," cheered quite in the continental manner, as a tribute to her personality as well as to her voice.

When she is not traveling, Miss Vettori is teaching at her school at Asheville, N. C., which she has in partnership with Miss Blanche Loftain, her business manager. The two of them live in a forest-surrounded house, called Casa del Pace, House of Peace. One is inclined to wonder whether there is ever any lull in the tension where the singer holds forth.

A MAN who is practically always "up in the air" is J. N. Bogoff, district manager for a hosiery manufacturer, who on a trip to St. Louis a few days ago completed 1,105,000 miles of traveling via plane. When you've taken a firm grip on your chair and spelled out those aughts you'll realize that that's quite a bit of cloud gazing. But Mr. Bogoff, when we tracked him down, looking quite miserable way deep in the bowels of the earth here, was very modest about it.

"I'm nervous," he explained. "Can't sit still for long at a time, that's why I have to travel fast. Once I took a new car out and ran it up to 90. Just nervous."

Mr. Bogoff, you see, is not the kind of man you'd take on a bicycling tour through England.

—o-o—

HE BEGAN his ascents into the ether in 1914 when planes were mere cracker boxes compared to those of today. He has flown with Clarence Chamberlain, Dick Merrill and Eddie Rickenbacker, among many others. The only escapes he has had are the "ones that got away." Two examples: Once on a Chicago-to-Omaha trip, his plane had orders to land, and stopped at St. Joseph, Mo. Becoming impatient, he took a train to Omaha. Meanwhile the plane resumed its flight and crashed shortly afterwards. On another occasion he waited at Cleveland for a plane that never arrived.

None of this has flustrated Mr. Bogoff, however, nor has he ever been air sick. Air sickness, he told us, comes from trying to fight the motion of the plane. You should try to ride with the rhythm, just like posting on a horse. Mr. Bogoff has never seen us post on a horse.

This perennial plane passenger is just another man at heart. Last year he took his wife on her first plane trip from Chicago to New York. Expecting her to get woozy he also took his motion picture camera and at dinner time set it up in readiness, while his wife ate. Much to his disgust, and to our satisfaction as a feminist, Mrs. Bogoff asked for another piece of chicken.

FOR THOSE PERSONS who are not of the opinion that the written word is all a mistake anyway, the New York Times has compiled a collection of exhibits of man's progress in recording his thoughts and deeds. The display was being shown here last week. Most interesting of all, from hieroglyphics to the present day, were the papers of recent years. If you think there is no thrill in old news, you should look at a front page screaming of the sinking of the Titanic, the signing of the Armistice, the flight of Lindbergh, or the stock market crash.

The most amusing item, though, came from an 1878 "St. Louis Post and Dispatch" and contained a vein of cynicism surprising in that era. Under the frivolous head, "Help the Poor," the story told of a woman reported to be 110 years old, in destitute circumstances and worthy of assistance. Commented the reporter, "Mrs. Cooper was a confidential body servant of Gen. Washington. So she says."

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION -:- -:- By Martha Carr

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I HAVE a problem which I hope you can solve. I am a girl 14 years old, attending high school. This is my first semester. In grammar school my grades were generally grand. But now the grades I am making have gone down considerably, although I study many hours nightly. But this is not the worst of it. I worry so much that I am getting sick and ruining my health. My parents tell me to stop worrying and I try, but up to date I have been unsuccessful. I am making myself and everyone around me miserable.

Could you give me some advice as to how to overcome this nervousness and get back my happy nature? I'd appreciate it very much.

JANE B.

Sometimes good students experience this over-eagerness in new surroundings where they have more distractions and where they, naturally, are more concerned with their status in the eyes of the new teacher and new associates.

Your teacher, if an understanding and human person, would be kind, I am sure, if you will have a talk about this nervousness and unhappiness. Say that the feeling affects your capacity to remember and absorb your work. I can well understand. The truth is, you should not study late at night, and you should try for the rest of this year to be satisfied with grades that get you through, without the devastating ambition to excel. With the coming of spring weather, you should try to give time to the improvement of your health and good sleep. It is praiseworthy for you to be ambitious, but I am sure you need encouragement to go a little more

Dear Mrs. Carr:

IN REPLY to "Student and Relief Worker," I agree that the building of moral character must be done within the home. The faith of a child must be nourished in the home, but does that mean that after a child is old enough to go into the world and make decisions of his own, he no longer needs instructions in the building of moral character? In my opinion, this, too, is a crucial time when he has to face outside trials and temptations. The teaching in school is one of them.

One writer stated that there are parochial schools and "Why not go there for education?" Well, not everyone has the means to do this, and neither have they the money to get education outside the state, if their own schools have what they consider the wrong precepts.

I feel that "Relief Student and Relief Worker" has assumed a lot of authority in telling me to "get busy and do some relief and charity work." I am doing just that. It is my desire, and may God grant all of us a fuller measure of His grace, so that we may realize the full measure and true joy of a "Christian education."

STUDENT.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM A GIRL, 15 years old. I live with my mother and stepfather. When my mother lived with my father, I was very happy. But now, of course, it is different. My father was partial to me and my mother to my three brothers. My mother doesn't treat me as I think she should; she and my stepfather do all they can to make my life miserable. There is a new child in the family, age four. If he is sick, I must remain home from school.

My father, now married again, lived in New Jersey, but has recently been here to see us children. I love my father and when I am with him, feel like crying, because I want him so. Once I attempted to run away, but was scared about what might happen to me.

Should I try to make a go of present circumstances?

A FRIEND.

You may have very real trouble in your home, but try to believe that, at your age, parental advice nearly always seems unreasonable and that sometimes one child will imagine that mother or father is partial, but because it so happens that others in the family have made more reasonable requests, which have been granted.

It may be true that your father understood you better than your mother, but the reason may be that you are more like him. Try to get your brothers to help you out and to be sympathetic. It would seem best for you to remain where you are, rather than risk flying to the new wife, whom your father seems to allow the monopoly just now. He might have suggested your coming to him before. Write and ask him what you are to do.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

IN ANSWER to an article written by a woman to your column about bus drivers trying to date women from 16 to 60 on the Walnut Park line. Well, I happen to be one of those "little dears" on this line and I have never yet tried to date a lady on that line and never have intended to. I have a wife and two children and my salary doesn't even take care of them.

Mrs. Carr, I wish your writers would take these matters up with the Public Service Co. instead of involving all the bus drivers, as we have a few self-respecting men in that service, and also we despise narrow-minded people who misjudge. If the company should choose to put a sign on the seat just back of the driver, "For Men Only," that would suit me fine.

A POOR "LITTLE DEAR."

—o-o—

Dear Martha Carr:

I OFTEN WONDER if the lonely old mothers who write to you, do not ever realize that they have caused their children heart-ache and unhappiness. Every child has an ideal of mother and blessed are those that are not disillusioned.

I have a good mother, but because of her possessiveness my marriage and home was nearly destroyed. Fortunately, I was awakened in time to do something about it, and now as a middle-aged woman I have the devotion of a good husband and my adult children.

My mother is a lonely old lady who feels herself unappreciated. She doesn't want to see that she herself destroyed the confidence that we, as her children, had in her. We give her the dutiful consideration to which she is entitled; but how much nicer a loving companionship would be. And a hurt from a mother goes just a little deeper that any other. Even death cannot erase it.

AN UNHAPPY DAUGHTER.

Dear Miss Carr:

IF "US FIVE" are referring to Cliff Cave (one of Jesse James' hideouts) here is the way to get there: Transfer to the Barracks bus at the south end of the Broadway line, ride to Jefferson Barracks, follow the railroad tracks along the river past Bissell's quarry and Koch Hospital. Then take first road to the right, walk to the bottom of the hill and take the path about a half a block to Cliff Cave. Or one can go by way of Telegraph road, turn to the left at Cliff Cave and follow to the bottom of this hill.

WHAT'S WRONG With MODERN MARRIAGE?

"Plenty," Answers a Veteran Judge Who Has Listened to 46,000 Divorce Cases—Wants Reconciliation Court

By VIRGINIA IRWIN

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 25.

IT was the last case on the day's docket. The big blonde woman wanted a divorce because her half-pint husband had hit her in the face with a dirty mop. The Judge was skeptical, but the lady had witnesses. "Divorce granted," said the Judge.

In his chambers the Judge removed his robe. He remembered that this case was his 46,000th divorce trial. He remembered something else, too. So he went out and bought his wife an armful of red roses.

It was Judge Joseph Sabath's fiftieth wedding anniversary.

"The trouble in that case didn't start when he socked her with a mop," this jovial jurist told me. "It probably began the first night he came home tired and sneered, 'Whaddja boil in this soup, an old boot?' One thing led to another and finally to the scrub mop. You know the road to the divorce court is paved with trivial troubles. The trusty old schooner Matrimony will ride out the big blows, such as financial difficulties, only to wreck herself on the shoals of scolding, bickering and nagging."

The 46,000 cases over which Judge Sabath has presided in his 30 years on the bench have not dulled his horror at divorce; instead he has grown more outraged at a social system in which one in every seven marriages ends in divorce.

The trouble, the Judge says, is that marriage is no longer sacred. It's something of a joke. The old sense of responsibility to society is gone. Young people get full of synthetic romance and rum, get married on a dare, and then get a divorce. A young girl marries a fellow on whom she is not entirely sold with the mental reservation 'If I run across something better later on, I'll get a divorce.' A young couple has a couple of children and a couple of quarrels and they tell it to the Judge.

If the Judge had his way, he'd start education on marriage in the eighth grade. He'd continue it through high school and college and teach young men and women that marriage is a lifetime responsibility and not a lark. He'd teach them, too, how to clear the hurdles that come up in married life—what the bride should do when her husband grumbles about the biscuits, what the groom should do when his bride takes seriously his crack about her new spring bonnet.

"And then," the Judge told me, "I would make the marriage and divorce laws universal. Medical examinations would be required; reasonable notice of intention to wed would be compulsory; and the license would be issued only in the state in which the prospective bride or groom lives. There would be no more of this skipping across the state line to the nearest marriage mill and telling the divorce Judge two months later that you bet on the wrong horse. Divorce would be just as difficult in one state as in another. There would be no more advertising 'easy divorce' just to get the business it brings into a state. There would be no more thriving on the misfortunes of others."

Make marriage more difficult and you've made it more precious, is the Judge's theory. Make young men and women more conscious of its seriousness, of its responsibilities and possibilities, and you'll have more people, like the Judge and his wife, celebrating their golden wedding anniversaries.

Of course the Judge admits that when he took unto himself the woman who has remained Mrs. Joseph Sabath through a half century, things were slightly different. The pace was slower. Life was simpler. Eggs were 6 cents a dozen and a nickel's worth of soup meat was enough to last all week. The immigrant boy who came here from Bohemia at the age of 15 didn't have the "high-ridin'" notions the boys of today have. He had no idea then that he'd ever be a Judge or anything near it and was glad enough to get a job in a factory gilding moldings at $3 a week. Married at 18, this boy, who was to become Chicago's most widely publicized Judge, was 24 years old and had two children before he started to law school. At 40, this man who once knew what it was to be hungry on the streets of Chicago, ran as an independent for Judge of the Municipal Court and was the only candidate who broke the slate of Chicago's powerful political machine.

AT THAT time Chicago had no divorce court. Up until 1916 all Judges handled some divorce cases, but in that year Judge Sabath's dream of a Court of Domestic Relations came true. And since that year his efforts in behalf of unhappy, mismated and unfortunate couples have made him known internationally as an outstanding student of the divorce evil. He has visited Prague, Munich, Paris, Vienna and Berne, studying the divorce courts of those cities. At present he is working for a law to establish a court of reconciliation, through which a couple must go before their suit can be admitted to the divorce court.

"In my 30 years on the bench," he says, "I can prove that I have affected some 3400 reconciliations. In practically every case where children are involved, I take the couple into my chambers for a private talk. They sit before my fireplace and listen to my canary bird. The wife eats my chocolates and the husband smokes my cigars. First we talk about the weather. Then we talk about their troubles. In 3400 cases I have been able to talk them out of divorce. In some cases I have had to cajole, in others argue, and in others scare. I do not deny that I use the children as a club to hold over their heads. Neither do I apologize for it. After all, it is not the wife who pays, or the husband, when there is a divorce. It is the children—usually for the rest of their lives."

Often the Judge's efforts have gone unappreciated. Husbands and wives have battled in his chambers and in one instance the windows in his bookcases were smashed and the glass top on his desk was cracked. He has watched strong men cry to be taken back by their wives and women grow hysterical because their husbands refused to forgive. But he counts the 3400 reconciliations good pay for his pains.

Under the law for which Judge Sabath is now working, Chicago would have a court of reconciliation into which couples seeking a divorce would come before their complaint is filed and becomes public property. A lawyer would draw up the bill of complaint in the regular manner, but the bill would be submitted to the Judge in charge of the reconciliation court and the Judge in turn send for the parties on the day set for the hearing.

"It would then be the duty of the judge to ascertain the real trouble and attempt a reconciliation," Judge Sabath beamed. "If no agreement could be reached, the case would be continued 15 or 30 days. Perhaps the wife's mother or the husband's father would be enlisted, if the case indicated such procedure. At any rate there would be no scandal and no additional expense to the parties involved. Only when the judge felt that there was no hope of ironing out the difficulties of the couple would the complaint be okayed and the case sent to be tried. At first thought, this might seem to be a useless procedure, but experience has proved to my satisfaction that in this way a great many homes could be saved. Perhaps you will say that a couple who have reached the point of divorce would be in no humor to take a judge's advice, but I have seen too many reconciliations affected by the simple process of ascertaining a couple's real trouble, minimizing it and then pointing out the couple's obligations to themselves, to society and to their children to have any doubt but that the plan will pay for itself in the saving of homes."

In these reconciliation proceedings, there would be an opportunity to put Judge Sabath's little rules for a happy marriage into the minds of the complaining couple, and, says the Judge, "you'd be surprised how often I find that just some little thing like the husband criticising how many times a week his wife serves hash lies at the bottom of the whole thing."

"Remember I've tried more than 46,000 cases and I know," Judge Sabath emphasized. "If you can iron out the little troubles the big ones will take care of themselves. Money has often been said to be the basis of most marriage brawls, but it isn't. Get to the bottom of things, to the first time one or the other lost his or her temper, and you've got the beginning of the situation that finally wrecked the foundation."

To the wives he says: "Even if you have to have pancakes, serve your husband something for supper made with your own hands and not out of a can. Wave good-by to him in the morning when he leaves for work and be at the window in the evening waiting for his return. Don't think that old idea of having his slippers ready is too old-fashioned for your modern husband. Try it sometime and see how it works. Tell him at least once a week that you wouldn't trade him for any other man on earth and ask him how you can prove it. Maybe that will give him the chance to say 'Quit wearing that horrible purple dress' and you will have discovered something that's been wearing on his nerves that he didn't dare tell you before."

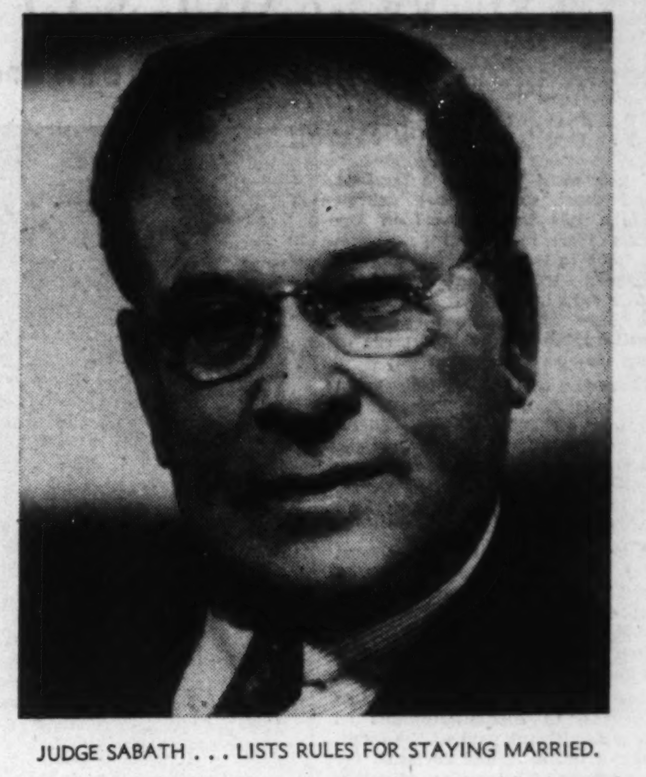
TO THE husbands Judge Sabath says: "Tell her the biscuits are swell, even if you're choking on one when you say it. Send her flowers once in a while. If you can't afford a big bouquet, send her a single carnation with a note saying you'd buy her a carload just like it if you could afford it. If she gets too fat to suit you, start saying once in a while, 'You know you look thinner for some reason or other, maybe it's the dress.' That way you can plant the idea of dieting in her mind without hurting her feelings. Take her out once in a while. Call her up from the office once in a while. She'll think you're calling up to say you have to work late. When you say 'I just happened to be thinking of you and thought I'd ring you up,' she'll probably faint, but when she comes to she'll be a different woman."

The Judge admits that anybody with the sense of a duck could think up things like these by themselves. The trouble is people don't think about their marriage until they start thinking about how to get out of it. That's why you find so few folks like the Judge, who says: "I've got three children, seven great-grandchildren, one great-grandson, I've just celebrated my golden wedding and I'm still on my honeymoon."

He should know what he's talking about.

HOW TO STAY MARRIED



JUDGE SABATH . . . LISTS RULES FOR STAYING MARRIED.

SAYS JUDGE SABATH: Know the physical and ethical laws governing the marriage relationship. Blind love may make for happy engagements. It has never made for successful marriage.

Do not expect marriage to present you with happiness as a wedding gift. It must be earned and achieved through mutual effort, planning, sacrifice, sharing, patience and sympathetic understanding.

Respect the personality of your mate. On mutual respect can be built the development of that which is best and unique in your respective characters.

Successful marriage cannot endure on the sole basis of physical attraction. Build upon the bond of attraction the development of your personalities and the cultivation of your talents.

Do not be childless. Recognize your marriage as a social responsibility involving something more than the fate and destiny of two individuals.

Make for yourselves a home—not merely a house.

Do not grow selfish in your love for each other, nor in your devotion to your children. Link your lives with extra-family interests.

Do not forget God.

Young People; Their Rights And Privileges

By Angelo Patri

WHENEVER a young person writes in to ask if he has not the right to do this and that, I feel like reminding him that he has no rights in the family circle, but many privileges. Rights are something that savor of the law and I dislike the thought of law as a deciding factor in any family situation. All children, and all parents, too, have a right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, but anything beyond that comes, to my way of thinking, under the head of privileges.

For example, a young man, in his senior year in college, asks if he hasn't the right to a fixed allowance, and the right to spend it as he pleases. His father supplies him with an allowance, but he insists that none of it be used for certain pleasures the young man thinks his right, and threatens to reduce the allowance if any of it is used for those ends. Son asks if he has no rights here.

—o-o—

I VOTE that he has none. His father has dealt with him in the spirit of fatherly kindness. He reared him from infancy, gave him a good home, sheltered, clothed, fed and protected him, with the aid and comfort of his wife, the boy's mother. He sent him to college, paid his bills there and supplied him with funds for ordinary expenses.

Now the boy thinks that he ought to be free to use the money his father supplies him for ordinary expenses for extraordinary pleasures that his father believes hurtful to him. The boy does not seem to me to be exercising the good sense expected from a young man in his privileged position.

I KNOW that there are young men and women who take the attitude that is expressed by the absurd statement, "I didn't ask to be born, so I have the right to be supported. I don't owe my parents anything." If by owing parents anything this mistaken young person means money, I agree. Parents don't feel that their children owe them the money they spent in rearing them.

What parents want of their children is a far different thing. It is the expression of affection that they hoped would spring from their affectionate care and devotion to their children in the years of their growing. That is something every child owes his parents and his expression of that feeling is his great privilege. He can forget the rights as his parents forgot their rights during the long years of their service to him.

YOUNG PEOPLE who exercise their privilege of showing their affection to their parents, get more fun out of it than even their parents do. I have seen the great content that shone in a young man's face when he regularly wrote a check for his father and mother. As his salary rose, their check increased. That gave him more pleasure even than his success. It made his success.

"It gives me the greatest pleasure to think of mother and father getting that little bit of extra money every month. I remember that dad wore his old overcoat year in and year out while I got a new one. And how mother made the 'old one do,' again and again so that I might have something extra. Now it just warms my heart to think of their pleasure at my little remembrance of them. Many a time when I was tired enough to give up struggling for the higher place the thought of their devotion to me kept me going."

Rights don't matter, boy: Count the privileges.

ON CHOOSING A MATE

By Dr. George W. Crane

Of Northwestern University

CASE L-169: Rudolph P., aged 39, has a daughter in college.

"My father has never given us a sense of financial security," his daughter confessed to me. "He had been spoiled by his mother, and would run home to visit her whenever the fancy struck him. He'd say nothing to his employer, so he usually had no job when he returned. Sometimes he'd be gone a week; sometimes a month. Then he would return to us, and Mother would try to inspire him so he'd get a new job.

"After years of this uncertainty, she finally got a little sense of responsibility drilled into him.

"But father never seemed to realize that he was a parent. When we brought our report cards home from school, he'd sign them without even looking at them. It was Mother who inspired us to go to church and seek a college education. She never nagged my father, nor was she the bossy type of woman. But she was forced to develop some executive ability in order to preserve our home.

"As I look back now, I can better understand the strain and worry she must have experienced because of economic insecurity. Dr. Crane, how can a man have the nerve to propose marriage when he is so childish and irresponsible?"

DIAGNOSIS: Perhaps we might also blame the wife for being so blind as to ignore the obvious signs of this emotional immaturity in her fiance. If an adult had never been given piano lessons, in childhood, we should not criticize him too severely because he isn't an accomplished pianist. Piano playing is a habit requiring years of diligent practice.

Responsibility and self-reliance also depend on years of practice in making one's own decisions, and shouldering responsibility. What can we expect from Rudolph when his doting mamma kept him in curls until he was nine years old because he looked "so darling?" He was an "only" child, spoiled, overly indulged, and therefore taught to flee to mamma when things didn't go right. She babied him and agreed with his opinions, right or wrong.

—o-o—

NOTHING was too good for her Rudolph. It is a wonder he ever had enough independence to marry. He was a very poor marital risk, but it was largely the fault of his parents.

Repeatedly I have warned you readers that divorces seldom start after the wedding ceremony. Instead, they go clear back to infancy and the kindergarten period.

If parents send forth sissies and "mamma's apron stringers," what should they expect but divorces in their future families? "Do men gather grapes of thorns or figs of thistles?" Use your heads and pick out real men before you marry.

Frock Yard Goods

Early birds will have a hard time restraining themselves from buying yard goods for their summer wash frocks, now that tempting dimities, swisses, and crush-resisting linens are cascading over the counters. All sorts of unusual prints have been added to the staple designs, including one chartreuse spun cotton printed with large black flies, a touch, perhaps, too appropriate for summer.

Variety of Neckwear

For a variety of neckwear to use with simple dark basic dresses, try making your own. Granted that you can't duplicate the all lace vestees and collars, you can make the frills of pastel organdies, and frilling by the yard for amateur seamstresses can be purchased at the same counter as the finished product.

Pine Scents

If the fragrance of pine needles means something very pleasant in memory to you, you'll be interested in knowing you can buy pine sticks, either singly or in small wooden containers, so that you can have the scent of pine wherever you go.

Current Woolens

Striped jackets and plain colored skirts are so popular this season that the home suitmaker will find the woolens displayed a distinct help. Solid color woolens in rose, blue and other spring-like shades are shown alongside striped woolens with the background shade an identical match, and will save you time in matching your own.

Blue Knit Bolero

Short evening sweaters made their bow last year and no junior's evening dress was complete without one of the rib-length angora boleros. As a possible successor, one of the stores is showing a black evening dress with a bolero of light blue cotton knit, with a zipper closing.

Fashionable Jackets

The suede jacket has come out of the strictly sports class and changed into a thing of fashion beauty, as can be seen in any skirt and jacket department. Soft doeskin fashions most of the jackets and they are dyed in the same soft colors as gloves, bags and other accessories.

Bar Aprons

A bar apron will meet the favor of those hostesses and hosts who have to double in that role, too. Capacious as that of the old fashioned bartender's, one is inscribed with bright colored bits of information, believe-it-or-nots about drinking habits, and complete instructions on how to work that old trick with the glass of water that leaves the victim stranded with the glass on the end of a broomstick.

Red Straw Hats

Devotees of the color red, see it in season and out, and this season they're buying stoplight red hats. These hats, most of them made of rough straws, are trimmed in striped bands, plaid bows, and black patent leather, and should combine beautifully with red and black accessories, or red and navy. Some of them, especially the light tomato red, go well with lighter blue.

Wooden Salad Bowls

Wooden salad bowls and implements are among the practical suggestions for gifts to the bride. With the approach of summer, more salads are used, and bowls of various sizes are almost a necessity. The newest wooden bowls vary from the large party size salad bowl to the very small ones for lettuce for two.

Features of General Interest

LET ME SUGGEST

By Josephine Walter

IN FLORIDA, as everyone knows, life is more or less an eternal party, at least while the winter visitors inhabit the place. Therefore, in the shops along Lincoln road in Miami Beach and Worth avenue in Palm Beach, all the latest gadgets and beautiful objects to make entertaining a pleasure to the hostess and a delight to the guest are displayed. Of course, many of the things would be too exotic for the St. Louis atmosphere even if we could have them but others are not only practical but also easily obtainable. And anyway, I, for one, always like to hear about flossy things and ideas, even if I have no intention of using them personally.

To me, one of the major thrills in going window shopping in Florida is to gaze upon all the beautiful and exquisite table linens. Many, of course, are of the very fine embroidered or lace types, traditional and always lovely to look upon. But most fun are the many new and original pieces, often made from unusual material.

It is interesting to note, in passing, that doilies are now accepted for any function from breakfast on the terrace to the most formal dinner party. I believe one big reason for this is that, with the many new light woods used for dining tables, as well as tops made of mirror and glass, or marbleized, hostesses like to display these interesting features and the best way to do so is to use doilies instead of cloths.

—o-o—

● FOR INFORMAL occasions, naturally, informal materials are used, such as woven straw, cellophane or ginghams edged with rickrack. Loveliest of all, however, are the formal sets made of organdie, or organdie combined with linen. These would be extremely simple to make, too. Usually, they were made of some pastel colored linen such as turquoise or dusty pink combined with a white organdie panel down the center of the napkin or down each side of the place mat. For the ambitious, appliqued monograms of the linen on the organdie would give a finishing touch. The sets of dotted swiss are very dainty, but most interesting of all are those made of lucite. This is a completely new material, clear as glass and of the texture of isinglass, and the underside is either painted in some pattern, usually rococo in feeling, or decorated with a large monogram running down one side of the mat. The advantage of this material is that it hardly obscures the top of the table at all, and is ideal for use on a table with an interesting or unusual top.

However, there are always persons who will feel that place mats are not acceptable for a formal dinner, or who just prefer to have the top completely covered. For these there are a wealth of lovely tablecloths displayed. Here, too, organdie is a favored material, one of the loveliest I saw being of pale blue organdie, handpainted in a large and exotic palm tree pattern, especially suited to a resort spot. Another organdie tablecloth of white had appliques of pink organdie bows with a big white button in the center of each bow. An interesting idea for an informal table was a cloth of a sheer cotton fabric with pockets around the edge of the cloth to hold the napkins for each guest.

● AND NOW, what was the most popular type of material to be used on these lovely linens? Crystal, crystal, and more crystal. So popular is this material that it is used for every available object on the table, even to handles on the knives and forks. Very lovely, indeed, are the new service plates in crystal, very simple squares or ovals of bent glass, often with a monogram in the center of the plate. In fact, crystal and monogramming seem to go hand in hand and the monogramming of glassware and service plates to match makes a very handsome table. Very plain china, usually in pure white with a monogram along one side, is further proof of the popularity of this type of decoration.

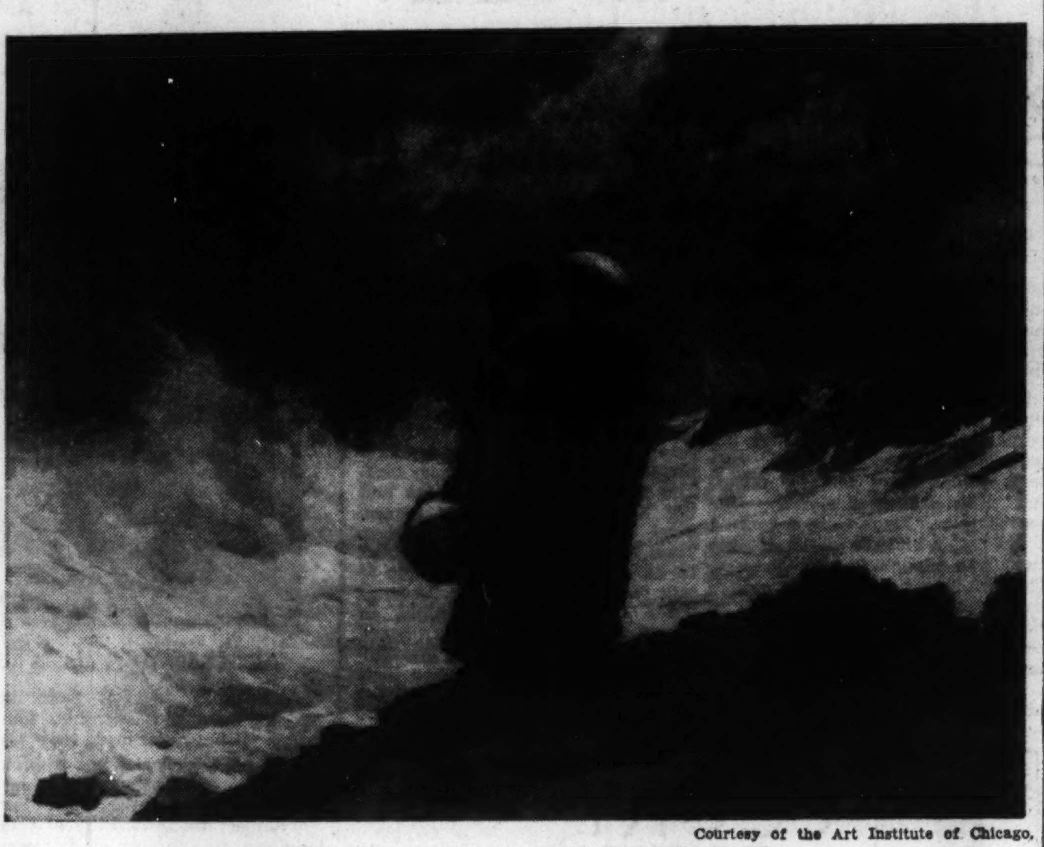
● HURRICANE CANDLES are now considered almost an essential of the smartly accoutered table, especially the terrace table. They are made from finely wrought iron for the more informal type to handsomely etched crystal for the more dignified ones. But the decorative candle has burst into sudden popularity and bids fair to put the hurricane globe completely in the shadow. These candles are now being made in practically every known shape, from fruits to barnyard animals with accompanying odors (confined, we trust, to the fruits and flowers). These candles are usually made of a size to last through one dinner party while huge ones, often with a perfumed odor, are being made to burn throughout the evening to add a fairy-like quality to a terrace party.

I could not leave this subject of Florida without mentioning the beautiful, exotic flowers. In that land of floral plenty it is strange to think that anyone could even sell an artificial flower, and it is true that they must outshine nature in order to gain any attention. And really, among the loveliest things that I have ever seen are the flowers fashioned entirely from feathers. Exotic, yes, but entrancing as well.

A NEW ART CENTER of MID-WEST

Bloomington (Ill.) Comes Forward With Fresh and Exciting Exhibit

By Otto Fuerbringer



Courtesy of the Art Institute of Chicago.

WINSLOW HOMER'S "WATCHING THE BREAKERS."

IF you want to see the freshest and most exciting art exhibit which has been shown in the Middle West in several years you will have to travel to Bloomington, a town of 30,000 in the heart of the Illinois corn belt, which has heretofore been chiefly known in the popular mind as the birthplace of Andy Gump's wife, Min.

There you will see, well displayed in the Scottish Rite Temple, 106 paintings by 103 painters. Fifty-nine are by living American artists. The rest range from Titian through Rembrandt, Frans Hals, El Greco, and Degas down to the American George Bellows.

It is a strong show, with almost every painter represented by a sound and, in some cases, a brilliant example of his work. It is already an historic event in Bloomington and may well become so in the annals of American art.

How and why it came about is as surprising to Bloomingtonians as it is a significant part of the story. It was frankly staged as much for the purpose of attracting attention to Bloomington as it was to educate its citizens on art. But what of that? If it can be shown that good creative art is a business asset, Americans will be sure to see more of it in the future. And it is certainly no less healthy to bring fine paintings out of hiding for commercial reasons than it is to display them because of some precious esthetic idea.

The start of the show is already wrapped in legend. Fifteen years ago, the story goes, Raymond Wakeley, manager of a department store, was induced by a traveling "art" salesman to pay $10 for the privilege of hanging Rosa Bonheur's "Horse Fair" in his basement for a week. Wakeley gave in because it was the original, which has been in the possession of New York's Metropolitan Museum for more than 50 years. He put a line in his newspaper advertisement that he had the painting and for the next week his store was jammed.

Accordingly, when he and two other store managers were trying to cook up a plan last December to put Bloomington on the map, he suggested an art exhibit. It subsequently required a good deal of work and enthusiasm on the part of some additional people, but there you have the start of the idea.

A case could be made out here, I suppose, for the theory that no really bad picture is ever painted. If the "Horse Fair" can bring several crates of old masters and the best of contemporary native painters to a small town in the Middle West there is no telling what some sentimental and obvious painter of today may do for the year 2000.

—o-o—

ONCE Wakeley and his friends, joined by Loring Merwin, publisher of the rich Bloomington Pantagraph, had adopted his plan, they decided to make a big splash. They wanted one picture with good publicity value and they came within an ace of getting the Mona Lisa. That was Merwin's idea. After the American airplane with the French observer in it had crashed last January, he thought France would be anxious to make some gesture to repair her reputation in America. Together with Washington columnist Drew Pearson, he put the plan before the French Ambassador. Merwin says the Ambassador assured him that it was only because the time was so short and the red tape so thick, that the plan had to be turned down.

What they finally procured for their big attraction was Rembrandt's "Lamentation Over Christ," from the Ringling Museum at Sarasota, Fla. It is a large and sturdy painting, showing Rembrandt in both his somber and his brilliant coloring moods. It is the most valued picture in the show, being insured for $75,000 which, as a matter of fact, seems somewhat low for the great Dutchman.

There are a few others which were brought in for their sure-fire general appeal and we might as well dispose of them first, because they turned out to be rather weak in their appeal. The cover of the catalogue bears the reproduction of a small Fragonard of Venus and Cupid, but on inspection it turns out that the good qualities which this eighteenth century Frenchman was able to get into his picture are all traceable to Rubens. Otherwise it's pretty sacharine.

It is with genuine regret that it is necessary to report that Bellows' canvas of the Dempsey-Firpo fight looks much better in black and white reproduction than in the original. It may be that the painter was being faithful to the atmosphere of that memorable night, but he has transcribed it with an overall of sickly green bad enough to detract from the vigor of the figures. Grant Wood's "American Gothic" also was brought in as a come-on, but people must be pretty tired of it by now. It was wonderfully fresh at one time and it probably will seem so again, but constant reproduction has, temporarily at least, killed its charm.

But these few regrets are far outweighed by the good stuff.

Among the old masters especially noteworthy is Frans Hals' "Fisher Girl," borrowed from the Brooklyn Museum. It is casual and offhand, in contrast to his usual meticulous manner and the girl's jacket is as bright and pearly a gray as any Impressionist ever used.

You will probably also like Tintoretto's "Adoration of the Magi," Tiepolo's "Madonna With Child Holding Bird," and David Teniers the Younger's "Interior of a Public House." Coming down a century, you will certainly be pleased to see Chardin's brilliant "The Bubble Blowers," borrowed from the Nelson Gallery in Kansas City. This gallery also contributed El Greco's "Penitent Magdalene." I like my Grecos with less fuss and frills, but this one has its admirers.

The Frenchmen, on the whole, are ably shown. The Delacroix is far superior to any one of his in the current show at the St. Louis Museum. Pissaro, one of the finest of the Impressionists, is represented with a vivid landscape. There is Manet's haunting portrait of a young boy from the Chicago Art Institute and a slap-dash Toulouse-Lautrec of a clown from the collection of Chauncey McCormick of Chicago.

The nineteenth century Americans are also well represented. You get a very fine idea of Thomas Eakin's realistic faithfulness, together with a lightness of touch which he didn't always have, in his "Portrait of Mrs. Ward." Winslow Homer is there with his "Watching the Breakers," a Maine seascape enlivened with two feminine figures, and Albert Ryder with the mystical "The Waste of Waters in Their Field."

The show, on view through April 8, was assembled by Alan D. Gruskin of the Midtown Galleries in New York. In the contemporary American section, where he could get pretty much what he wanted and wasn't bothered by museum restrictions, he outdid himself. Almost none of the painters could complain that he was represented by an inferior work.

The list, beginning, alphabetically, with Gifford Beal and ending with Grant Wood, is, with some exceptions to be noted later, a roll call of the important American artists of today.

There are no prizes in the show, but the Bloomington Art Association plans to buy one of the contemporary American works and it could hardly do worse than to keep Frederic Taubes' "Seated Woman." Taubes, who was born in Austria, is as yet relatively unknown, but he won't be for long if he has many more paintings like this one in him. The pose, the coloring of the red blouse and the rich purple-gray skirt, and the way the light falls on the face are all first rate.

Some of the veterans are there with what you'd expect. Marsden Hartley has a powerful Maine landscape, Speicher a soft, sensuous woman, Hopper a sunlit Cape Cod house, Benton some scrawny Missouri musicians, Isabel Bishop a portrait of a New York kid, and Kuniyoshi a light and airy still life. They are all good.

—o-o—

THEN, too, there is John Sloan with a portrait of Broadway in winter; John Carroll with one of his delicate women; Reginald Marsh with a Coney Island study; Rafael Soyer with some tired dancing girls, and Waldo Pierce with a county fair. No shocks of surprise here, either, just a pleasant feeling of having some painters do something they know and do it well.

If any generalization can be made about the contemporary American section it is that the artists are painting pretty much what they want and that you would have a hard time detecting any other trend except diversity.

When works by as many living painters as this are gathered together it is natural to speculate why certain ones were left out. Especially since the exhibit is in the Middle West why is there nothing by Joe Jones of St. Louis, Aaron Bohrod of Chicago, and John de Martelly of Kansas City? They can stand with the rest of them. And why, for instance, no Boardman Robinson or Millard Sheets? But it really isn't fair to quibble when the section as a whole is as good as it is.

The entire exhibit is conservatively valued at about $1,000,000. It cost about $10,000 in transportation, insurance and administration expenses to assemble it. Despite the fact that there was a competition from both fairs to contend with, it is a magnificent show. If other towns take the hint and do likewise, it may well become as significant in the story of American art as the historic Armory show in New York in 1913.

ON A COOK'S TOUR -:- -:- By George Rector.

I SUPPOSE that if you want to be old-fashioned you will want to make your own soups, but with me it all depends. If I happen to have some good stock, I certainly shall not pass up the opportunity to use it, which brings up the question when is a soup a good soup? The answer is simple. It's the stock that gives body to a really good soup.

The same point applies to pies. It's the crust that makes a pie. The filling—well, that's easy. Of course, in any good-sized restaurant, there is usually an abundance of stock, both beef and chicken, but this is not so in the average home. It's up to the housewife now whether she wants to get soup stock the easy way or burden herself with plenty of work and expense.

Now supposing you have no canned consomme in the house, but instead a jar of beef extract. All you have to do is to melt two tablespoons of the extract of beef in a little boiling water and then add and stir it into two quarts of boiling water.

Here is the recipe for cabbage soup:

One and one-half pounds of beef and bones, two quarts cold water, one teaspoon salt, one bunch soup vegetables, one bay leaf, one-half pound salt pork or ham bone, one small head cabbage, coarsely chopped, one-half teaspoon caraway seeds, salt and pepper to taste, thick sour cream.

Cover beef and bones with cold water, add salt and bring to boiling point. Boil briskly for five minutes, skimming the top of all froth. Add soup vegetables consisting of several stalks of celery and leaves, two carrots, one leek, one onion, several sprigs of parsley and bay leaf. Let simmer for three hours until a good soup stock is obtained. Strain stock into another sauce pan, discard vegetables and bones. To the strained stock add diced salt pork or ham bone, coarsely chopped cabbage and caraway seeds and simmer for one hour. Season to taste with salt and pepper and serve. Have a bowl of thick sour cream on the table and serve one or two tablespoons with each portion.

Salted codfish when combined with eggs makes a tasty breakfast dish. Try it for a change.

SWISS STEAK: Have a thick slice cut from the top round, at least two inches thick. Place it on a heavy board or table and with the rim of a thick saucer pound into it a goodly quantity of flour, or about one-half cup. While pounding, turn the meat often so that all the flour may become incorporated. Then season with salt and pepper and a liberal amount of paprika. Put one tablespoon of beef suet drippings in a hot skillet and brown one medium sized sliced onion in it. Then add meat and brown on all sides, turning often. When browned, pour in one cup of boiling water and one cup of tomato juice, cover skillet and simmer until meat is tender, or about one and one-half to two hours. Thicken liquid in pan with a little flour and pour gravy over steak.

SCRAMBLED CODFISH: Wash codfish in cold water and soak overnight. This will remove enough of the salt to make it edible. Never cut salted codfish with a knife but tear it or shred it with a fork. Beat four eggs and gradually add one cup of milk and one cup of shredded codfish. Turn into hot buttered frying pan and cook over moderate flame, stirring occasionally until eggs and codfish are set. Do not overcook, otherwise the eggs will be hard and dry. Garnish with parsley and triangles of fresh toast.

—o-o—

BROILED LAMB CHOPS with currant sauce: Have chops cut at least one inch thick. Put chops on broiler rack and sear quickly in hot broiler oven. Reduce heat, or set rack three inches below, cook slowly 20 to 25 minutes, turning once or twice. Season with salt and pepper and as chops are placed on hot dish spread with softened butter.

—o-o—

CURRANT MINT SAUCE: One glass currant jelly (six ounces), grated rind of half an orange, one tablespoon finely minced mint leaves.

Combine ingredients and with the prongs of a fork mix thoroughly. Let stand several hours before serving to impregnate jelly with flavor of mint and orange.

—o-o—

BAKED EGGS AU GRATIN: Six eggs, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-half cup grated American cheese, two tablespoons butter, paprika.

Drop whole eggs into well-buttered baking dish, season with salt and dot with butter. Cover top with grated cheese and sprinkle with paprika. Place the baking dish in a pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven until eggs are set, then place dish under broiler flame for a minute or two until cheese browns.

—o-o—

ZABAIONE: This is a delicious Italian dessert and is also a delightful bit of nourishment for convalescents.

The following quantity serves four: Eight egg yolks, one-half cup powdered sugar, one-half cup sherry, marsala or madeira wine.

Beat egg yolks and sugar together until light and foamy. Turn mixture into top part of double boiler and cook over hot water, beating constantly and adding wine gradually. Do not have more than one inch of water in lower part of boiler, otherwise the yolks will cook instead of foaming. When mixture has doubled in bulk, remove from heat and serve immediately in small stemmed glasses.

Helpful Ways Of Brightening Dull Interior

Crisp White Curtains Are Among First Aids in Spring Redecorating.

AS spring cleaning time draws near, most housewives begin to look with dissatisfaction at the dull, drab looking curtains that show up so unfavorably in the sunlight. A tour through the curtain corners of the stores will reveal any number of practical suggestions for brightening up the windows of a house or an apartment and will furnish you with ideas for other tired wintery decoration hangovers as well.

Crisp, full ruffled curtains of white are among the first aids to redecorating that occur to many women. Their clean freshness does as much to the morale of a house as the white frilly blouses and collars do to suits and dresses. With cold weather on the wane, there is less chance of their becoming soiled from heating dirt and dust, and since most of them are washable, that is not much of a drawback anyway.

IF YOUR TASTE runs more to color than white in curtains, there are shades as new and smart, and in some cases duplicates of fashion colors. Two color schemes are shown in sheer bedroom curtains, with combinations such as peach and light blue, or rose and aqua. One store shows an attractively decorated bedroom with curtains of royal blue, a color seldom used in curtainings, falling straight and sheer to the floor.

Natural colored curtains, particularly those of the loosely woven fabrics, take away the stuffiness of winter from rooms where tailored window hangings are needed. A particularly handsome pair of draperies in natural homespun are edged with coral fringed braid, a notable contrast of colors. Other natural colored draperies have their contrast at the top of the drapery in the form of chocolate brown insets.

—o-o—

IN THE YARD GOODS sections adjoining the curtain department, new lighter colored cretonnes, linens and chintzes are making an appearance, as are India print squares, some of them large enough to cover a couch. One of the most attractive displays is the one consisting of a pair of striped fabric draperies over white ruffled curtains, and a dressing table skirted in the same striped material, even to the top of the table, where the material shows through the glass protective covering.

Straw Sandals

Those comfortable huaraches, or straw woven sandals, are in the shoe departments again, both in the natural straw color and white. Although a little informal for street wear, huaraches are right in the front rank for those times when comfort comes first.

EFFECT OF MARRIAGE ON STARS' POPULARITY

By Harold Heffernan

HOLLYWOOD, March 25.

THOSE recent elopements of Nelson Eddy, Hedy Lamarr and Lynn Bari and the prospect of a spring-summer epidemic of marriages among the screen's younger favorites renew an argument of long standing in Hollywood: What effect does marriage have on the box-office draw of a star?

Producers and publicity heads have debated the problem for years —have even attempted to put it to the test—but today they're as far removed from an answer as ever.

Many still insist that stars, especially the glamor exponents, should consider long and well before taking the altar leap. This faction seemingly has little respect for the intelligence of movie-going crowds. It figures that most paying patrons are still wrapped up in the private affairs of their celluloid heroes and heroines and that the younger element in particular likes to look upon its idols as "eligible."

"We build up a lot of romances between players in our department," said the publicity head of one major studio. "But we always warn the youngsters against marriage. The fans emphatically don't want their favorites running off and getting married. Does it make a dent in box office receipts? Certainly!

"Hedy Lamarr? She should be happy as Mrs. Gene Markey, but, if she's still figuring on a career, I think she made a mistake. Her whole appeal is founded on glamor and mystery. Marriage drags her down to earth."

HEDY LAMARR . . . WILL SHE LOSE POPULARITY?

One of the most astute showmen in Hollywood, Cliff Reid of the RKO studio, is another who thinks marriage quickly undermines the career of youthful favorites.

"Take your college and high school trade alone," said Reid. "And don't you think those youngsters don't pay a lot of freight in this business. Those boys and girls worship their current idols. The fan mail shows that. I can think of a couple of top male favorites today who might hit the skids rapidly if they married tomorrow. Marriage is a great institution, even out here in Hollywood, but the glamor boys and girls shouldn't try to hitch it to a career."

On the other hand, there are producers like Darryl F. Zanuck, at Twentieth Century-Fox, who profess an utter disregard for what their stars do about marriage. Zanuck believes the public is impressed only by what it sees on the screen. He says the private affairs of the puppets make no difference in the fans' spending attitude.

Nevertheless, rumors of love affairs and impending marriage involving Zanuck's Tyrone Power and M-G-M's handsome Robert Taylor —both eligible bachelors and listed among the ten leading money-making stars of 1938—have caused a marked fluctuation in the amount and the tenor of their fan mail during the past few months.

Readers in Twentieth Century-Fox's fan mail department, for instance, noted a decided change in the text of Power's notes from admiring fandom right after word was spread by the gossip writers that Ty and Annabella, his current romantic interest, were on the verge of marriage. A college girl in North Carolina sounded the keynote with this postscript: "It is none of the public's affair, of course, but we hope you will not marry for some years yet. We fans enjoy our pictures a lot more knowing the leading man is not married."

After stories popped into print that Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck might end that long companionship by a spring marriage, Taylor's mail began reflecting the same desolate thoughts.

In the case of exceptionally talented dramatic stars, marriage (or divorce, either, for that matter) causes little or no tremor in their popularity barometer. For example, Bette Davis' matrimonial publicity and later her divorce made no discernible difference in her fan rating. People go to see Bette because she's the greatest actress on the screen and wouldn't stay away if she committed bigamy. Margaret Sullavan, Irene Dunne, Maureen O'Sullivan and Norma Shearer are others who stand solidly enough in the sheer talent division to withstand any possibility of matrimonial boomerangs.

Unquestionably, the younger stars in the "eye appeal" category must still be wary of marriage. They have only to look back on the experiences of many of yesterday's top-line personalities. In them are many "horrible examples," not all traceable to bad pictures.

Only time will determine the box-office reaction to the weddings of Hedy Lamarr and Nelson Eddy, both prime favorites with paying fandom of opposite sexes. And almost any day now there should be flashing headlines bringing word of the Gable-Lombard nuptials. Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck may not be far behind, say some.

Just a few years ago, there was scarcely a first line star in pictures who would dare admit the possession of a husband or wife or child. Today it is all different. Or is it? Hollywood would like to know.

Lace Appearing On New Frocks For Springtime

It Is Being Used in Larger Quantities Than in Previous Seasons.

LACE has been cited all through the first months of spring for its fresh charm and crispness, when used on blouses, collars and neckwear. Now it is being shown in larger quantities, for daytime and evening dresses and accessories.

To replace the evening blouse or jacket of lame or metallic cloth worn in the evening, with black silk and velvet skirts, lace is the logical choice. Several of the stores are highlighting the skirt and blouse ensemble for evening, and with the pleated black skirts, this season of crepe or chiffon, the white lace blouses contrast nicely. And with double duty clothes of this kind, a change of blouses often means a complete change in appearance.

Those who do not care for the skirt and blouse combination, but have a simple evening dress that they dress up with accessories, would do well to consider the lace boleros. White, black or pastel colored boleros made entirely of lace ruffles on a net background will do much to rejuvenate a dress that's not as new as it should be.

Every woman envies the lacy ruffles men gallants of the romantic period used to wear, and lace blouses, made entirely or partly of ruffles are the next best thing. These are also made, not only in white, though white is probably the most frequently worn, but in pink, blue or other accessory colors as well.

Although lace dresses will not step into the spotlight for another month or so, lace by the yard can be purchased for those who plan in advance. Almost every light shade in cotton or allover lace is obtainable, and net, that second cousin to lace, is also readying itself for its late spring and early summer bow.

All in all, with lace on blouses, dresses, jackets and even on the underneath side of the brim of a black picture hat in one of the fashion shop windows, no woman can have reason to envy the bygone eras of fancy dress.

New Wine Shade

Feather wine is the name of one of the new wine shades. It is slightly lighter than the winter wine shades but not so individual that it could not be combined effectively with other blending colors, or as an accent to navy.

Storage Box

Since storage space in apartments is usually at a premium, manufacturers have introduced a blanket storage box that is a small, compact cylinder, the exact shape of the blanket, and made of cedar wood, to offer the protection of a larger, more cumbersome container.

JELLIED PIQUANT SALAD.

Three tablespoons chili sauce.
One tablespoon horseradish.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon granulated sugar.
One-third cup diced celery.

Dissolve gelatin in water. Cool and let thicken slightly. Pour in rest of ingredients and mold until stiff. Unmold on lettuce and top with salad dressing.

Shabby Rugs

If your fiber rugs seem too shabby to put down this spring, try a little renovating before discarding them. Clean them well with a good rug cleaner and let dry thoroughly. Then dilute white shellac with alcohol until it is quite thin and give the rugs a coat of this, using a wide brush, working quickly and going over each place just once. It will give the rugs a new look, besides keeping them clean much longer.

THE SCREEN IN REVIEW

by COLVIN McPHERSON

SINCE this is a year for Westerns in the movies, it is just as well to have a good one now, to set a standard. That one is "Stagecoach," at Loew's Theater, which shows what can be done when the combined artistic inspirations of producer, director and screenplay writer are used to the full extent.

Walter Wanger produced it, John Ford directed it and Ford's author-collaborator, Dudley Nichols, did the screenplay. "Stagecoach" emerges as a carefully cast, splendidly played and photographically beautiful picture. Its plot is only what we have come to call the "Grand Hotel" type of thing, with some native and geographical variations, but it holds an audience in its spell for an hour and a half.

The time is the 1880s, the distance covered some 230 miles between Tonto, Ariz., and Lordsburg, N. M., and the persons of the drama are those any moviegoer might expect. Claire Trevor is the scarlet woman just run out of town, Thomas Mitchell the drunken physician also clearing out, John Carradine a gallant gambler, John Wayne a young escaped convict, Berton Churchill the absconding banker, Donald Meek a whisky drummer with the face of a parson, Louise Platt the young army officer's wife racing to be with her husband before the stork catches up with her.

Threat of danger comes in the news that the old Apache raider, Geronimo, is on the warpath again. A United States cavalry escort has to be withdrawn at the first way station and the stagecoach goes on alone.

Slowly and without straining the narrative, Ford and Nichols develop the peril and tension necessary to make the adventure a thrilling one. Amusing incidents affecting the passengers, the birth of the baby at the second way station, romance between Miss Trevor and Wayne, help to keep interest at a high level even before any danger signals are seen.

Taking advantage of the scenic background, Ford ever and again allows his cameras to survey the horizons serenely, while the musical score keeps up the spirit of the journey and the horses plunge ahead through the desert. Although the exterior shots were made in Monument Valley in Northern Arizona, and not in the South and Central parts of the state, where the action is laid, no one will quarrel over the substitution. For scenic interest is one of the film's major delights.

When the Apache raid comes, it is handled with the fine detail and unhurried realism that is characteristic of Ford's style in directing. And rescue by Uncle Sam's cavalry boys is as thrilling as it ever has been. The picture goes on for a little while afterward, to clear up matters for Wayne and Miss Trevor, and ends with one of its awe-inspiring panoramas, a fine job all the way along.

Concerning Loew's second feature, "Flirting With Fate," charity bids us be brief. For weeks the word has been going around in St. Louis' Film Row that the new Joe E. Brown comedy was particularly obnoxious. And things like that don't mellow in the can.

Cafe Society.

LUCIUS BEEBE, generally credited with inventing the term "cafe society," as distinguished from the "400" and "hamburger stand society," was supposed to be in the new film at the Ambassador to which he lent the title, but if he is there, I missed him. I ran across Fred MacMurray quite a lot and that oh-boy, oh-boy, oh-boy blonde of his, Madeleine Carroll, but found no Lucius.

MacMurray, a newspaper man, and Miss Carroll, an heiress, are married in "Cafe Society," under reckless circumstances, but remain married throughout the course of the film and are getting along considerably better at the finish than at the beginning.

The whole comedy has a brisk pace, a daffiness that at times is most charming, some of the kind of kissing that makes bad boys whistle, some new crystal telephone handsets that I have not seen before and other gadgets worth looking into. Miss Carroll brings forth a genuinely praiseworthy performance as the too-nice aristocrat with a not-too-nice disposition and Allyn-Joslyn, as Sommy, the society editor, is a joy.

"Let Us Live" offers contrast by showing the lives of the unfortunate poor. Henry Fonda, a taxicab driver, and Maureen O'Sullivan are just about to apply to the FHA for a loan when he is caught in the web of circumstantial evidence and is convicted of murder. Through summer, through winter, Maureen works to get the evidence that will free him. And does.

A new Merrie Melody at the Ambassador has enough original foolishness to be seen for its own sake. The batting average of these short subjects has been very good lately and they are rapidly becoming rivals of the Disney cartoons.

—o-o—

WITH opening days strung along from Wednesday to Saturday, today finds some new features in the midst of their runs, others barely beginning.

"Midnight" and "Sudden Money" will be at the Fox only through Tuesday, to be followed on Wednesday by "I'm From Missouri," new Bob Burns feature, and the stage show headed by Al Pearce. A lighthearted romance in Paris, "Midnight" stars Claudette Colbert and Don Ameche and offers a fair amount of pleasure. "Sudden Money" repeats too many items from "You Can't Take It With You" and too feebly to be very amusing.

"Dark Rapture," at the St. Louis, is the highly informative and well organized travel film which ran at the S'Renco Screening Room two weeks ago. Its program accompaniment is "Secrets of a Nurse," another of the death house yarns, with Helen Mack saving Dick Foran from the hot seat.

"Love Affair," which, according to Variety, is doing big business from New York to San Francisco, is still in town, at the Missouri. "Wife, Husband and Friend" is its assistant.

The Week's Shows

On the Stage

AMERICAN — "Tobacco Road" opens week's return engagement tonight, with John Barton in leading role. Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

FOX—"Midnight," starring Claudette Colbert and Don Ameche with John Barrymore; "Sudden Money," featuring Charlie Ruggles and Marjorie Rambeau.

ST. LOUIS — "Dark Rapture," African film produced by Armand Denis; "Secrets of a Nurse," featuring Edmund Lowe, Helen Mack and Dick Foran.

Four Weeks of French Films Scheduled for The Screening Room

"MERLUSSE," a French film written, directed and produced by Marcel Pagnol, the author of "Topaze," is the Screening Room feature for three nights beginning tonight. Two short subjects, one of which is entitled "New England, Yesterday and Today," are on the program.

The leading role in "Merlusse" is that of a hated professor at a boys' boarding school in Paris and the story one of what happens when he is left in charge of those students who have to remain at the school over the Christmas holiday. Henri Poupon portrays the teacher, Andre Pollack, Rellys, Thomeray and others are featured actors.

A week from tonight, the Screening Room, which is at 3143 Olive street, will show "The Pearls of the Crown," another French film written and directod by Sacha Guitry, who also plays four roles in the film. Guitry, often described as the "Noel Coward of France" because of his versatility and wit, traces the historical course of seven pearls given to Catherine de Medici by Pope Clement VII and covers a period of time stretching from the Middle Ages to the present.

Historical characters represented include Napoleon I and Napoleon III, the Empress Josephine and the Empress Eugenie, Henry VIII, Mary Queen of Scots, Queen Elizabeth and Queen Mary Tudor of England.

"Mayerling," the popular Charles Boyer-Danielle Darrieux feature, will be revived at the Screening Room for four nights beginning April 9, and "Un Carnet de Bal," brought back by popular demand, for four nights beginning April 16.

STAGE PLAYS AND MUSIC

EUGENIA WILSON, WHO PLAYS PEARL, THE CHILD WIFE, IN "TOBACCO ROAD," AT THE AMERICAN THEATER.

SYDNEY BUSCH, EARL SHERRY AND HERMAN WALDMAN, THREE PRINCIPALS IN "LOYALTIES," LITTLE THEATER PLAY OF THE WEEK.

Fifth Visit From Lesters Of Georgia

BACK for its seventh week and its fifth engagement locally, "Tobacco Road" arrives at the American Theater tonight. John Barton is Jeeter Lester, as he has been on the last two occasions, in the drama of life among the sharecroppers of Georgia.

Other familiar players will be Patricia Quinn as Sister Bessie, Dick Lee as Henry Peabody, Lillian Ardell as the grandmother and Walter Ayers as the banker. Newcomers are Sara Perry, former St. Louis actress, as Ada, Jeeter's wife, Norman Budd, from the Mercury Theater's presentation of "Julius Caesar," as Dude Lester, William Dorme as Love Bensey, the coal-chute worker, Eugenia Wilson as his child wife, Sheila Brent as Ellie May and Alan Jason as Captain Tim.

The company is the only one on tour this season and is on its way to the San Francisco World's Fair. The New York company is still holding forth and hopes, with the trade of the World's Fair there, to beat the all-time record of "Abie's Irish Rose," which ran for 2532 consecutive performances. "Tobacco Road" now has some 2250 to its credit in New York alone, has been in 39 states and 215 other cities.

Among the Jeeter Lesters in New York have been Henry Hull, James Barton, nephew of John Barton, James Bell and Eddie Garr, Municipal Opera's "Connecticut Yankee" of the summer of 1936, who now is Jeeter.

The week following "Tobacco Road" is dark for the American but the Chicago company of "Kiss the Boys Goodbye," Clare Boothe's satire on the search for a Scarlett O'Hara for the movies, is due to arrive the night of Easter Sunday, April 9.

John Barrymore and his wife, Elaine Barrie, are expected the week of April 24 in "My Dear Children," based to a great extent on Barrymore's own biography, and negotiations are under way for the Maxwell Anderson musical, "Knickerbocker Holiday," in which Walter Huston is starred, for a week in May.

Al Pearce and Company At the Fox Wednesday

Al Pearce, radio comedian who broke house records at the Fox Theater when he was here last spring, comes back for a week beginning Wednesday. The Pearce show features the star himself as Elmer Blurt, the "I hope-I hope-I hope" salesman; Arlene Harris, the highspeed gossip; Andy Andrews, Pearce's singing comedian; Eb and Zeb, the Corn Center artists; the Randall Sisters trio; Vic Hyde, one-man swing band; Lyda Sue, dancer; Everett West and Carl Hoff, who leads the orchestra.

LITTLE THEATER REVIVES GALSWORTHY'S 'LOYALTIES'

JOHN GALSWORTHY'S drama of anti-Semitic prejudice among British aristocrats, called "Loyalties," will begin its run at the Little Theater Wednesday night. Nine public performances are to be given, through April 8, and two special performances thereafter.

The play was seen at the American Theater in January, 1924, with some members of the all-English cast those who had played in it originally in London.

All the action occurs in or near London and concerns the code of ethics as viewed by a wealthy and refined young Jew, Ferdinand de Levis, and a group of English aristocrats loyal to each other. Herman Waldman has the role of De Levis.

The play opens in the large home of Charles Winsor (Leonard Visser) and his wife, Lady Adela (Lenore Griffith). Here, at a house party, De Levis loses a thousand pounds, stolen from his wallet. The other guests and the servants are informed of the theft, but because De Levis is of a different social cast and race, they make only mild efforts to help him recover his money. Included among the house guests are Ronald and Mable Dancy, newly-married young couple (Earl Sherry and Dolores McBratney), Margaret Orme, a society girl (Sydney Busch) and Gen. Canynge (Leo Lederer).

Convinced through circumstantial evidence that Dancy has committed the theft, De Levis agrees to keep silent only if Dancy's friends will sponsor his membership into the exclusive London clubs to which he has aspired. When later he is blackballed, De Levis decides to bring suit in court against Dancy. The course of the play, having proceeded after the Winsor house party to the card room of a London club and to the Dancys' flat, moves on then to the attorney's office, and finally back again to the Dancys' living room for its climax.

Vronsky-Babin Two-Piano Team At The Principia

VITYA VRONSKY and Victor Babin, Russian duo-pianists, will make their St. Louis debut Friday evening in Howard Hall, The Principia, and will repeat their program on the Principia campus at Elsah, Ill., on Saturday evening.

The two young artists, one born in Kiev, the other in Moscow, made their American debut in New York two years ago and now are on their second transcontinental tour. Both are students of Artur Schnabel and met while studying in Berlin. With their marriage, each gave up a promising career as solo artist.

Babin is a composer and in addition to a piano concerto, has written and published various songs and arrangements for two pianos. On the program at The Principia is one of his two-piano arrangements of the Polovtsian Dances from Borodin's "Prince Igor" and one of his original compositions.

M-G-M to Produce 'It Can't Happen Here' In Forthcoming Season

AFTER serving for several years as an example of suppression by Hollywood, Sinclair Lewis' novel, "It Can't Happen Here," picturing what might happen in the United States under a dictatorship, is to be filmed during the forthcoming movie season by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, according to an announcement made at a company sales meeting in Chicago several days ago.

Change in the studio's attitude is laid to the fact that Hollywood now is considering such subjects timely for the domestic market and that it no longer fears reprisals by the totalitarian countries, since the foreign market has dwindled considerably in the last year, anyway.

The Warner Bros. studio, with several anti-Nazi films on its production schedule, is rushing to the market first with "Confessions of a Nazi Spy," which it will release about April 15. The screenplay was adapted from the story by Leon G. Turrou, former Government operative who uncovered the Nazi spy ring last year and brought several of its members to trial.

Two New Artists To Be Introduced By Civic Music League

Two concert artists new to St. Louis are among those signed by the Civic Music League for its 1939-40 concert series. These are the South American dancer, Argentinita, who will appear here next Jan. 16, with her company, and Robert Virovai, young violinist from the Yugoslav mountains, who was introduced to America last November by the New York Philharmonic Orchestra and will arrive here next Dec. 12.

The series will open Nov. 7, at the Opera House, with a recital by Ezio Pinza, Metropolitan Opera basso who has been in St. Louis previously and will be heard in the forthcoming St. Louis Grand Opera production of "Faust" in April. Following Virovai and Argentinita come the Minneapolis Symphony, under the direction of Dimitri Mitropoulos next Feb. 20, and a recital by Artur Rubinstein, outstanding pianist, next March 19.

Julien Bryan to Show 'Inside Nazi Germany'

Julien Bryan, noted cameraman and lecturer, will bring his documentary feature picture, "Inside Nazi Germany," to the Opera House the evening of April 13 for one presentation beginning at 8:20 o'clock.

Brahms' First Symphony For Final 'Pop' Concert

Katharine Hepburn Takes Comedy Hit to Broadway

"The Philadelphia Story," by Philip Barry, Ready for New York After Sensational Tour Through Other Cities of the East.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 25.

THE Theater Guild will present Philip Barry's new comedy, "The Philadelphia Story," at the Shubert Theater on Tuesday evening, as the fourth production of its twenty-first subscription season. So reads the Guild's dignified announcement to the press, but much more is involved than just another of the Guild's very proper premieres, which Manhattan has come not to regard so highly in recent years.

What's up for Tuesday night is Katharine Hepburn's return to Broadway, after five years and much tossing of bricks, and the odds seem to be in the little girl's favor this time. For "The Philadelphia Story" has been knocking 'em dead, as they say in the trade, in its five-and-a-half weeks' tryout tour.

"The Philadelphia Story" is the first straight comedy that Philip Barry, author of "Holiday" and "Paris Bound" has written in the last decade, which in itself heightens the interest. Barry was represented on Broadway earlier this season by "Here Come the Clowns," a philosophical piece which brought forth some high praise, some condemnation and which departed just about the time the town got together on calling it "Here Come the Clowns," instead of "Here Comes the Clowns," as it was originally and somewhat ungramatically tagged.

In "The Philadelphia Story," Barry takes his audience to a smart suburban section of Philadelphia—Radnor, to be exact—to the somewhat beautifully mad household of the Lords, where everything seems to be just about as cock-eyed as circumstances will permit. Tracy Lord, played by Miss Hepburn, is about to be married, for the second time, to a young and promising pundit of the coal mines, who has worked himself up from nowhere to a position of importance. He is, of course, almost an unknown in society circles and the family objects.

Meanwhile Tracy's father is in the midst of an affair with a well-known actress and her mother's early life in Germantown comes in for some questioning when two newspaper men, assigned to cover the social angles of smart Philadelphia for a national magazine, get busy on the story of the engagement. With these opportunities, Barry brings forth his epigrams and witticisms on the order of the day and presents, in shadowy disguise, several prominent figures of real life, such as a nationally known publisher and woman photographer.

"The Philadelphia Story" has been applauded from the time of its opening in New Haven, Conn. on Feb. 16 until now. Written specifically for Miss Hepburn, it has had to undergo few changes in that time. Contract commitments allowed it only two weeks in Philadelphia and when the company packed up to go to Washington, the treasurer was pleased to report the comedy had broken 15-year-old house records at the Chestnut Street Opera House. Washington was a sell-out in advance and the last two weeks in Boston, against competition of Gertrude Lawrence in another fine new play, have been triumphant.

YET Miss Hepburn still has to prove herself on Broadway. Up until she went into motion pictures, won an Academy prize on "Morning Glory" and became one of movieland's great, the Rialto regarded her as one of its special pets. Her success before the camera and stories of her eccentricities from the West Coast soured that somewhat and the grand manner in which she returned in "The Lake" in 1934 completed the job.

For it was in "The Lake," to force a figure of speech, that she was sunk. The only traces left of the promising young stage actress were several stinging wisecracks, the most-quoted one credited to Dorothy Parker and to the effect that Miss Hepburn "ran the gamut of emotions from A to B."

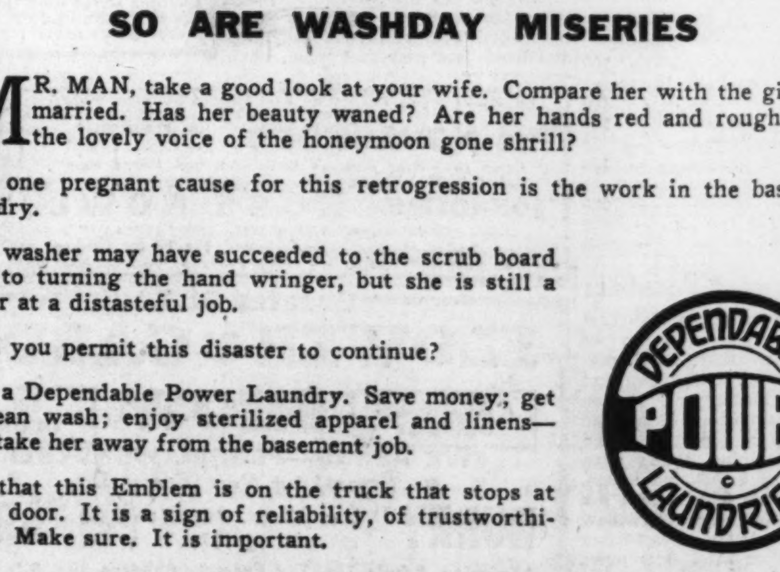
After that, the young star tied up with the Theater Guild and did "Jane Eyre" for the edification of various cities on the road, in 1937. Plans were to bring the play into New York but after one metropolitan reviewer had gone out of his way—as far as Chicago, as a matter of fact—to pan the show, it never appeared in these parts.

"The Philadelphia Story" may be the different story. It is reported that Miss Hepburn, who with Barry has a financial interest in the stage production, has bought the movie rights for herself. Lately some callous writers on the subject of the cinema have suggested that Miss Hepburn's decline from screen favor, despite a highly praiseworthy performance in "Holiday" in 1938, is more or less serious.

It appears, therefore, that what happens here Tuesday night and after is highly important to a certain young alumna of Bryn Mawr College. Other meal tickets involved are those of Van Heflin, Nicholas Joy, Vera Allen, Joseph Cotten, Shirley Booth and Forrest Orr.

Another 'Stage Door'

"Stage Door," the Edna Ferber-George S. Kaufman comedy which the Little Theater of St. Louis presented last week as a laboratory play in "drawing-room style," will be performed this week by the Dramatic Club of the Y. M. H. A.-Y. W. H. A., Union boulevard and Enright avenue, in conventional manner. The play will open tonight, to be repeated tomorrow evening and Tuesday evening.



SO ARE WASHDAY MISERIES

MR. MAN, take a good look at your wife. Compare her with the girl you married. Has her beauty waned? Are her hands red and rough? Has the lovely voice of the honeymoon gone shrill?

The one pregnant cause for this retrogression is the work in the basement laundry.

The washer may have succeeded to the scrub board and to turning the hand wringer, but she is still a toiler at a distasteful job.

Will you permit this disaster to continue?

See that this Emblem is on the truck that stops at your door. It is a sign of reliability, of trustworthiness. Make sure. It is important.

PREMIER BENITO MUSSOLINI'S speech to the Fascist Grand Council was scheduled to be broadcast on KSD at approximately 4 o'clock this morning. Plans of the NBC were to start the broadcast with news and music at 3:45 o'clock and to pick up Il Duce's address as soon as he began speaking. Commentators were assigned to interpolate summaries of what he was saying in all pauses. Following Mussolini's speech, the NBC planned to broadcast a summary of it in English and an interpretation of its implications.

ARCH OBOLER'S play at 9 p. m. Saturday on KSD and the WEAF net, titled "Mirage," will have only two characters, Linda, whose only interest in life is society, and Carl, who concerns himself only with business. Their viewpoints change completely after they have watched an old man writing on the sand. The roles will be played by Joan Blaine, lead of the Valiant Lady serial, and Raymond Johnson, the Chicago NBC actor, who scored a "hit" on a Rudy Vallee program in Oboler's monologue, "Steel." Miss Blaine and Johnson have been selected by Oboler to be regular members of the cast to interpret his plays in this series. Other members of the cast are Ann Sheperd, Betty Caine and Frank Lovejoy. Miss Blaine is regarded as one of radio's top-notch actresses. Johnson is equally highly regarded. He is married to Betty Caine, whom he met when they were cast in leading roles in the A Tale of Today serial. Lovejoy is a veteran actor, and Miss Sheperd is in the cast of "Gentle People" on Broadway.

TOMORROW, the Cavalcade dramatization will deal with the Five Nations Indian tribes which held sway over much of the territory from Hudson Bay south to the Carolinas and westward from the Atlantic to the Mississippi River for 200 years or so until they disintegrated following the Revolutionary War. The evacuation of Barcelona during the Spanish civil war will be depicted at 9:30 p. m. on the CBS net in a Columbia Workshop production of "Flight From Home," a play written for the broadcast by William Merrick. The Radio Theater will star Spencer Tracy and Loretta Young in "A Man's Castle." Bobby Breen will sing on Eddie Cantor's program.

Tuesday, the Inside Story guests will include Tom Terris, who was present at the opening of Pharaoh Tutankahmen's tomb and will tell of the supposed curse and the deaths of 12 of the 15 present at the opening; Judge Camille Kelley, Memphis' woman justice, and Sheila Kerry, a model said to have posed for more kissing pictures than any other person. Joan Blondell will take part in the program for which Dick Powell is now acting as master of ceremonies.

Wednesday, four authorities on the ancient Mayan civilization of Yucatan will be interviewed in the New Horizons period of the American School of the Air, at 1:30 on KMOX. Andrea Leeds will be featured in the Star Theater.

Friday, Robert L. Ripley will start another Believe-It-Or-Not series at 9:30 p. m. on the CBS net and KMOX. He will be supported by the Men About Town Quartet, B. A. Rolfe and his orchestra and Linda Lee, rhythm singer. Orson Welles will produce "Show Boat" in his Playhouse period. Edna Ferber, author of the novel, is billed to play the role of Parthy Ann Hawkes, Margaret Sullavan that of Magnolia and Helen Morgan that of Julie.

Frankie Frisch, former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, is to be sports announcer handling the play-by-play broadcasts on the New England Colonial network of all home games of the two Boston baseball teams. His radio salary is reported as $20,000 a year.

The owners of WLW, Cincinnati, have decided to appeal the ruling by the FCC requiring the station to reduce its power from 500,000 watts to 50,000. WLW was licensed to use 500,000 watts experimentally.

The This Is New York hour, which was concluded last Sunday, will be replaced at 7 o'clock tonight on the CBS net by an hour of dance music by the orchestras and singers of Barry Woods, Eddie LeBaron and Red Norve.

In place of Phillips Lord's Seth Parker program, the WJZ net at 6:30 this evening will begin a new series of productions of plays for radio by the NBC's Radio Guild, with a performance of Albert N. Williams' "American Song." This verse play, another experiment in the presentation of documentary technique in dramatized form, is written around flood control and gives the Mississippi River a voice as it rolls past the farm of a family which undertook to curb the mighty stream. Tom Bennett, an NBC staff composer, has written a musical score for it. Williams and Bennett collaborated on two other documentary verse plays which were broadcast by the NBC—"Wind and Water," which was concerned with technological unemployment, and "Festival," a story of soil erosion. Williams directed his own translation of Corneille's "The Cid" in the current Great Plays series.

This afternoon, at 1:45, the Onward Road series on KMOX will change its character to assume the form of a court of business inquiry in which representatives of management, labor and the consuming public will testify as to their views about various local industries. Today, Clark Gifford, attorney, will question W. L. Collins, president of the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co., representing management; Harry C. Bowles, an employe of the company, and Mrs. Joseph A. Bauer, selected to represent the consuming public.

Friday night, at 10 o'clock, the CBS network will broadcast from a banquet of the Franklin Institute in Philadelphia at which certificates of merit for their co-operation in developing a new, safer kind of shatter-proof glass will be presented to the Monsanto Chemicals Co., E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Co., Inc., Libby-Owens-Ford Glass Co., Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. and the Carbide and Carbon Chemical Co. The principal speaker is to be William O. Douglas, chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, who has been appointed to the United States Supreme Court by President Roosevelt. Approximately 300 of the country's leading scientists and industrialists are expected to attend the banquet.

Czecho-Slovakian radio stations which have been taken over by the Nazi organization of Minister of Propaganda Goebbels include the 120,000-watt Prague No. 1, the less powerful Prague No. 2 and smaller stations at Banska Bystrica, Bratislava, Bruenn and Prague, all of which have used the call letters OLR. Under Masaryk and Benes, Czecho-Slovakia operated radio as a Government monopoly, but, as in Great Britain, an effort was made to maintain broadcasting on a high plane, especially as to news.

One of the oldest of local programs is the Serenaders at 9 o'clock seven mornings a week on WIL. This program started on the air eight years ago and has been broadcast seven times a week continuously.

Next Saturday's Bright Horizons program, at 2:45 p. m., on KMOX, will consist of a sketch written for the occasion by Nellie Page Carter

Thus you reduce caloric intake considerably. But you do not suffer a hungry moment. There are no strenuous exercises or taking harmful drugs. Yet!—in a test conducted by Dr. Damrau with this method among a group of intelligent and cooperative people who followed directions implicitly, an average weight loss of seven pounds was registered per month. This remarkable method is just as beneficial and effective for overweight men as it is for overweight women. There is only one thing to watch. Eat sensibly, which means you avoid over-eating; and be sure to use Welch's Grape Juice—always made from the pick of the grape crop; always full strength; always pure.

Ania Dorfman, the Russian pianist; Nancy Carroll, the movie actress, and the Comedian Harmonists are billed for the Magic Key hour today. Also, there will be a two-way conversation, with four-point pickup, between George Hicks, NBC announcer, speaking from high on the trylon at the New York World's Fair grounds, and NBC representatives on the Tower of London, the Eifel Tower in Paris and the leaning tower of Pisa in Italy.

BOB HOPE will leave his radio show for the summer after June 20 . . . Kate Smith was awarded the Army and Navy Legion of Valor gold medal in her broadcast Thursday night for what was described as her "outstanding Americanism." The Legion of Valor, founded in 1891, is limited in membership to holders of service medals such as the D. S. C. and Navy Cross . . . Arthur Hughes is completing his seventh year playing the lead in the "Just Plain Bill" serial . . . Clayton Collyer, male lead in the "Young Widder Brown" serial, is a brother of the former movie star, June Collyer . . . Garry Morfit of KWK has been invited to be guest master of ceremonies on Ransom Sherman's NBC Club Matinee program April 7 and 8 . . . A committee of New York actors and authors is planning a radio show somewhat like the Sunday Screen Guild program . . . Gloria Sileo, 11 years old, who fled from Spain to this country two years ago and since has served as a clearing house for letters from people abroad to relatives in the United States, will be interviewed by Gabriel Heatter on the We, the People program Tuesday . . . Richard Crooks, who will sing in KSD's Monday night concerts for the next three weeks, plans to sail for Honolulu about April 11 and to sing from Hawaii Monday night, April 24. Then he will go on to Australia, the Orient, Africa and Europe.

Eva Le Gallienne will play the title role in a Great Plays performance of Barrie's "Peter Pan" at 12 noon today on KWK.

Events in radio history will be recalled in a broadcast at 2:30 p. m. today on the WJZ net of Ranald MacDougall's fantasy, "The Spectacular Sprinkle." MacDougall makes Spinkle the lost soul of radio who is invisible until a certain rhyme is spoken.

The Swing Soiree will return to the WJZ net at 7:30 tonight . . . Cary Grant may be back on The Circle program next Sunday . . . NBC has a new audience quiz program set up with Allen Prescott, the Wife Saver, as master of ceremonies . . . Herman Green, the Koko of the WPA Swing Mikado cast, has been signed to play Horace in the Big Sister serial . . . Phil Davis will lead the orchestra in a show which will start on the WEAF net May 2 . . . Ray Heatherton, the baritone, is set for the Walter O'Keefe-Andre Kostelanetz show Thursday . . . Variety reports that the sponsor of the Friday night Orson Welles show would like to move it to the spot now occupied Sundays by the Concert from Detroit. If this were done, the Good News program probably would take the spot vacated by Welles Fridays, but its sponsor would retain the Thursday hour for two half hour shows. The fact that moving the Welles show to Sunday is being considered is giving rise to speculation about the future of the concerts.

WCCO, the 50,000-watt station in Minneapolis, has ordered a 640-foot vertical transmitting aerial, which is designed and insulated for use with power up to 500,000 watts.

Jose Iturbi will play Liszt's Concerto No. 1 with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra next Sunday, and Lawrence Tibbett will be the soloist that night in the Concert from Detroit.

"THE Flying Hutchinsons" family, who plan to leave New York tomorrow on an airplane flight around the world, will be good-will ambassadors for the American School of the Air, according to a statement from the CBS network. The family, which includes Col. George R. Hutchinson, United States Army Reserves; his wife, Blanche, and their daughters, Kathryn, 16, and Janet Lee, 14, will be accompanied by Capt. Lee Dice, co-pilot, and Edward Hamel, navigator and radio operator. They plan to make the flight in their own plane, except for steamship voyages between Rio de Janiero and Dakar, Senegal, Africa, and between Tokyo and San Francisco. They will carry a scroll containing a message in 48 languages, and hope to get the signatures of executives of 68 nations of it. CBS expects to pick up the family by short wave in at least three foreign countries, probably Brazil, London and Tokyo. On their return to this country, the Hutchinsons are to broadcast from San Francisco and Washington, D. C., and in the fall they will be heard in the American School of the Air. The two children already have been in the air more than 2000 hours and have flown more than 300,000 miles.

Inexpensive Trips

PLANNING the trip they've always wanted! And when you're in the know you'll find exciting trips to fit your pocketbook too.

Enjoy a thrilling foreign atmosphere at a short distance from our own U. S. boundaries. Two days by motor from Laredo, Texas, you're in Mexico City. Fine tourist camps along the way — inexpensive hotels when you get there. For fascinating glimpses of jungle, old Spanish cities, a freighter trip from New York to Panama costing only $60. And you sail to Hawaii—in less than a week out of San Francisco or Los Angeles—for as low as $85.

Or visit Europe on a small budget. A one-way pasage can cost well under $100. Bicycling and hiking, you travel cheaply—really see the country. And in Western Europe, the British Isles, Norway and Sweden are more than 4000 youth hostels, charging 25 cents for a night's lodging.

In our own Northwest camp outdoors and revel in a fisherman's paradise. Popular too for summer vacations are great national parks such as Shenandoah in Virginia, Rocky Mountain in Colorado.

Our 32-page booklet gives information on inexpensive trips all over the U. S. A., South America, Europe, the Orient. Tells passports, visas, clothing you need.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of how to travel on little money to St. Louis Post-Dispatch Home Service, 635 Sixth avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Crabmeat Cocktail.

One cup flaked crabmeat.

One-third cup finely chopped celery.

One-eighth teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon paprika.
Six lemon wedges.

Mix the crab with the celery, pimientos, salt and paprika. Half-fill small glass cups lined with crisp lettuce or cress. Top with portions of sauce. Add lemon and serve. Cocktail sauce:

One-quarter cup chili sauce.
Two tablespoons catsup.
One tablespoon horseradish.
One tablespoon minced parsley.
One tablespoon lemon juice.
One-quarter teaspoon granulated sugar.
One-quarter teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon paprika.
Two tablespoons chopped green peppers (optional).

Mix and chill the ingredients.

The Curfew

If your daughter belongs to a sorority or club and there is constant argument as to the time she should be home from social affairs, why not contact the other mothers and have a general agreement as to the time the girls should be home? There will be no difficulty if the curfew is the same throughout the group.

Cheese Cake.

Two cups soft white cream cheese.

Five eggs, beaten.
Two tablespoons flour.
One teaspoon vanilla.
One-fourth teaspoon grated lemon rind.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
Two cups milk.
One cup granulated sugar.

Press cheese through a sieve to soften it. Add to rest of ingredients and mix thoroughly. Pour into shallow pan lined with crust, made as follows:

One-half cup granulated sugar.
One-third cup butter, melted.
One-fourth teaspoon cinnamon.

Mix ingredients and spread on bottom and sides of well-buttered shallow pan. Add cheese mixture and sprinkle top with rest of crumbs. Bake one hour in slow oven (275 degrees). Cool. Chill and serve, cut into slices or wedge-shaped pieces.

Plans Completed For Fashionable Spring Weddings

Margaret Rumsey to Be Bride May 22—King-Olin Marriage Set for Wednesday, April 12.

PROSPECTIVE spring brides are spending the last two weeks of Lent making plans for their weddings, many of them to take place within a few weeks after Easter. Dates are being set, bridal parties announced and trousseaux arranged for.

Miss Margaret Rumsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis M. Rumsey Jr., has chosen Monday, May 22, as the date of her marriage to Capt. John H. Stodter, U. S. A., attached to the Ninth Cavalry, stationed at Fort Riley, Kan. It will be a small family wedding at the home of Miss Rumsey's aunt, Mrs. Robert A. Holland, 8 Hortense place, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Guests, who will include a few close friends, will remain to greet the bridal pair informally after the ceremony.

The only attendants will be Diane Carling, young daughter of Miss Rumsey's cousin, Mrs. Stoner Carling, who is to be flower girl, and Capt. Stodter's brother, Capt. Charles Stodter of the Signal Corps, stationed in Washington, who will be best man. Capt. Stodter and his bride will spend their honeymoon in California. In the summer they will go to Ann Arbor, Mich., where the bridegroom will take an army radio course at the University of Michigan. They will return to Fort Riley in the fall.

About the middle of May Capt. Stodter will arrive in St. Louis to attend pre-wedding parties now being planned.

The marriage of Miss Georgene Franklin Olin to Willard Van Beuran King of Convent, N. J., will take place Wednesday afternoon, April 12, in the Corinthian Room of Hotel Pierre, New York. Invitations, sent by Miss Olin's mother, Mrs. Frank Chambless Rand Jr will be received in St. Louis tomorrow. Several members of the families will go East for the ceremony. The bride's father, John M. Olin of Fairmount, Alton, who is in New York at present, will give her in marriage. Her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin W. Olin, and her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Olin, all of Alton, plan to be there, as do members of Mrs. Rand's family from Toledo. St. Louis guests will include Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Rand and their daughter, Laura. The bridegroom's father, Willard Vinton King, and other members of his family will go from Convent.

Miss Louise Olin will be maid of honor for her sister, and Frederick Van Beuran of New York, the bridegroom's cousin, will be best man. The service will be read by the Rev. Dr. Robert Hall Atchison, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Alton, a close family friend, who has known the bride since her childhood. A reception will be held in an adjoining suite.

Mr. and Mrs. Rand and Miss Georgene Olin recently returned to their apartment in New York after spending the winter at their ranch in Santa Fe, N. M. After the wedding the Rands will go to their ranch in Colorado Springs, Colo., for the summer.

One of the earliest of the pre-wedding parties will be given today in Convent—a cocktail party by Mr. King's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Van Beuran King, at their home.

Invitations have been received for one of the largest of the post-Easter weddings, that of Miss Marian Spink Merrell and William Hoxie Bixby Jr., to take place at 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, April 15, at the Church of St. Michael and St. George. After the ceremony there will be a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Walbridge Merrell, 510 Overhill drive.

Mr. Bixby's sister, Miss Martha Bixby, will attend Miss Merrell a maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Marie Taylor Spink and Miss Virginia Christy, cousins of the bride-elect; Miss Suzanne White and Miss Becky Wells, debutantes; Miss Frances O'Neil and Miss Carolyn Lansing. Mr. Bixby is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bixby, 13 Portland place.

Frank Rice Sheldon, brother-in-law of the bridegroom-to-be, will be best man. Ushers will be William Upthegrove, David R. Francis III, Henry M. Hopkins, Hampde M. Swift, A. Timon Primm III Nathaniel Ewing and John Thoma Craven, all of St. Louis; Barcla Harris, Minneapolis, Minn., and Burrall Barnum, Greenwich, Conn

Anniversary of Open Door Celebrated

THE Open Door, book and toy shop founded and sponsored by the St. Louis Junior League as a source of revenue for its welfare work, is celebrating its fifteenth anniversary this week.

From a modest beginning in a small shop in the Galleria Building on Maryland avenue west of Euclid, the shop has outgrown three other quarters, and the fourth move was to the present location at 4934 Maryland avenue, the first floor of a large building in which the Junior League has its clubrooms and general headquarters.

Mrs. Marion Clifford Blossom, then an active league member, is credited with the original toy shop idea, for the purpose of creating an outlet for toys and articles made by shut-in patients who work under league supervision. At that time there were no book shops in the West End of St. Louis, so a lending library was started in connection, and an additional supply of toys bought outright.

The grand opening took place March 24, 1924, with an amateur staff. A different member of the league took charge every day, and on days when home duties prevented her taking her turn, a substitute was called in, sometimes accompanied by a pet dog she hesitated to leave, and equipped with a box lunch. One of the early substitutes tells an amusing story of a tele-

Viennese Theme For Smart Party In New York

NEW YORK, March 25.

STRAUSS waltzes, cafe-schlag in tall glasses topped with whipped cream, Maiwein and beer flowed freely in the grand ballroom at the Waldorf, last Tuesday, when a "Spring Night in Old Vienna" was staged for the benefit of the Association to Promote Proper Housing for Girls. Among the sponsors were young Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Mrs. Orrin Sage Wightman of 7 East Eighty-eighth street, the former Purl Parker and mother of Orrin S. Wightman Jr. of St. Louis, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest G. Vietor of 610 Park avenue, cousins of Mrs. J. Lionberger Davis of Brentmoor, who was formerly Miss Julie Vietor.

Mrs. Harry Hall Knight, formerly Miss Marie Christy Tiffany, and Mrs. Macklin Marrow, who was Miss Violet Orthwein, were members of the ticket committee that sold out the house. Guests at this cabaret festival were seated at tables covered with red and white checkered cloths and with tiny lamps in Vienna wine house style. Macklin Marrow, the conductor, and 35 members of New York's Philharmonic Orchestra, presented a program of Strauss, Lehar and other waltz kings. As the clock struck 12, a supper of Wiener schnitzel and little Viennese cakes was served, and Deems Taylor, master of ceremonies, introduced Paul Draper, the dancer. Next came the Hartmanns, well known satirists of the dance, presenting their newest feature, a takeoff on a lilting romantic waltz.

Mr. Marquand, whose novel, "The Late John Apley," won a Pulitzer prize, has just published another best seller, "Wickford Point," which appeared serially in the Saturday Evening Post. Mrs. Marquand, the former Adelaide Hooker, daughter of Mrs. Elon Huntington Hooker and the late Mr. Hooker, and sister of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller III, was in St. Louis several years ago as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Howard Holmes.

Miss Eleanor Conant spent last weekend in Southbridge, Mass., with Mr. and Mrs. Channing McGregory Wells Jr. Mrs. Wells is the former Miss Mary Dana, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Dana of Brentmoor Park. Mrs. Richards gave a luncheon for her sister Friday. Among the guests were Mrs. Felix W. Coste and Mrs. Gilson Gray, both former St. Louisans and Mrs. Kenneth E. Ryan.

Vladimir S. Hurban, former Minister to Cezcho-Slovakia, and his wife have been the center of attention here in Washington. When it was learned that Minister Hurban was staying on in the Czech legation despite the request of the German Charge d'Affaires, Dr. Thomsen, for him to vacate, now his little country had been wiped off the face of the political globe, all Washington appeared to be calling on the Hurbans.

Events overseas are having their influence on Washington society. Once more, as in World War days, hostesses are compiling their guest lists with more than usual care. Unannounced conquests, just as undeclared wars, smash social lines and the wary hostess wants to avoid any unpleasant incidents at her dinner table or in her drawing room.

Because of its cosmopolitan population, Washington is always an intensely partisan city in world affairs. But it can act in unison where the relief of suffering is concerned. This was evident on Tuesday at the performance of the Chinese Cultural Players. These players were completing a 4000-mile American tour to raise funds for 100,000,000 of their countrymen who are war refugees.

Madame Wellington Koo, wife of the Chinese Ambassador to France; Mrs. Stanley Reed, wife of the Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court, and Mrs. Henry A. Wallace, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, assisted Dr. Hu Ehih, Chinese Ambassador, in receiving his guests.

Costumes, music and food all were Chinese.

Mrs. Nicholas Longworth and her daughter, Paulina, left Cincinnati Friday for Albuquerque, N. M., where they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Simms. Mrs. Simms was formerly Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick. Mrs. Longworth will return to Cincinnati shortly before Easter and is said to be planning to spend part of the spring season in Washington.

Will the war clouds over Europe halt the visits of the English King and Queen to this continent? That is now the question in Washington which has been becoming increasingly royalty conscious as the time of the arrival of the King and Queen in Washington draws near. In every province in Canada, the women of the Dominion who will be presented to their sovereigns are practicing the curtsy, which is imperative on the part of British subjects. The Dionne quintuplets will take it as a merry and do it well.

In Washington to curtsy or not to curtsy is the question. At a recent tea the argument grew heated as to whether or not Queen Mary curtsies to Queen Elizabeth or vice versa. Those who should know declare that the Queen Mother, as well as every other woman in England, curtsies to the Queen. To the English this is perfectly natural. One of those at the tea pointed out that Queen Mary curtsies to her son, the King, too, and Queen Elizabeth curtsies to her husband.

So when the ladies retire to the Red Room after dinner in the White House will the Queen curtsy to the King as she leave and if so what will Mrs. Roosevelt be doing? Mrs. James E. Helm, Mrs. Roosevelt's social secretary, is said to have expressed the opinion that the wife of the President of the United States need not curtsy because she is the wife of the head of the nation. Then, we ask, who wants to answer it—if the Queen curtsies to her husband, head of his nation, will Mrs. Roosevelt follow the Queen's lead and curtsy to her own husband, the head of his country?

THE BOSS IS AWAY, TRA-LA, WE'RE "KINGS FOR A WEEK"

Read This Statement by Sears St. Louis Employes:

Our bosses will be out of the city this week, attending a meeting. They told us to take charge of the stores. WE HAVE—IN A BIG WAY!! . . . Our bosses are great fellows—we're going to miss 'em—but we're determined to demonstrate that we don't need 'em (for a week at least). Our idea of running a store is to say it with savings . . . No sweetly written sentiments that reach as far as the heart, but as far as the pocketbook . . . COME TO SEARS THIS WEEK, EXPECTING A LOT—YOU'RE GOING TO GET IT . . . Listed on this page are but a few of the many savings—you'll find many more throughout our stores . . . Every article in our "King for a Week" event has been selected, approved and priced by a committee of Sears St. Louis employees, WHO WANT CONCENTRATED ACTION WHILE THE BOSSES ARE AWAY Read the reasons for every selection.

Mmes. Marie Kluegel and Dora Steig, Notion Dept. managers, explained their decision: "We selected this as one of our 'King for a Week' features because, at one dollar, we don't know of better insurance against moth and dust damage."

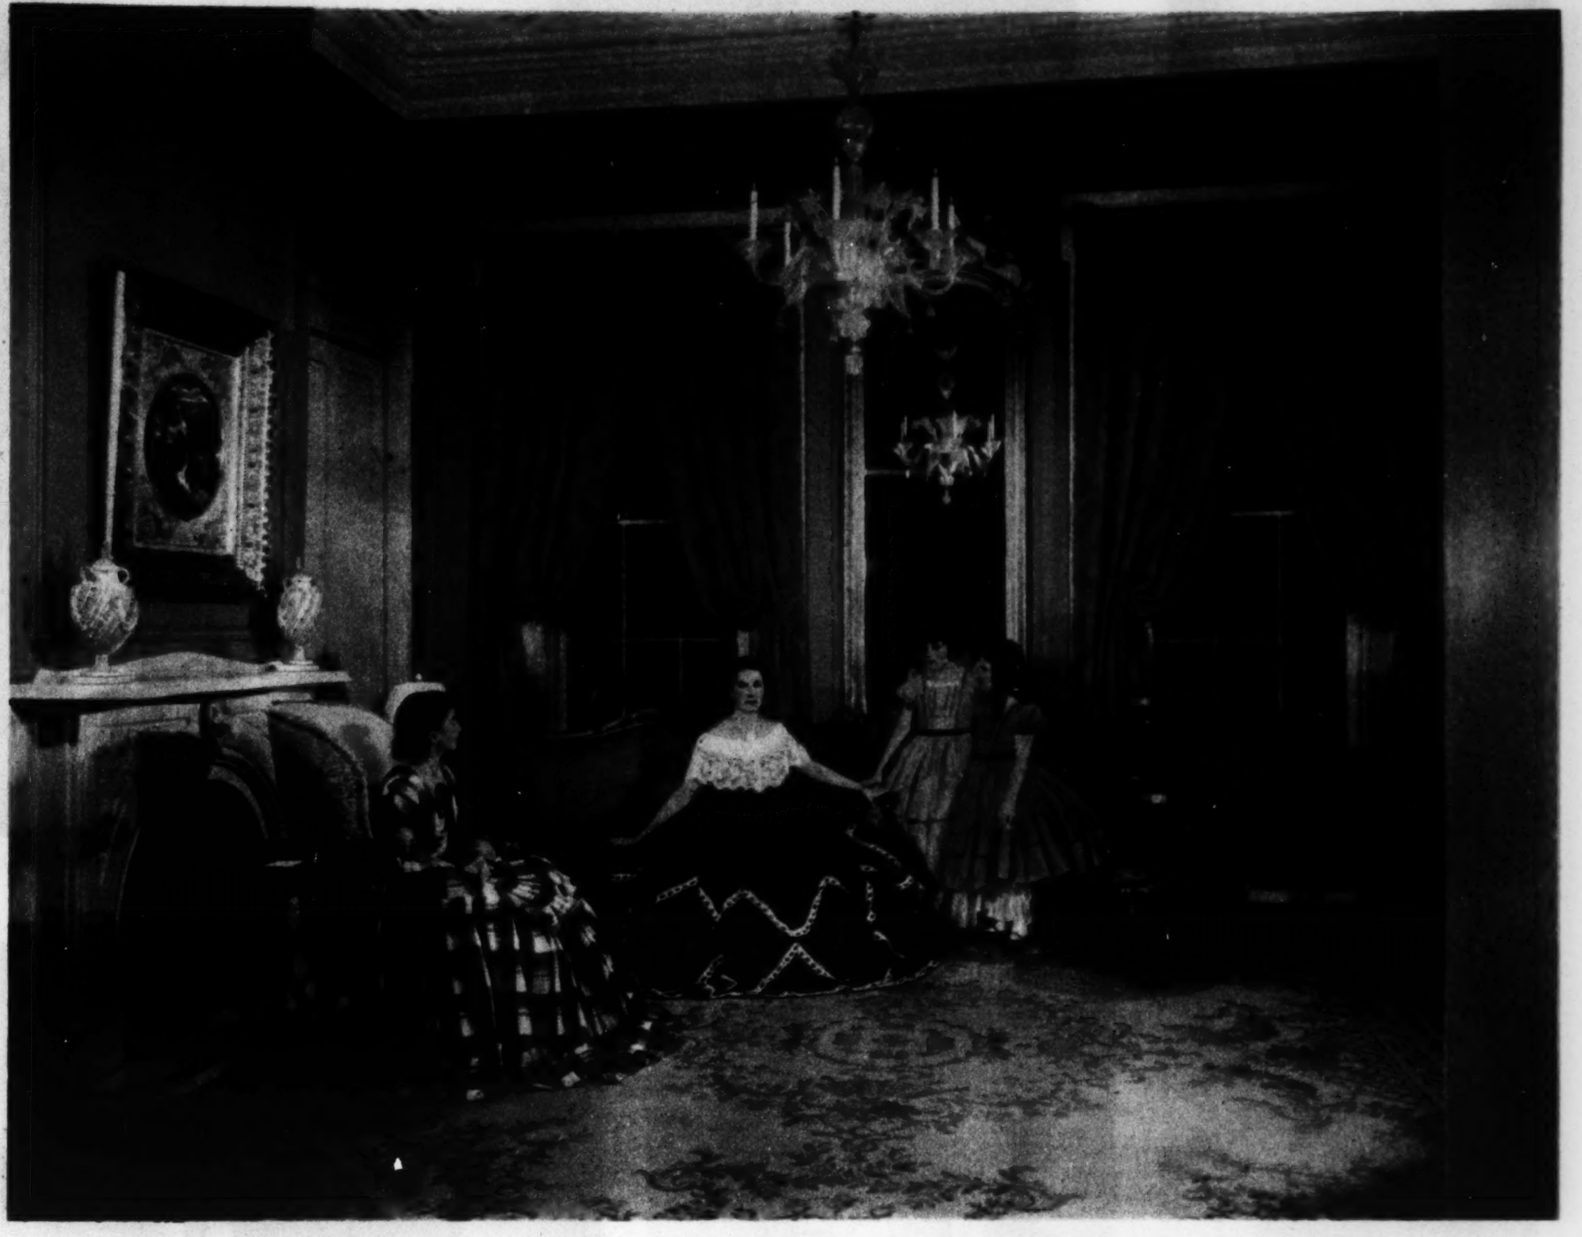
ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH PICTURES

March 26, 1939

Miss Ruth Audley Beltzhoover in ante-bellum costume among the azaleas on the grounds of Arlington, one of the 38 old mansions of Natchez, Mississippi, which are being viewed by visitors this month in "pilgrimages" arranged by two garden clubs.



Great pains are taken to re-create the atmosphere of the period before the Civil War. This is a parlor in Monteigne. The house was built in 1855 by William T. Martin, later a Confederate general.

Old Natchez Shows Her Colors

Pilgrims Again View Her Gardens and Distinguished Ante-Bellum Houses

(Color photos by Clint Murphy of the Post-Dispatch staff)

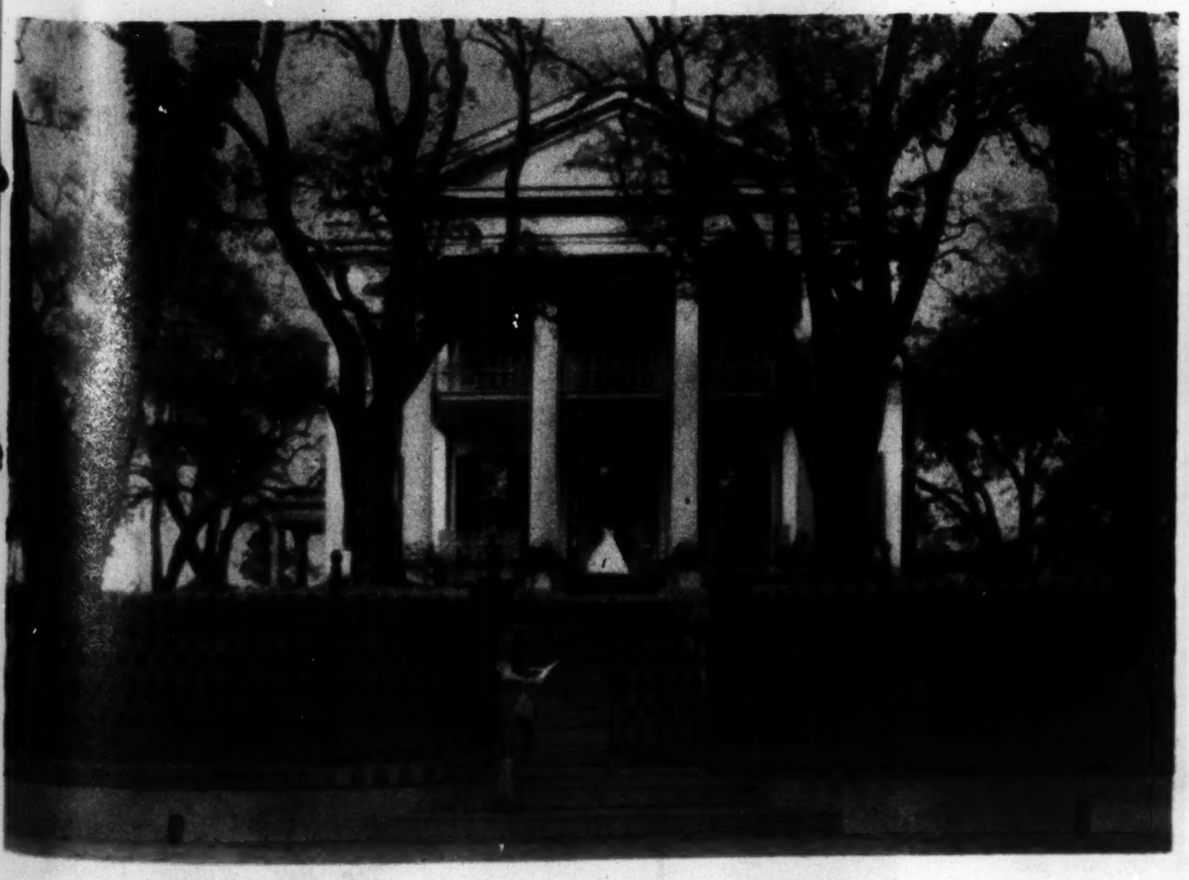
Miss Jo Ella St. John, new queen chosen by the Pilgrimage Garden Club, among the azaleas at Arlington. The club held its show March 4-19. The pilgrimage arranged by the rival Natchez Garden Club started March 20, and will last through April 2.



Stanton Hall, built in 1851 by Frederick Stanton. It is a replica of his ancestral home in Ireland, and an outstanding example of the classical type. Most of the elaborate fixtures were brought from France and Spain in a chartered ship. Door knobs are of silver. It is now owned by the Pilgrimage Garden Club.

Gloucester, erected between 1798 and 1804 by Winthrop Sargent, first Governor of the Mississippi Territory. Some of the homes in Natchez are older than this, of the low French and Spanish colonial type. Most of these mansions were owned by planters who grew wealthy off cotton.

The President's Newest Nominee to the Supreme Court

EAST, Midwest, and West can claim William Orville Douglas, nominated by President Roosevelt for the Supreme Court seat vacated by the retirement of Justice Louis D. Brandeis. Most recently from Connecticut, the chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission was born in Maine, Minnesota. He spent four childhood years in California, was educated at Yakima and Walla Walla, Washington, and in 1922 went East by freight train to work his way through Columbia University, New York. Later for two years he worked with a New York law firm. From 1925 to 1927 he lectured at Columbia University, but by 1932 had shifted to Yale Law School. He was Sterling professor of law there when appointed to the SEC in 1936.

Douglas is the son of poor missionary parents, and worked for his education as farm hand, junk dealer, and janitor. His rise in the world after graduation was so rapid that now, at 40 years of age, he is the youngest man to have been appointed to the Supreme Court in more than a hundred years. Nearest in age to Douglas on the present court are Black, 53, Reed, 54, and Frankfurter, 56, all Roosevelt appointees.

(Associated Press Photos except as noted)

The wife of the Supreme Court nominee with their two children, Mildred, 7, and William, 5. Mrs. Douglas was a teacher at La Grande, Oregon, before their marriage in 1923.

Class Valedictorian Douglas on his graduation from high school at Yakima.

1937 imports, $139,000,000 (60 per cent from Germany and Czechs); exports, $229,000,000 (one-third to Germany and Czechs); Germany now wants half, but England has supplanted her as best customer, buying eight times as much as three years ago ($3,200,000 in January)

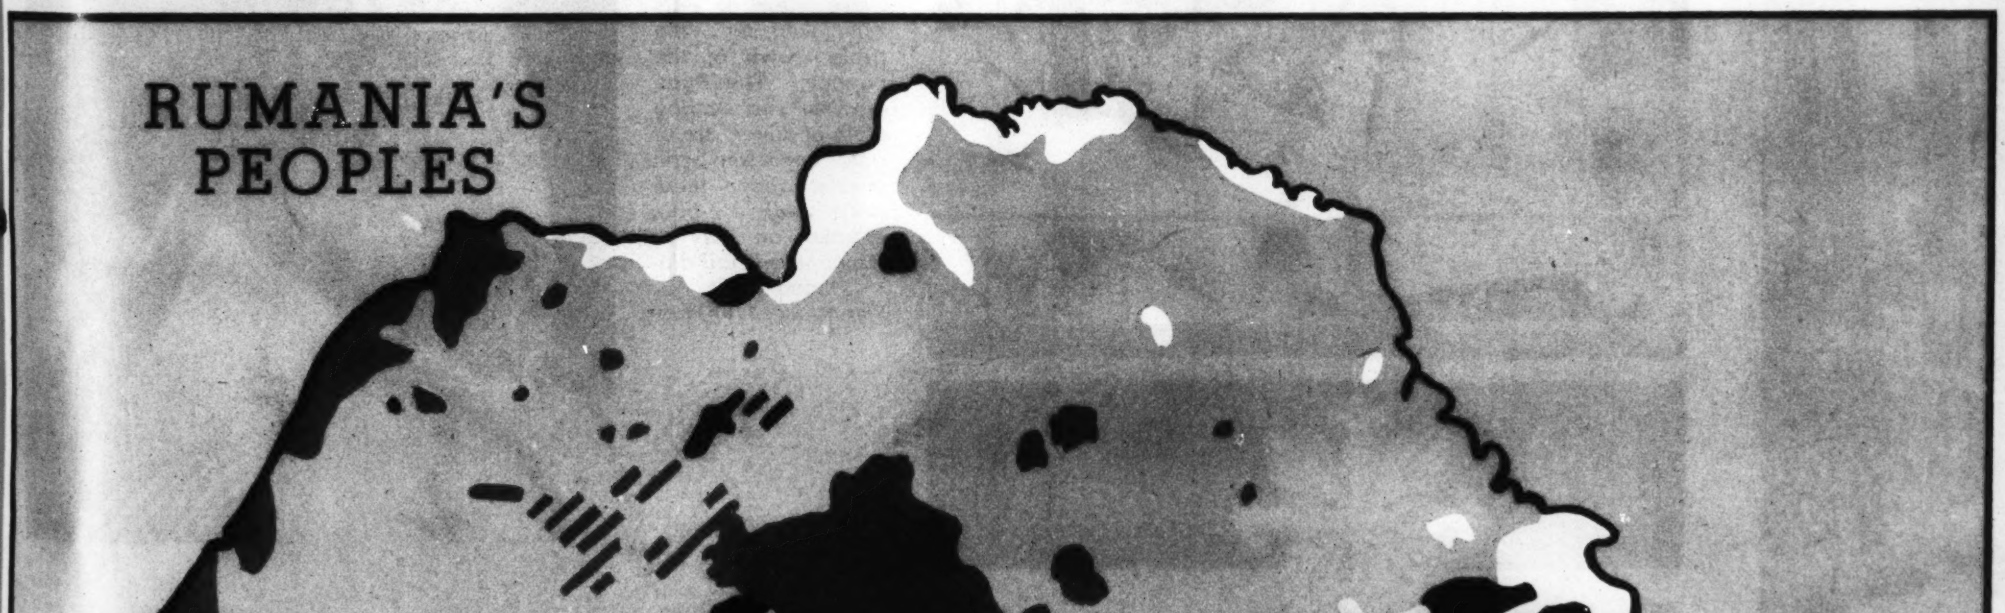
RUMANIA, BALKAN TREASURE HOUSE



(Also 900,000 Jews, scattered in cities, 40,000 Poles, 30,000 Tatars and Gypsies, a few thousand Macedonians.)

Rumania's minorities—5,500,000 people who speak eight other languages—tend to make her highly vulnerable to Hitler's divide-and-seize type of attack. Hitler might charge the Germans (Saxons and Alsatians, most of whom emigrated centuries ago) are oppressed. They already are subject to Nazi propaganda. Or the Magyar and Bulgar minorities might be the excuse for Hungary and Bulgaria to start a war to recover lost territories. Or the Ukrainian group might give Hitler a wedge into Rumania if he tries to foster a Ukrainian puppet state.

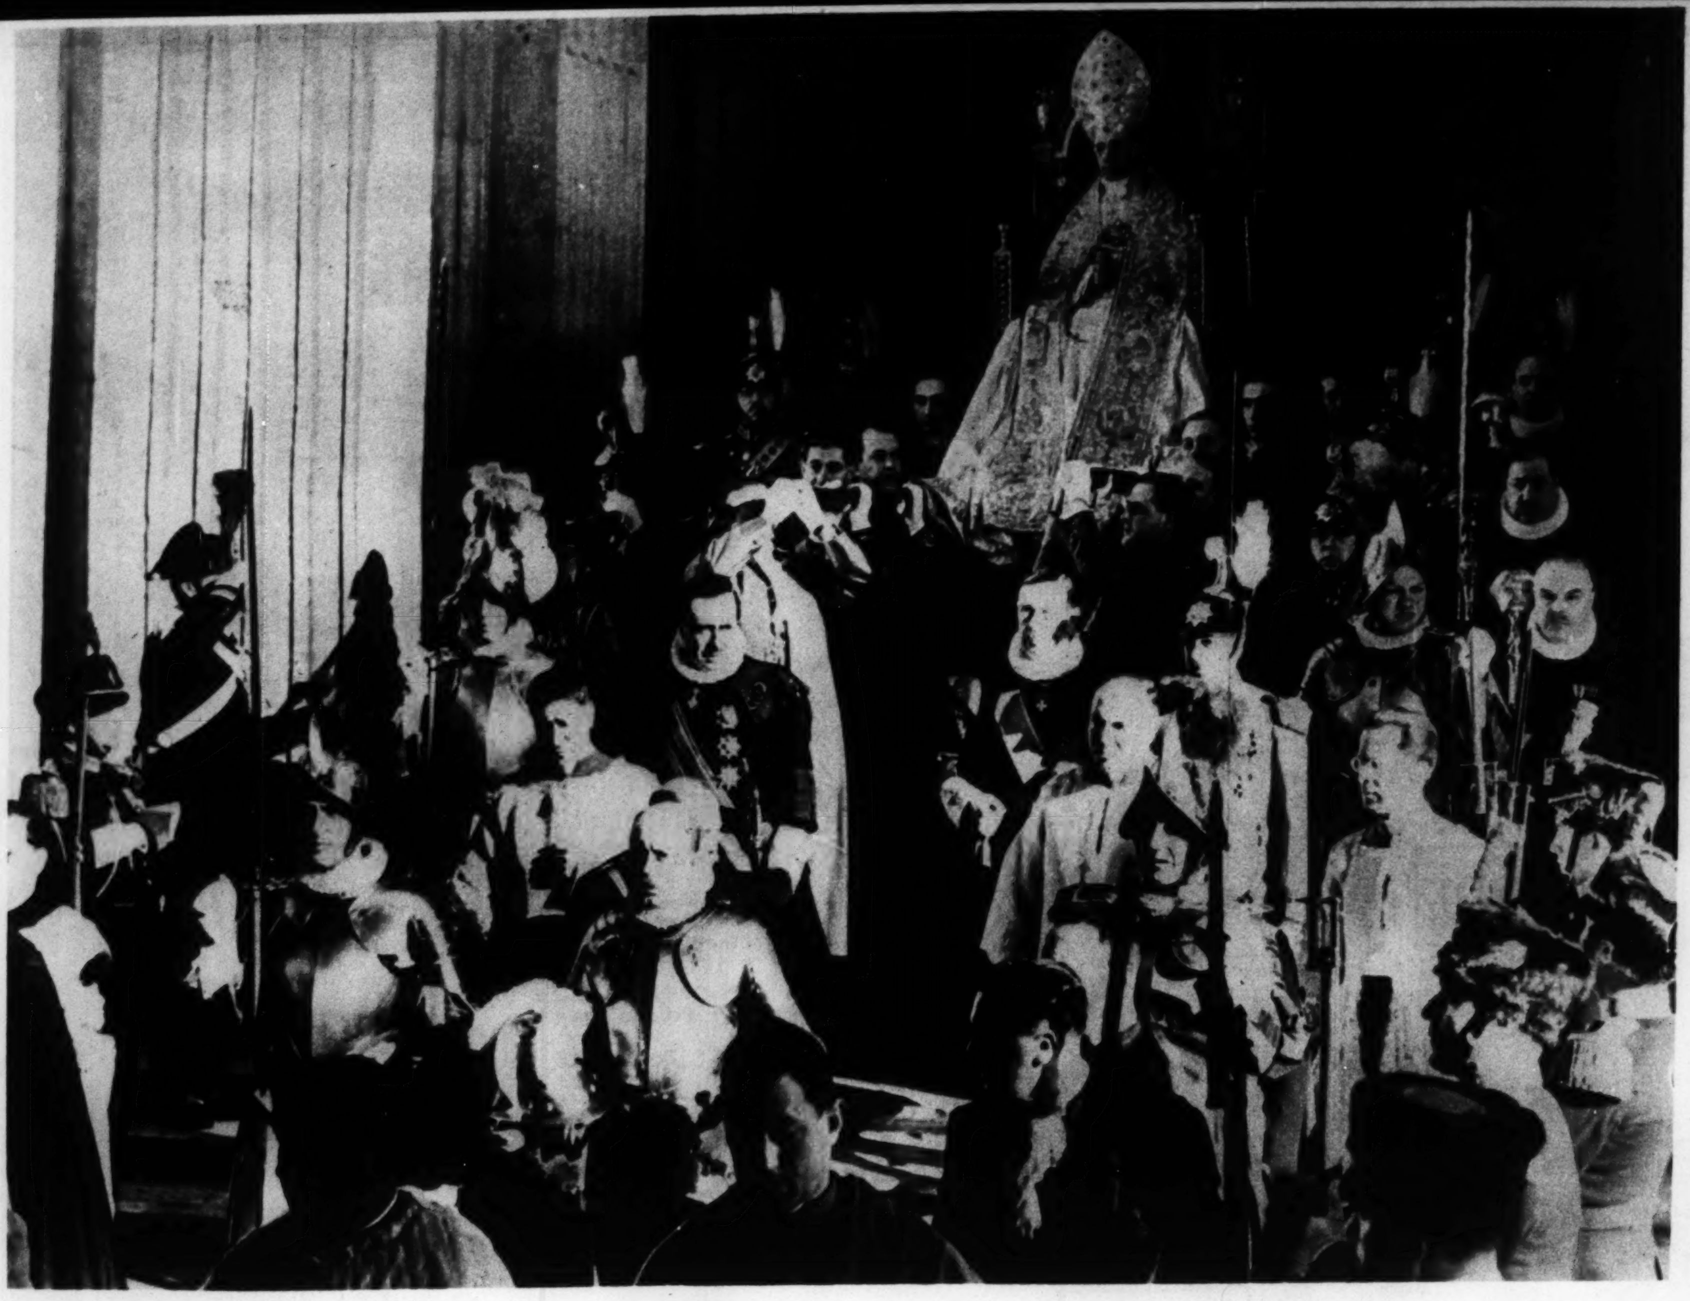
WHY Rumania is the treasure house of the Balkans, coveted by Hitler, is shown on the map above. In wealth and natural resources, it is a miniature United States or U. S. S. R. Its oil is just what Hitler needs so desperately for his war machine, its wheat and corn would greatly augment the Reich's low grain output, offset a British blockade like that of the World War.

Much of Rumania's natural wealth is undeveloped, wasted or goes in graft—according to John Gunther, "No county in Europe has been so corruptly manipulated and exploited"—but it is rapidly increasing its use of machinery and has succeeded in abolishing the slovenliness which remained after Turkish days. King Carol II, the Hohenzollern who was once the royal clown of Europe, has outmaneuvered the politicians, and rules with surprising shrewdness as a virtual dictator. He smashed the pro-Nazi Iron Guard with the killing of 17 of its leaders last December, and has been playing Britain off against Germany for trade concessions. He has wavered towards more democracy and more rights for minorities, but has restricted Jews. His red-haired, half-Jewish mistress, Magda Lupescu, for whom he remained an exile for five years before taking the throne in his 1930 coup, exerts much influence, and is hated by most of the politicians.

Rumania has existed as a kingdom only since 1881. What are now the provinces of Moldavia and Wallachia were inhabited by Dacians until the Romans conquered them about 100 A. D. Many Roman tradesmen and artisans who came to the country left Latin blood in Ruman veins and gave them a Latinate language, which, however, is strongly touched with Slavic. After the Romans came the Goths, Slavs, Huns, Bulgars and a half dozen other peoples so that the Rumans of today are a distinctly mixed race. They first emerged as the Vlachs or Wallachs in 1290. Their history was one of domination or rule by the Hungarians and Turks, with a brief period of independence in the seventeenth century, until the European Powers pulled Rumania out of Turkish provinces in 1859. After the Russo-Turkish war, a Hohenzollern was made king.

From 1913 on, Rumania more than doubled its area and population. It seized Dobruja from the Bulgars in the Balkan War of 1913. When it entered the World War on the side of the Allies in 1916, its troops were badly beaten, but after the Allied victory, it got its promised reward in the form of Bessarabia, taken from the Russians, and Transylvania, Banat and Bukovina, all west of the Carpathians and north of the Transylvania Alps, from Hungary.

Coronation of Pope Pius XII



Pope Pius XII, seated on a portable throne, being carried into the basilica of St. Peter's for the coronation ceremony. The Pontiff wears vestments of white and cloth of gold, and his attendants include uniformed Noble Guards and armored Swiss Guards.

THE coronation of Pope Pius XII, generally regarded as one of the most important of such events in church history, attracted to Vatican City on March 12 people from all over the world, including official representatives of 40 nations. In St. Peter's Square a crowd estimated at 350,000 saw the climax of the five-hour ceremony, the actual placing of the papal tiara on the new Pope's head, which took place on an outdoor balcony of St. Peter's Basilica. Inside the basilica, where most of the rites were carried out, more than 60,000 persons were gathered, having been admitted by ticket. They witnessed, in the coronation procession of dignitaries, the rich and colorful vestments and settings, the solemn and dramatic ritual, which included celebration of the mass by the Pontiff, the greatest display of religious pageantry the Christian world affords.

The Pope gives a benediction in the course of the coronation procession, participated in by more than 100 bishops in addition to Cardinals, Archbishops, Patriarchs and many other clerics.

1939 OOMPH* GIRL

GAY
ALOON

The actress as a dance hall girl in her new picture, "Dodge City."

ANN SHERIDAN,
Champion "oomph" girl.

A JURY of 25 men representing a variety of occupations, tastes and interests, after surveying 12 beauties nominated by the ballots of college students, the other day selected Ann Sheridan of the movies as the one with the most "oomph." The party at which the jury—which included the Earl of Warwick—proclaimed and toasted the winner was naturally held in Hollywood. Miss Sheridan, who doubtless will be known for the rest of this year as the "oomph" girl, is 24 years old, a native of Texas, and broke into the movies in 1933 through a beauty contest after studying to be a teacher. She has red-brown hair and hazel eyes, weighs 120 pounds and is five feet, five inches in height. She has played in a dozen pictures, including "The Crusades," "The Black Legion" and "Dodge City," the latter not yet released in St. Louis.

*Oomph, according to a majority of the jury, means a quality which commands male interest. The Earl of Warwick defined it as "a feminine desirability which can be observed with pleasure but cannot be discussed with respectability." Apparently oomph is merely "It" in open toes and a pagoda hat.

SWIMMING TOWARD A DEGREE

EIGHTY girl students of The Principia, Page boulevard and Belt avenue, are expending many foot-pounds of energy these days in the school's pool at Howard Hall. They are members of Miss Olive Simmons' swimming classes and many of them are preparing for tests of their skill in the water. Some, who began learning to swim last fall, have progressed until they are about ready to satisfy the school's requirement that all students, girls as well as boys, must be able to swim before graduation; girls, to pass the test, must swim the length of the 60-foot pool twice and do a straight standing dive off the edge. Advanced members have been putting the final touches on their techniques in the hope of passing Red Cross life saving tests starting tomorrow. Each swimming class meets twice a week. The one pictured here, composed of Third Academics, corresponding to high school juniors, contains both novices and skilled swimmers.

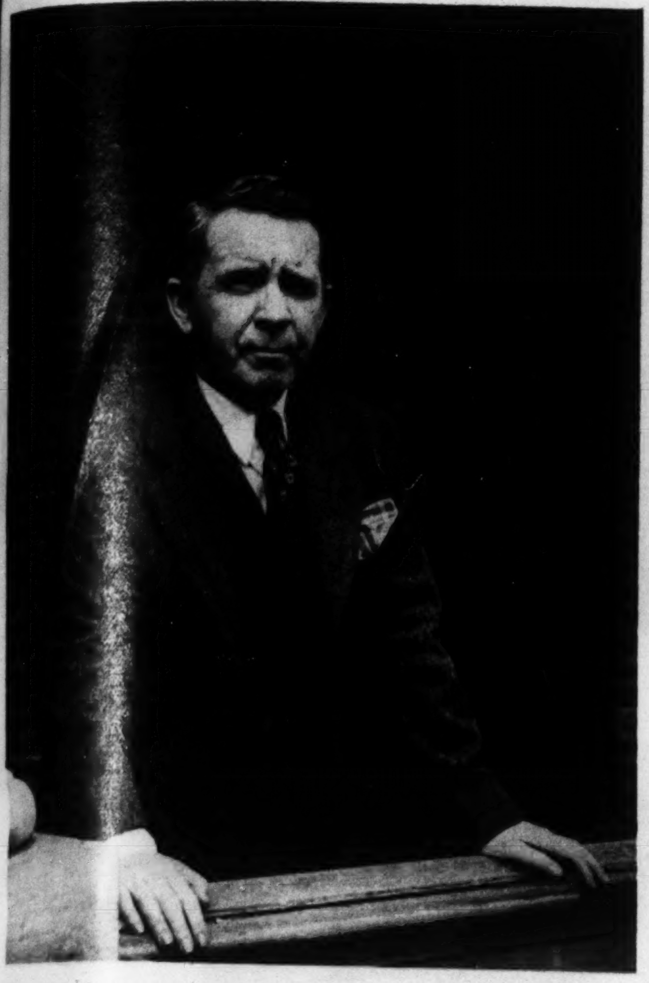
Natchez' Moorish Castle That Was Never Completed



The late Merritt Ward, a few days before his death this month. A grandson of the wealthy planter who built Longwood, the ante-bellum, unfinished "Moorish castle" at Natchez, he had for years lived in the basement of the huge mansion, the only part completed.

Section of the tower and its balcony which command a wide view of the countryside. The window openings have been closed with boards.

Masters of Longwood: Merritt Ward standing beside a portrait of his grandfather, Dr. Haller Nutt, who spent $100,000 on the house and then had to leave it unfinished.

IN THE famous assortment of ante-bellum homes at Natchez, Mississippi, there is one which is far from being typical of its time and place. It is Longwood, a six-story, 32-room "Moorish castle," roughly circular in ground plan, surrounded by moss-draped live oaks. The mansion was begun late in the '50s by Dr. Haller Nutt, a wealthy planter with 800 slaves and, apparently, an exotic taste in architecture. After he had spent $100,000 on the edifice and had ordered much expensive material from abroad, the Civil War broke out, whereupon his workmen dropped their tools and departed. They left Longwood walled, roofed and domed but the interior above the basement unfinished. The house has remained that way ever since—even tools and brushes have been left where they were put down—except that the basement was furnished as living quarters for the family. Many years ago the family moved away, but Merritt Ward, a grandson of Dr. Nutt, after serving in the World War, returned to Longwood and took up his abode in the lamp-lit basement, attended by a Negro servant. He left undisturbed the towering vacancy above, framed in rough lumber and somber shadows. A few days after these photographs were taken he died, and his brother, James, succeeded him as the occupant of Longwood.

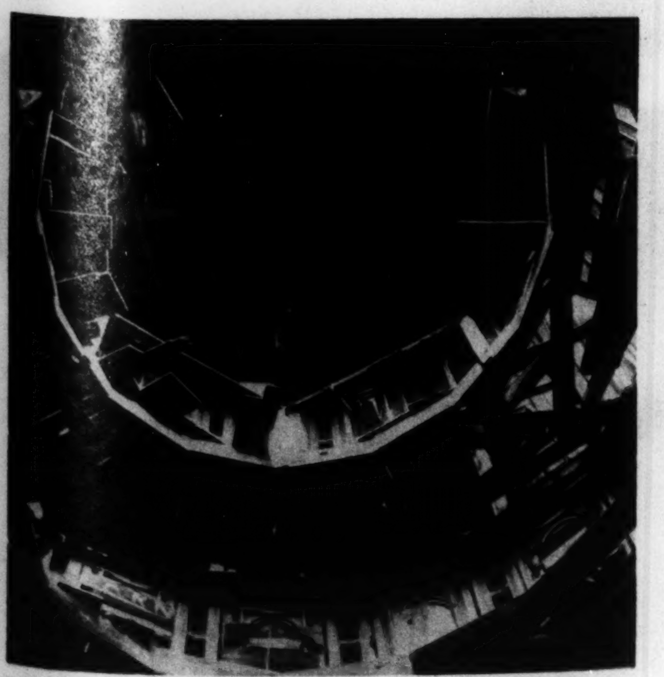
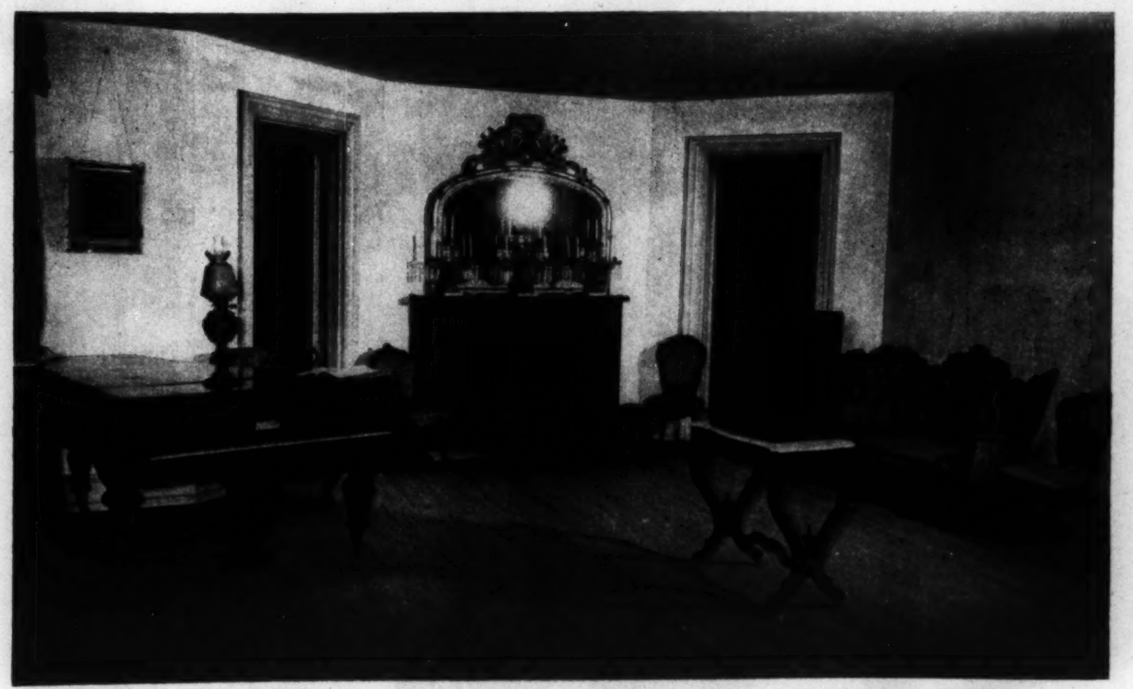
Fourteen-room brick house erected to provide living quarters for Dr. Nutt's family while Longwood was being built. It was intended for occupancy later by house servants.



The interior of the house above the basement has been like this for 75 years. Looking upward through the central rotunda, which rises from basement to tower.



One of the basement rooms, with its ornate mantel and old furniture. Piano and music box are said to have been among the first brought into Mississippi.

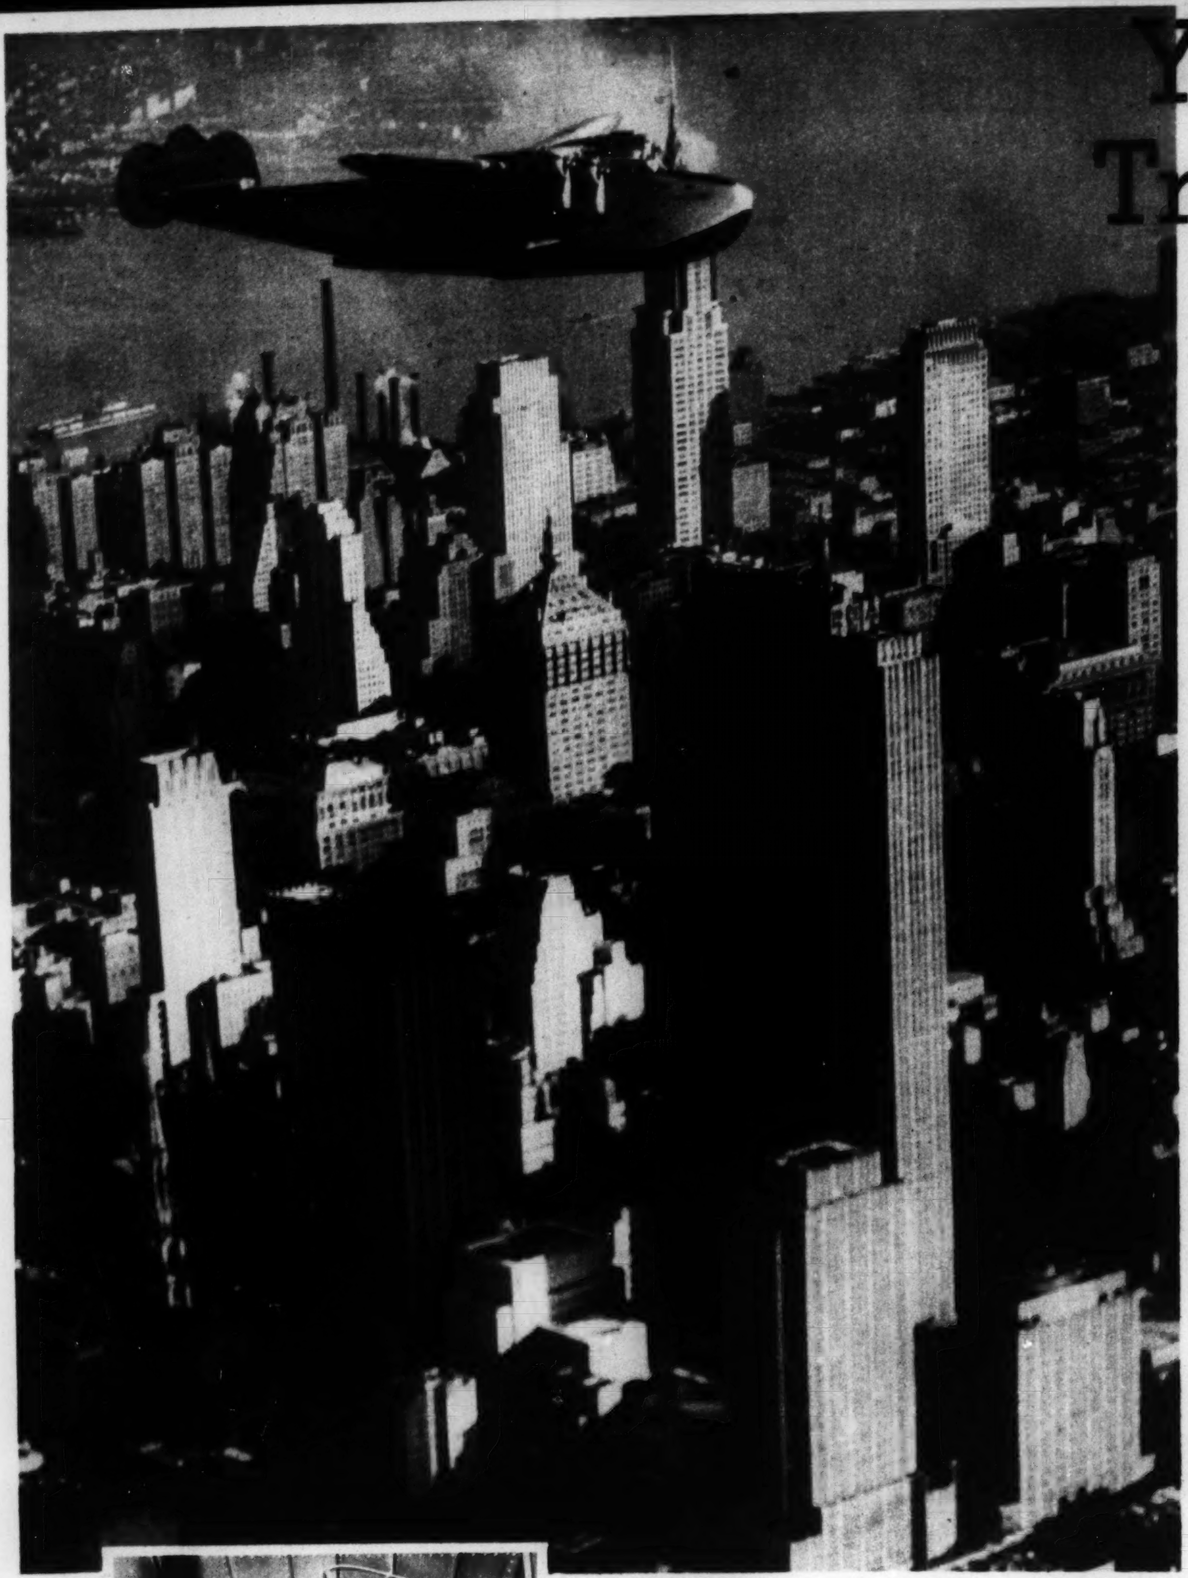
Yankee Clipper Ready for Trans-Atlantic Flight Service



The Yankee Clipper over Radio City, New York, in a recent "base test." The ship's wing span is 152 feet. It is 109 feet long, has a maximum speed of 190 miles per hour and cruises at 150. Its range is 4725 miles, its ceiling 21,000 feet.

WHEN Pan-American Airways starts its regular trans-Atlantic 24-hour passenger service some time this spring, it will use the Yankee Clipper, shown here, and sister flying boats. The Boeing company has turned out six of these ships, the largest commercial planes ever built, for Pan-American, two of them for its trans-Pacific route, the others for the Atlantic. Probably Pan-American will use the Newfoundland-Ireland-London route in spring, summer and fall, as the British Foreign Office recently waived its stipulation that landing permits on this northern route would be granted only if service were started simultaneously by British Imperial and Pan-American Airways. In winter, when Botwood Harbor, Newfoundland, is icebound, the clippers probably will use the Azores-Portugal route.

TONY SISTI
Painter and Fighter

(Associated Press Photo)

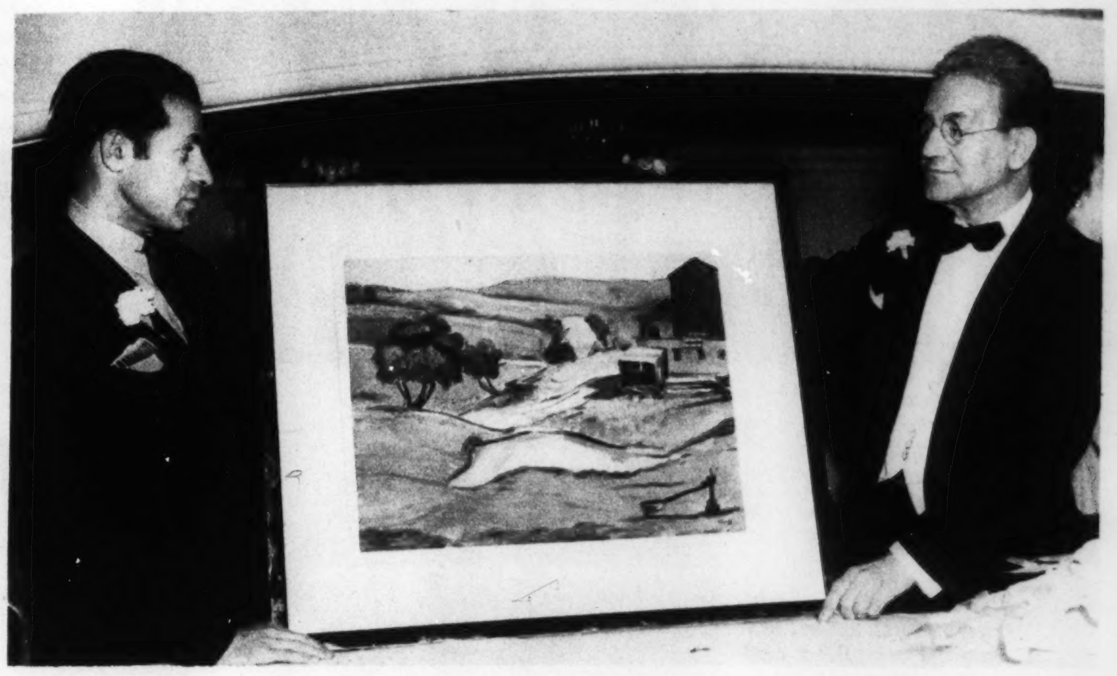
Tony Sisti, ready for the ring, at 136 pounds.



Sisti, left, and New York Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora with Sisti's "Sicilian Landscape," presented to Justice Pecora by the Florentine Festival Society of Buffalo.

WHEN Tony Sisti needed money to finance an art show or a period of intensive work on his canvases, he returned to his old trade and put on a boxing bout. Last month he hurried from his one-man exhibit of 75 paintings at Argent Galleries, New York, to St. Nicholas Palace to finish off his opponent in the first round of a scheduled four-round match. Tony admits he is a lightweight boxer, but claims to be a heavyweight painter.

The day after his first fight in nine years he conducted his life class as usual at the New York School of Applied Design for Women, then took a plane to his home in Buffalo, where he instructs art classes and does his painting. He is 37 years old, married, and the father of two girls.

Son of a Greenwich Village saloon keeper, Tony's family moved to Buffalo when he was a child. It was there that his talent attracted attention at a free art school, and his sister maintained the family while he studied art. Since those days he has studied at the Royal Academy of Art in Florence, Italy, and in famous schools at Berlin, Paris and Munich, meanwhile fighting 101 professional engagements, in which he won 70, got 15 draws, and was knocked out once. To the last experience he attributes the realism remarked by experts in his most famous work: "KO'd." His name is among the amateur bantamweight champions of New York State, a youthful accomplishment.

He also is represented in the permanent collections of the National Gallery of Art, Rome; the Albright Gallery and the Museum of Natural Science at Buffalo, the University of Buffalo, the Buffalo Hospital, and in private collections including those of Governor Herbert H. Lehman and Justice Ferdinand Pecora.

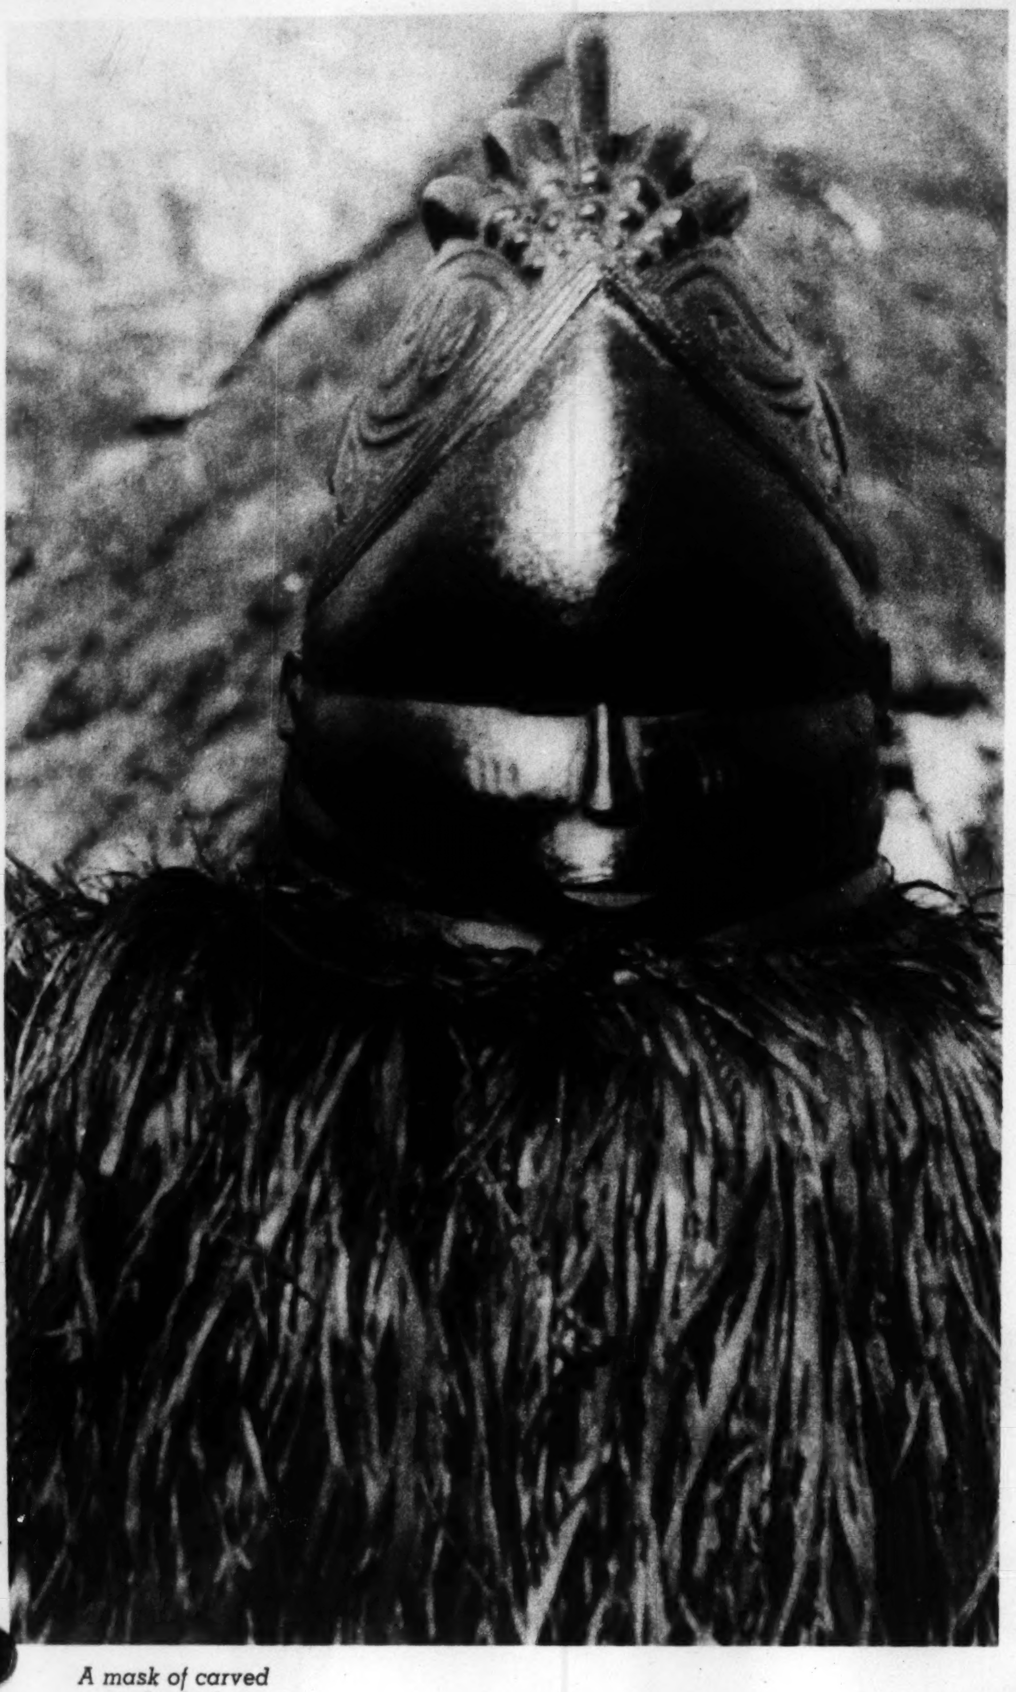
MASKS TO KEEP MEN AWAY

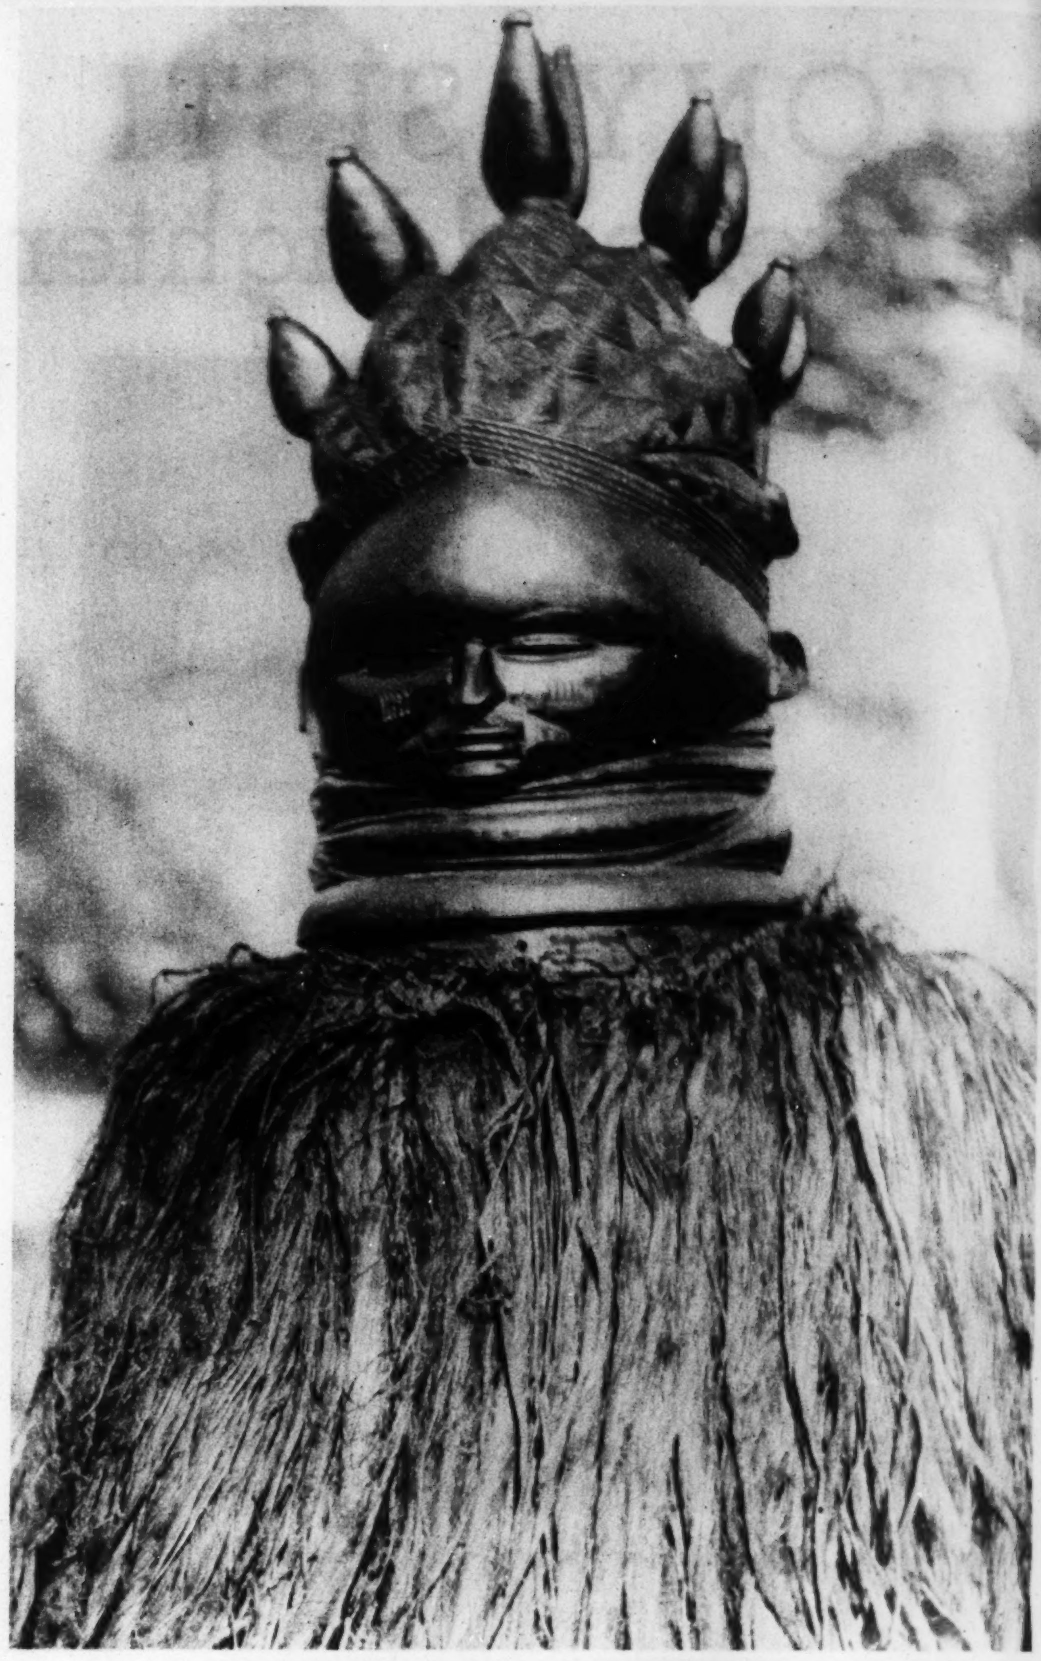


A mask of carved wood which is believed to frighten away evil spirits as well as assure children.

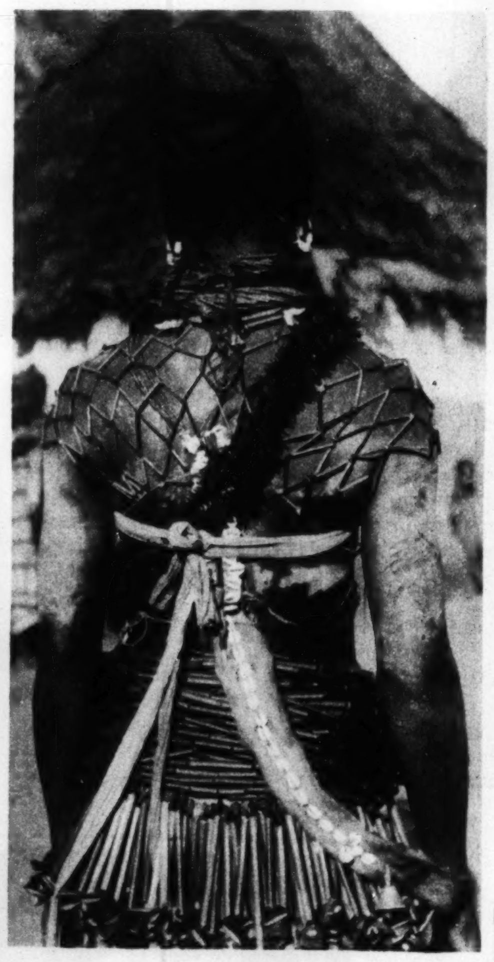
GROTESQUE and symbolic masks are the uniforms of women guards at the training schools for adolescent girls of a West African tribe that inhabits the Sierra Leone, and parts of French Guinea and Liberia. The masks have a threefold purpose: They protect the school from men and evil spirits, and reassure children.

Schools are held in isolated spots in the jungle, and are strictly tabu to men of the tribe. Girl "students" are under the tutelage of older women, who instruct them in cooking and other household duties, tribal dances, and the art of handling and dòminating men. Girls from 10 to 14 years of age receive the instruction.

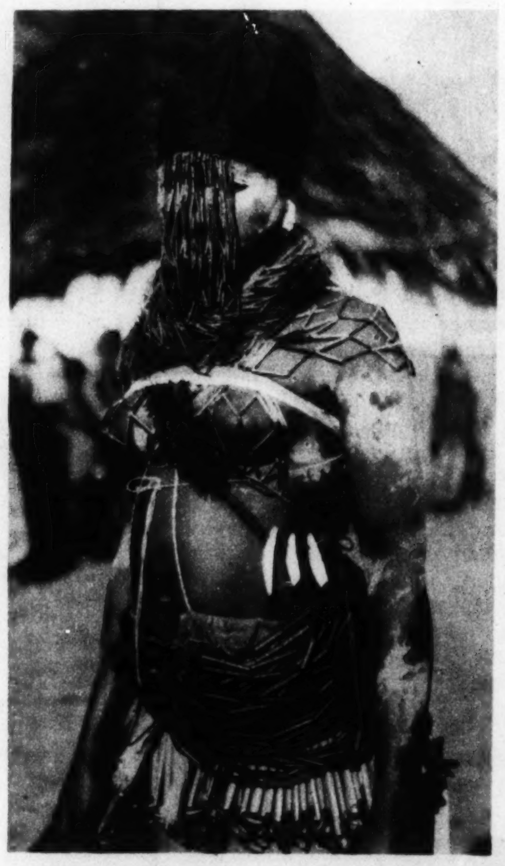
(Black Star Photos)



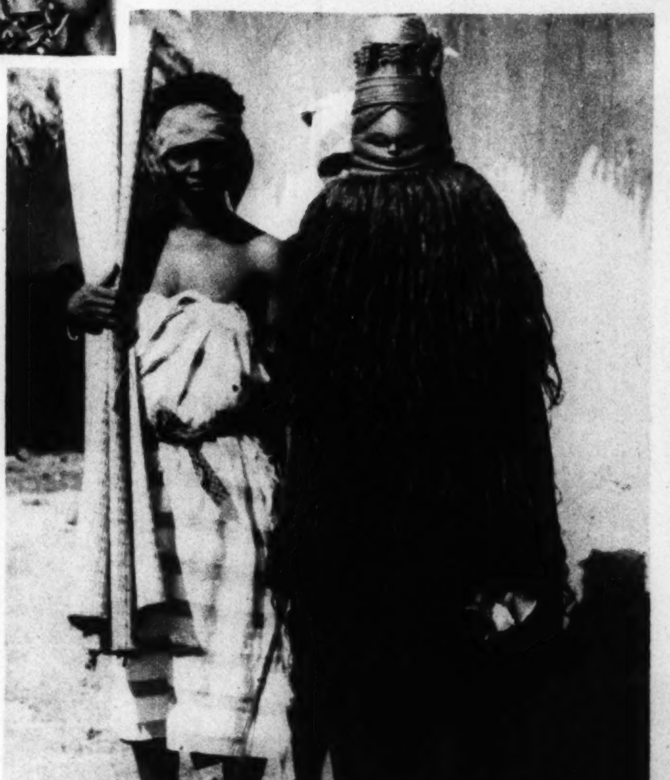
A mask which caricatures the head of a woman, with formalized carved hair dress and neck wrappings. The latter are sometimes cord.



Costumes of the girls in the bush school are highly formalized, and the skin is brightly painted. Note the pendant bells on the skirt, a signal to men to stay away from the school.



Front view of formal dress, showing mottled arm paint, and veil worn to hide the face from men and evil spirits.



Masked guards are accompanied by attendants with grass mats. If the mask is disarranged, the mat is placed around the guard like a screen, while the attendant readjusts the mask.

Symphony in Egg Shell

"Conductor Egganini" in action during a concert.

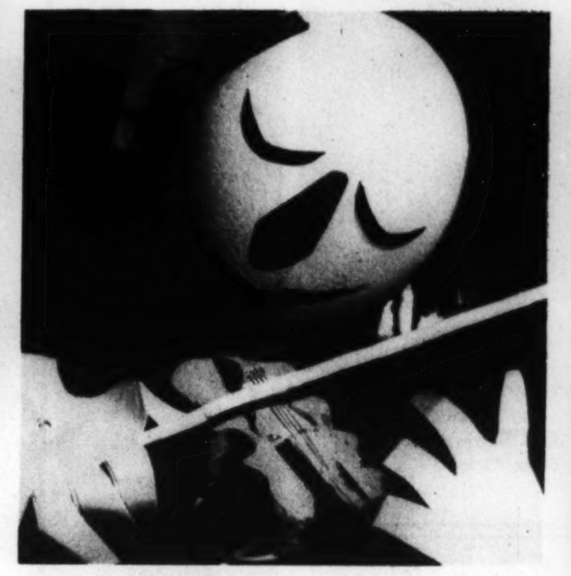
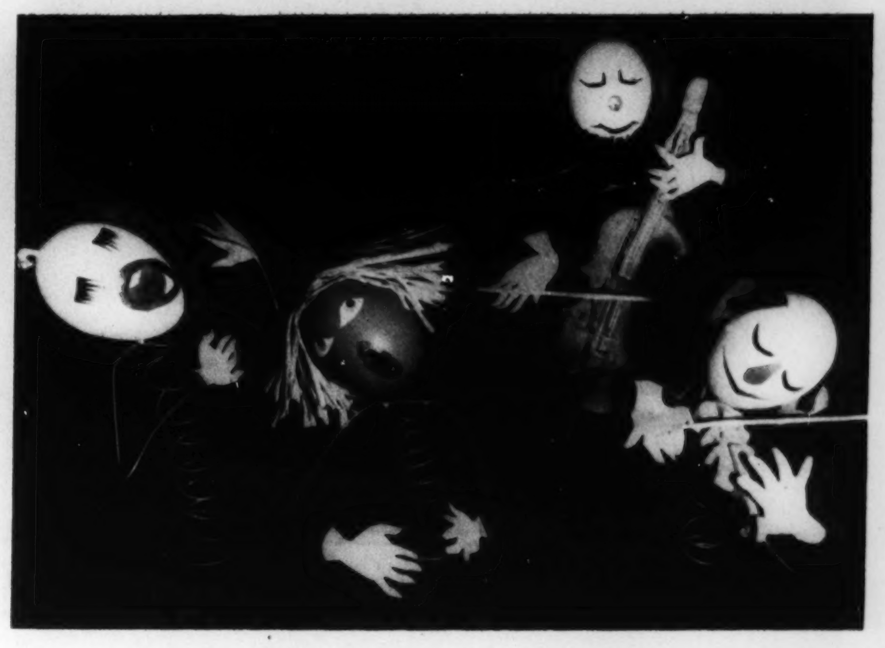
MOTIFS for the work of Rene Delacroix-Perrier, noted French sculptor, usually are despair, mourning, and other gloomy aspects of life. His hobby, however, is the creation of caricatures from egg shells, combs, screws, scraps of paper, and other objects of daily use. Recently he created an entire orchestra of those things, and although he is inclined to keep the pastime a secret, he permitted a photographer friend to take the pictures shown here.



As Delacroix-Perrier describes this member, "he once was a celebrated soloist but now just fiddles along with the others in the string section."



Two singers and part of the string section.

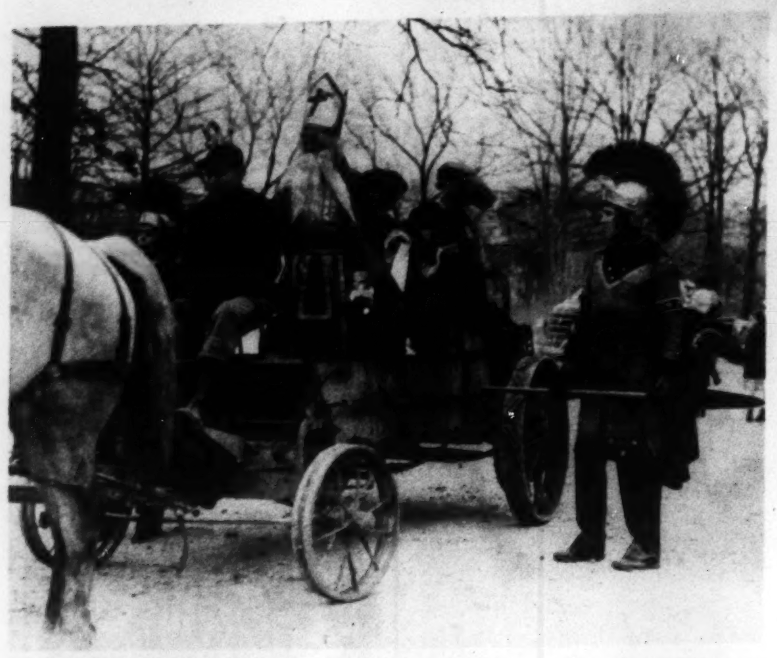
Rolla 'Miners' Hold Their Traditional 'St. Pat's' Celebration



St. Patrick (Sam Kurtz of Bureau, Illinois, a junior) on his 1939 visit to the Missouri School of Mines at Rolla. Here, accompanied by uniformed attendants, he arrives in the traditional "chariot," leading a parade through the campus, that follows his arrival in town on a handcar.

SINCE engineers call St. Patrick their Patron Saint, in many engineering schools students hold special celebrations of St. Patrick's Day. One of the oldest and most elaborate of such celebrations in this country is that at the Missouri School of Mines at Rolla. There, since 1908, the "miners" have paid annual homage to the Saint with public ceremony, building up a traditional procedure for the observance. An impersonator of St. Patrick arrives in Rolla by handcar each March 17, mounts a farm wagon and leads a parade of floats to one of the school buildings, where seniors kiss a rock called the Blarney Stone and are made Knights of the Order of St. Patrick. Dances and house parties and the coronation of a queen are included in the celebration, which is attended by many girls from out of town. Scenes at this year's festivities, which occupied two days, are shown on this page.

Don't Wash Another Pair of Stockings

I'LL SAY DREFT IS A GRAND NEW WAY TO WASH STOCKINGS. DID YOU EVER SEE SUCH SUDS IN COOL HARD WATER?
IT'S AMAZING—AND JUST LOOK AT THE DIRT COME OUT OF THOSE STOCKINGS WITHOUT UNNECESSARY RUBBING!

YES—BUT BEST OF ALL, DREFT NEVER FORMS ANY SCUM! YOU DON'T GET THAT HORRID, CLINGING FILM THAT MAKES SILK STOCKINGS LOOK COTTONY AND "WASHED-OUT"!

WHY—LOOK AT THAT COLOR! IT'S SO FRESH AND RICH YOU'D THINK THE STOCKINGS HAD NEVER BEEN WASHED!
MY STOCKINGS STAY LOVELY LOOKING AS LONG AS THEY'RE WEARABLE. SO MY HOSIERY BUDGET GOES A LONG, LONG WAY!
dreft

IT'S TRUE! No Soap Flakes in the World Can Offer You DREFT'S Advantages!

THE fact is Dreft is remarkable in so many ways, that it just can't be classed as "soap"! It's an utterly new fine-fabric suds creation with three important advantages no soap flakes can offer:

1. SUDS THAT NEVER LEAVE "SCUM" . . . assuring true color brightness and fabric softness
2. SUDS OF NON-ALKALINE MILDNESS . . . giving you greatest protection against wash-fading
3. RICH SUDS IN HARDEST WATER . . . five times more suds than any soap you ever used

In other words, Dreft actually promises your silk stockings a long life of brighter wear! Think of it—Dreft not only can't form scum, even in hardest water, but also—Dreft removes scum left by previous washing! Silk stockings don't get cottony, "washed-out" looking before they're worn out! Their lovely sheerness can't be covered by beauty-hiding, color-dulling hard-water scum!

And here's another reason why Dreft-washing will help keep stockings looking their best as long as they're wearable!

Procter & Gamble make Dreft. If you will write them, saying you have read this advertisement, they will send you a surprise gift. Mail a postcard to Dreft, Dept. 12, Box 687, Cincinnati, Ohio. Offer good until April 2nd.

A Steer Stages a Surprise St. Louis Rodeo

One of the truckmen who chased the steer has tossed a noose over its head, and the animal, trying to get away, slips and falls on the pavement.

The lasso is snubbed around a tree so that the captive can be held securely until means are obtained to return it to the packing plant.

A STEER being unloaded the other day from a truck at the plant of the St. Louis Independent Packing Company, 824 South Vandeventer avenue, escaped from its herders and galloped away. A motorcycle policeman came upon the runaway in the 4400 block of Forest Park avenue, and kept it in the central parkway of the street until pursuing truckmen arrived. One of them lassoed the animal and with the help of companions returned it to the plant. Minard T. MacCarthy, 7319 Lindell avenue, University City, a real estate man, happening along with his camera, took these pictures of the impromptu rodeo.

MOVIE MAN SAYS HE GAVE $10,000 CASH TO BRADY

Clarence Kaimann Testifies in Suit of 19 Union Members to Oust John Nick From Control.

MONEY PAID DURING WAGE NEGOTIATIONS

Clarence H. Kaimann, North St Louis movie theater owner, testified before Circuit Judge Ernest F. Oakley today that he and Louis Landau, another theater owner paid $10,000 to "Mr. Brady" at the Jefferson-Gravois Bank in 1936 during negotiations for a new wage contract for union motion picture machine operators.

Kaimann testified in the suit of 19 union movie machine operators who are seeking to oust John P Nick, theater union czar, and his associates from control of Operators' Local Union No. 143.

Under questioning the witness further identified "Mr. Brady" as Edward M. Brady. Nick and State Representative Edward M. Brady are under indictment on extortion charges in connection with the payment of the 1936 "defense" fund raised by theater owners.

Contradicts Landau.

Kaimann contradicted Landau, the first witness at the opening of the hearing today, testifying that there was no wage increase for the operators after the fund was paid.

Replying to questions by Robert A. Roessel, attorney for the 19 operators, the witness said he and Landau went to the bank from a meeting of the exhibitors' negotiating committee and signed a check for $10,000, which was cashed.

"To whom did you give the cash?" Roessel inquired.

"We gave it to Mr. Brady," Kaimann replied.

Landau was a reluctant witness and several times sought to avoid answering Roessel's questions on the ground that "I don't want to incriminate myself in anything." He answered the questions after Judge Oakley ordered him to do so. He said the other members of the negotiating committee, besides himself and Kaimann, were Fred Wehrenberg, Louis Ansell and Thomas James.

Replying to questions, Landau testified that the 1936 contract with the union provided for a wage increase. Asked if the increase was as great as the demand, the witness said he did not remember.

"Didn't you tell me in my office not long ago that the 1936 wage scale was substantially the same as that in 1935?" the attorney demanded. The witness refused to answer and when ordered by the Court to do so, again said he did not remember what the comparative wages were.
